SEASON'S BEST VICTORY

Old Grudges Against Tech Paid Back With Interest One Week Ago
—Large Body of Alumni Present—Pittsburg Comment

The remembrance of the defeats of previous years was wiped out last Saturday when the Carnegie Tech football team was downed on their own field by the Allegheny eleven in a 27-0 contest. The plaid team was reported several days before the game to be in the "pink of condition" and a drubbing at the hands of the followers of the gold and blue came as a complete surprise.

Never did the peal of Bentley's bell sound better than on last Saturday evening, when it rang out the news of the Carnegie Tech slaughter. The news came on good time, as good news will, and at the first sound of the bell there was a wild and irrespressible desire on the part of everyone to jump in the air and yell. And yell is exactly what every one did. From different places could be heard the resounding pulsations of "Alleghereus" and no sooner did a yell die out in one place than it sprang into life somewhere else. In five minutes every one was as hoarse as if he had been to a game. Twenty-seven to nothing!

At the different fraternity houses and at Cochran Hall and even in private families where a few students held forth there were little groups rejoicing together over the glad tidings. Songs were sung and yells were yelled. But more satisfaction was gotten from the yelling. Little groups here and there yelled till they could yell no more and then looked eyes of joy and whispered speculations as to how the score was made. Twenty-seven to nothing! ! !

The rooting on Saturday was a special feature of the game. Cards has been sent out to the alumni in and around Pittsburg and as a result about two hundred rooters were cheering the team. The Techites never lost heart and kept rooting after the score was beyond reach. Between halves both sides paraded the field. Cheer Leader Harris drew up his forces in an "A" before starting the yells. The following letter of a prominent Pittsburg alumnus who saw the game gives an Alleghenian's idea of it.

"I believe the advertising gained by Allegheny College on Saturday to be the most effective work for the college that has been done in the Pittsburg district in ten years, and all it needed to make it an occasion, such as even Tech's thousand spectators would not forget, was a postal card mailed to each alumnus in Pittsburg a day or two before the game. As it was, about two hundred Alleghenians were present and were fully repaid for going by the splendid work of the team.

"No better interference has been seen in Pittsburg this year, says one critic, and the mere fact that the team 'outweighed' Tech slightly was not the reason for the victory; the fact of the matter is that Tech was outplayed from any and every point of the game. It is regretted that Allegheny with such a team could not have met W. and J. this year. The crowd would have grown hoarse counting the score.

"Something humorous always crops out at every game, and the innuendo in the remark of an urchin who jumped the fence, amused me greatly, 'Oh, you Alley Ginnies!'"

Every man on the Allegheny team played a star game. Lavelly's long end runs were responsible for several touchdowns while the interference put up by W. Dotterer and Miller made it impossible for Tech to break up the plays. Brigham and Kennedy in the tackle positions also featured. For Tech, Dyer was the one brilliant light. Tech's only gains were made by him and his speed saved an extra touchdown.

The Game

A touchdown was made in each of the periods with an extra in the last. Miller missed three of the kicks however and thus kept the score three points lower.

In the first quarter Allegheny received the kick-off and played the whole period in Tech territory. After about five minutes of play Lavelly crossed the line for the first touchdown and Miller kicked goal.

The second period was marked by brilliant runs on the part of the Allegheny players. The period had

A Great Week

Time for Y. M. C. A. Campaign Fast Approaching. Purpose Explained Fully.

The greatest movement in the religious part of college activity in recent years will be the series of special meetings which are to be held during the week beginning November 28. The officials of the Y. M. C. A. have been busy lately completing plans for the week. While the whole scheme is under the supervision of the Men's Association there will be some meetings which may be attended by the women.

At the mid-week prayer service held last Wednesday when the plans for the week were being discussed, J. W. Barkley well expressed the purpose of the services in saying that they were two-fold; to increase the number of students professing Christianity and to make firmer the faith of those already converted. With this end in view the cabinet of the Association is planning to have the meetings attended by every man in school.

