Greenlund Promoted To Managing Editor; Wise and Arthur Are Appointed To Staff

Two appointments to The Campus staff and a promotion were announced today by Sam Bates, Editor-In-Chief as approved by the Editorial Board, and Mr. B. Frank Hammet, faculty advisor to the publication.

Betts Greenlund, a sophomore from Camp Hill, Pa., has been promoted to the position of Managing Editor, a position unfilled since September. A member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, Miss Greenlund has been associated with The Campus since her freshman year when she served as a copy assistant. Since last May she has been a member of the Editorial Board, She serves as treasurer of W.A.A. and has been a member of the Chapel Choir and the woman's varsity basketball squad.

Named to the position of Advertising Manager, a post vacant since last May, is Bob Arthur, a sophomore from Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio. A member of Phi Delta Theta, he serves that organization as librarian. A member of the U.S. Naval Reserves, he is varsity track manager.

Dave Wise, a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, has been named to the unfilled position of Business Manager. Active in athletics, he was Freshman basketball manager, and is a member of the varsity golf and soccer squads.

Pre-registration

The Registrar's office reminds all students that they must be pre-registered for the second semester by tomorrow. A $10.00 fine is imposed for failure to pre-register.

Clayton And Jarratt To Appear January 11

Helen Clapton and Howard Jarratt, concert entertainers, are scheduled to appear at Allegheny on January 11 in Ford Memorial Chapel. The two young performers have currently been touring the country.

Both hold degrees in music. Miss Clayton is a graudate of Tulane University and The Juliard School of Music, while Mr. Jarratt is an alumus of St. Olaf College, and holds a Master's Degree from the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago.

Miss Clayton, a soprano who has worked chiefly in operetta and oratorio, won recent acclaim for her leading role in the Montclair Operetta Club production of "New Moon". Further praise was accorded her when she appeared as solist on the "Carnegie Pops" program at Carnegie Hall.

Mr. Jarratt has spent much of his time teaching music. He has appeared on the Ford Symphony of the Air, and starred in the leading tenor role at the world premiere of the opera "King Harold."

Hopper Takes First In Men's Extemporaneous Contest December 6th

Jeff Hopper, representing Phi Delta Theta, won first place in the annual Men's Extemporaneous Speaking Contest held Wednesday evening, December 6, in the Chapel. Second place was taken by Bob Blomquist, of Phi Kappa Psi, and Ned Vidal, representing Delta Tau Delta, was third place winner.

Will Congress be affected by the recent election?" To this question Jeff pointed out several things to watch for in the next few months: extended "McCarthy-ism"; a coalition between Republicans and Dixiecrats which would give the minority party virtual control; increased demand for the removal of Secretary of State Acheson; and an abrupt halt to the "Fair Deal."

The Phi Delts, as a result of the contest, won a second "leg" on the prize gold cup. The first fraternity to have three winners will receive permanent possession of the trophy. The Phi Psis are the only other fraternity to hold a claim to it.

Others competing in the contest were Robert Klein, Theta Chi; Harry Stewart, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Tyler Hayes, Alpha Chi Rho; Jack Sullivan, Phi Gamma Delta; and Marvin Goldstein, the Commons Club.

Chairman of the contest was Greta Samzelius, and judging the contest were Mildred Ludwig, Joseph Devlin, and Henry Pommer. Mr. A. R. Mulligan is the faculty advisor of the Philo-Franklin Speech Union.

Jeff will represent Allegheny College at the state tournament to be held at Temple University next March.

President's Message

Christmas, 1950 finds us midway between thanks and a wish.

Our thanks are for the busy and happy fall we have had at the College—surely the busiest and happiest of the three I, for one, have been privileged to enjoy at Allegheny.

Our wish is that we may continue throughout the College year to live together, not unmindful of the trouble in the world, yet determined somehow to make our work here count for all it can be worth.

The best of Christmas Holidays—and an easy return this time—to everyone.

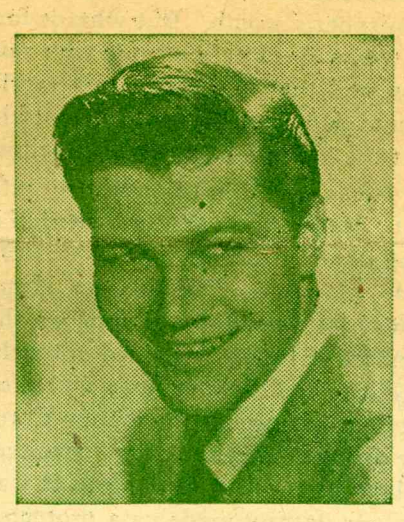

Louis Benezet.

Gene Williams Plays Tomorrow Night; Plans Set For Annual Christmas Dance

The annual Christmas Formal will be held in Brooks Hall Friday evening, December 15, from 8:30 p.m. until 12:30 a.m.

Music will be provided for the dance by Gene Williams and his Orchestra, a current favorite among colleges and universities. The girls will have 1:15 permissions for the affair.

GENE WILLIAMS

Since the cost of the dance will be $2.00 per couple, it has been requested by the dance committee that no corsages be given.

Refreshments will be served during intermission in the Pine Room by the Junior Advisors.

Chairman of the dance is Dick Conrad. Jim Boddorf, chairman of the band committee of the AUC Activities Board, secured the band, and Bob Falck is in charge of tickets. Co-chairmen Nova Pierce and Larnie Fox head the decorations committee, which is composed of Jim Buckner, Marty Hayward, Bill Steele, Walt Strahl, Barb Lorz, Ray Roppel, Sunny Sholle, Sue Dickson, and Max Wright. The publicity committee includes chairman Chuck Hollerman, Bob Stuckenrath, Sam Brahm, Phyllis Moat, Dee Cunningham, and Diane Luvaas.

