

A Jubilee Book

Addresses Delivered at Thoburn Jubilee Edited By President Crawford and Published in Book Form.

Another Allegheny book has just come from the press, one that is expected to have a circulation as wide as that of any other work on a similar subject. It is entitled, "Thoburn and India," and is a collection of the addresses delivered at the Thoburn Jubilee here in Meadville last April. The editor is President William H. Crawford.

It was in the midst of the wonderful program of last spring that some speaker uttered a wish that the papers and addresses of the celebration might be preserved. And it was then that the plan of publishing them in book form was conceived. President Crawford's book is the result of that plan.

The publishers are Eaton and Mains, and Jennings and Graham, of New York and Chicago respectively. The book is bound in dark red cloth, stamped in gold with simply the words, "Thoburn and India." The frontpiece is a full page portrait of Bishop Thoburn, the only other illustration being a picture of Miss Singh and Miss Isabella Thoburn, who were so closely connected with the work in India. The contents include a collection of articles which have probably never been duplicated in such concise form in a missionary work. The greatest men in Methodism are represented, the list including bishops, editors, missionaries, secretaries and educators, and there is no reason to doubt that each speaker was at his best.

The first twenty pages are devoted to a brief story of the Jubilee by the editor. This introduction closes with these words, "This volume is sent forth with the earnest hope that it may carry the message of the Jubilee to tens of thousands in America and in India, many of whom, though not present, were deeply interested, some of them sending words of greeting and tokens of admiration and love for the missionary hero in whose honor the Jubilee was held." The rest of the book follows in three parts: first, the semi-centennial sermon and addresses; next, the addresses on the relation of the college to missions, these being divided into conferences on foreign and on home missions; and last, the addresses at the formal tribute and jubilee exercises. The following speakers are represented: Bishop James M. Thoburn, D. D., Miss Lilavati Singh, Rev. Homer C. Stuntz, D. D., Rev. Stephen J. Herben, D. D., Rev. Thomas Nicholson, D. D., Rev. Levi Gilbert, D. D., Rev. Adna B. Leonard, D. D., Bishop William Fraser McDowell, D. D., L. L. D., Dr. Ernest Ashton Smith, Rev. John W. King, D. D., Rev. Robert Forbes, D. D., Rev. Frederick H. Wright, D. D., Rev. Claudius B. Spencer, D. D., Rev. Wilbur P. Thirkield, D. D., Rev. Herbert Welch, D. D., Rev. Charles J. Little, D. D., L. L. D., Dr. Camden M. Cobern, Jr. J. J. Wallace, Rev. William V. Kelley, D. D., L. L. D., Rev. C. A. R. Janvier, D. D., Bishop John W. Hamilton, D. D., L. L. D., Rev. Horace G. Dodds, D. D.

The message of greeting, and the responses at the closing dinner are printed in full.

The whole work is a collection that will be invaluable to teachers, ministers and laymen everywhere. It is an important addition to the missionary literature of the church.

BOWLING AT COCHRAN.

Quite a little interest has been revived in the Cochran Hall bowling alleys by the offer of the manager, "Jim" Wicks, to pay fifty cents to the man who makes the high score each week in ten pins and also to the high man in duck pins.

Both the prizes for last week were won by R. T. Miller, '12. His score for ten pins was 210 and in ducks 119. At one time Saturday, three consecutive scores of 114, 106 and 109, by Hamilton, in duck pins, made what is probably a record for consecutive scores, but he could not quite equal Miller's score in any one game.

Hon. Frank A. Arter Speaks

President of College Board of Trustees Addressed Students at Chapel Tuesday. Urges Equipment.

An ovation greeted President Frank A. Arter, of the Board of Trustees, when he appeared unexpectedly in chapel Tuesday morning. The service was shortened in order that Mr. Arter might speak to the student body for a few minutes. He was introduced by Dr. Crawford in a pleasing manner.

After he had humorously related a few of his early experiences, Mr. Arter took occasion to make some serious remarks. He said in part:

"The world today is expecting talented young men and women, but some get there too soon. The point is, it is expecting you, but you must be well trained. There is a part which you must do. You can't pour brains into a young head like you can molasses into a jug. It is you that have to do the work. You may have the best professors possible, but not get anything out of college. In the best of colleges there are some students who do not grasp their opportunities, and after all, that is the thing in life—to grasp the opportunity as it comes toward you."