Services of some sort will be held on every evening and possibly on some of the afternoons during the week beginning Nov. 28.

During the preceding week ten minute prayer services will be held at the different fraternity houses and at Cochran Hall. The meeting during the second week will as has been announced be in charge of two of the younger alumni of the college, Rev. H. L. Smith '04, now located at Buffalo, N. Y., but formerly at Bellevue, and Rev. Robert E. Brown, '01, of Franklin, Pa.

Those arranging the meetings have requested all the college organizations to suspend activity and to make no plans which would conflict with those of the Y. M. C. A.

Debating League

Intercollegiate Question to be Decided Upon. Debating League Inactive; Dickinson Out of Oratory

With the close of the football season rapidly approaching, the center of attraction among college activities has already begun to shift. Interest is increasing from day to day in the line of forensic pursuits. Plans are being formulated by the officials of the Oratorical Association and the Forum to make this year one of the best and most productive ever seen here.

The executive committee of the Oratorical Association met yesterday afternoon to decide upon the question which Allegheny will submit to the Triangular Debating League for adoption as the 'intercollegiate question'. The meeting was held too late for the publication of the decision. The committee is composed of Dr. Lockwood, Professor Swartley, Miss Spalding, H. M. Weeter, F. H. Callahan and H. R. Hunt. Some of the questions under consideration are the commission form of government, the income tax, and Canadian reciprocity, any one of which would be an excellent subject for intercollegiate debate. A definite decision will be reached by the league before December 1.

An agreement for the Ohio and Pennsylvania Oratorical League comprising the University of Pittsburg, the University of Wooster and Allegheny, has been drawn up by the local officials and submitted to the officers of the league for approval. Dickinson has voluntarily dropped from the league but at an early date another institution will be elected by the league to fill the vacancy.

The Triangular Debating League, which is composed of the University of Pittsburg, University of Wooster and Allegheny will be operated this year in essentially the same manner as last year.

Well Attended

Mission Study Class Draws Many in Spite of Rain.

In spite of the unfavorable conditions Thursday evening about ninety students were present at the meeting of the mission study class. Although this number was below the attendance last week nevertheless it was as large as the total enrollment several years ago.

At the opening of the meeting Mr. Stewart sang a solo. Dr. Coburn gave a visual outline of chapter III, "The Rising Spiritual Tide in the Non-Christian Lands." He pointed out by means of a chart the large gain being made in the Christianization of the heathen world. The increase has been not alone in numbers but in quality and the education of the natives. The sacrifices made by the native converts were pointed out. Dr. Coburn's closing sentence was: "If we do not take advantage of the opportunity that is now given us, we will lose those whom we have."

Bishop Thoburn then took charge of the meeting and gave the second of his missionary lectures. He dwelt on the more encouraging features of mission work and the recent phenomenal growth of the missionary enterprise. In commenting on the scarcity of means and teachers the Bishop told of interviews with missionary workers who in every field promised to get 50,000 converts in a year if $50,000 was appropriated to provide for these converts.

He contrasted these facts with the conditions of his day when, a possible gain of five thousand converts a year would have been considered a wonderful gain. "When fifty thousand people," the speaker continued, "rise up and ask me to preach the gospel, I take the challenge every time."

Perhaps the most interesting feature of Bishop Thoburn's talk was his description of a typical revival in India. The absolute lack of artificiality and the deep feeling of personal relationship with Christ were emphasized as the noteworthy features of the revivals seen by the bishop.

The advance of civilization in India, due to Christian missions was illustrated by a few facts about the introduction of stenography into India through the converted son of very poor parents. Born in the mission school the boy soon learned stenography and typewriting, became a government stenographer, the first in all India, and not long after was earning two hundred and fifty dollars a month.

The Bishop closed his lecture by saying: "I wish you young people would carry it in your minds that you are living in the greatest age of the world. The opportunities before you have never been equalled. May God grant that you will be equal to them."

