Presidential Candidates: Bing Ewalt, Dean McFall, Ben Greer.

ASG Elections Next Week; Ewalt, Greer, McFall Run

by Ruth Hoerner and Sandy De Marino

Elections for ASG officers will be held Monday and Tuesday. To help the student body to know better the candidates for major offices, the Campus interviewed the nominees, obtaining their more important activities and any views they would like to put before the student body.

President

Three men students are running for next year's ASG president. They are Bing Ewalt, Ben Greer, and Dean McFall. Bing was treasurer of his freshman class, chairman of the freshman men's fund-raising committee in his freshman class, sophomore class president, and has played on the soccer team for three years. Presently, he is Vice-president of Student Affairs, a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon (vice-president last year), and a student counselor. Bing's objective is to build more of a "community and college spirit" at Allegheny through the various organizations.

Ben Greer's activities include Vice-president of Educational Affairs, Phi Delta Theta, and student counselling, and various varsity sports. He has also been a representative to AUC and was president of his freshman class. Ben would like to see an "increase in the Honor System, further reorganization of the publication on campus concerning policy making, an increase in the number of foreign ambassadors, an exchange program with a foreign university, and more enthusiasm in the student government."

Objecting to a platform because of its possible use as an expedient, Dean McFall, stated that his overall aim would be to advance the idea of a college community, reducing the petty conflicts which exist on campus. Dean feels this community would make possible a more pleasant atmosphere in which to live and study. Dean is chairman of the Honor Committee, an ASG representative, former chairman of the Foreign Student Committee and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Educational Affairs

Two candidates are up for Vice-president of Educational Affairs: Tom Clark and Willie Cutler. Tom is Junior Class President, a Phi Delt, a member of Singers, former member of the Human Relations Committee, a member of the Honor Committee, and a student counselor. He has expressed hopes for action in all areas under educational affairs. Some of his goals would be the definite initiation of an exchange program with Southern universities such as Howard or Fisk; continuing exploration of possible course changes, and further investigation of chances for better study conditions on campus. Also, Tom wants to work with the editors of the Campus, the Kaldron, and the Lit Mag to continue the quality of these publications and possibly to expand the format of the Lit Mag. With the Human Relations Committee, he would further explore discrimination at Allegheny, and work toward definite alleviation of these problems. As a member of the Honor Committee, he has said he would like to work for an expansion and extension of this program.

To arouse more interest, enthusiasm, and participation in Allegheny's student government is Willie Cutler's aim if he is elected Vice-president of Educational Affairs. More specifically, one of Willie's proposals is scheduling exams over the semester to prevent several tests from falling within one or two weeks. He was president of his Freshman Class, with a vote in ASG, and was head of Sophomore Court this year, and is a member of Phi Kappa Psi.

National and International Affairs

Ben Andrews, Diane Duntley, Marty Goldberg, and Dave Middleton are running for Vice-president of National and International Affairs. Ben has been a class officer for two years; he is now treasurer of the Sophomore Class. He has served on ASG committees, is a political science major, and a member of Phi Delta Theta. Ben has been interested in national and international affairs for some time. He stated that he would like to help improve the foreign student program here, attempting more foreign students and integrating them more into campus life.

Diane has been a member of the Kaldron staff for three years, this year being Senior Class Editor. In ASG she has been independent women's representative, on the fund drive committee for freshmen, a member of the Activities Committee and a representative for the NSA Educational Program. She is also a member of ASCA. Diane would like to see strengthened, the areas of fund drive, Allegheny's connection with the National Student Association, and students' awareness of opportunities available to them in many fields.

ASG National Affairs Committee chairman, Marty Goldberg will emphasize President Kennedy's Peace

Smith, Solomen Win Porter Prizes

The annual Porter Prize competition was held in Ford Chapel on Thursday, March 9. Two fifty dollar prizes were awarded, one to the winning vocalist, the other to the best instrumentalist. Student ballots chose Linda Smith, who sang "Benedictus", and Larry Solomon, playing "Jeux d'eau" on the piano, as the winners. Sara Anson, singing "One Fine Day," and Judy Robinson, presenting Beethoven's "Romance for Violin, Op. 50, were selected as second place winners. Third were Lynne Farr, who sang "Summertime," and pianist Sue Werner, who played Gershwin's "Three Preludes." Other competing vocalists included Nancy Falor, Ruth Hawthorne, Janet Hout, Carol Laundy, and Janet Miller. Instrumentalists participating were Jeannette Harrington, Rita Kopanic, and Jocelyn Jordan.

Ruth Ann Brown, Sue Greene, Doris Holmes, Betty Jack, and Janna Jones served as accompanists, and Mr. North acted as master of ceremonies.

New AWS Officers: Gloria Gill, Jan Miller, Mary Thompson, Beth Sutherland, JoAnn McCalister.

Thompson Heads 1961-62 AWS Sutherland Is Vice President

Elections for the officers of the Associated Women's Students of Allegheny were held last week. Chosen as President for the 1961-1962 college year was Mary Thompson, presently a student counselor at South Hall. Her opponents for the position were Jan Porter and Nancy Fahnestock.

The office of First Vice-President will be held by Beth Sutherland, also a South Hall counselor. Sue Chadwick and Maya Monsour were also nominees for the offce. Sophomore Jan Miller was elected as second vice-president on a ballot which included Gay Cushner and Mary Baird.