Then President Arter elaborated briefly on the value of initiative and closed with this splendid message:

"The best thing I can wish for you is prosperity and success in life, but that you may not get there too soon; that when you leave these halls, you may be fully equipped."

"EXHIBITION DAY."

College Entertainment on Next Tuesday Night Will Include Local Talent.

It was once the custom in the "little, old, red school house" to have "exhibition day," when all the talent to be begged or badgered into a state of subjection was exhibited to admiring parents, neighbors, school directors and friends. Allegheny is to have just such a display of local talent in the red brick gymnasium Tuesday evening. Only, of course, it will be like Barnum and Bailey's, "bigger and better than ever." All previous exhibitions have been single tent, one ring shows; this will be a double headed, three ring affair. Of course, in this case the talent has not been badgered, nor will it be kept in cages.

Perhaps you never knew it, or perhaps you have forgotten, but anyway that fellow over there or that girl whom you see everyday can do something you never thought of in the line of elocution or music. Well, both of them will be there. Then again such celebrities as "Bobby" Ross, "Red" Phillips, "Len" Harris, "Hick," and others whom every one knows have been starring in every thing from church choirs to brass bands will be there.

Generally speaking, if some one should whisper that this is to raise money for a missionary purpose you would begin to have a pocketbook cramp. This is not to be a benevolent enterprise. All who go will get their money back with dividends, interest, premiums and bonuses.

STRENUOUS PRACTICE.

Captain Baker and His Men At Work Every Evening. The Prospects.

Basketball practice began in real earnest last week, and the season promises to be as successful as in previous years, if not more so.

All of last year's team are back except, of course, "Benny," who will be missed on the floor, but his place will be ably filled. Captain Baker is daily leading his men through a series of strenuous practices and is himself playing better than ever. Hines, Phillips, S. Maxwell, Leffel and W. Maxwell are all out. Max Croasmun and Hawk are showing up well for new material and there are others who will make the first team hustle for their positions.

Manager Yost is arranging a fine schedule for the team, and has been working on it for some time. The definite schedule cannot at this time be stated, but will appear before the holidays. Some strong teams are already signed up for games.

MISSION STUDY.

The Mission Study Class held its regular weekly meeting in the oratory on Thursday evening. The subject was "Special Providences," and dealt also with the language and study of the land.

A letter was read from Wilbur C. Swearer, "Allegheny's representative in Korea, telling of his work there and pleading for more missionaries for the "Hermit Kingdom."

"BURIAL OF THE TURKEY."

Mr. Bave Planning A New Institution At Allegheny.

Mr. Arthur Bave is planning to inaugurate a new custom into Allegheny, to be known as the "Burial of the Turkey." This will be adapted from the old custom at Eton, which in that famous English school is known as the "Burial of the Lamb." In the latter school, if a Freshman secured a lamb and brought it in, it was "buried" with appropriate ceremonies, and marked the end of his period of service to the upper classes, known in English schools as "fagging." The idea here will be essentially the same, except that a turkey will be substituted for a lamb.

The event will consist of a procession of four men in mourning, bearing the turkey, to the accompaniment of a dead march by the Mandolin Club. The eulogy will be delivered by Mr. F. L. LaBounty, and will be followed by a very solemn service. After the formal ceremony, the turkey will be buried, together with countless other good things which only Mr. Bave can prepare.

It is expected that the custom will be successfully instituted here at Allegheny, as it is at Princeton University, where Mr. Bave introduced it several years ago, and where it is still maintained as one of the important functions of college life.

A RESOLUTION.

Whereas, on Friday morning, November 25, certain posters were circulated by a small number of the Academy students, we as representatives of the student body of Alden Academy, do hereby pass the following resolutions:

1. We heartily condemn said posters.
2. We consider said posters and any of a similar nature foreign to the general spirit of Alden Academy.
3. We further resolve, that a copy of these resolutions be published in the Campus.

Signed:

K. BOYER,
H. G. LYNCH,
H. HUDSON,
S. C. BURWELL.

ORATORICAL EVENT POSTPONED

Class of '90 Contest Will Be Held Soon After Vacation.

