PITT TAKES OPENING

GAME BY 11-3 SCORE

Lack of Practice Shown in Playing of Allegheny Nine.

The Allegheny baseball season for 1913 was formally opened last Saturday afternoon when the University of Pittsburgh nine defeated the gold and blue on Montgomery Field by the score of 11 to 3. The game in the first place was about an hour late in starting on account of the Pitt players missing train connections and when the contest finally started the spectators as well as local players were thoroughly chilled by the cold wind. The game was not as one-sided as the score indicates and for the first few innings Allegheny more than held their own against the reputed pitcher of the University. The local field was fixed up in time for this game and consequently was as strange to the gold and blue tossers as to the visitors.

The game was without features and the defeat was largely due to the lack of practice, which was plainly evident on the part of the locals. The visitors hit the ball freely and with the help of Allegheny's numerous errors scored most of the runs. In Harenski, Pitt has a pitcher who showed up well for this early in the season, while Croasmun and Richards played well for the gold and blue. A detailed account by innings is given as follows:

First Inning.

Allegheny took the field for the first game played on the new field and held Pitt scoreless. Schenk, the first man to face "Red" Robinson, pounded a grounder to Croasmun at third, who got his man at first. Honaker sent a long fly to Richards for the second out. Wilson grounded out to Campman at first, who got both the assist and put-out. Thoburn was the first man up for Allegheny and knocked a long liner to the visiting center fielder, who after a long chase managed to camp under it. Croasmun popped a short fly to McConahan, Pitt's shortstop, but the ball was lost in the high wind and the third baseman was safe at first and immediately advanced to second when the catcher dropped the ball. Robinson sacrificed and when Captain Hawk beat out a slow grounder to the pitcher, Croasmun scored the first run of the season. Campman grounded out to the pitcher.

Second Inning.

Dillon, for the visitors, lined out a three base hit to center. McConahan struck out, but Thoburn missed the third strike and when he threw to first, the man on third dashed for the plate and was given the decision for Pitt's first run. This was only after the referee had changed his former decision, which called him out. Gaw walked and in an attempted steal made out at second base. Giles made the third out by the strike-out route.

For Allegheny, C. Gilbert bounced out to the pitcher; Rose popped a short fly to Giles and Richards got a pretty hit to center field and immediately stole second. Dunbar was unable to produce and grounded out to the pitcher.

Third Inning.

Allen took three swings at the air. Harenski pushed a single into left field, which got through Hawk for three bases, and scored on a sacrifice

Baseball Coach

Mr. Edward Kelsch of the Spirella Nine, To Be in Charge.

Allegheny has a base ball coach for the balance of the season, a contract with Edward Kelsch, shortstop for the Spirella having been closed Friday and under the arrangement Mr. Kelsch takes charge of the college team at once. He will be an assistant to Dr. Dunlap.

Mr. Kelsch has played short for the Meadville nine for the past two seasons and that he has made good in this position is shown by the Spirella management signing him up for another season. Kelsch was first secured two years ago by the Spirellas to fill the position made vacant by Durham when he was injured while the team was on a trip and so well did he perform at that position that he was retained even after Durham recovered. Last season he had the position all to himself.

Since the publication of the baseball schedule Manager Peterson has made several slight changes in his arrangements that will affect it. The principal change is that of the two games with West Virginia University from May 28 and 29 to April 28 and 29. The result is a trip for the team of almost a week's duration. Friday the team will play at Edinboro, Saturday at Pittsburgh with Carnegie Tech, and Monday and Tuesday with West Virginia Wesleyan, as noted. With these hard games so near at hand, this week will witness a great deal of practice done.

It is almost impossible to judge these teams except by records with these teams in former years. For several seasons Edinboro has been defeated, although never by a large score; Tech was defeated on their home grounds last spring and two games were lost to West Virginia Wesleyan at the last meeting two years ago.

Lit For April

Will Appear Early This Week—Last Number Under Old Board.

When the April issue of the Literary Monthly appears this week the labors of the old board will be ended. The remaining issues of this year will be edited by the new board under the leadership of the new pilot, C. S. Burwell, '14. The excellent work of this year's board is well worthy of high commendation. The standard of former years has been maintained and in addition several new features have been added to the magazine which have increased both its interest and its literary value.