Gloria Gill was chosen as treasurer of the organization, over Ardith Summerfield and Joan Ruffing. The office of secretary will be filled by JoAnn McCalister who won over her freshmen opponents, Lana Hough and Joyce Corl.

President-elect Mary Thompson and first vice-president Beth Sutherland will attend the upcoming International Convention of the Associated Women Students, to be held at the University of Wisconsin on April 2-6. The first to represent Allegheny at such a conference for a number of years, the oicers-elect will receive and exchange ideas for effective women's government.

A plan presently under consideration would alter the duties and titles of Allegheny's AWS officers. The President would be renamed Executive President, with the First Vice President's title changed to Judicial President. In changing of activities, the office of the present Second Vice-President would be elevated to the title of First Vice-President. A new Second Vice-President would in part assume the duties of the Chairman of the Education and Evaluation Committee and would assist the new Judicial President in her duties. If such a plan were chosen, it would possibly go into effect in the 1961-62 year.

Mary Thompson, when interviewed about her new position, was very pleased with the staff of officers with whom she will be working next year. She expressed confidence that the new group will work well in our women's governing body.

Editorials

The Campus is not endorsing any candidate or slate of candidates in this ASG election. Some persons, have asked if we would be taking a side this week. Showing favoritism toward any one nominee or group of nominees does not seem a fair action for the Campus.

As the only Allegheny newspaper, we feel an obligation to remain impartial as a newspaper, and to do everything possible to promote the general interests of all the people involved in the election. With the new schedule of nominations and elections, the candidates have an opportunity to make full use of the Campus. We can provide space for letters, photos, interviews, and for general information which may be important to voters.

This year's election should be a good one, and a fair one. We are pleased to note that most of the persons who are qualified to seek elective office have been nominated. The voters will have a chance to make wise choices among capable individuals. This active interest of those running for office should be met by an active interest and participation of the rest of the students, the voters.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

On Tuesday, March 14, the Inter-Fraternity Council met for the purpose of discussing the coming ASG elections. The meeting resulted in the members giving their endorsement to a single candidate.

Our endorsement of a candidate, we hope, will help stimulate interest in the election. A great deal of criticism has been leveled at the campus for its attitude concerning these elections. The Council felt that if it could meet as a group of student leaders, and not as a body representing all the fraternity men, it might come to a decision and support a single candidate. This is only the opinion of a group of student leaders, and not the consensus of all fraternity men. Our main reason for this support it to see a good contest and the election of a capable officer. All the fraternity men are being urged to attend the speeches of the candidates. The only effect of this statement should be that this is the majority opinion of the members of the Inter-Fraternity Council.

All three candidates are capable of handling the job of ASG president. However, we feel that Dean McFall has proved to be a superior candidate because of his development, promotion, and execution of the Honor Program. Through this association and his mature attitude, he has exhibited a more thorough knowledge of people and an ability to work well with them. His dedication to do a job precedes any group association. Of the three candidates, Dean would be least likely to consider his status as a fraternity man in making decisions. That is, we believe he would be wholly impartial. His selection to represent Allegheny at a student government meeting in Washington, corncerning the Peace Corps, expresses the confidence that the present Allegheny Undergraduate Council has in his abilities. For these reasons, the Inter-Fraternity Council has chosen to support the candidacy of Dean McFall for the presidency of ASG.

I.F.C.

To The Editor:

I am running for the office of Vice President of Educational Affairs in this up and coming A.S.G. election. In reference to last week's editorial, I would like to say that if its purpose was to get more candidates for the different offices, I congratulate you, for this was done. Since there was also a question raised regarding my motives in running for this office, I would like to answer by stating why I chose to run. I believe that the A.S.G. is one of the strongest student governments I have ever seen, but that there is not enough interest from the student body in this government. Therefore, my main interest will be (if I am elected) to make the A.S.G. what its name is, the Allegheny STUDENT Government. That is a government run by and used for the students' best interest. I chose to run for Educational Affairs because I believe that this office can get close to the problems of the student in relation to the faculty. For example, this last semester there was some strong criticism over how one of the "G" courses final grades were arrived at.

Well, I hope that I have given some reasons why I chose to run. And in closing I hope that a new interest in elections here on campus arises, starting with this one. So no matter who you vote for, get out and vote.

Willie Cutler

This letter was written to President Peletier and forwarded to the Editor of The Campus. Mr. McKinney is a Trustee of the college.

To the Editor:

I read the Campus each week — not carefully. This week I read with interest the front page article concerning the selection of Nancy Fahnestock as the third Allegheny Ambassador. I think the selection is of utmost importance to Allegheny and, in fact, to all of us.

I read with marked interest, and I might add with a little criticism, the editorial concerning Miss Fahnestock's selection. My conclusion is that the writer does not believe in the competence of the Committee making the selection.

Further concerning the writer of the editorial, if a man, he must have been turned down for a date by Miss Fahnestock; and if a woman, she was just plain "catty."

A. W. McKinney

Dear Editor,

If you don't mind, I would like to use the Campus as a vehicle to communicate one thought for the coming week to the students of Allegheny's campus. Since I was once in politics myself, I feel that there is one important thing to be said about the coming election. I don't want to talk about the people that are running except in maybe a very general way.