Various causes have made it seem best to postpone the class of Ninety oratorical contest until after the holidays. A more definite announcement will be made later. In view of these circumstances, the names and the number of those intending to compete are not divulged. It is understood, however, that several orations of more than usual merit are to be perfected.

Oratorical interest is not on the wane but, contrary to a pessimistic rumor, is as lively as ever. Those in touch with the situation see no reason whatever for the college not being able to win just as many honors this year as have fallen to the lot of Allegheny in past years.

Fresh vs. Soph

Neither Class Scores In Annual Football Game.

"At last the day of conquest had dawned, the day on which was to be decided the question as to lower class supremacy upon the gridiron. Long had been the argument as to who should win the coveted laurels, and so great had grown the interest of the college world that a vast multitude of curious spectators had assembled to greet the warriors. Forth they marched, amid the rousing, deafening cheers of the Sophomores on the western side of the field and the verdant-tipped Freshmen on the east, while the sun did his best to chase away the briskness of the air which tauntingly invited the circulatory warmth to get busy."

Thus on last Monday morning the two underclasses met in Athletic Park to play the long delayed game of foot ball. The hour set to start the contest was seemingly a little too early, for when Captain Brigham, of the Sophomore team, called the roll, he found but six of his lusty cohort there to respond. At last the tardy ones appeared, and the Freshmen already having arrived, Referee Rossiter sounded the signal and the game was on.

From the beginning it was seen that the teams were evenly matched and the story of the game was but a struggle back and forth, with the Freshmen having a little the better of the argument. The first half ended in a 0-0 score. Between halves the loyal supporters of the Freshies gave an imitation of the well-known snake dance, with semi-hibernated enthusiasm.

In the second half, however, the followers of Captain Strawn started off with surprising vigor and before the Sophs realized that things were rather dangerous for them, the youngsters had advanced the ball to their one yard line. This was the only period of the game when a score was imminent, but a fumble by DeYoung as he was sent flying over the line, lost the Freshies a touchdown and a victory as well. The remaining minutes were uneventful, and the game ended 0-0.

The features of the game were the arguments between the players and the characteristic bull dog poses assumed by members of both sides in moments of extreme provocation, much to the delight of the onlookers.

The line-up was as follows:

|-----------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| Sophomores—0. | Freshmen—0. |

REMEMBERED BY CARNEGIE.

When Dr. Crawford returned from Florence, he brought with him a gift for Dr. Hammett, which will be greatly prized. It is a little book written by Andrew Carnegie, and sent by him as a personal remembrance to Allegheny's venerable alumnus.

When Dr. Crawford was attending the tea given by Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie, the iron-master inquired most kindly about Dr. Hammett, and expressed a desire to send him a little remembrance. He selected a volume called "An American Four-in-Hand in Britain," describing a coaching trip in England. Before giving the book to Dr. Crawford for delivery, he wrote on the fly leaf, "To Dr. Jonathan Hammett, our grand old man, instructor for three generations of students, with good wishes from Andrew Carnegie."

FACULTY DINES.

The men of the faculty enjoyed an informal dinner in the private dining room of Cochran Hall Tuesday evening after faculty meeting. A very pleasant evening was spent in a social way.

Lavelly Elected

Football Men Choose Their Captain For Next Season.

The football squad met on Saturday, at 12:30 and elected Lavelly as the captain for next year. Ten men were eligible to vote.

Lavelly played a consistent game all season. He starred in almost every contest. So far as hitting the line and breaking up interference was concerned, Lavelly never failed to be on the spot at the right time. He is well deserving of this honor, and his selection means much for the team in 1910.

KALDRON AND DEBATERS.

Juniors Again Vote Against Taking The Kaldron. Debaters Elected.

The Junior Class met yesterday afternoon for final consideration of the Kaldron question. President Hilborn, of the class, reported the College Council's action refusing the request of the Juniors to be relieved from publishing this year's Kaldron, and declaring a book published by any other organization but the class, unofficial. A motion was made "that this year's Junior class publish the college year book," but after brief discussion, it was lost by a vote of 27 to 18.

The only other business of importance was the choosing of class debaters, and R. J. George, J. W. Barkley and P. M. Hillman were elected.

A BRIEF CHAPEL TALK.