Three Stephen Foster Songs Get First Hearing At Sinfonietta Concert Tonight

Tonight's concert by the Allegheny Sinfonietta in Ford Chapel will feature a world premiere—the first performance anywhere of three unfamiliar Stephen Foster Songs as arranged for soprano and small orchestra by George Frederick McKay. The program will begin at 8:15.

Mr. McKay, who is Professor of Music at the University of Washington, has made an intensive study of little-known Foster compositions. He is an experienced composer. Dr. Neurath, the conductor of the Sinfonietta, corresponded with Professor McKay and received his permission to give the initial performance here of his original setting for these songs. The soprano soloist will be Patricia MacEwen, a junior from Kane, Pennsylvania.

Another important number on the program will be Franz Schubert's Fifth Symphony. The Sinfonietta has performed short symphonies before, but this is the most pretentious symphonic project it has yet attempted. The Ffth Symphony was written by Schubert when he was nineteen, and was intended for use in his own home. It is one of his most popular and melodic works.

The spirit of the Christmas season will be represented when the orchestra plays the Christmas Pastorale from The Messiah, by Handel. Other selections will include the Bohemian Song from Shvanda, the Bagpiper, an opera by Jaromir Weinberger; the Dance of the Rose Maidens from Aram Khachaturian's Gayne Ballet Suite; the march Folk Songs from Somerset, by the English composer Ralph Vaughan Williams; and the Overture to the opera opera Cosi Fan Tutte, by Mozart.

This season is the fourth for the Allegheny Sinfonietta. It was founded in 1947 by Dr. Neurath, and it has been his brainchild ever since. The group has grown until it now numbers 25 pieces, of which 17 are strings, 5 are woodwinds, 2 are brass and 1 is piano. Twenty of the players are Allegheny students, two are high school students, and three are adults connected with the college. These last are especially to be praised for their continued cooperation, says Dr. Neurath. He has also expressed his great satisfaction with the helpful attitudes of the student musicians.

The importance of school orchestras like the Sinfonietta is growing today, when major symphonies are finding the going much tougher. Many of them have had to disband

A Dangerous Foe

There is a dangerous old foe reappearing on the American scene. It is the force of isolationism. The doctrines of the neo-isolationists were given a whole page spread by one of the Pittsburgh papers this last Sunday. In words reminiscent of America Firstism the new American vacuum was proposed. Neo-isolationism is a reaction against the great amount of sovereignty that we are forced to give up to the U.N., particularly in reference to the veto.

The proponents of this doctrine think that the United States can crawl back into its own hemispheric womb. But what is forgotten today was forgotten ten years ago by the people who said that Japan would not attack us, and that is the fact that totalitarianism whether cloaked in marxian doctrine or in "Deutschland uber alles" will not respect the borders of a peaceful nation.

The isolationist spirit laid dormant within this country until the cold war began to grow hot. But as soon as the United Nations was put in the position of standard bearer for the western world, the isolationists began to wake up. This noxious group was perfectly satisfied with international affairs as long as the American way of life i.e. its standard of living, remained untouched, but when our great wealth started to backfire upon us, when it was necessary for us to start distributing our money for European relief the selfish protector of the "American way" revolted. Manifest destiny was a fine policy for the U.S. as long as it was an acquisitive policy, but when our destiny made us a protector of another part of the world and were forced to legislate a sacrificial policy, isolationism showed its face. This is the time of the year when we often hear the phrase that it is better to give than to receive. For a certain element in the United States this doctrine means nothing.

There might be an excellent case historically drawn to prove that a great deal of the bill that the United States is being forced to pay today was caused by isolation and high tariffs of the 1920's and early 30's. The American people must realize that they cannot live in great wealth without any relation to the rest of the world. It seems rather late to be arguing for internationalism: we thought that that argument had been won back in '45.

Partially out of Christian charity and partially out of self-preservation we must learn to share our wealth with other peoples. We do not know what it is to have a war trample the industries of our society. We were hardly affected by the last war, but we very well may be blasted off the earth by the coming war. There is only one way for us to prevent such destruction. We must build up the defense of our buffer states, which in the coldest terms are those nations in Europe and Asia that stand opposed to communism. Secondly we must go all out to build a strong Point-four program. We must be willing to lower our extremely high standards in order to lift many of the peoples of the world into a standard that we past many decades ago. Communism makes many promises to the undernourished nations of the world, we must be willing to show these same nations that we want them to exist side by side with us. This belief should not stem from necessity, but from our tradition of supporting revolutions that worked to develop equalitarian societies. China is an excellent picture of our failure. We did not promise the people of China freedom or security. Another nation did make these promises, and now China, a long time friend of America, stands as the second of great enemies.

Now is not the time to shrink back into our personal sovereignty. We must take up the call of sacrifical missionary work; that is we must only if we feel that our way of life is better than that of Russia's; if we do not then we can hide between the oceans and just wait!

CAMPUS CAPERS

By SAL & SPEED

"You better not shout, you better not cry; you better not pout, I'M tellin' you why—SANTA CLAUS IS COMING TO TOWN." With all the Christmas shopping, pre-vacation exams, parties and events, this has really been a busy week! Guess we're all looking forward to this lengthy recess from Allegheny College.

The Alpha Xis held their Christmas Formal—Marshmallow World—over at the Phi Gam House last Friday evening. At intermission the ladies sang, after which eggnog, marshmallows and Christmas cookies were served. Favors for the boys were little beer mugs, and music was made by Jim Edwards and his band. We liked the white deer by the fireside, and we know everyone had a good time.