My main concern is that of VOTING. In listening around campus during the past year I came to discover that the students of Allegheny's campus aren't very interested in the class elections or ASG elections. Personally, I feel that the elections should be very important to the student body as a whole. This is the time when "We" as students can put forth our voice in our college community. Also, this is the training ground for participation in government and as good citizens of the United States. I might add that elections is not the only place where "we" as students are lacking in our college community. This not being the main point of this letter, I will leave it for a future time.

Food for thought

It is your responsibility to VOTE for the persons running for the various offices. You should base your choice on a few different things. The most important of these is the person's experience in the area that he or she is contesting

Heating Coil Causes South Hall Fire

by Ellen McKee

A sizzling heating coil was the cause of some disturbance in South Hall Wednesday, March 8 at 12:15 a.m. as firemen rushed to quell the smoke and flames issuing from burning drapes and bedspreads in a room in section 4 A.

The alarm gong sounded throughout the building as soon as the fire was discovered, and girls in curlers and coats piled out into the cold. However, it was eight minutes before anyone discovered that the alarm in the dorm was not connected to the downtown fire station. This was because of a missing part in the alarm system which the company has not sent despite many pleas from the college. The fire department arrived almost as soon as called, and the flames were soon doused with only the drapes, bedclothes and one bulletin board destroyed. Smoke damage to clothing of the girls along the hall and the discomfort of breathing smoke and later paint fumes as the room was redone were probably the most noticeable results of the fire.

The South Hall girls are to be complimented for their quick evacuation of the building and their patient waiting in the lobby. The residence staff too deserves praise for calm efficiency in time of stress. As to the alarm system, the college hopes to have a temporary connection put in since the situation is further complicated by lack of non-pay phone connections.

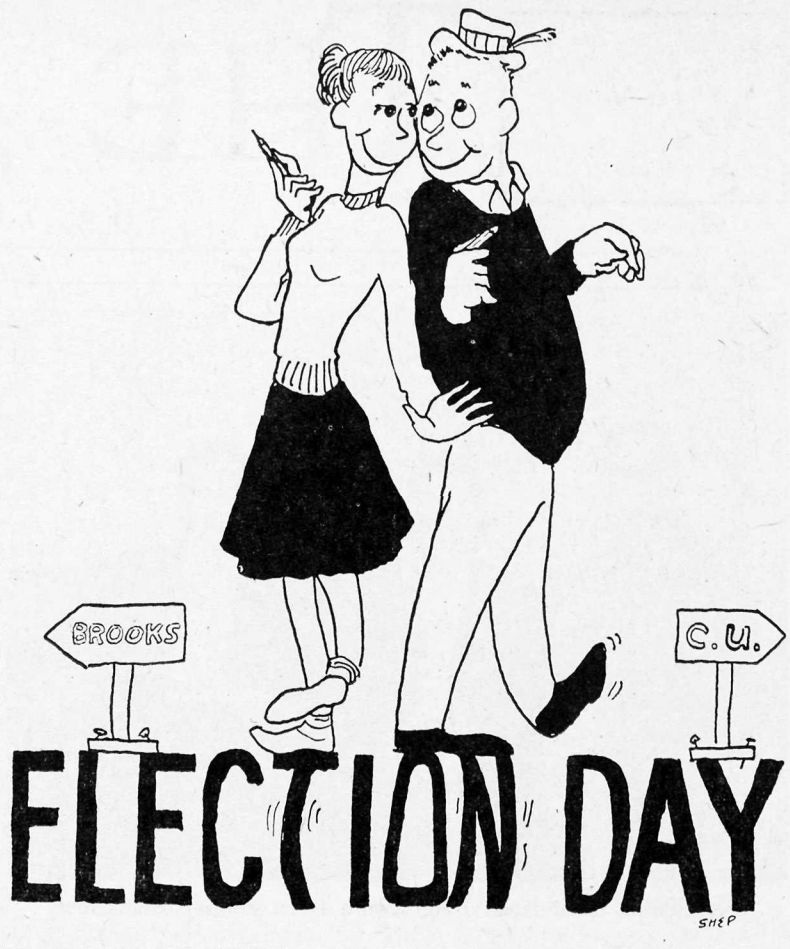

TAKE NOTE

Students and faculty who enjoy silent meditation in the manner of Friends (Quakers) meet in Arter 27 (English Seminar Room) on Fridays at noon. Usually the meetings do not last beyond 12:30. Everyone is welcome.

Senior Sketch

by JoAnn McCalister

The opportunity to meet people and work with them has been one of the most rewarding experiences Glenn Nellis has encountered at Allegheny. Glenn has been particularly interested in Allegheny Student Government, as shown through his work on the Student Affairs Committee, Academic Committee, Human Relations Committee, and now as Vice-President of National and International Affairs.

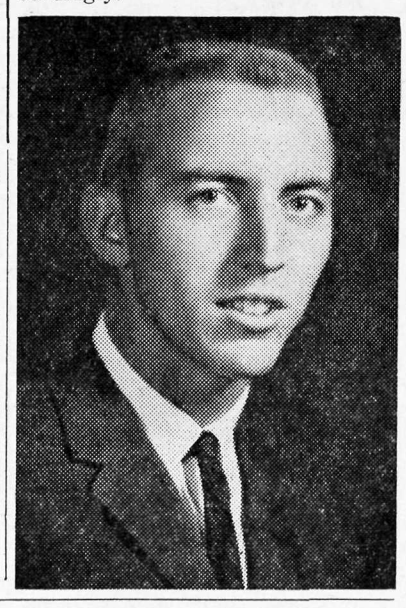

This work in Allegheny's Government is giving Glenn valuable experience in his chosen field of international relations and politics. After Glenn graduates he plans to continue his education in law, but he has not yet decided whether this will lead to a local law practice or a political career.