At the next meeting a report of the latest news from China, Japan and Korea will be made by H. S. Leitzel, while Dr. Coburn will outline the lesson and give the lecture. Miss Bess Emery will sing a solo to the accompaniment of a violin obligato by W. F. Maxwell.

BAD LUCK LOSES GAME

Although Outplayed, Westminster Wins Annual Contest by Close Score of 6-3—Both Schools Largely Represented

The field was in ideal condition for the gridiron battle. The light rain which fell in the morning only laid the dust and made the ground firm. A high wind however might be blamed for Allegheny's failure to score more field goals as several tries were deflected just enough from their course to miss the uprights.

Following the decisive victory of Saturday came the defeat on Tuesday by Westminster, 6-3. A special train over the Bessemer carried considerably more than a hundred loyal Allegheny rooters to Sharon. Westminster also had a large number of rooters, the "co-eds" being particularly noticeable. The college band headed the Allegheny procession while the less fortunate followers of the blue and white were compelled to hire the Buhl Rifles' Band.

Unbiased spectators on the side lines gave the contest unquestionably to Allegheny. Westminster was clearly outclassed yet a fluke enabled them to score. As someone remarked after the game Allegheny won the game—all but the score.

Neither side scored during the first period but only a few minutes of the second quarter had gone, when Allegheny's 3 points were registered. Captain Lavelly's men chased the ball down the field until it hugged the twenty-five yard line. Hawk stepped back and booted a drop kick fair between the goal posts.

"Yanto" Lewis a little black haired prep on Captain Mansell's eleven thought the game a little listless about this time and attempted to shine forth before his home folks by introducing some fancy uppercuts. An inconsiderate official invited "Yanto" to the sidelines and changed the location of the ball some thirty-five yards. The half ended soon after with Allegheny in the lead 3 to 0.

The third quarter although without a score was featured by the long gains made by Perley, Dotterer and Miller. Seth, who had been substituted for Johnson tore off two thirty-five yard runs, making besides some smaller gains. "Bill" and "Bugs" on fake plays carried the pigskin straight through the line for ten yards at a time. These long gains soon brought the playing within eight yards of the Westminster goal posts but, as a player remarked afterward, "they played like fools when their goal line was in danger." This happened here and on the third down the ball changed hands. Ashton at once punted out of danger.

The fourth quarter was played in much the same manner as the others. Allegheny was making long gains and the line was holding in fine shape. On the third down, when the ball as about in the center of the field, Westminster resorted to an onside kick. Ashton was off with the ball and when the ball falling short got away from the Allegheny ends the speedy guard gathered it in and was off for a sensational touchdown.

Journalism

An Unusual Opportunity Given the Student Body to Hear a Remarkable Series of Lectures.

College journalism will receive a share of attention some time toward the end of this semester when a series of lectures will be given on "The College and the Press" by Dr. Charles M. Stuart. Dr. Stuart is the editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate, one of the influential papers of the Methodist Church. He is a journalist of some note and holds quite a reputation as a lecturer, especially on subjects relating to the press.

The series is divided into five lectures:

- I. The Development of the Newspaper.
- II. The College Opportunity in American Journalism.
- III. The Social and Moral Responsibilities of the Newspaper.
- IV. Writing for the Newspaper.
- V. Reading the Newspaper to Advantage.

Buchtel at Akron

Today's Game Will be Played Against a Formidable Antagonist.

Probably the most disastrous game of the football game season, so far as Allegheny is concerned, will be the contest at Akron, O., this afternoon with the strong Buchtel College team. Coach Stewart is entertaining no hope of winning, especially since the local eleven is in a crippled condition.

The team left last night for Akron so as to be in good condition for the game today. Practically the same squad as that which went to Pittsburg for the Tech game went on the trip. It is feared by the coach that owing to the poor condition of some of the men, all the substitutes will have to be used. Kennedy, who is suffering with a bad leg, has been in the hospital during the past week and it is doubtful if he will be in the game at all. The injuries to his leg were received in the Tech game last Saturday.