A "Decorate the Christmas Tree" party was given by Alpha Chi Rho on the same night. Everyone had a hand in trimming the tree and then joined in dancing. Fran Richmond played Santy and gave out the gifts. Something new in refreshments were the pop-corn balls and brownies.

Saturday night's highlight was the Delta Tau Delta Christmas Formal held at the chapter house. Amid lovely holiday decorations and atmosphere, the Delts and their dates danced to the music of Don Hank and his orchestra. A tempting array of food and favors for the ladies rounded out the evening. Take it from us, this was an outstanding affair.

Four Christmas parties for children also were on the social agenda last weekend, as KDE held one for the pre-school children; the Phi Delts for the children of Bethesda Home; the Phi Gams for their Odd Fellows neighbors; and the Independent Women played hostess to the kiddies from Meadville.

The annual Phi Psi Christmas Tea, given this year in honor of the Allegheny Singers and the Chapel Choir, took place at the house on Sunday afternoon. It was well attended and was its usual best.

Jack Sullivan and Betty Kennedy have made the BIG STEP as well as Bob Blomquist and Mary Ann Chapman and Dean Titus and Jean Freeman.

No other STEPS at this time, but look here after Xmas!

Crib Corner: Congrat are in order for Mrs. W. S. Wright North, Mrs. Gerald McClearn and Mrs. Geoffrey Clay, all proud new mommas.

Yuletidings: Didja know that Gene Williams is really making his second appearance at Gay Alleghe? Gene (no relation to Dean) was here for the Xmas dance in 1947 when he was vocalizing for Claude Thornhill and his orchestra. Maybe he'll give out with his well-known rendition of "Don't Call Me Boy.,, . . . The newspaper filled room of Joyce Lowry and Carol Brown caused quite a stir on third mid . . . After putting on a sensational act last Sunday in the dining hall, Kay Davis found she had the night off anyway . . . . Kay Starr's record of "Oh Babe" rocking the grille juke box . . . . Need we say anything about "The Thing?" . . . . Is "Glow Little Glow Worm" going to be the theme at Brooks Dinner?

Prof. of the week: Agnes Kollitz, for doing away with the scheduled shorthand test in view of the heavy load already facing her class.

It's about time now to begin dusting off luggage and start packing for vacation. Old St. Nick is just about ready to leave the North Pole and start his annual rounds. We hope he fills your stocking to the brim,

A CHRISTMAS MESSAGE

By Dr. Tyler Thompson

The spirit of Christmas brings kindness, and forbearance, and thoughtfulness between men. It helps to soften the hearts of the selfish. It brings inner peace and joy. Is it therefore a mockery to celebrate Christmas in the world's present condition? Is it foolish to talk of good will, brotherhood, and peace when hatred, clannishness, and war are so often the order of the day? No! The more desperate our need, the more relevant and important is the message of Christmas.

The deepest meaning of Christmas lies in its revelation of God's love for us, and for all men. Does he love us the less because we have failed to obey his will? Christmas is our assurance that such is not the case. Our lack of love fills him with sorrow and disappointment, but it no more moves him to turn away from us than the strife-torn humanity of Jesus' day. As he gave himself for them, so he gives himself for us, seeking to lead us into that life of creative fellowship with himself and with each other for which we all more or less clearly yearn at Christmas time.

For all the sentiment which rightly surrounds the Christmas festival, it is not simply the birth of a babe that we celebrate. We come to Bethlehem in the light of all that Jesus did at Nazareth, and upon the highways of Galilee, and in Jerusalem. As we dealt with his companions in love, as he refused to condem but sought to understand and redeem, as he tried to win those who were most unfair and cruel to him, as he gave himself to death for the cause he knew to be right, so we discover in him a revelation of the very life of God, and see in him the Son of God seeking to lead all other men to realize their sonship.

Therefore, in the midst of our fear and perplexity, let us rise up and proclaim the Christmas message with joy. In it lies the one true hope of the world.

Merry Christmas

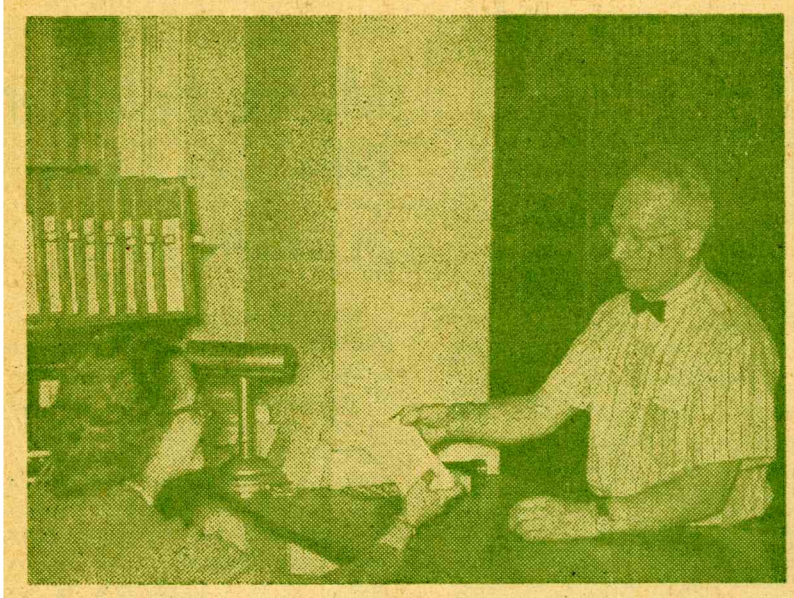

It may be somewhat mundane, but the staff of The Campus would like to wish everyone a Merry Christmas and best wishes for a Civilian New Year. And having just finished reading a letter from Germany written by Sgt. John Olofson, we are reminded to extend our wishes for a speedy return to all Alleghenians now in service.

