Pre-Freshmen To Receive Preview Of Coming Attractions During Weekend

by Ginny Perrine

Pre-freshman weekend will be held May 4 and 5, Carol Wehrle, chairman of the Student Admissions Committee announced recently.

The weekend will start with registration from 9:00 to 11:00 Saturday morning in Brooks, while campus tours and a coffee hour are being conducted.

Saturday after lunch, the pre-freshmen will be able to attend conferences, athletic events, open house at the College Union and a variety show.

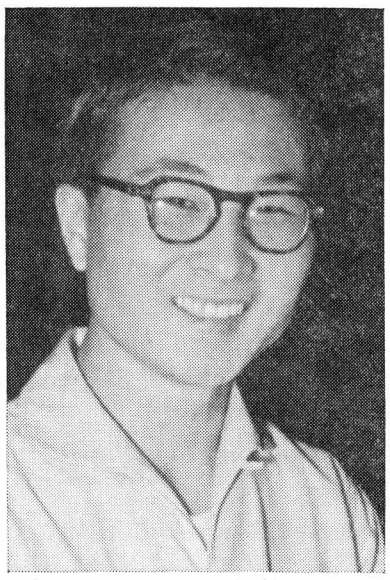

In the evening, the Singers will conduct a concert, "Iolanthe" will be presented in the Playshop, an all-college informal stag dance will be held in the CU, and a Phi Delt serenade will round out Saturday's activities.

Sunday the students will be entertained at a banquet after which the fraternities will have open houses.

The committee is expecting approximately 195 people. The registration fee is $2.00.

Carol Wehrle commented, "These students will be the guests of the entire student body. I know each individual will uphold the Allegheny reputation of friendliness and thoughtful hospitality. The Student Admissions Committee has put a great deal of time and thought into the mechanics of the weekend, but it is the responsibility of every student to make it successful. Working along a theme of 'Preview of Coming Attractions', we're hoping to make it a worthwhile experience for our prospective freshmen."

MIT Awards Math Fellowship To Onishi

Tako Onishi is the recipient of a mathematics fellowship from the Whitney Fund of M.I.T. Tako, a senior, is majoring in mathematics and physics. The fellowship was awarded on the basis of scholarship, graduate record examination and two letters of recommendation from professors of his major field. These letters were written by Dr. Frederick Steen, professor of mathematics and Dr. Richard Brown, professor of physics.

The graduate fellowship guarantees full tuition and allocates Tako $1,400 a year for room and board as well as extra expenses such as books and transportation. At present Tako is on a scholarship partially supported by the Fund Drive.

Tako plans to enter M.I.T. in the fall in the hopes of receiving his Ph.D. after three years. Concerning his plans at the conclusion of three years, Tako states, "After getting my Ph.D. I plan to return to Japan and carry on the most probable occupation, teaching mathematics."

Annual Spring Concert Scheduled By Singers

The Allegheny Singers, 60 voice a cappella choir, will present its Spring Concert, Sunday afternoon at 3:00 p.m. in Ford Memorial Chapel.

Sacred music from many lands will form the basis of the program. Included are two Latin sections from the Middle Ages and another. "On This Day Earth Shall Ring", based on a melody from 1582 arranged by Morten J. Luvaas, director. Also to be performed is Crawford Thoburn's arrangement of "O Spotless Lamb" based on a theme by Johann Sebastian Bach.

The program is the same one given by the Singers on this year's Spring Tour. Recordings of the Allegheny Singers are on sale in the Bookstore.

Singer Suzanne Bloch Restores Past Music

by Art Rosenblum

The College Union announced its sponsorship of the return engagement of Miss Suzanne Bloch, noted Lutist, Singer to the Lute, Player of Virginals and Recorders.

Miss Bloch, who appeared on campus several years ago, is one of the country's leading experts on Elizabethan Music and has given several concert performances in New York with Leonard Bernstein and Leon Barzin. Daughter of the famous composer Ernest Bloch, she was trained as a pianist, and while studying abroad became interested in the music and instruments of the early medieval and renaissance periods.

Miss Bloch will appear in the College Union on Sunday, May 5 at 8:30 p.m. Her program will be centered about songs and tunes of several different eras rather than concentrating upon one era. In addition to her playing and singing, Miss Bloch spices her performance with witty remarks and explanations about the tunes and instruments she is playing.

Miss Bloch's past performances have included various Shakespeare festivals where she has been the featured virtuoso, and appearances in the festivals of the Dolmetsch family at Haslemere, England. She is continuing her research into the instruments, techniques and music of the various periods, and has aided in recreating many pieces of beautiful music which might otherwise have been lost forever.

Class-Day Schedule

Class Day ceremonies will take place at 11:00 a.m. Monday, May 6. The class schedule for that day will be as follows:

8:00- 8:35
8:45- 9:20
9:30-10:05
10:15-10:50

"Iolanthe" Flies With Aid Of Mousetrap As Playshop Presents G And S Opera

The lovestruck Lords Tolloller (George Thoburn) and Mountararat (Dick Smith) plot with her guardian The Lord Chancellor (Stan Harrison) to interrupt the current love affair between the fickle Phyllis (Barbara Lecky) and Strephon (John Feltovich). Meanwhile Strephon's Fairy mother, Iolanthe (Marilyn Finch) and Fairy Queen (Marge Smock) and all the rest of the fairies are racing through the forest to the rescue.

