120 EAST NINETEENTH STREET
NEW YORK CITY

January 5, 1932

Dear Allan Nevins:

I have just come in from the country and find your note of December 31st. Of course I shall be glad to introduce Mr. McClure, though for your own safety you better put a time limit on my tongue. He is a provocative subject. Three to five minutes is enough, is it not?

And I shall be glad to be the guest of the History Department at dinner. You do not mention the hour. I think January 25th is a better date for me than February 1st, though I could manage the latter if I knew soon that it was more convenient for you.

I am so glad you are going to have Mr. McClure. If he is in good form he will give you a wonderful talk.

Very sincerely

Ida M. Tarbell