This last year has seen a complete change in the attitude of most students at Allegheny. Korea and China and what we should do in relation to our international problems have replaced many sessions on a similar nature about dating and complaints about our courses. Today we are glad to be allowed to sit in any class-room. Allegheny becomes greatly appreciated when it appears to be slipping out of our hands, and unfortunately slipping out without slipping anything into many of our hands.

Today we would only be too glad to slip back into our humdrum apathetic pre-Korean attitude. Oh how we would live to be able to write an editorial on student apathy. And yet if there is one wish we have for the New Year it would be that if we are able to get out of this present situation and restore the world to a less fear ridden state, we hope that future classes at Allegheny will not need those good old time editorials. Let us hope that we come out of this war—be it cold or hot—with greater insight into the meaning of life.

Everything at Allegheny has taken on a greater meaning with the prospect of being separated from the campus for an unknown period of time. The I.R.C., the bull sessions, the Christmas concert—all take on a special meaning. All of these are what we normally consider as a part of our daily existence, but today they are the very things which we are fighting to preserve. No better answer can be found to this problem of preservation than the Christmas Spirit. If ever the world was in need of a Christ the time is now. Let not hate but love of man be our goal. And from that goal, peace and a lengthened stay at Allegheny.

That Man In Brooks

Mr. Joseph E. Balliet, commonly known as Mr. B, is pictured receiving a special delivery letter from Virginia Farkley, Brooks switchboard operator. —Photo by Boddorf

by Molly Moore

That's him. Yeah, the little white-haired fellow in the bow tie. There goes Allegheny's famous institution—commonly known as Mr. B. Head man at the Brooks Ladies Home, he is necessarily a man of many talents. These range from giving coveted elevator assistance to the inmates of the 3rd and 4th floors, to acting as chief cockroach exterminator. Mr. B has his practical uses, to be sure, but it is his personal contribution, above and beyond the call of duty, that endears him to Brooks ladies.

Wherever he goes throughout the dorm, our boy Mr. B is characterized by his inimitable haunting refrain. This song-without-words doubles as either a report of his whereabouts, so as to enable any nearly nude nymphs to take cover, or a sort of hog call which brings the patter of little feet in quest of mail.

It is he who, through the medium of mail, maintains our contact with those we have left behind in the outer world. He is welcomed with open, clutching arms for reasons either sentimental, mercenary, or in the event of a laundry case, strictly from hunger.

Though friends desert you, dates be non-existent, and even your parents aren't on writing terms after mid-term grades are out, our hero is bound to find his way to your convent cell if only to come through with a bookstore bill.

Then there are those other little unknowing contributions to daily existence a la Brooks. Some such incidents may even build character in co-eds. It does wonders for the development of poise when Mr. B's beloved figure suddenly appears to discover you cleverly draped in a towel en route from the shower. After surviving enough of these charming encounters, an Allegheny lady can sail through the most critical of social crises with perfect control.

In times of stress such as the sophomore slump, that time of need that descends like the green death on the best of us, Mr. B is apt to be the only gentleman caller for weeks at a time.

From a man's point of view, our subject would provide a potential confidante as to how the other half lives. This man is on the inside and knows the lowdown on the strange and fascinating customs of said women. If he were addicted to blackmail, what a booming business would spring up! Terrorized efforts would be made to squelch reports of the girl who bellows down the hall with the charm of a foghorn, the ukelele fiends, and that mysterious cult which treads the halls in cold cream and pin curls.

Fortunately, Mr. B is our protector, and his lips are sealed—that's one reason for his popularity. So that's who he is, a fixture at our fair institution by now. Quite a guy, our Mr. B, and very dear to our hearts.

Kappas Take Dutch War Orphan As Foster Child

The Christmas season with it's spirit of giving has become an all-year project for the members of the Allegheny Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma because of a little Dutch girl named Anna Maria Ploum.

Anna Maria was born thirteen years ago in Batavia, Dutch East Indies, where her father was a brigadier in the army. She had a secure and happy family life up to World War II, when her father was killed and the rest of her family thrown into a Japanese concentration camp. In 1946 the family was repatriated to Holland, but they had nothing. Their relatives could not help them because they too had suffered during the German occupation. When the Ploum's story came to the attention of the Foster Parents' Plan for War Children, Anna, her sister and her brother were all accepted for PLAN care.

The members of Gamma Rho chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma decided to take Anna Maria for their foster child. The money they send provides her with regular medical and dental care, schooling, and parcels of food and clothing from the PLAN warehouse in Holland.

The relationship between Anna Maria and her many foster parents is more than just the providing and receiving of physical requirements. Two letters are written to Anna by different girls each week, and Anna answers to the group as a whole. Right after Thanksgiving, a package was filled with many things to give Anna Maria a happy Christmas. Things such as this establish a closer relationship between the child and her foster parents.

Over 65 fraternities and sororities are represented in the 300 colleges and universities which have groups acting as Foster Parents of War Children. Some groups keep the same child year after year; while others, like the Kappas, feel they help more by getting a new child every year to provide with extra clothes and toys. Last year they helped a ittle girl. Helping such needy children spreads the Christmas spirit of giving through the whole year.