The general make-up of the April issue of the "Lit" will resemble that of former months of this year. The first article, however, is somewhat of a departure from the customary Literary Monthly style and is deserving of much praise. It is entitled, "A Day Thought," and is the work of a new contributor, Oliver Gornall, '15.

"Alfred Noyes", written by the newly elected editor, C. S. Burwell, '14, is an article of especial interest at the present time.

The most appropriate poem in the April issue is a story by Miss Anna McKenna, '16, entitled "The Easter Lily." This story is well written and is well worth the time that may be taken in reading it.

Probably the only other verse that will be found in this issue will be "Humanitas," by Miss Griswold, '13, a short poem written in that elevated style which characterizes all this author's work; and "The Old Pine Circle," by Old Scribe, which deals with a spot of interest on the campus.

The real feature of the number will be a story by an entirely new contributor. In his story, "His Masterpiece," E. W. Hickman, '16, has produced an article that is both striking and interesting.

As usual, the department reserved for sketches will be well taken care of in this issue. "That Billig Family," by Miss Lippitt, '15, which began in the last issue of the "Lit," will be continued this month. In addition to this, there will be a serious sketch by J. R. MacGowan, '14, on the subject of "Investments."

DUZER-DU MAKING PLANS

FOR ANNUAL PRODUCTION

Cast for Trelawney of the Wells to be Announced Soon.

With the mass meeting of all the men who are interested in college dramatics, which was held last Wednesday evening, the actual work for the production of the Duzer Du play for this year began. While the attendance at this meeting was large, there was a noticeable absence of Freshmen, which was rather a disappointment to the older members of the club. At this time C. A. Eckles, '13, H. J. Wieler, '13, O. C. McLean, '13, and E. S. Wiedle, '14, gave short speeches concerning the nature of the club, the play which was to be presented, and the method of selection of the cast.

As was previously announced, Miss Alice Spalding will be in charge of the production of the play, "Trelawney of the Wells." The work that she has done in former Duzer Du plays is in itself evidence of her ability as a dramatic coach and the entire selection of the cast will also be in her hands. While this is somewhat at variance with the policy of former years, which has called for a form of competition, the short time for practice made some such method absolutely necessary. Practice will begin about the middle of this week and will continue until the presentation of the play during the latter part of May. While the date for the presentation of "Trelawney of the Wells" has not been definitely decided upon, it is probable that it will appear on May 29.

The play itself is one that is full of interest and is well adapted to the ability of the Duzer Du Club. The entire plot revolves about three characters, Tom Wrench, Arthur, and Rose Trelawney. The setting is in England, while the time is approximately 1860. Although Tom Wrench is in love with Rose Trelawney he is naturally of a retiring nature and gives way to his rival, Arthur. As a result Arthur and Rose are married, although the love of Tom Wrench is strong. As the play proceeds it shows an entire change of character in both Rose and Tom, as fresh problems present themselves. Most of the other characters of the play are stage folk, who are out of work. Their condition is pictured as being quite pathetic, and much of their inner character is revealed in the course of the production. The part of Tom Wrench is quite similar to that which David Warfield has played in "The Music Master."

The play, which is the product of Arthur Pinero, first made its appearance in 1898. Since then it has been given a prominent place on the stage of both England and America. Much of its success can be attributed to the fact that the leading part was taken by Mary Mannering. Although the play is fifteen years old, it has been presented by only five or six other colleges. Consequently it will still be new and of interest to a college audience.

Dr. Breed Resigns

To Become Bacteriologist at New York State Experiment Station.

All friends of the college will regret to learn that Dr. Robert S. Breed, who for eleven years has been Professor of Biology and Geology in Allegheny College, has tendered his resignation to the Board of Trustees, to take effect at the close of the present scholastic year. Dr. Breed has been elected to the position of Bacteriologist at the New York State Experiment Station at Geneva, N. Y. Dr. Breed will take up the duties connected with his new position on August 1st.

Harvard is seriously considering making hockey a major sport. This sport has been steadily gaining in popularity, and, as Harvard is not represented by a basket ball team, it now receives the support of the entire university.

Founders' Day

Particular Significance of April 24 in Allegheny History.

On next Thursday the exercises will be held that will commemorate the fact that ninety-eight years before that day Timothy Alden, the founder and first President of Allegheny College, landed at Meadville on the banks of French Creek.