Although Glenn has gained much through the Student Government, he feels there is a definite weakness which must be removed before our government can be truly efficient. The cause of this weakness lies heavily on the shoulders of the student body. The College offcials have challenged the students by allowing them to be responsible for many activities. However, the student bady has met this challenge with an apathetic attitude. Although the student officials are striving to create interest in Allegheny's Government, the student body has not responded. Therefore a gap has been created between the minority of interested offcials and the great majority of apathetic students, which will consequently lead to a weak student government.

Glenn feels his liberal education has served to broaden his outlook. Since he has spent a short time at a non-liberal arts school, he is able to understand and defend the G-courses' purpose of providing a broad background for each student. However, he contends that they should have a greater flexibility, and therefore permit a student to choose more electives.

One of Glenn's most valuable experiences, he said, was participating in the Washington Semester Program during his junior year. This program enables one to acquire a real understanding of the workings of the United States Government. Glenn feels this understanding leads to greater interest and more active participation in our government.

As Glenn looks ahead to his future, he realizes how important his education has been. He feels that many freshmen are unable to grasp this fact, since sports and extra-curriculay activities had previously been considered so important. However, as a college student, one of the first responsibilities is to realize what a great amount of time your academic work should occupy and to adjust your other activities accordingly.

Frosh Initiate Dinners For Foreign Students

by Paul Fellows

The only all-freshman committee of ASG is the committee concerned with our nine foreign students. All one has to do is look around campus to see that this is an active committee. It appears also that the members Terry Taylor, Mary Sue Mason, Marilyn Petti, Sally Johnston, Bob Cain, and Norman Greene are all contributing to its promising success.

After acquainting themselves with the foreign students, the committee members organized informal dinners at South Hall. These dinners enable the foreign and freshman students to meet and talk together. The committee wishes to thank the freshman who are participating and although the number that have signed up is more than adequate, students still interested can contact any committee member.

The Committee feels that there is a great deal to be learned from these students from foreign lands, and they too will benefit by discussions with Alleghenians representing many many parts of the United States. The foreign students are all very congenial, easy to talk with and anxious to learn.

In the talking stage, there are plans to aid the foreign and freshman students in benefiting more from this program, and these plans will be very likely to materialize with the necessary support. Informal parties held in honor of one foreign student and his or her particular country at separate times are planned. All freshman students who have shown a previous interest will be invited on different occasions.

Another special program, in the minds of the committee members, is a college bowl type evening of entertainment wherein the foreign students would test their wits on questions pertaining to the American scene in opposition to a panel of Alleghenians demonstrating their knowledge on the foreign lands represented.

With plans like these for the future and present accomplishments the Foreign Students Committee and the Freshman Class are proving their enthusiasm for this project.

The committee is open to any suggestions from the students and encourage them to make some.

Allegheny Foreign Students Give Views On America Abroad

by Norman Greene

On the Allegheny campus there is a small group that can be used effectively as a sounding board for new and old ideas and as a listening post to the world. This group is composed of Allegheny's nine foreign students.

The nine foreign students studying at Allegheny this year are actually ambassadors representing nine different countries and cultures. A sampling of their varying ideas and opinions affords an international flavor to almost any question.

What is important to the student from Laos may seem of infintesimal interest to the student from Ghana. However, this is of little consequence. Exchange of ideas, no matter on what scale, aids in international understanding. In discussion, new approaches often can be found to the difficult problems facing man and the world. Much can be gained by these exchanges.

In the weeks to follow, The Campus will provide space for answers to various questions of interest as the foreign students see them. These answers do not necessarily represent the views of The Campus, but merely the opinions of Allegheny's foreign nine. If interested, the public may submit querries for foreign student consideration.

With the image of the UGLY AMERICAN in mind, the question asked of the foreign students this time was: "Why are Americans hated all around the world?"

Laotian Long Thoumany had quite a few answers to the question. "Some of them hate you, because they are hungry and you have too much to eat!" Many people misinterpret the racial situation in the United States. Thoumany believes that the problem is over emphasized. He said, "From what I have seen, I do not think the discrimination problem is as great as I had heard." Still most people do not get the opportunity to find out for themselves and this problem is exaggerated and enlarged upon by the enemies of the United States.

Politically, many people hate Americans because the U.S. has allied itself with Britain and France. These two countries have almost become synonymous with IMPERIALISM. "By allying yourselves with them, no wonder you are hated by some of the people in the world." The U.S. does many good things, "spends billions of bucks," but even these actions are often misinterpreted. Thoumany feels that too often the aid is given to the wrong hands and is badly administrated. This does not make friends for the U.S. "The aid program is a very sound policy, but it is inefficiently run as was the case in Laos."

Henry Abbiw, Allegheny's foreign student from the newly independent state of Ghana, did not like the question. "Americans are not hated ALL around the world. I do not like the word 'hated' either." It is Henry's opinion that the people of the world do not know what is going on in the U.S. There are no papers about the United States other than U.S. papers. The people of the world are at the mercy of American yellow journalism. "Take New Orleans as an example. It was the noisy minority groups that created all of the trouble." The rest of the world does not know this and they blame the entire United States for the racial problems in the South.

