Dear Miss Tarbell-

I am lucky enough sometimes to get a Pathfinder to read that where I seen your picture and said
what a great woman
you are, and what a wonderful writer you

are. I am very poor but I love to read about
Noble men & good women.

I am a woman that have always wanted to make a mark in this great & busy world
ours, but as so many are I've been hard capid so that now at my age I'm only living for my children and what ever way I can help some one, I'm only to glad, I can only do by kindness and love out of my heart. Miss I do if you have any thing to dispose of in the way of reading material think me, of any thing you have and want to help the poor - remember me in ^{the} list. I shall keep the picture of you, I don't see why but I love to look at it and read about you in a way it reminds me

If my Grandmother who raised me and taught me to always love old people to this day its still with me I never knew my own mothers love as she died when I was only 3 months old so you see why I love you from your picture.
 I'll not look to here
 from you, for I know you are a busy woman but some how I just had to write you. I imagine you have a beautiful
 farm home in Bethel, Conn. something I've always wanted but have never been able to get, but

 happy. If you should ever care to help the poor and needy Remember me.

Yours truly
 Maggie L Miller

P.S. if you have lots of clothes to give away send them to me.

if you dont have anything to give and can spare
 a few minutes just write me
 any. just a few kind words will surely cheer a brokened soul like me.