Rev. J. H. Clemens, of Oil City, who has been assisting in the special services at the Stone church, led the chapel service on last Saturday morning. After reading the Scripture lesson he addressed the student body briefly on the subject, "Playing the Game."

OF COURSE!

An announcement appears elsewhere of the college entertainment scheduled for next Tuesday night. The writer attempted a little humor, but he is to be excused because he meant well.

Are you going? Of course!

THE FOOT BALL NUMBER.

In accordance with an annual custom, the next issue of the Campus will be the foot ball number. The usual features of such a special issue will appear, including pictures of the team, the coach, the captain and the manager, a summary of the season, and individual write-ups of the players.

In the foot ball issues of other papers which are coming to the Campus, in exchange, nothing is left undone to do honor to the men who represent the various schools on the gridiron. That feeling is the same here, and it is as an indication of our desire to honor the Allegheny men that we are planning to devote an issue to them and their work. The foot ball number will be the last Campus before the Christmas vacation; it is hoped that it can be made the best so far this year.

EPIGRAMMATIC.

In his sermon at the Second Presbyterian church, Pittsburg, last Sunday evening, Dr. Camden M. Coburn of the faculty, introduced several epigrams that have been discussed at length during the week in various newspapers. His subject was "How to be Happy," and was a departure from the usual Sunday evening discourse. Some of the following quotations from his address can be of help in everyday college life:

"To squeeze our troubles is to double them."

"To talk of our misfortunes is to increase them."

"Worry is worse than poison."

"A fault finder is the devil's advertising agent."

"There are such things as spiritual mumps and spiritual measles, and both are contagious."

"Spiritual prostration is far worse than nervous prostration."

"The tongue of the wise is health, but the tongue of the foolish scatters sickness."

"The misery habit is bad for body and soul, and it is contagious."

A number of his hearers were disappointed because he did not name money as a necessary attribute to happiness.

TIME FOR THE QUESTION.

Many of the large universities and colleges have already selected their 'Varsity debating teams. Every time such news comes to us, we remember an idea of this year's association officers, and wonder if they are not at least going to announce the question soon. As far as victories go, the results in past years show that at Allegheny it isn't absolutely necessary to success that an early selection be made, but the men who have debated all say that they could have used a little more time to advantage.

A word might well be said here regarding the Forum. Ever since its organization, it has furnished practically all of the 'Varsity debaters. It has come to be an accepted law here that if you want to debate for Allegheny, you will have to train in the Forum. Those in charge are furnishing excellent programs and opportunity for debate on standard subjects. The rest depends on the students.

A WAR MEMORIAL.

Alumni Association to Place a Bronze Tablet on Campus in Honor of College Company.

Students and alumni of Allegheny college have received during the past week a letter in the interests of a memorial fund for the erection of a monument in honor of those Allegheny students who participated in the Civil war. The content of the letter follows:

"We are always glad to commemorate and honor acts of patriotism and devotion to duty. When these acts are performed by persons endeared to us by blood relationship or by association we become doubly interested. The Civil War gave more illustrations of this than any other event in the history of this country. For years the country was admonished of its possible danger, but when the crash came, on the 15th of April, 1861, and Abraham Lincoln called for volunteers, the promptness with which the men of the north responded to his call attested not only their devotion to country, but their determination to protect that which nearly a century of self-denial had created.

"In the spring of 1861 many students of Allegheny College enlisted in the company there formed. Each succeeding year more students enlisted, until a total of about three hundred had donned the nation's blue. During the half century which has elapsed practically every hamlet, town, city and state has erected monuments commemorating the action of their citizens who went in defense of the country, but up to this time Allegheny College has been apparently unmindful of the devotion of these men who left their homes, their college and their friends that the country might live.

"Last year at our alumni banquet at Allegheny College a suggestion was made which was afterwards incorporated into a motion that the President of the College appoint a committee to prepare some memorial which would fitly commemorate the action and devotion of these men. As a result a committee was appointed as indicated above.

"This committee, after mature deliberation, has decided to erect on the college campus, a marble boulder, on which can be placed a bronze tablet, commemorative of the action of these men. To secure this boulder and tablet, and properly place it in a permanent and endearing position will require about $400. We believe every alumnus, student and friend of the college will wish to contribute to this object, and that all may have an opportunity we are asking each to send us, in the enclosed envelope, $1, or more if possible. We wish to raise the entire amount quickly, so that the monument can be dedicated at commencement in 1910.