"All the Democracies and the free nations of the world look up to the United States as the leader of the Free World and because of these minority groups, it looks to the world as though the U.S. does not practice what it preaches."

In Henry's mind, the racial problem in the U.S. is one of the bigest factors that creates doubt in the minds of non-Americans. These discriminating, minority groups are like empty barrels. However, "empty barrels make the loudest sound."

In Morocco the situation is different according to Mohammed Benlemlih. There is an overabundance of American soldiers in Morocco. They do not mix with the people. They eat their own food, drink their own water, etc. in their own restaurants. They all seem to have a great deal of money without any work and the contrast between the Americans and the people of the country is striking. Mohammed feels that in Morocco, "The Americans are like a society without a society." This does not help to foster good feelings or friendship. Abdullah Busbate added to this: "Americans isolate themselves and even go as far as to build their own little private towns in Saudia Arabia."

Mohammed agrees with Thoumany on the political question: The United States has supported the British and French colonial policies, especially in Algeria. Therefore, some people favor other forces —sometimes we must side with the Communists."

Mohammed stressed that in supporting Russia in these questions, Morocco is not in favor of the communist way of life. "But, Russia has been supporting Africa's cause."

The AMERICAN TOURIST came under much fire in these interviews. According to all of the foreign students, the American tourist behaves badly abroad. For the most part, he seems to have no respect for anything indigenous, shows too much pride, wealth, and is over pretentious. John Clarke of Kenya pretty well summed it up when he said: "It is always the loud and brash people of any nation, who are noticed. The quiet and thoughtful American tourists are not often heard or seen. Unfortunately, the loud and brash Americans, who go abroad, seem to be louder and brasher than anyone else."

Americans often hurt the feelings of the people in other lands, because they are not well informed. They treat every fairy tale as though it were gospel. Abdullah stated: "Americans deal in generalities. As an example of this, Americans seem to think that all Arabs have harems and ride on camels."

Brigitta Schlemmer (Vienna, Austria) and Anne Molet (France) seemed to offer a little more hope than the others and yet, even they added qualifications to their answers. When asked "Why are Americans hated all around the world?" Brigitta replied: "Oh for heaven's sake they are not — at least not at home."

Brigitta added that after World War II, when Europe was in complete disorder and the United States was an occupying force in Austria, the U.S. was not well liked. The people resented the occupation and the wealthy tourists, who foolishly threw their money around while Europe starved. However, Brigitta feels that: "This is all changed now. The United States has greatly helped Austria. The aid to education programs — exchange of students and professors — have been most beneficial. This is the best type of aid and more student exchanges are needed." This last statement was agreed upon by all the foreign students.

Anne Molet added that as far as Americans being hated in France— "I didn't notice it. Of course, very often Americans want to take things over and this is resented." Further commenting on the tourist situation, Anne stated: "In Paris, the typical American tourist wants to take pictures, but does not want to learn the significance of the picture that he is taking, the language, or the customs."

"In Greece," Demetrious Coucouvanis said, "the Americans are well liked by the majority of the people. The others belong to the Communist Party. They have fallen victim to the Communist propaganda and wish someday to eat with golden spoons."

"A great deal of the animosity towards the United States," according to John Clarke, "is due to envy of some one or some country that is better off . . . just plain jealousy." Americans are more isolated than any other country, with the possible exception of Canada. "Even concerned Americans are away in body, if not in spirit." John cited the need for more exchanges to clear up misunderstandings. "As soon as one gets over the stage of not knowing people, one can learn and become more friendly. Thus, this will cut down a mutual dislike and misunderstanding."

Research Group Visits Cancer Lab

Representatives from Allegheny's departments of chemistry and psychology. Research in cancer control is presently being performed here. The Chemistry department secured a new supply of hemoglobin from the New York laboratory, for use in the research Dr. Rhinesmith is conducting.

Dr. L. C. Strong, noted scientist, who has produced numerous research publications, was present to speak with the group.

This group toured the well-equipped building with representatives from the psychology department observing carefully extensive animal laboratories. The research center's experiments concerning cancer, especially its relation to stress and other psychological conditions, were then explained and discussed.

Chemistry and Psychology Department representatives who participated in the day-long trip were: Dr. Bell, Dr. Klions, Mrs. Wm. Richirt, Bobbie Mills, Dave Parrish, Lois Fleischer, Vic Nery, and Jean Bullion.

Class Officers Speak With Alumni Groups

Class officers of Allegheny College are helping the Alumni Office this year as part of their activities by appearing before alumni groups in the East. These students speak to the alums, telling of present conditions and activities at the college and asking their aid in keeping Allegheny as one of the best small liberal arts colleges.

Alumni groups in Jamestown, Rochester, Buffalo, and Meadville have already been addressed by Tom Clark, president of the junior class, Ben Andrews, treasurer of the sophomore class, and Bob Taylor, treasurer of the senior class. These speakers were so well received that at least eight more alumni organizations will have student representatives attending meetings this spring. Among these groups are Pittsburgh, Cleveland, New York City, Chicago, Erie, Sharon, Butler, and Franklin.

Last fall was the first time in Allegheny's history that students addressed any alumni organization. Mr. Robert Ruhlman, Director of the Alumni Office, stated that, although this was purely an experiment, the student speakers were enthusiastically received. He congratulated these class officers and said that he expects to see this practice continued because of its vast initial success and because of the additional aid and interest generated for Allegheny.

