My dear Miss Tarbell:

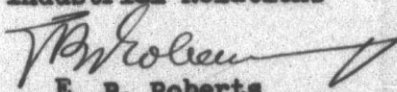

I shall always appreciate, I am sure, the courtesies you extended to me yesterday and the pleasure that I have from recollection of your gracious interview.

I am today mailing under another cover a copy of our little memorial volume on Mr. George Westinghouse. Dr. Scott poured his soul into making it a fine piece of work and we of Westinghouse feel that he has done so.

Before leaving the city last evening I was able to ascertain that the Forbes contest is considered open for nominations for about six weeks yet. That would mean, I suppose, around October 22.

Sincerely yours,

Industrial Relations