"We will greatly appreciate your prompt attention to this matter, and will take into consideration any suggestions you wish to make. Thanking you in advance and hoping for a prompt response, we are,

Yours very truly,
R. R. ROSS,
Secretary and Treasurer.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETS.

A brief meeting of the executive committee of the college was held Tuesday morning. Only routine business was transacted. Hon. Frank A. Arter, chairman, of Cleveland, Dr. T. L. Flood, Mr. William Thomas and President Crawford were present. Judge John J. Henderson was unable to attend because of his judicial duties as presiding judge of the superior court now in session at Philadelphia.

A LETTER FROM MILLWARD.

Tells of Difficulties in Learning the Chinese Language.

Dr. George A. Mulfinger recently received a letter from William Millward, a member of the class of '09, and has kindly allowed the Campus to print it. Mr. Millward is Bishop Bashford's private secretary in Peking, China.

He says:
"Within the next two weeks I expect to start for Central China where we are to spend a while in the Kuling Mountains. I shall have the coming year practically free for the study of the language, which of course is exactly what I wanted.

Chinese is not an easy language to learn, largely because of the fact that each new word has a new character or else a new combination of old characters. Then, too, we have to do with tones. Here in North China there are four tones. The first tone is the even tone in which the pitch of the voice is neither raised or lowered from the beginning to the end of the word. The second tone is the rising inflection, as in asking a question in English. The third tone begins at a certain level, is then lowered, and then rises to the original level. The fourth tone is the opposite of the second tone, i. e., it is the falling inflection. As illustrating the differences of meaning which the difference in tone makes let us take the word pronounced as it spelled "Ma." In the first tone there is one character which means mother or nurse. In the second tone, one character means hemp; in the third, one means horse; while in the fourth, one of the characters means to revile or scold. Of course all four of these characters are different, yet the Romanization of them is spelled the same, and so the student must be careful to give the exact tone or he is in danger of calling the mother a horse, or hemp, or saying that she reviles.

The Chinese are a people having a great many good qualities. And now that they have broken away from the old examination system for filling public offices, the people are ready and anxious for western education. They are correspondingly open to the influence of Christianity. Today is the day of opportunity in China, and must be grasped by all Christian denominations if they wish to do all that is expected of them. Revivals are the order of the day in China. From various parts of the empire come reports of great revivals in some of the local churches.

I am sure you will be glad to know that I have found my German of great help to me in the study of the Chinese language. The training I received in your class in the matter of distinguishing fine distinctions of sound has been of great benefit to me. My advice to any student who expects to come to China would be by all means to take at least one year of German and as much more as possible. Of course the French is of value as supplementing the German, but if I had to choose between the two—knowing what I do now of the relative value of the two in the study of Chinese—I would choose the German. I am sorry that I did not get to take at least another year of German.

You will no doubt be interested to know that I crossed the ocean without being seasick, although there was a time or two when I was about as near to being sick as 19-7-8 is to 19-15-16. Still I escaped being sick and I was glad I did. I enjoyed the ocean trip and am only sorry that the price of transportation is so great that I cannot come to America to spend my summers. I think that were I as near and had as cheap transportation as "Tax" L. Miner, when he goes to Robert College, I would come home at least every other summer.

With best wishes, I am
Cordially yours,
WILLIAM MILLWARD.

MID-WEEK SERVICE.

The mid-week Y. M. C. A. service was held in the association rooms on Wednesday evening at the usual time. After the opening services the leader, Mr. Leitzel, spoke on the subject, "The Value of a Good Name." The text was, "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." The talk of the speaker naturally led to character building, and its influence on the student in his every day college life. After the close of the leader's remarks, a number spoke briefly on the subject.

Dr. Chase lead the Y. W. C. A. service Wednesday evening. His theme was, "She hath done what she could."

In a recent issue of the W. & J. "Red and Black," the editor consoles the Freshmen by describing the caps worn by the Allegheny Freshmen.

Phi Gamma Delta will entertain at dinner this evening, at the Riverside, Cambridge Springs. The invitation list includes college and town friends and alumni.