Chapel Service

There will be a college worship service January 3 in the Chapel. Dr. John E. Cavelti will speak in honor of George Washington Carver's one-hundredth birthday anniversary.

Induction Postponement For College Students May Still Be Obtained

In answer to the current rumor that all postponements of induction of college students have been canceled, Mr. Timmons states that they have not.

Under the conditions of the Selective Service Act of 1948, a registrant may be denied deferment, but he may not be denied a postponement of induction if he is entitled thereto under Section 6 (i) 2 of the Act .

Postponement of induction is to the end of the academic year and is based solely upon actual enrollment in school at the time the call comes and satisfactory progress in the course in which the student is enrolled. Postponement is mandatory upon local boards for all full-time students who fulfill the requirements.

Upon receiving his questionnaire, the student should request of Mr. Timmons that his local board be informed that he fulfills the requirements for postponement of induction.

If his local board is considering defering him, the student must not only fulfill the above requirements but must also have the board notified that he is in the upper half of his class.

Reservists are subject to call at all times and are out of the range of influence which the college can exercise.

Students who are not citizens of the United States are not subject to the draft law.

All veterans classfied 4-A are not allowed to be drafted.

These are the present laws governing the drafting of college students and are subject to change at any time.

Swimmers Down Grovers; Courtmen Drop Two Games

Mermen Capture Seven Firsts In 44-22 Win Over Grove City Team

The Allegheny mermen inaugurated their swimming season by defeating Grove City 44-22, last Thursday, at Montgomery gymnasium pool.

The Gators captured a first in every event except the 440 yard free style race, while Grove City took every second place except in the 150 yard backstroke event. An indication that Allegheny again will lack depth.

Muir, Hearn, Grab Firsts

The meet commenced with Allegheny medley relay team winning easily. In the next event Muir and Grove City's Etter threw the audience into an uproar with their nip and tuck battle in the 220 yard race. Muir won by about a yard. Karl Enselberg, a promising freshman, came in third. Chet Hearn turned in a fair time for the 60-yard dash, considering that he and Ed McAlevy tried to swim in the same lane several times during the race. In the 100 yard dash Hearn, swimming in his own lane this time, splashed to an easy victory. His time was 57.1 seconds, 2.1 seconds off the pool record. Al Case just missed a second place in this event. Zuberbuhler and "Peaches" Wilson breezed to an easy 1-2 victory in the 150 yard backstroke event. The 200 yard breaststroke race was won by John Ertle in another close race Ertle led all the way but seemed to weaken in the final stages. Grove City's victory in the 440 yard event enunciated our weakness in that department. Sayer took third place for Allegheny.

Freestyle Relay Thriller

The 400 yard freestyle relay proved to be the most exciting race of the meet. Al Case led off the first five laps of the relays and was followed by Bob Perry. When Schenck dove in he found himself about a half-pools length behind. He almost caught his opponent on the third lap but, like Hearn, he strayed from his lane, to that of his opponent. The crowd was on its feet as Muir splashed into the water 3 yards behind the Grover anchor man, for the final five laps. Going into the final lap of the event they were neck and neck. Old "blood and guts" Muir spurted and edged in about a yard ahead of his opponent to send the crowd home happy.

The Summary:

300-yard medley relay — Won by Allegheny (Zuberbuhler, Ertle, Schenck). Time—3:22.9.

220-yard freestyle—Won by Muir (A) 2, Etter (G); 3, Enselberg (A). Time—2:37.3.

60-yard freestyle—Won by Hearn (A); 2, Jack (G); 3, McAlevy (A). Time—37.7.

100-yard freestyle—Won by Hearn (A); 2, Hess (G); 3, Case (A). Time—57.1.

150-yard backstroke—Won by Zuberbuhler (A); 2, Wilson (A); 3, Pagnelli (G). Time—1:49.1.

200-yard breaststroke—Won by Ertle (A); 2, Mount (G); 3, May (G). Time—2:52.4.

440-yard freestyle—Won by Conaway (G); 2, Etter (G); 3, Sayre (A). Time—5:48.4.

400-yard freestyle relay—Won by Allegheny (Case, Perry, Schenck, Muir). Time—4:06.4.

INTRAMURALS

In what possibly was the showdown game for first place in the Intra-fraternity Volleyball League, an aggressive, well co-ordinated Delt sextet decisively defeated the previously undefeated Phi Psi team on Monday night, December 11.

During the initial minutes of the first set, the play was close and heated, but after breaking a 6-6 tie, the Delts moved quickly ahead to take the set 15-9. The second and winning set turned into a rout as the Delts racked up nine quick counters before the Phi Psis were able to score. The victorious Delt team was made up of Gus Elias, Bud Schorr, Ray Cook, Tom Hares, Arnie Lewis and Phil Willmarth.

Other volleyball action during the week showed Phi Gams defeating Theta Chi, Phi Psi over Phi Gams, Sigs over Theta Chi and Chi Rho, Phi Delts over Commons, and Delts over Theta Chi and Phi Psi.

The standings as of Monday, December 11, are as follows:

	Won	Lost
Delts	4	0
Phi Psis	3	1
Phi Gams	3	1
Sigs	3	1
Phi Delts	2	1
Theta Chi	1	3
Chi Rho	0	4

Male Choral Concert Sponsored By I. F. C. To Be Held In Chapel

Male choral groups interested in competing in the I.F.C. sponsored Ensemble Consert, to be presented January 17 in Ford Chapel, must be registered by December 14, stated Bill McClung, chairman of the concert committee.

The groups may organize and register under one of two divisions: quartettes, and choral groups of not more than twelve, both exclusive of accompianist.