Dinners, Plays, Visits With The Stars Make New York Tour Memorable

by Mike Bavar

Lafayette, we're here! Suitcases in hand, wallets bulging with tickets and money, and faces bright with enthusiasm and expectation, the French contingent from Allegheny arrived in New York. Under the expert direction of Miss Hanson, the trip's organizer and ministre d'affaires, the group had this great city before them to explore for a whole week-end. Saturday noon, luncheon at L'Escargot was highlighted by a visit with Mr. Robinson, who is doing work on his doctoral thesis at Columbia, good wine, and a variety of Gallic dishes geared to tantalize the palate of the most apathetic Lucullan. After this multi-coursed delight, several met friends, shopped or went sightseeing. Anne Molet was treated to the spectacle and charm of "My Fair Lady" while another coterie of Francophiles traded their Larousses' for libbrettos and thrilled to Puccini's Turandot at the Metropolitan Opera House. A backstage visit to greet Birgit Nilsson, the afternoon's magnificent enactor of the title role, was just one of the many memorable moments of the day.

After another feast of French cuisine, the group was off to see the first two performances by the Comedie-Francaise. The drama for the evening was Racine's Britannicus, a stunning tour de force of personality conflicts, jealousies, political entanglements and superb acting. Robert Hirsch, one of France's most dynamic young players, portrayed the young emperor Nero to Annie Ducaux's moving depiction of his mother, Aggrippine. Mr. Robinson had arranged for the group to meet Madame Ducaux after the performance, thus providing us with a much appreciated opportunity to see a great actress, minus greasepaint, and to talk with her about the play and the Comedie-Francaise tradition. It was tired but happy theatregoers who made their way through the rainy Manhattan streets to the hotel where a good night's rest was eagerly sought.

Sunday afternoon, they set off again to the cavernous City Center Theatre — this time to view one of Moliere's most renowned comedies, Tartuffe. Louis Seigner, who served as both director and star of the production, gave a superb characterization as the religious advisor whose connivings wrought havoc amidst the seventeenth century gentry. Monsieur Seigner graciously received us in his dressing room after the performance treating the group to personal anecdotes about his visit to New York and the reaction of American audiences to the plays presented. A quick snack and a walk down Fifth Avenue, past lighted windows and strollers enjoying the spring night, to Rockefeller Center where we boarded the bus, provided the finale for a most enjoyable day. As the train pulled out of the station and everyone got themselves settled in the coach for the long trip back, our heads were fairly reeling with the rash of exciting events that had made this a veritable "chef-d'oeuvre"

Eutsler To Discuss Ethics, Foreign Policy

Ethics and American Foreign Policy will be the topic of discussion at the next A.S.C.A. program which will be held this Sunday at 6:30 in the C.U. Dr. Frederick Eutsler, chaplain of Chatham College, will be the speaker. Dr. Eutsler received his Ph.D. in social ethics from Yale University; he has held the position of chaplain at Colgate University and at St. Lawrence University where he was also a professor of religion. Presently Dr. Eutsler is chaplain and professor of religion at Chatham College in Pittsburgh.

This discussion will be of special interest to participants in the A.S.C.A. study group concerning ethics and American foreign policy, but everyone is cordially invited to attend. Refreshments will be served and an informal discussion session will be held after Dr. Eutsler's address.

Allegheny women have elected the members of Senior Court for next year. They are: Beth Sutherland, chairman, Sue Chadwick, Jane Hile, Ellen McKee, Maya Monsour, Jan Porter.

Pre-School Center To Be Closed Soon

Allegheny's Pre-School Center will be closed at the end of this semester because of the necessity of removing the government-owned Arter Terrace units and because the location has been proposed as a site for Allegheny's new Science Building.

The Center, which serves as a laboratory for Education department majors, has been under the direction of Dr. Emily Belle Higgins since 1951. It was organized in 1948 by Dr. Charles S. Miller, department chairman, and the late Dr. Elizabeth Stadtlander. Presently there are 37 children, three to five years old, enrolled.

President Pelletier stated that it is impossible to move one or more of the Arter Terrace units to another location. The units are government owned, having been built for living quarters for Air Force personnel in the early 1940's during the Air Force Cadet program. A provision agreed upon at the time these low-cost structures were erected was that they would be razed "after a reasonable time." The college has had several extensions of time, and permission for relocation cannot be obtained.

New Arts Building Named Murray Hall

Murray Hall has been approved as the name for the new modern language and fine arts building, in recognition of the long association with the college of the William P. Murray family of Titusville, Pa. The building is designed to include class and seminar rooms, art studios and demonstration rooms, a language electronics laboratory, and professors' offices.

Murray Hall is a long, one-floor brick structure with white trim, with a suggestion of the Federalist style employed by Thomas Jefferson in the first buildings at the University of Virginia. It is located at the southeast corner of old Montgomery Field, and will be ready for occupancy next month.

A wall plaque in the entrance lobby will list the names of the Reverend Dr. William Palmer Murray, class of 1886; Florence Sullivan Murray, '10; and Maud Pratt Murray, '10. During the last decade a series of unrestricted gifts by Maud Pratt Murray, last survivor of the group, and a final bequest from the Murray estate, provided approximately $130,000, more than two-thirds of the cost of the building.