Theta Sigma was entertained Saturday at a delightful afternoon party in Cochran. After several clever and original stunts a delicious lunch was served and later the guests were taken for a drive in a tally-ho.

A total eclipse of the moon was visible at three o'clock a week ago this morning. The phenomenon was viewed by such as had the courage to get up and see it. There were no observations taken at the observatory.

Miss Alice Huntington Spaulding gave an entertainment on Thursday evening at Conneautville. The event was the twentieth anniversary of the Shakespeare Club of that place and was given at the home of Elmer C. Seley.

The Freshmen girls of Alpha Chi Omega entertained the other members of their sorority on Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Ruth Thomas on North Park avenue. The evening was spent in music and original games. Refreshments were served later in the evening.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union, of Meadville, has issued a set of resolutions condemning the use of tobacco, and appealing to the faculty, students and alumni of the college to do all in their power "to make the use of tobacco unfashionable." The ladies especially stigmatize the social gatherings of men, designated as "smokers."

Dr. Ernest A. Smith was the speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Round Table, on Monday evening. The meeting, which was held at the Unitarian parish building, was one of the best in attendance and interest held so far this year. Dr. Smith's subject was the "Income Tax," and was treated in an interesting and scholarly manner.

W. E. Weidler, leader of the Mandolin Club, has announced the club for the present as follows:

First Mandolin—W. E. Weidler, S. Y. Rossiter, R. W. Thomas, C. F. Shields, R. J. George. Second Mandolin—W. M. Small, J. P. McClellan, R. R. Ross, W. Maxwell, S. E. Nichols. Guitar—R. T. Miller, A. C. Nodine.

The Forum met at the usual time, Thursday afternoon to continue the debate on the question, "Resolved, that a central bank of issue should be adopted by congress, constitutionality conceded." McClellan and Schmemmerhorn, who represented the affirmative, were opposed by Firestone and Limber on the negative. The question proved to be interesting and was hotly contested. The vote was unanimous in favor of the negative.

In Chapel on Wednesday morning, Dr. Crawford brought before the students the moral and religious life of the American universities and colleges in comparison with that of the educational institutions of Europe. Dr. Crawford said that the life in this phase of college activities here was ahead of the European schools, a fact he believed due in a large measure to the active, aggressive work of the Young Men's Christian Association in America.

Quite a little excitement prevailed among the Freshmen and Juniors on Tuesday evening. As the Seniors were giving a party at Saegertown Inn, the Sophomores thought of a plan whereby they could make the two friendly classes believe that a Senior-Soph banquet was in progress. Word was passed around, and the cars were carefully watched, but at eight o'clock the joke was discovered and all went back to their rooms. After chapel the following morning the Juniors and Seniors began cheering for their allied classes and tried to urge the Freshmen on to a fight, but the Sophomores had retired in time to save such a disturbance.

FOUR DELEGATES CHOSEN.

Allegheny To Be Represented at Rochester Student Conference.

By all means the most momentous event in the intercollegiate student world for the year 1909-10 will be the Sixth International Convention of the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions, which will be held in Rochester, N. Y., December 29th-January 2nd. Three thousand delegates from seven hundred institutions of higher learning will be in attendance. The situation in all foreign lands will be reviewed with the purpose of ascertaining what contribution the colleges of North America can and ought to make toward the solution of social, industrial and religious problems now confronting these peoples.

The special feature of the convention will be addresses by some of the greatest modern missionary leaders; the discussions of different phases of Christian work—industrial and educational, as well as evangelistic and medical; personal conferences with men fresh from the great mission fields of the world who will be available for interviews regarding the work and opportunities in every land. Allegheny has been fortunate enough to secure a representation of four delegates—two from the Y. M. C. A. and two from the Y. W. C. A. of the college. As it will be necessary to defray at least part of the expenses of these delegates, the missionary committees of the college are planning to give an entertainment at which all the available college talent will appear in various numbers.

A representative committee acting with Dr. Smith chose Hofelt and Hillman delegates from the men, with Leitzel and Storer first and second alternates respectively. The two delegates selected to represent the women were Miss Mackenzie and Miss Norton, with Miss Senn as alternate.

GERMANS REORGANIZE.

Wieler Chosen President of Club for This Year.