Hare and Hounds

Track Athlete Describes Second Chase in an Interesting Manner

The second of the fall and winter series of Hare-and-Hound chases took place last Saturday afternoon, while our football team was annihilating the Scotchmen of the Smoky City. The weather was a little milder than the blizzard of the week before, and a larger number of men participated. There were fourteen men on the two teams. The hares were led by Van Horn, and the hounds by Sayre. The run was faster than the week before, partly because of the better natural conditions, and partly because of the better condition of the men. On account of a technical misunderstanding of the rules governing the chase, it was decided that the decision should not be awarded to either team.

The cross-country chases, which are an innovation this fall, are very popular, and are apt to be even more so after next week, when gymnasium classes will be organized and all underclassmen will be obliged to choose between indoor and outdoor exercise. The third chase will come off this afternoon. The indications at the time of going to press are that it will be a real rabbit chase through several inches of snow.

THE COLLEGE AND THE CITY.

Is Allegheny College a parasite in the city of Meadville? Do the citizens receive adequate returns for their generous support of our school? We think they do. We told the merchant when we asked for his ad that it was not a donation we were asking for, but a business proposition which we were presenting. We found those not already convinced open to conviction. You can help in opening their eyes to the truth. The belief that we are not spongers but customers whose trade is worth while will not only help the management of this paper, which we hope is not in itself an objectionable thing; it will make more cordial all relations between students and citizens. Say to the merchant: "I saw your ad in the Campus."

DEFEAT BUT NOT DISHONOR.

Another trip to Sharon and another memorable game has become Allegheny history. And although the gold and blue was defeated it was a defeat without the sting of dishonor. Allegheny need never look back on the election day game of 1910 with shame. Superior in every respect but luck, Captain Lavelly's eleven, carried away from Sharon more glory than their victorious rivals.

It is with infinite satisfaction that we reflect that Allegheny played a fair, square game, above board. For while the Westminster boys played hard they also played fistic football in addition to the game, sanctioned by the Intercollegiate Rules committee. Surely no more striking commentary of the evils of playing preps in college games could be cited than the case of Lewis, the Westminster end who was disqualified for slugging. Any college that scours the surrounding country for secondary school material and then plays such men contrary to plainly understood regulations can expect to be disgraced by exhibitions similar to the one furnished by Lewis.

Lest there be any mistake let it be plainly understood that we are not making excuses, but are pointing out a few things that Westminster did not carry off the field with their victory. We were beaten but never mind. The team that lined up against Westminster Tuesday did not have a Senior on it. Our time is coming, Westminster, and when it comes, look out.

JOURNALISM

Journalism is already included in the curriculum of many colleges. Although such a course is not given at Allegheny yet sufficient opportunity is given for training in this particular field.

No better practice can be found anywhere than a year or two of competition for a position on the staff of one of the college publications. The value of such a course here has already been recognized by the faculty to the extent that college credit is given to the five higher editors on the Campus.

The practical work of the competitor will now be supplemented by the theoretical side. The one is valueless without the aid of the other. Those competing will not alone be benefitted but the whole of the student body interested in literary work of any kind. Dealing as they do with the most important phases of journalistic work they are of the most vital importance. Dr. Crawford considers the series of lectures by Dr. Stuart among the most important college lectures given this year.

KALDRON.

On last Wednesday, the first meeting of the 1911 Kaldron board was held. Of course Mr. Nelson presided and held the boards for a good part of the meeting. It was promptly and unanimously decided that this board was not only the most efficient and most aptly chosen but also the best looking board which ever attempted to issue a college annual. One of the members—whose name we refrain mentioning—wanted to sit for the picture at that very time, but the more conservative judgment of the others restrained him. However, the most important business to come before the meeting being over, some matters relating to the publication of the book were discussed.