At that time Meadville was, at best, merely a little village in the "far west" and Allegheny College was not even a dream in the mind of its founder. The present college campus was but a forest, with no marking more distinctive than that natural beauty of location and surrounding scenery, which it still possesses.

The Rev. Timothy Alden, D. D., was born at Yarmouth, Massachusetts, August 28, 1771. Through his father he was a lineal descendant of John Alden, so famous in the annals of the Pilgrim Fathers; through his mother he was descended from John Fox, the martyr. When a boy he lived with his uncle on a farm at Bridge Water, but early manifesting desire for literary rather than agricultural pursuits, he was fitted for college at Phillips Academy, and in 1794 he entered Harvard College. There he achieved scholarly attainments, and laid the foundation for his distinguished career which he was to pursue afterwards.

After he had graduated from Harvard, he went into educational work. In the course of a few years he held principalships in several Eastern academies, notably at Portsmouth, N. H., Newark, N. J., and in New York. For a while he was pastor of the South Presbyterian Church at Portsmouth, and was later librarian of the Massachusetts Historical Society. In this latter position he showed an interest in research work which continued till his death.

In 1815 he yielded to the popular cry, "Go West," and set out for Pennsylvania. Sailing up the Allegheny River, he landed at Meadville, April 24, 1815. He said his object in coming to Meadville "is that I may devote my life to the cause of religion, literature, and science!"

His real work was destined to be the founding of a college which would develop into the Allegheny of today. A consideration of the problems which must have faced him as he conceived the idea of founding an institution in such unfavorable surroundings can easily be realized. Meadville, itself, had few more than eighty families, and all the surrounding country was still a wilderness. However, Alden succeeded in interesting the citizens of the town as well as some of his old friends and was soon hard at work. Before long a charter had been granted the college by the state and the institution was formally recognized. The building of Bentley was the next step, which was indeed a daring move in such a wilderness. The building, when completed, was the admiration of the entire district and ranked with Independence Hall in Philadelphia. Alden also made a strenuous effort to equip a good library and by the assistance of his friends had accumulated quite a number of books before his death.

With the change in the denominational control, which occurred in 1831, Timothy Alden cheerfully resigned his place as president, although he retained a place on the board of trustees. At this time he left Meadville, and went farther West to Cincinnati where he continued his constructive work by establishing a boarding school. Later, however, he went to East Liberty, near Pittsburgh, where in 1833 he took charge of the Academy that had been established at that place. He died on July 5, 1839.

Representatives of the Pathe Freres "Movie" company will be at Clarksburg May 30th for the West Virginia inter-collegiate track meet. Pictures of the meet will be taken for the Pathe weekly.

About fifty prominent citizens from all parts of Montana met recently at Helena, and organized an association for the creation of a Greater University of Montana.

FOUNDERS' DAY TO BE

CELEBRATED THURSDAY

F. L. La Bounty '07, and Dr. Charles Thwing of Cleveland, Speakers.

As next Thursday will be the ninety-eight anniversary of the founding of Allegheny College, appropriate exercises will be held at that time. This will in reality be the Fifth Annual Founder's Day as it is only in recent years that this day has been honored and set apart as one of the big days of the college year.

Dr. Henry S. Prichett, President of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, was the man secured some time ago to give the principal address at the exercises and he had planned to make a final investigation of the college at this time. However, a telegram was received late last night by President Crawford from Dr. Prichett, stating that owing to a recent illness, from which he had not fully recovered, he would be unable to be present. President Crawford got into communication at once with President Charles F. Thwing of Western Reserve University and Secretary of the Carnegie Foundation, and secured him for that day. Dr. Thwing's visit to the school, however, is purely in an unofficial way and not as an investigator.

The editorial, speaking of Dr. Prichett's visit applies with equal force to that of Dr. Thwing's on account of the fact that he is well known as president of his school and also as an educator. The college authorities are fortunate in securing such a man to take Dr. Prichett's place.

It is to be expected that every student will be in his place at the time of the regular chapel exercises. Provision will be made down stairs for all the men, who at present have places in the balcony. The balcony will be entirely reserved for the town people or any other visitors who may attend.