At time of registering, the groups must each list three songs that they can sing, in order to avoid endless repitition of the same songs.

The groups do not have to represent fraternities. It is hoped, however, that each faternity will be represented. Freshman and independent groups are eligible and welcome.

The organizations may enter as many groups as they wish. However, individual members of these organizations may participate in one group only in each of the two divisions.

Registration is to be made to Bill McClung and turned into Brooks desk. Each organization entering the contest must appoint a man to serve on the main planning committee.

There will be an admission charge of twenty-five cents plus tax.

Close Game Expected As Allegheny Five Faces Juniata Here On Friday Night

The courtmen of Allegheny College will be out for victory number one of the current campaign when they meet the Juniata College Indians of Huntingdon, Pa., in Montgomery gymnasium on Friday evening, December 16. The game is scheduled to begin at eight o'clock and admission may be gained by presenting student activity cards at the door.

Juniata-Grove City Tangle Tonight

The Juniata team, which plays Grove City tonight, will journey to Meadville with a record somewhat similar to that of the Gators. Before the Grove City game, the Indians have dropped games to Lycoming, Bucknell, and Elizabethtown, and have yet to taste victory.

Last year, the Juniatans, coached by Arnold "Doc" Greene, won but four games, while losing thirteen. One of their four victories was over Allegheny on their home court by a 54-48 score.

This year's Indian squad is composed of five upperclass veterans, five freshmen, and a pair of transfer students.

Team Led by Korody

The starting five is led by Forward and Captain Ray Korody, a 6'1" senior, who last season ranked third in team scoring with 117 points in 17 games. In the other forward slot is 6'1" Leo Kuhn. The guards are 5'8", Lindy Lashaivo, Indian grid star, and 5'10" Jack Dickey. Dave Bayer, 6'3" senior, holds down the center position.

Coach Greene, who at the offset of the season remarked that "this team is inexperienced, but I expect a few upsets throughout the season", uses a set-play offense and employs his own "HAZ" defense.

Gator Coach Al Werner expects to start the same five men who went against Edinboro and Westminister. That is, Art Lowrie and Rink Kofford at guards, Bill Courtney and Don Weaver at forwards, and "Bud" McIndoe at center.

The Indian-Gator game should prove to be interesting as they will be going into the tilt with fairly even records.

Two Varsity Records Fall As Mermen Lose To Oberlin Team, 40-26

A powerful and well balanced Oberlin tank team invaded Allegheny on Tuesday afternoon, December 12, and handed the Gators a 40-26 loss. This victory was the twenty-third in succession for the impressive Yeoman swimmers.

Two Allegheny varsity records fell in the Oberlin meet. Freshman Chet Hearn churned to a new 60-yard dash record of 31.3 eclipsing the previous 31.4 mark held by last years Captain Virgil Sayre. The promising Hearn also had a hand in setting the new varsity record for the 400-yard freestyle relay. The quartet of Al Case, Ward Schenk, John Muir, and Hearn toured the twenty laps in 3:53.7.

Other Gator point getters were Captain Bob Zuberbuhler and Reggie Wilson, who placed 2,3 in the 200-yard backstroke, Hearn, who also was touched out in the 100-yard freestyle, Muir, who placed second in the 220 and third in the 100, and Shorty Nelson and Don Sayre.

Children's Lit Class Offers Radio Program

Members of the children's literature class, under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth L. Statlander, are participating in the radio program entitled "The Modern Story Teller", heard over station WMGW each Saturday morning from 9:45 to 10:00.

In preparation for the broadcasts, all members of the class have written thirteen-and-a-half minute radio scripts on stories published since 1940. Nancy Reid, Bill Luttrell, Nancy Maxwell, and Joanne Dilley have been the story-tellers thus far. This Saturday, December 16, Bebe Dodsworth will relate the tale of "Miss Flora McFlimsy's Christmas."

Edinboro, Westminster Defeat Gator Cagers By Decisive Scores

After dropping the 1950 basketball opener to Edinboro College on Wednesday, December 6, by a 64-52 count, the Allegheny College cagers invaded the confines of Westminster College on Saturday night, December 9, and were greeted with an 81-42 drubbing at the hands of Coach Grover Washabaugh's "Towering Titans." The Gators proved to be a formidable foe for the Teachers, but Westminster certainly hails from a different league.

Sophomore center, "Bud" McIndoe paced the Hilltop offense in the Edinboro game, as he registered 19 points, scoring mostly on jump shots from inside the key. Bill Courtney and Don Weaver each collected 10 markers, while Art Lowrie hit for eight. But it was Edinboro's Keith Nicolls who was high-point man for the evening as he ripped the cords from all angles to rack up 21 points and individual scoring honors. Pivot-man Bob Mc Veigh had 14 while Will Richardson chalked up 10 counters for the Red Raider cause.

After the Gators outscored Edinboro 17-8 in the third quarter, they entered the final period trailing by a 43-36 margin. However, the Teachers quickly meshed six quick buckets and held a comfortable lead until the gun sounded.

Titans Outclass Gators

After the opening minutes of the Westminster contest, it was evident that the speed, height, skill, and class of the Titans were just too much for the young Allegheny five. The score at the end of the first quarter read 22-10, and at the half, 43-20. Guard Jerry Sybert poured through 10 goals and one foul shot to lead the Titans scoring parade with 21 points. Don Myers had 16 and center Pat King, 11, to pad the the Westminster total.

Snyder High Point-Man

Ed Snyder captured Allegheny scoring honors by making 3 field goals and 6 foul shots for 12 points. "Bud" McIndoe was hog-tied by the Westminster sky scrapers all evening, but did score 10 points. Freshman Chuck Kindig tallied eight markers.