Editor Nelson has begun work on the planning of the book and confidently expects, with the help of his board, to make the annual the best ever published here. The Kaldron box in Bentley has been put in shape so that he is now perfectly willing and glad to receive any copy or material of any kind to be submitted for the publication. He says that he will also welcome suggestions as to the form and manner of the book. It is the intention of the board to get the book out about the middle of May, which is three or four weeks before it usually makes its appearance.

One of the features of this year's work on the book is that a number of prizes are to be offered for the best work. These have not been definitely arranged yet, but will be announced soon. Prizes, it is said, are to be given for the best suggestions for the preparation of the several departments, for the best material on assigned subjects, and in fact for many things. The nature of the prizes has not yet been determined.

Samuel Firestone, Jr., who has for the past two months been attending Jefferson Medical School, Philadelphia, has enrolled in the Freshman class.

Miss Oma Stoner, Miss Lucy Loane and Miss Ruth Kelly were the hostesses at the "Senior Tea" Thursday afternoon. The tea was poured by Miss McKnight and Miss Sadie VanHoesen. As usual a large number of guests were present. College and popular melodies were sung.

The Student Volunteer meeting was in charge of Miss Sproule last Wednesday afternoon. She opened with a discussion of the administration of the foreign missionary boards and also spoke of the appointment of missionaries. The qualifications insisted on by the boards were dwelt on at length.

Several post cards and one letter have been received from Miss Rachael Cousins, '06, since she left to take up foreign missionary work in Chile, South America. She acknowledged the receipt of the flowers sent her by the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet. She also expressed her appreciation of the letters sent by Allegheny friends for her to read on board ship.

The mid-week prayer service in the Y. M. C. A. room last Wednesday evening was led by R. B. Litten. He said that in this age of more or less doubt and many new ideas we should not lose our faith in Christianity. There are doubtless many things about the Bible which we cannot understand, but it's right that it should be so and we ought not to expect to understand all. We must have faith. At the close of his talk others took part in the discussion, speaking mainly about the plans for these special meetings which are referred to in another column.

A meeting of the Duzer Du was held on Friday November 4 at which a good representation of the club was present. The chief matter discussed was in regard to the selection of a play for the following year. Claire Hilborn being the chairman of a committee for this purpose gave a report of the plays considered. It is possible that a Shakespearean comedy will be attempted by the club although this is by no means definitely decided. It is the expectation of the organization to come to a decision in regard to the style of the play whether modern or classic at the next meeting.

The Y. W. C. A. service on Wednesday evening was led by Mrs. Charles J. Ling. Mrs. Ling took as her subject, "The Things in Life Worth While," and read several helpful and illustrative extracts from "Things Worth While." In her remarks Mrs. Ling said that no matter in what environment we may be placed, it is always our part to do the best that we can and make the most out of our lives. It is a comforting thought to remember that we all are placed in this particular environment because of the good which we may accomplish here. Hence worry, impatience and fretful care should be banished forever from our thoughts and lives.

ALUMNI

Last Sunday evening Miss Helen Dungan, 10, went to Edinboro where she has obtained a position teaching in the Normal School.

An item in the last number of the Pittsburg Christian Advocate tells about the return from abroad of F. A. Arter, '64, the president of the board of trustees. Two hours after he arrived in Cleveland he appeared in the Methodist Sunday School where he has been teacher and superintendent for forty-four years. He was enthusiastically greeted with a Chautauqua salute.

Dr. Ephraim Miller, '55, professor of mathematics and astronomy in the University of Kansas, holds the record for the longest continuous service of any teacher in Kansas. He has taught every year for sixty-two years. He began teaching when fourteen years old and by this means made his way through Allegheny College. He has taught in Lawrence for forty years, having first held the position as supervisor of city schools and then four years later being called to the chair of mathematics in the University. Nineteen years ago the chair of astronomy was established and Professor Miller has filled it since that time.

Miss Julia Heibel, '09, who has been at the Warner Settlement House, in Baltimore, during the summer has taken up her work as a teacher in the New York Juvenile Asylum, New York City.