Before the main address by Dr. Thwing, a historical sketch of the circumstances attending the founding of the college will be given by F. L. La Bounty, '07. It seems especially appropriate that Mr. La Bounty should be the man to give this address as he might well be termed the "founder" of Allegheny's Founder's Day. It was largely because of the enthusiasm aroused at the time of Mr. La Bounty's Commencement address in his Senior year at Allegheny that the body of Timothy Alden was brought to Meadville. As a result of the same address the Founder's Day was made an annual event for the college. During his college course Mr. La Bounty had taken an interest in the story of the founding of Allegheny and had done some investigating into the traditions of the college concerning this subject. All this had been preparatory to the oration which he delivered and which has made a lasting impression on the college.

Since his graduation, Mr. La Bounty has been engaged in teaching. For some time he acted as an instructor in English and Greek in Alden Academy. After the academy was dispensed with, he went to Edinboro State Normal School, where he is at present engaged in teaching English. Both because of his work in the academy and the recency of his graduation, Mr. La Bounty is well known by many Allegheny students. His college activities, which were mainly in the field of literary effort, have made their impress on several of the college publications, he being editor of this paper in 1906-7, and on the literary society of the college, the Quill Club. The subject of his address on next Thursday morning will be "Timothy Alden; A Study in Leadership." The subject of Dr. Thwing's address is as yet uncertain.

In outline the program will probably be about as follows:

9:50 A. M.

Academic Procession by Classes. Faculty and Seniors in Cap and Gown. Dr. Guy E. Snively, Marshall. Charles S. Miller, '13, Assistant Marshall.

Comment hardly seems necessary on the request made by Dr. Henry Prichett of the Carnegie Foundation, that Allegheny, every student be in his place at the chapel period on next Thursday. The importance of his mission, in so far as the standing of the college is concerned in the collegiate world, is of such a nature that it will mean much for the school—providing a favorable report is given. Within the past few years, this foundation has made such thorough investigations of the leading colleges and universities of the country that its reports have been taken as authoritative when college standing was questioned. Allegheny has made its favorable impression on both the Educational Board and on the Department of Education of the government and the additional recognition of the Carnegie Foundation will be a further boost toward putting Allegheny on the map. Dr. Prichett has made a request that can be easily granted and college pride and spirit should bring every student to the exercises.

The election of the Electoral Boards for the managers of two publications today is a

The local college event of Publication importance. The men Managers. chosen for the managerships will take charge of the publications at a particular time when the success or failure of Allegheny's publications will necessarily be tested. Both positions call for "hustlers" and there should be a number of men out for the positions. After the election today, that board will meet within a week and choose the managers and names of prospective candidates should be handed to some member of the electoral board within that time.

ELECTORAL BOARDS.

The election of the Electoral Boards of The Campus and the Literary Monthly, which was postponed on last Saturday, will be held this morning. At this time the boards will be selected who will choose the managers of these publications for the coming year. As usual the group system is being used, which means that the boards will each be composed of five members. Only those subscribers who have paid their subscriptions by Tuesday, April 15, are eligible to vote at this election. The polls, which will be in the treasurer's office in Bentley, will be open from 10:30 to 12:30.

The groups are as follows:

QUILL CLUB DISCUSSES AMERICAN POETS AND WORKS.

American poets received their recognition on last Tuesday evening when various members of the Quill Club read papers dealing with the place which these men of literary talent should hold in American life. It seems that Americans, as a whole, refuse to recognize the fact that there have been men of unusual poetic ability in this country within the past century. For this reason, the Quill Club assumes the responsibility of enlightening its fellow citizens.

The first paper which was read by Miss Olson, '13, told of the work of Joaquin Miller, a man who is almost unknown in his own country. This was followed by an article by T. Thoburn, '14, who spoke of one of the most famous American poets, Bret Harte. This man has often been characterized as the typical American poet because of the fact that his subject matter is taken directly from various phases of American life. The pathetic story of the life and the work of Edgar Allen Poe was related by Miss Norton, '13. His fame, however, rests not only on his ability as a poet, but as well on his powers as a prose writer. Then J. R. MacGowan '14, read an excellent paper on the poet that should well be called the American enigma. It was strikingly shown that Walt Whitman has received his recognition in Europe, while his own country has been either unresponsive or given to unfavorable criticism. A short study of the remarkable style of this poet was attempted. In the final paper of the evening, C. V. Sparling, '13, who was in charge of the program, gave a resume of the condition of American poetry. His arguments for the place which American Poetry should hold in America were strengthened by examples from such men as Bret Harte and Walt Whitman.