Gator Junior Varsity Hoopsters In 39-33 Victory Over Titans

A surprising Allegheny Junior Varsity five, which had failed to show much promise in previous practices, gave Allegheny its first basketball victory of the season as they downed the Westminster J.V.'s 39-33. The J.V. game was the preliminary to the varsity encounter at Westminster on Saturday evening, December 9.

J. V.'s Lead Throughout Game

The Blue and Gold freshman took the lead from the first jump and kept it througout the game. The score at halftime read 21-13, and 29-25 after three periods. The Titan frosh tied it up 31-31 in the last quarter, but Allegheny's juniors again took the lead and finished six points ahead.

Rangy center, Bob "Buckets" Buck, led the J.V. attacks with 16 points followed by rugged Dom Mattei who had 10.

The Junior Varsity will resume its schedule after the Christmas holidays.

Newspapers To Be Sold At Christmas Formal

Dr. Louis T. Benezet, Dr. L. J. Long, Mr. Glenn Timmons, and Mr. Harvey Herring will be selling Friday editions of the Meadville Evening Republican at the dance tomorrow night, in conjunction with the Jimmy Moore Christmas Toy Fund being held in Meadville.

The drive, under the direction of the Meadville Fire Department, must yield $1,265 from collection boxes and sales downtown, plus the College sales. This money will be used to provide toys and other traditional Yuletide gifts for approximately 356 Meadville area children whose Christmas might otherwise be a bleak one. These children are recommended by Judge Herbert A. Mook and Miss Stafford of the Children's Aid Bureau.

Bethesda Home Represented With Gusto At Phi Delt Christmas Party For Kids

by Kent Allison

It was two o'clock last Saturday when a big orange bus rolled up the Phi Delt driveway packed from stem to stern with children from the Bethesda Home.

"Here they are," someone yelled, and we all hurriedly made ready to welcome the kids.

Betty McNemar's quizzical expression indicated she was wandering when the procession would end. "Sixty-eight, sixty nine, seventy, seventy-one, seventy-two. Wow! Whata mob."

The kids, making themselves right at home, proceeded to inspect every cranny and nook of the house. With clasped hands, groups made their way up and down the stairs while asking questions and making statements.

". . . And how do you like that chandelier up there?"

"Boy, it's nice. Does it ever fall down?"

Meanwhile, Bill Glenn was shouting, "Everyone down stairs here, we'd like to start a game." Lickety-split, the gang filled up the main room and seated themselves in a wide circle around Bill.

"We're going to play a game with these hats," he said, "and I need twelve boys." Immediately he was besieged, and we could tell that all the kids felt right at home. Before the game was over there was much shouting and hollering and laughing. When little Donnie won, a roar of approval went up.

Suddenly we heard a bell ringing, Santy John Brydon was coming. Excited shouts of joy and gaiety greeted him as he tumbled into the midst of the kids, carrying his large, cumbersome sack over his shoulder.

"Well, isn't this a fine looking group of boys and girls," he bellowed. "How about a candy cane for you, and you, and you." With outstretched hands, the children gathered around Santa Claus, and in no time at all, each one had a striped cane in his hand. When Santa asked what they wanted to sing, they replied as a group, "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer." And so we did.

The famed Crud-room quartet formed in the doorway, and all eyes were on them as Dave Barkley stepped forward to say, "We're going to sing you a story of a little boy, a tack, and the teacher." We all liked their singing.

"And now," said Santa, "Let's all go into the next room and have some refreshments, but let the kiddies go first!"

Eagerly they formed a line as we doled out the ice cream, cupcakes and cookies as fast as we could. Little Donnie had miraculously made his way to the front of the line, and even though his shirt tail

IRC Discusses Plans For Model UN Meeting To Be Held In Spring

At its meeting on December 7, the International Relations Club decided upon three nations that it would like to represent at the Model UN meeting to be held at Beaver College next spring.

India was the club's first choice, with Yugoslavia and Sweden as second and third choices. As soon as it is decided which nation IRC will represent, all its members will start on extensive research problems to thoroughly acquaint themselves with the views of that nation.

The club feels that the three nations they have chosen are all fairly independent, and thus the club will be free to make its own propositions rather than merely stating the views of the United States or Russia.

The next regular meeting of the IRC will take place Thursday night, January 4, at the home of Dr. Benezet. The topic for discussion will be fear. The club has requested that only those members who have already paid their dues come to this meeting. The following week the club will hear Dr. Ross speak on Bernard Shaw.

Singers--Chapel Choir Christmas Concert Registers Successfully Again On Campus

By John Robinson

On Sunday afternoon at Ford Memorial Chapel an outstanding musical event took place—the annual Christmas concert of the Allegheny Singers and Chapel Choir, under the direction of Professors Morten Luvaas and Robert Johnson. This concert has come to be regarded as one of the high points of a student's musical experience at Allegheny, and indeed forms an integral part of the school's tradition.

There are certain undeniable factors which influence the average person to attend this particular concert. First of all, he may expect to hear a perfectly disciplined choral group which maintains a delicate, true balance among its various choirs. Here is no Metropolitan-like pulling and tugging for honors. Each voice is subordinated to the final crystal-clear expression of the chorus in its "whole". This chorus has succeeded in capturing the infinitely varied tones of the organ, and if the group is not the complete master of the majestry of that instrument at its full power, at least it possesses its finely intergrated tones and classic simplicity.

