My dear Miss Tarbell,

I just that I have an opportunity of getting a ride to Chicago with relatives and writing you rather hurriedly to know if you would care to have me come on to New York to see you about the subject of my letter to you. Because of the condition of my health my daughter will accompany me. They are leaving here next Sunday morning, June 5. I would love to hear from you by return mail in order to make the trip. Do you think this knowledge (or value) be of interest to you? I possess an heirloom many years old in connection with it that should be very valuable to collectors. Hoping an early reply, I am, hurriedly,