PAN-HELLENIC PARTY

Last night the three women's fraternities, Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Alpha Chi Omega, gave a party for the girls of the Freshmen class. The function was given at the Seagertown Inn under the direction of the women's Pan-Hellenic committee.

A special car took the merry-makers to Seagertown at half past seven and returned late in the evening.

A NOTABLE PLAY.

Some idea of the profound impression that Clyde Fitch's great play, "The City," has made upon thinking people, may be gleaned by the opinions publicly expressed by two such prominent men as Professor William Lyon Phelps, professor of English and Dramatic Literature, at Yale University, and Professor George P. Baker, occupying a similar position at Harvard. The former gentleman wrote that he considered it, "The most powerful drama ever composed by an American." Not only is it thrilling, but it is a drama that has the driving force of a great idea. Professor Baker stated that he considered "The City" a "noble play perfectly acted." Surely such expressions from such sources should leave no doubt in the public mind as to the great treat in store for them when "The City" is presented at the Academy of Music on Friday night, November 18.

PITTSBURG ORCHESTRA.

Interest in the appearance of the Pittsburg Symphony Orchestra, Carl Bernthal, conductor and Franz Kohler, which will take place at the Academy of Music, on Monday evening, increases as the evening of the performance draws near. Nothing of the kind ever arranged for Meadville has seemed to please the general public as this affair which is scheduled for next Monday and the sale of tickets has been unusually large.

A number of good seats still remain unsold, however, and those desiring to attend this really fine performance had best select their locations at the earliest possible moment.

Seat prices range from 50 cents to $2.00, and are on sale at box office.

ALDEN OUTWEIGHED.

Captain Smith's Team Puts up Plucky Fight Against Heavy Odds.

Outweighed many pounds to the man, the Alden Academy team put up a plucky fight against the champion Conneaut, Ohio, aggregation on last Saturday, but lost by a score of 25 to 0. This score is by no means a true estimate of the two teams. In the first quarter Alden outplayed their opponents and advanced the ball slowly but constantly to the enemy's two yard line, where it was lost. In the entire half Conneaut could succeed in entire half Conneaut could succeed in scoring but one. In the third quarter, however, the experience of the Ohio lads began to show itself, and before the close of the quarter four more touchdowns had been registered. In the concluding quarter Alden came back strong and held their opponents.

The entire Alden team played a plucky game against the odds.

Captain Smith, until he was forced to leave the game on account of injuries, was in the game every minute. Alden was also weakened by the injury of half-back Gilbert, which necessitated his removal early in the game. Alden has two more games scheduled. On October 19 the team will play Greenville High School and on Thanksgiving Day will go either to Slippery Rock State Normal or to Warren Pa.

The summary and line up follow:

Miss Marguerite Sheldahl who introduced the speakers mentioned the importance of college and city associations co-operating.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

The attendance at Forum on Thursday afternoon broke all records for this year. A good question and a good debate brought up the interest. R. K. Conaway and Brockway upheld the affirmative and Sparling and Van Horn the negative of the question discussed.

The next question is: Resolved that the cities of the United States should adopt the Des Moines plan of commission government. The debaters are, affirmative, J. G. Lane and Askey; negative, Callahan and Beck.

SEASON'S BEST VICTORY.

scarcely begun, when Lavelly, aided by the finest kind of interference, skirted Tech's left end for forty yards. The interference scattered the plaids in all directions and had it not been for Dyer, the plucky little end, the goal would have been crossed. This run however did not result in a touchdown and Hawk was forced to punt. A little later Johnson was given the pigskin and aided by the splendid interference of Miller and Dotterer he ran sixty yards for a touchdown. Miller failed at goal, making the score 11-0.