BASKET BALL A'S AWARDED.

Nine of the basket ball players of the 1913 Allegheny College 'varsity squad and Manager Perley received the regulation Allegheny block "A" Tuesday morning. President William H. Crawford presented these "tried and found true" wearers of the gold and blue with the precious emblems in a brief but pleasing word at the regular chapel period.

The following players were called forward amid loud rounds of applause from the student body, by N. L. Ramsey, President of the Athletic Association: Captain Louis L. Hawk, J. W. Mates, Captain-elect J. A. Nichols, N. LeRoy Ramsey, Paul E. Thomas, Paul L. Lindberg, Orson J. Graham, Douglas M. Dunbar, Raymond A. Cox, and Manager Seth T. Perley.

President Crawford said in part: "I think it would be the most appropriate manner to have a composite man possessing all the virtues and characteristics of the true college man, and a composite woman possessing all the virtues and characteristics of the true college woman, stand before us this morning, to present this award to our players. We would let the composite man speak a word of commendation to the men while the composite woman raised her hand in blessing to these men. And I should like to have the men choose whether they would take the letter awarded to them or the hand in blessing.

"You all know that those who sit high in the councils of athletic circles have recently spoken words that have reflected great honor upon not only the captain of this team but also upon this college. And you know also that special mention has been made in this same circle of another member of our team, the captain-elect."

Dr. Crawford then presented the letters to the several players with the brief statement, "I now have the unusual honor of presenting this badge to these men of our college."

With the presentation of these letters Allegheny College formally loses one of the most valuable basket ball centers that it has been her good fortune to have enrolled as a student. The Meadville star, Hawk, has captured the Allegheny five safely through every trying contest during the past two years and has been one of the pillars of the team for the past four years. Last year in the absence of an official coach he served his team in this additional capacity and brought down to defeat one of the most aggressive basket ball organizations of this country, the Buffalo Germans, in a hot contest, the like of which is seldom to be witnessed.

In the season just closed Hawk played one of the most admirable games of his stellar career when he not only fought in a crippled condition against one of the best players of Ohio, but furnished to his fellow team-men the encouragement and vim which in the last few minutes of play scalped the prize basket ball five from Ohio Wesleyan. In all his four years playing at Allegheny College his place at the pivot position has been an important factor in upholding the record of the gold and blue. A player clean in action, and possessing a pleasing and interesting style of play, he has won an admirable reputation extending throughout a large inter-collegiate circle. His activity in other branches of athletics is well known and is but a repetition of his qualities as a basket ball player.

Another serious loss to the team is the graduation of Mates, who played his last game for the gold and blue at the University of Pitt at the close of the season. His fast work on the floor and accurate passing has made him a terror of opposing guards. He was always full of pepper and when the score looked discouraging was one of the hardest players on the floor.

LAST MISSION STUDY CLASS.

The last meeting of the Mission Study class for 1912-1913 was held last Thursday evening in the oratory of the chapel. After the devotional exercises Miss Marian Whipple, '16, rendered a very pleasing vocal solo. Dr. Crawford then gave the sixth and last of the series of talks on the "Challenge of the City." In this last talk Dr. Crawford considered the "Christian Solution of the Problem" and the "Appeal for an Aggressive Campaign in the Solution of the Problem." He emphasized the fact that both the condition of the people themselves and their environment must be changed before the great problem of the city can be solved. He quoted the statement of a prominent social worker who said that "the abolition of the slums and the destruction of their vice are as feasible as the drainage of a swamp." This work, however, must be done through the church of Jesus Christ and by organized social service.

H. R. HUNT SECURES FINE SCHOLARSHIP AT HARVARD.

H. R. Hunt, '12, has been highly honored by being offered the Temple Prime Scholarship for the coming year. This scholarship, which amounts to one hundred dollars, permits the recipient to spend the summer at the Cold Harbor Biological Laboratory, which is situated at Cold Harbor, L. I. This school, which is one of high standing, holds sessions for six weeks during the summer months, so that its work does not interfere with regular university work. The fact that this is the only scholarship that is awarded by this school makes it even a greater honor for Mr. Hunt. In addition to this, the fact that he spent last summer at this school will assist him materially in his work during the coming year. Mr. Hunt has also been offered a scholarship at Harvard for next year.