Is that the fire drill? Oh, darn! Why do they always wait until I'm in bed. What?! You smell smoke. Oh, 4A is on fire. Well! Where is my towel? I'm leaving!!! Get out of the bathtub—the whole dorm is on fire—Oh just one room! O.K. So after everyone got out of the building without knowing why (I'm omniscient), the fire trucks and MEN came. We sat in the lobby and sang—even did some Russian dances. Let's not do it again this month because I need my beauty sleep.

BRIDGE

Playing bridge by ear involves the drawing of inferences from the bidding one has heard. The call of an adversary will frequently place the location of a particular card to a certainty. This hand offers the declarer an opportunity for delicate technique.

Both vulnerable. West is dealer.

North
Spades A10 9643
Diamonds K10 5
Hearts 4
Clubs A83

West
Spades 85
Hearts 98652
Diamonds J43
Clubs 752

East
Spades 2
Hearts KQJ107
Diamonds AQ87
Clubs KQ4

South
Spades KQJ7
Hearts A3
Diamonds 962
Clubs J10 96

The bidding:
West—Pass Pass Pass Pass
North—1 Spade Pass 4 Spade Pass
East—Double 2 Hearts Double
South—Redouble 2 Spade Pass.
Opening lead: King of Hearts

North opens with 1 Spade and East should double to show his powerful holding. South holds adequate values for his redouble, and West has no special reason to act; his pass of the redouble does not suggest a willingness to play 1 Spade redoubled, but simply a desire to transfer the responsibility to his partner. Fortunately, East is able to rescue himself very comfortably to 2 Hearts. South now offers a raise to 2 Spades, and this has the effect of promoting North's holding to the value of 16 points (after receiving a raise, North adds 1 point for the fifth trump and 2 points for the sixth). With 16 points opposite a partner who has at least an average hand—as designated by the redouble—North is assured of a reasonable play for game.

The Heart King is opened; declarer wins in dummy and should ruff out the remaining Heart at once in order to clear the suit. After drawing two rounds of trumps, ending in dummy, declarer must decide which minor suit to develop.

But East's actions in the bidding minimize the chance that West holds a Club honor, so this line of play will fail. Declarer therefore gives up this idea and instead plans to make East lead away from his Club honors eventually. The winning play is a low Diamond to North's 10.

East will win with the Queen and will be faced with a choice of rotten apples. He can play Ace and another Diamond, in which case declarer wins, returns to dummy with a trump and passes the Jack of Clubs, forcing East to give him a fuff and a sluff or a free Club finesse. If East, on winning with the Diamond Queen, exists with the Club King, declarer win and returns a Club, establishing the thirteenth Club in dummy for a Diamond discard from his own hand.

for. One other thing is whether the person has put forth a sincere effort in other things that he or she has done. Each candidate who will be speaking at the Chapel this Sunday will probably give you some of his or her background. The ideas that he or she puts forth and the thoughts that he or she may convey are important, but I feel that "your" final selection should be one that has been formulating over a period of time and not one swayed by a few words spoken on the day before the elections. "Your" choice should be one that has taken considerable though and what you as an individual feel is the best selection.

As a perpetual student and memory of Allegheny College, I hope that I will see "you" on Sunday and on Monday and Tuesday at The POLLS.

Allegheniany yours,
Jo Ann Hess

Dear Voice in South Hall:

We are very sorry to hear that you are disappointed in our apparent lack of interest in you. However, it does seem rather funny that your interest or apparent interest in us comes only four short weeks after our pledging of fraternities. Our suspicions are even further verified by the fact that all of the first semester the general trend was toward fraternity men, and now that we've pledged fraternities your eyes turn to us. Could these two facts be in some way connected?

In your letter you admitted that you have fellows at home, but that you'd still like to date. We also admit that many of us have girls at home, but we are faithful — are you? Even if you have decided to date, you must admit that it is a little discouraging to have your fellows flood the campus at the time of every major or semi-major event here.

Another point which many of you fail to recognize is that some freshman men are here to get an education, and for nothing else.

Some Freshman Men

Dear Editor,

I would like to take this opportunity to express several of my thoughts concerning the endorsement of a candidate for the office of President of ASG, by the Allegheny Interfraternity Council.

The meeting at which this action occurred was attended (as provided by a unanimous decision of the full representative body of IFC) by the seven fraternity presidents and the President and Vice-President of IFC.

As a member of that group, I expressed an objection to the course of action which they were considering, for reasons which I will state below. Also, because of my objections I abstained from the ensuing discussion of candidates and from voting for an endorsement. The President and Vice-President of IFC also did not participate in voting for a candidate and, therefore, the endorsement represents the unanimous judgment of the six remaining members of the group who were authorized to express their opinion in this matter by IFC.

May I make it clear at this point that I do not question the right of IFC to endorse a candidate, provided that they do so, clearly indicating that it is the majority opinion only of the individuals who belong to that representative body.

Also, I would like to point out that I do not in any way object to the actual choice for endorsement aside from the peculiar context in which it was approached. For, the endorsement was arrived at after a careful and extensive discussion of all candidates by the six voters and the two IFC officers.

My objections are these:

The first and basic objection is that while theoretically a representative body such as IFC can act as a group of individuals in practice such a body can never completely divorce itself from the group which it represents, and, therefore, should recognize this constantly implied responsibility and more wisely undertake committments in which the larger organization participates.