The Tech team started off the third period with a flourish and managed to break up a number of the plays. The ball passed from side to side and finally Dyer brought it to the twenty-five yard line, the nearest that the Tech eleven came to Allegheny's goal. A forward pass was then tried by the Tech team but a fumble resulted. Both sides made wild grabs for it on the open field. Finally Perley was seen to emerge from the crowd with a clear field for Tech's goal. Dyer started after him and after a run of fifty yards downed him in the twenty yard line. After several plays Lavelly crossed the line.

The last period was little more than practice for Allegheny. Long end runs and line plunges soon brought the ball over the line. Miller kicked the last try at goal. Following is the lineup and summary:

day and while they are not serious enough to make his confinement in the hospital imperative, it was thought that by this procedure he might be gotten in condition for the game today. Coach Stewart said a few days ago that he would not be able to tell till shortly before the game whether Kennedy would go in or not, and that he would not be used unless necessary. It is also doubtful whether Townsend, the plucky little end, will play. He has been suffering for some time with a sore leg in addition to the injuries to his ribs. It is almost a certainty that Johnson, the speedy half, will be out of the contest because of the injuries to his already weak shoulder sustained in the Tech game. "Bill" Dotterer is also in poor condition, but he will likely play.

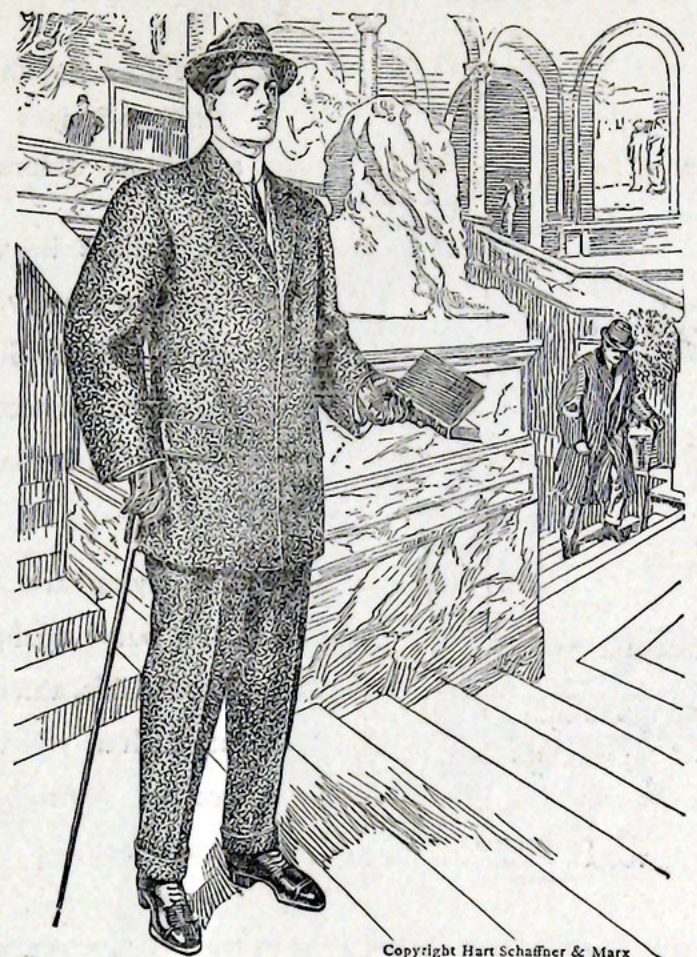

The Butchel team is recognized as one of the strongest aggregations in Ohio and their record thus far this season is indicative of their ability to handle the pigskin. They defeated Mt. Union 6-3, Hiram 40-0, Oberlin 3-0, and lost to Western Reserve 7-0. These scores seem to show that Butchel has been strengthened since last year when they defeated Allegheny 5-0.

Coach Stewart said that if the team as a whole had not been bungled up so much in the past few weeks and was in perfect condition for the game, there might be some chance for a victory, but that under the existing circumstances, he could not see how Allegheny could win. The lineup will be the same as that used in the Tech and Westminster games with the exceptions of the changes noted.