Dr. F. C. Lockwood occupied the pulpit of the Baptist church Sunday morning and evening. In the morning his text was "The Consciousness of the Soul."

C. V. Calvin, ex-'13, who has been spending his spring vacation visiting friends in Meadville, returned to Harvard Friday. Mr. Calvin is registered in the Medical Department of that University.

On account of the fact that the Pitt base ball team could not make connections for Pittsburgh on last Saturday night, they were quartered about the various fraternity houses until they could leave on Sunday.

The drive way across the campus has been undergoing some extensive repairs during the past week and the ruts which had been washed in by the recent heavy rains are now all fixed.

By appointment of President Crawford, Dr. Enoch G. Hogate, '72, Dean of the Law Department of Indiana University, will officially represent Allegheny College on April 23rd at the inauguration of Dr. George Richmond Grose as President of DePauw Univerat Greencastle, Ind.

Saturday evening Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity held one of the interfraternity smokers that have been in progress this winter at Allegheny, and the members of Phi Delta Theta were the guests. A delightful social evening was spent over cigars, while a lunch was served toward the close of the evening.

The chapel service on last Thursday morning was again given over to a college sing under the direction of Professor Harry Walthe Manville of the Pennsylvania College of Music.

Special stress was laid upon the college hymn and later some of the regular college songs were tried, which were rendered with equal success.
The singing of the entire student body was greatly improved over that of the Thursday before.

On last Monday evening the German Club listened to a very interesting talk by Mr. M. M. Schwartz, of Vienna, who is at present on the designing staff of the Spirella Company.
The subject of this talk was "Austria and its Capital," and Mr. Schwartz spoke in a very interesting manner of that country and explained very clearly their politics, education, literature, music, agriculture, and the Capital City, Vienna. His description of the University of Vienna and its professors was one of the features of the address, and was especially interesting to the members of the club.

HULINGS HALL.

Miss Elizabeth Lord, '13, Editor.

Miss Claire Gates, of Oil City, spent Sunday with her sister, Miss Helen Gates, '16.

Miss Florence Griswold, '13, has been spending a few days at her home in Warren.

Miss Georgia Roberts, '16, and Miss Lottie Peck, '15, spent Sunday at their respective homes in Albion.

Miss Frances Barnhart, '15, is spending the week end at her home in Scottsdale.

Miss Hazel Ross, '16, and Miss Lois Foster, '16, spent last Sunday at Cambridge Springs.

Miss Ellen Olson, '13, spent the week-end at Conneaut Lake as the guest of Miss Cena Dennis.

Miss Fawn McDonald, '13, was called to her home in Union City last week by the death of her grandfather.

Tennis and bowling have been drawing the attention of many of the girls lately. The annual tennis tournament will be arranged in a few days.

The usual Senior Tea was held on Thursday afternoon with Miss Marion Thomas and Miss Emma Dickey as hostesses. Miss Beulah Grauel and Miss Irene Beatty poured.

Professor and Mrs. Ross entertained
Miss Edna Yost, '13, Miss Ethel Bayard, '13, Miss Ruth Dodd, '14, and Miss Thelma Welssborn, '14, for dinner Sunday.

Miss Margaret Seitz, '14, Miss Margaret McLean, '15, Miss Ethel Gealy,
'15, and Dr. and Mrs. Akers, were guests at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon House for dinner Sunday.

Next Thursday afternoon a Founder's day Tea will be given by the young women of the Senior Class, in honor of the guests of the day, Dr.
Pritchett and F. L. La Bounty, '07:
Miss Jessie Tomb and Miss Mary
Walters are to be the hostesses.

Tickets for the annual Klee-O-Kleet play will be on sale this week at seventy-five cents each. The cast under the direction of Miss Alice Colter, promises great success in the play, "The Twig of Thorn," which will be presented in the Hulings' Hall Gymnasium May 2d and 3rd.

Miss Gertrude Reed, '14, and Miss Irene Davenport, '15, left on Saturday afternoon for the Alpha Gamma Delta Convention to be held at the University of Wisconsin in Madison, Wis. They will act as the official delegates from the Kappa Chapter, and will spend a week there before returning.