Apart from the obviously superior musical qualities of the concert, the spectator must pay tribute to the physical production which aids in creating the suitable atmosphere for the concert. Even an Agnes de Mille would envy the good taste, the perfect timing and coordination which lie behind the scenes. What impresses the concert-goer most is the discretion of the physical atmosphere; how well it keeps its appointed place in the background, and yet succeeds in complementing and finally exalting the chorus itself. From the solemn lighting of the candles to the gradual dying out of the blue Christmas-tree lights, the spectator views an altar transformed by pines barely concealing the subtle play of lights which give the vaulted ceiling the ethereal, limitless quality of the sky in all its changing aspects. Leonard Oechsli Leads Allegheny In Special Peace Prayer Service

At a special prayer service held in the Chapel last Friday, Dr. Leonard Oechsli, head of the Methodist mission in Hawaii, spoke to 500 Alleghenians on the topic 'What Hope Is There For Peace".

"Hysteria in the face of this adversity is a betrayal of our faith," said Dr. Oechsli. He called the belief in physical force "a negative approach", and said that only "prayer, and a return to God are our hope for peace."

According to Dr. Oechsli, we have put our faith in the army and the atom bomb—these things which will only ultimately destroy us. "We ought to be praying in this tragic hour that God will lift up leaders," he said.

Dr. Oechsli told his audience that "we instinctively pray when the problems that face us go beyond our wisdom. Never before have I felt more that there was a spirit of prayer in the hearts of the common people."

After the service, Dr. Louis T. Benezet dispatched the following telegram to President Truman and to Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations:

"The faculty and student body of Allegheny College met this morning at special chapel service to offer prayers for world peace in deep awareness that peoples of this earth—Americans, Europeans and Chinese alike—yearn for release from the terror and destruction of war. We prayed to Almighty God to grant our leaders courage, wisdom and forbearance to join in the solution of this, and future crises, by peaceful means.

"(Signed) Dr. Louis T. Benezet, president, Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa."

Literary Magazine To Appear After Vacation

Elise Schacht, editor, has announced that the winter issue of the Literary Magazine will be ready for distribution the week following the Christmas recess. The publication will include five short stories, two essays, and a selection of poetry.

An original cover has been designed for the issue by Virgie Lou Oehmler, and the name Calliope discarded in view of the change. Colored block letters will be used throughout the magazine. Full page illustrations will be utilized in preference to the scattered sketches of past publications.

SINGERS CONCERT

we say that the unsung mastermind behind these effects should be publically recognized.

The Chapel Choir opened the program with selections which might be deemed more "popular" than those immediately to follow. The overflow audience first heard the joyful echoes of "The First Noel" and other traditional Christmas music; then the dainty, mechanical ringing of "The Carol of the Bells;" and finally "The Sheperd's Story," sung with full throated sincerety by the chorus and the particularly distinguished by the tenor solo of Robert Barkley.

The talents of the Singers were then put into play with a program which seemed on the whole quiet and reflective, as befits the true Christmas spirit. We liked Christiansen's "Light Everlasting" for its heartfelt sincerity, and we admired the chorus especially for its interpretation of Howell's "A Spotless Rose," notable for its haunting minor refrain. To fail to give recognition to the delicacy of Luvaas' "Alleluia, Christ is Born", and to the fine soprano solo of Patricia MacEwen in the expressive "Song of Mary" would be neglecting two of the outstanding moments of the concert.

In a hushed chapel, the program terminated with "Silent Night," first sung in full chorus and then echoed from afar as if by heavenly voice.

The silent, respectful attitude of the audience which slowly filed out of the Chapel at the concert's end gave eloquent testimony to the effectiveness and beauty of the afternoon's music.

CHRISTMAS STORY

was out and his tie was crooked, he was still as cute as ever. "Can I go back for more?" he implored of Zack Taylor.

"Sure, you can have all you want," was his answer.

When we broke up for the story-telling by Eileen McDonnell, Betty Ann Graf, Suzie McCreary and Bill Glenn, a quiet settled over the house. As Eileen told her story, little Nancy Palmer sniffed like the ground-hog sniffs, sniffed like a bear sniffs, sniffed like a rabbit sniffs. . . . . .

A big roar from the other room led us all in there. The kids were being royally entertained by Bill Glenn, who was singing that funny Irish song—you know, the one with all the Irish names in it.

"Now tell us a story, Bill."

"What kind of a story do you want to hear?"

"Tell us that one about the zombies that you told us this summer, huh?"

Some of us were wondering how a zombie story would go over at a Christmas Party, but Bill condescended to tell it anyway. He told Bud Cooley that if things got too scarey, he might leave. Bud laughed, but I think Peggy Seib seriously considered the offer.

The story was intriguing and the kids, in fact all of us, were watching Bill as he related the tale of the south Pacific Isle where the zombies live. Everywhere you looked, they were hanging over the balcony railing, on the stairs, on the floor—all learning about the zombies when perhaps "The Night Before Xmas" was in order. As soon as all the zombies were taken care of, we decided to end up with one big song: "McNamara's Band."

Bill sang the verses and we all joined in on the chorus. But there it was almost five, and the bus was back again to pick up the gang. With coats and hats, and with hands clasped for last time, we walked to the door. Volleys of thank you's were hurled at us as the young ones marched out to the bus. Many a Phi Delt was almost taken aboard. As we waved and turned back we faced a topsy-turvey, paper-strewn house—but we felt that perhaps we should thank the kids all the same for a most wonderful and memorable afternoon.

recently, mostly for financial reasons. The cultural mission of the Sinfonietta must now be expanded to fill some of the gaps left in the orchestral scene. It will continue to bring to music-lovers compositions of a high level, and works which are not often heard.