Secondly, in this particular instance IFC failed to approach this endorsement under ideal conditions which would be, to include in the voting proceedure not only the seven fraternity presidents, but also, the fraternity representatives and all of the IFC officers. In other words, the full representative body which the title "IFC" indicates. In any case, the letter which IFC has submitted to this issue of the Campus and through which they have announced their position, does not clearly represent the specific situation under which their action was taken.

Thirdly, there are three talented men who have offered to give their time and ideas to the office of ASG President for next year. In order to make an effective decision as to which man will best fill the position, it is necessary to consider not only their past records but also the concepts and plans which they intend to bring to the new situation. This latter aspect IFC was not able to consider in their decision of las Tuesday.

Finally, it was the expressed intent of IFC to stir up interest in the elections. Obviously, to an extend this objective has been achieved. But, it is questionable whether this was the only method, the most satisfactory method, or even the most successful method open to them, to attain this goal. Moreover, IFC, in the cause in which it has involved itself, has failed to be consistent with even this expressed desire to arouse interest in the forthcoming election. To be fully committed to their intent, it seems they would have strengthened their communication to the student body by presenting not a single endorsement, but rather, a carefully considered complete slate of candidates, and manfully jumping in with both feet.

The 1960-61 championship Allegheny swimming team.

Swimmers Complete Season; PAC Champs With 10-2 Mark

by Jim Berry

The Allegheny swimming team has just completed another successful season under coach Bill Hanson. The Gator tankers compiled a record of 10-2, going undefeated in five conference meets and finishing the season by taking the President's Athletic Conference meet at Case two weeks ago.

The swimmers are a group who are highly deserving of the utmost praise as they have made swimming the most successful winter at Allegheny consistently for the last three seasons. The Gators have amassed a record of twenty-four and seven over the past three seasons and have not been defeated in the POC in this time. The swimmers, led by Bruce Carlile and Skip Shaeffer set records in everything in which they swam during the season. In all, the swimmers are a group who have been deserving of a great deal of praise from the Allegheny students.

Special congratulations should be given to seniors: John Gillespie, who was captain of the 1960-61 squad, Ed David, and Paul Reslink who have given Coach Hanson yeoman service over the past four years. While the loss of these seniors must be mourned, the mermen should be in for another successful season in 1961-62 with the return of Carlile and the blossoming of such freshmen as Skip Shaeffer, Bob Benes, and Pete Holt.

Campus Clashes

The past week's intramural activities marked the culmination of most of the winter sports program for the fraternities. In basketball, the four year reign of the Phi Psi was finally broken in a come-from-behind victory by the Phi Gams 43-39 to give them the intramural title in this sport. Phi Psi finished second.

The bowling race has also been decided, the championship going to Phi Psi who clinched their victory with a four point sweep of the Phi Delts last week. The Phi Psis also captured the swimming title by finishing the fraternity meet with 27 points ahead of the Phi Delts who totalled 17. The Phi Psis here won both relay events and placed high in individual events.

In individual sports, handball will go down to the wire. Steiner (Phi Psi) must play Kohler (Phi Gam) to decide which house will get the winner's total of points. Ping Pong was swept by the Indies with Mullen winning the intramural championship.

PAC Intramurals

This weekend, Allegheny will be represented in Cleveland at the P.A.C. intramural tournament by teams in bowling, basketball, volleyball, and individual participants in handball, and ping-pong.

The representatives from Allegheny will be the teams and individuals who won that sport in intramural competition at Allegheny during the winter. Phi Psi will send bowling and volleyball teams as well as Ron Steiner in handball. The Phi Gams will send their championship basketball team. These Allegheny representatives should do well in their competition with championship intramural teams from the other P.A.C. schools.

ASG Elections

Corps Program if elected vice-president of National and International Affairs. By clarifying and supplying more information about the Peace Corps, Marty would like to stimulate the interest and possible participation of Alleghenians in the program. A political science and history major, Marty has been active in ASG and class activities and was instrumental in the acceptance of one of our foreign students into Theta Chi fraternity.

International Studies major, Dave Middleton, would seek to stimulate more interest on campus in international and national affairs if elected to head this ASG office. Dave would promote more participation in Allegheny's foreign student program especially in sending American students abroad. By placing enthusiastic and influential people on the two committees under his direction Dave would like to encourage new ideas and programs which would inform students of national and international activities and utilize their interest in them. Dave is Delta Tau Delta delegate to ASG and a former member of the Foreign Student Committee.

Student Affairs

Vice-president of Student Affairs nominees include Betsy Anderson and Curt Fee. Betsy, who would like to see a more flexible social calendar and more emphasis on student chaperones, includes in her activities: secretary of AWS last year, Freshman Seminar coordinator, Kappa Kappa Gamma representative to ASG, representative to the National Student Association, a member of Chapel choir. She presently works for the publicity office in Bentley.

In Curt's opinion, lack of interfraternity and fraternity-independent relations is a cause of hard feelings on campus. If elected to head Student Affairs, he would use the office to improve campus relations and to inject more spirit into campus activities including further development of CU possibilities. Curt has been a member of Freshman and Sophomore Activities Committees as well as Phi Psi AUC representative.

Secretary

The one and only candidate for Executive Secretary of ASG is Georgianne Schilling. George's activities include Alpha Chi Omega, Intramurals, the CU Board, Sophomore Court, and Chapel Choir.