The regular Y. W. C. A. meeting last Sunday evening, under the direction of Miss Jessie Tomb, '13, was unusual in the earnestness and enthusiasm manifested. The subject was, "Betraying Christ Through Silence." Many inspiring extemporaneous talks were given by the girls.
Miss Alice Hawkey, '16, sang a solo.

Guests at the hall for Sunday dinner were Mrs. Kightlinger and daughter, Miss Emma Kightlinger, '16 entertained by Miss Hannah Quinn, '15,
Miss Lucile Lippitt, '15, by Miss Irene Beatty, '13; Miss Dorothy Dashiell, '15, by Miss Marion Whipple, '16;
Miss Lottie Smith, '13, by Miss Ada
Thompson, '14; Miss Rachel Smith,
'14, by Miss Gay Kellogg, '14.

The officers of the Girls' Athletic Association for the coming year were elected during the past week. They are as follows: President, Miss Mary Sansom, '14; Vice-President, Miss May Girsham, '14; Secretary, Miss Helen Wing, '15; Treasurer, Miss Lillian Nelson, '15; Assistant Basket Ball Manager, Miss Mary Hoffman, '16;
Assistant Tennis Manager, Miss Marion Miller, '16.

HAWK CHOSEN CENTER OF THE ALL-STATE TEAM

Louis L. Hawk, '13, center of the local basket-ball team for the past four years, and captain of the team for the last two seasons, has been chosen as the center on the All-State Team.

Following is Dr. Marks' public statement of the selection:

"The center position on a basket ball team is by far the most difficult to play. A good center must be as able to score as the best forward and at the same time keep his opponent from scoring. Also he must be able to outjump his opponent, for the most important point in the game is the tip-off. There were two men in this section who stood out above all others, both possessing ideal qualifications for the position, the one, Hawk, of Allegheny, probably the best on account of his coolness, and Hartz, of Penn State.

"Hawk could jump, had speed, was a good shot and was very good on offense and defense. He had a very cool head and in the estimation of the writer is the selection for the All-Star Team."

For the other members of the All-Star Team Dr. Marks has named the following players: Baker of Pitt, and Binder, of Penn State, as forwards.
Binder the leading scorer of his team, an ideal shot and of perfect form. Baker was of the aggressive, speedy type, and always after the ball. His selection of guards was Mauhe, of Penn State, and Metheny, of Tech, who possess the individual qualities to play as basket and floor guard, respectively.

Yale University has recently offered a diplomatic course to give preparation for the Consular Service. Two years of under graduate work at a college of good standing, which work must include the ability to read several modern languages and general knowledge of history and economics, is required before registration.

PITT TAKES OPENING GAME BY 11-3 SCORE.

fly by Schenk to left field. Honaker made out on an assist by Rose. Score, Pitt 2, Allegheny 1.

Thoburn grounded out to Gaw. Croasmun got a hit to center field, but when Robinson hit to the short stop, was forced at second base. In the meanwhile "Red" beat out the throw to first. Hawk struck out.

Fourth Inning.

Wilson struck out. Dillon fled out to Dunbar and McConahan did likewise to Rose for the third out.

Campman struck out. Gilbert fled out to center field and Rose was thrown out by an assist of the short-stop.

Fifth Inning.

Gaw and Giles singled in quick succession, placing men on first and second base. Thoburn took Allen's bunt and got his man at first, in the meanwhile both runners advanced a base. A sacrifice fly to center field by Harenski brought in the man on third and on Schenk's hit to left, Giles scored from second, but Schenk was caught at the key stone bag in an attempt to stretch his hit, retiring the side. Two runs. Pitt 4, Allegheny 1.

Richards was safe when the first baseman dropped his fly and immediately stole second. Dunbar struck out, but Thoburn sacrificed his man to third from where he scored on Croasmun's second hit of the game. Croasmun stole both second and third, but Robinson made the third out on a grounder to the third baseman. One run. Pitt 4, Allegheny 2.

Sixth Inning.

The sixth inning was disastrous for the gold and blue and netted Pitt two runs. Campman had to retire from the game on account of a twisted knee and his place was taken by Rose, whose place at second was taken by E. Gilbert. Honaker, the first man up for Pitt, walked and immediately took second. Wilson got a single to center field, but Honaker was held at third base only to come in on Dillon's sacrifice fly to right field. McConahan singled to center and Pitt scored another run. To stop the hitting Gaw struck out and Giles pushed a short grounder to Robinson and was out at first. Two runs. Pitt 6, Allegheny 2.