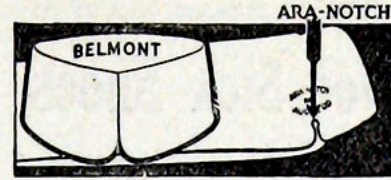

As a result of new interest aroused in the German department of the college, a German Club is to be formed this year. From present indications this organization will take its place as the equal of the other like organizations of the college, both in efficiency and interest.

A well-attended meeting of those interested was held last Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Mulfinger described the work of the German Club in past years and dwelt upon the advantages which it has offered. In addition, plans for the coming year were sketched. These were of a more ambitious nature than have been attempted in the past. If the spirit of those present can be taken as evidence, the expectations of Dr. Mulfinger will be realized. At this meeting the work of organization was practically completed and the following officers elected: chairman of the executive committee, Mr. Wieler; secretary, Miss Power; treasurer, Mr. Trosh; executive committee, Miss Williams, Miss McDonald, Miss Grauel, Mr. Gorham and Mr. Weiss.

PHI KAPPA PSI SMOKER.

The Phi Psi fraternity entertained a number of the fraternity men of the college at a smoker in its chapter house, on last Saturday evening. The evening was enjoyably spent, a feeling of good fellowship pervading the atmosphere. Several signs directed the guests to the "Cider-mill," and the path thither was soon well worn.

The lounging and dining rooms of the house were both tastefully decorated, all of the fraternities of the college being represented by their own pennants. The large open fireplaces in the two rooms added to the good spirit of the evening.

THE FIRST CONCERT.

Glee and Mandolin Clubs Appeared Before Meadville Audience Last Night.

Last night the Glee and Mandolin Clubs made their initial appearance for the year in the Meadville High School auditorium under the auspices of the Junior class. The hall was crowded and the work of the club was very enthusiastically received. A great part of the success of the concert was due to the pleasing character of the program which was as follows:

PART ONE.

The Teddy Bear's Picnic....Bratton Mandolin Club.
Tell Her I Love Her So.....Macy Glee Club.
Reading—"The Gridiron".....Lover Mr. Harris.
Border Ballad.....Cowen Mr. Stewart.
Oh, Heart of Mine.....H. Clough- [Leighter

PART TWO.

A DRAMATIC REVERSE.

There is a rumor floating about in college circles that the dignity of the worthy president of the dramatic club was recently given a tremendous shock. Not he alone, but several others felt the recoil.

The English Opera Company presented "Aida" in the Academy of Music on Wednesday evening, and the leading "warbler" of the show flatly refused to allow any "supes" as did Kirk Brown. She said that she would not sing if any of them were employed in the presentation.

Conclusions may be drawn from this mere statement of a rumor, told upon good authority. Solutions of the problem in its relation to college dramatics are in order.

A CHRISTMAS TRIP.

Manager Hickernell has settled the arrangements for the Christmas trip of the Glee and Mandolin Clubs, and the names of the members have been sent in for approval. The schedule is as follows:

Tuesday evening, November 14, Beaver.

Wednesday evening, November 15, Parnassus.

Thursday evening, November 16, Braddock.

Friday evening, November 17, Irwin.

CAP AND GOWN PARTY.

The first class social function of the year was given by the Seniors at Saegertown Inn on last Tuesday evening. The party left college hill at six o'clock. After enjoying a delightful dinner and the numerous amusements afforded by the Inn, they returned to Meadville on the thirty car.

ALUMNI.

Many college friends have received announcements of the marriage of Charles W. Gill and Miss Nellie Gertrude Wilson, which occurred a week ago Tuesday at the bride's home in Union City. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Wilbur J. Hewitt, of Kennerdale, Pa., who was a college friend of both bride and groom. Mr. and Mrs. Gill are alumni of Allegheny, graduating in 1907 and 1906, respectively. The groom, who was in charge of the college book store for two years, is now at the head of the book store at the Chautauqua assembly grounds. After a wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs. Gill will be at home in Chautauqua.

Miss Laura Bethune, '09, who spent Thanksgiving with friends at the Hall, together with Miss Maud Pratt, Miss Sophia Campbell and Miss Floy Seymour, spent Saturday and Sunday as guests of Miss Grace Thomas, '09, at her home in Union City.

Miss Etta Carrol, '07, was a chapel visitor on Saturday.