For Allegheny the side went out in a hurry, Hawk, E. Gilbert and C. Gilbert all being the victims of the visitor's pitcher by the strike-out route.

Seventh Inning.

Ricker went on the mound for Robinson, who took E. Gilbert's place at second. Allen, first man up, struck out. Harenski went out to Rose at first. Schenk walked and stole in quick succession and scored when Honaker's single went for three bases. Wilson continued the hitting by pushing a single through first base and scored Honaker. Dillon made another base hit which scored Wilson, but was caught attempting to purlain second. Three runs. Pitt 9, Allegheny 2.

For Allegheny Rose popped to the pitcher, Richards hit an easy grounder in the same place and Bash placed one in the center fielder's hands.

Eighth Inning.

McConahan dropped a single over short. Gaw knocked a hard grounder to Croasmun, who muffed the play and McConahan got to third. On Bash dropping a fly in right, the man on third scored. Allen struck out, but Harenski hit to third base and was safe on an error, besides the man scoring from third. Schenk took three swings at the air and Honaker went out to Gilbert. Two runs. Pitt 11, Allegheny 2.

Thoburn went out on three good ones, but Croasmun reached second base on an overthrow by the visiting third baseman. "Red" Robinson came to the rescue with a long three bager, bringing in the third run for the gold and blue. Hawk hit to the pitcher and Robinson was out at the plate. Hawk stole second, but took too long a lead off the bag and was caught. One run. Score, Pitt 11, Allegheny 3.

Ninth Inning.

Wilson went out to Ricker. Dillon got a hit to left. McConahan was safe at first on a hard smash to the pitcher, but Dillon was caught in an attempted steal of third. Gaw struck out.

Allegheny wound up the game by Ricker flying to left. E. Gilbert got a base on balls and took second, but Rose struck out and Richards hit to the pitcher. Pitt 11, Allegheny 3.

SECTION CONVENTION OF PHI GAMMA DELTA HERE.

During the latter part of the past week the local chapter of Phi Gamma Delta acted as hosts of the annual convention of the seventh section of that fraternity. In addition to the regular delegates from Washington and Jefferson, Wooster, and Western Reserve, other members of the chapters located at these schools were present, as well as several alumni from the local chapter. On last Friday evening a smoker was given at the chapter house, for the visiting delegates. The program for Saturday included the regular business sessions of the convention and the baseball game with the University of Pittsburg in the afternoon. On Saturday evening the annual section "Pig Dinner" was held at the Saegertown Inn. Nearly fifty men were present for the banquet and the toast list which followed. Judge Frank J. Thomas, '85, acted as toastmaster.

INTEREST GROWING IN THE TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

The interest that is being taken in tennis at the present time is showing that this branch of sport is becoming exceedingly popular among the student body, even more so than it had up to this time. There are at present over thirty men entered in the tournament, divided about equally in the three classifications, class A, B and C. In class A are found the men who have had the most experience in the game and it is from this class that most of the members of the varsity team will be chosen. In class B are while class C is composed mostly of found the men of mediocre ability, beginners. This placing of the players in their own class has of course resulted in a number of exceedingly interesting matches. By the system of allowing the contestants to challenge two places above their own place in their respective classification has given order and system to the tournament, besides making the matches more interesting and causing the places of the men to be changed constantly. Although the singles are only being played off now, in a short time the doubles will commence and when they are over the team will be chosen.

UNION MEETING.

The union meeting of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A., which was held in the chapel on last Wednesday evening, was led by Professor Beiler. Dr. L. J. Birney, Dean of the Boston School of Theology, was expected to be present at this meeting and give a short address. However, he was delayed and consequently did not arrive in Meadville until late in the evening. His visit and address had been looked forward to with great interest by the students, because of the large number of Allegheny alumni who are attending the university which he represents.

Professor Beiler spoke on the subject of "Lot's Choice." He showed in an interesting and striking manner how the choice of this Biblical character had affected both his own life and that of his children and friends. The later incidents in Lot's life were mentioned in proof of his unwise choice. In conclusion, Professor Beiler showed how the lesson might well be adapted to college people. The mere fact that most college students must make many of their choices for all their lives during the short period of their college course is, in itself, proof of the assertion. Often the path that seems to lead to ease and to financial success is far from the right one.