"Iolanthe" at the Playshop might well be characterized by the Fairy Queen's words: "And away we go to Fairyland!"

Experts agree that "Iolanthe" is Gilbert and Sullivan's finest work. Like all their operas, this one spoofs the British government. Since they wrote during the Victorian Era when it was something less than polite to criticize the government, they developed various ways of hiding their satire. For "Iolanthe", they invented a fairyland in which the characters act suspiciously like Peers and Lords, and have names of real officials, yet are clothed so engagingly in witticism and lyricism that no one could take offense.

The actresses had trouble getting used to wearing wings for their roles as fairies, but the Playshop ran into a real problem with the men. One scene calls for several of the actors to suddenly sprout wings after they agree to marry the fairies. After several disastrous attempts at creating such wings, the costume crew finally hit upon using mousetraps. After suitable preparation, the mousetraps were converted into excellent wing holders.

The men appear on stage with their wings folded out of sight behind them. On cue they pull rip cords which, by an ingenious arrangement, activate the mousetraps which release the wings which spring out into view and appear to sprout from their backs.

The orchestra has problems of its own. Jammed into a tiny pit, the members have become adept at ducking sliding trombones or darting arms, all without missing a beat or going off key. Despite their agility, it is not unusual to end a performance with scraped knuckles or poked ribs. (One violinist got so carried away in a presto passage he hit the pit wall and broke his violin's chin piece.)

But despite mousetraps that go off at the wrong time or French horns that blow down neighbor's necks, the delightfully funny show goes on. All over the campus tonight and tomorrow night, the cry is, "And away we go to the Playshop!"

Mr. Charles Ketcham New College Chaplain

The administration has announced that Mr. Charles B. Ketcham has been appointed Allegheny Chaplain for next year.

Mr. Ketcham, a graduate of Mt. Union College, studied abroad from from 1949-51 at the University of Edinburgh in Edinburgh, Scotland. He studied under a Fulbright Grant.

He received his B.D. from Drew University and his Ph.D. from the University of St. Andrew in 1956.

The past year he has been preaching at the Rockaway Valley Methodist Church in Boonton, New Jersey. He also was an instructor of religion at Drew University during this time.

Besides his chaplain duties, Mr. Ketcham will teach Religion I and II, and G-9.

Versatility Highlights May Day Weekend

Plans are being completed for a festive May Day weekend this year by the committee under the co-chairmanship of Merb Braglio and Cliff Eckman. Many interesting and entertaining activities are scheduled for the weekend, beginning May 10.

A Fashion Show under the direction of Pat Bell and Jean Wehman will be held Friday afternoon from 3:00 to 5:00 in Brooks dining room.

Friday night there will be a CU Party under the direction of Carol Murdock and Bob Sharp. The evening will include dancing and entertainment.

Saturday will be a day of festivities. There will be a float parade under the direction of Happy Blanning and Ed Sergi after which the crowning ceremony conducted by Marilyn Finch and Jim Kepple will take place on Bentley lawn. A versatile program of entertainment has been arranged by Rosie Foglia and Chuck Storm.

The evening's program will include a banquet in Brooks Hall supervised by Sue Cross, and the formal dance Saturday evening will end the day's activities.

Sunday afternoon the sororities will hold a non-competitive Greek Sing on the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity lawn at 3:00 p.m.

Frosh Writing Contest Winners Biggs, Jones

Robin A. Biggs and Robert C. Jones are the winners of the Freshman Writing Contest for poetry and writing, respectively. The winners received a prize of $5.00 each and the material will be published in The Literary Magazine.

Gerry Galbo, editor of the Lit Mag, commenting on the contest said, "I was very pleased to discover that so many people were interested enough to contribute as freely as they did."

The Spring issue of the Lit Mag will be published shortly and will be reviewed by Mr. George Test, Instructor in English.

Trustee Speaks At Convocation

by Phil Klukoff

Robert L. Kirkpatrick, Pittsburgh attorney, alumnus and general trustee of Allegheny College, spoke to the student body at the 50th Founder's Day Convocation in David Mead Fieldhouse, Friday, April 26, and urged the students to follow "the course not in the catalogue."

Following the academic procession and invocation, Dr. Pelletier introduced Mr. Kirkpatrick, who began by tracing the history of Timothy Alden's life and strivings to establish an institute of learning. "He was always living in the past and future, rather than in the present . . . ready to embark upon new schemes . . . desirous of doing good." He cited Alden as "an impractical dreamer who was measured by his bad debts and poor investments," yet he admired the zeal and enthusiasm by which Alden strove for learning. Kirkpatrick noted, "the future is not for little men with little minds; not for timid men, but for men who have great expectations; who are endowed with courage and persistence to carry them to their goal."

The course not in the catalogue, Mr. Kirkpatrick stated, is Mysteries 101; a course in which grades are not available until years after you have left school. The burden of passing the course "need not be onerous," and "the principal danger is that it will escape us, while we are busy here and there." He then added, "It might be that it would be sufficient to pass the course if a good book, preferably one tested by time, could be the substitute for a quarter hour of television; and if two more quarter hours could be salvaged from campus meetings . . . for periods of quiet reflection, and at times, for intellectual sharing with teachers."

Kirkpatrick looked in retrospect to the time of Timothy Alden and cited that mysteries were then obscure things, unexplainable yet teachable; a prize possession for the interested. Those admitted into the innner circle would be the recipients of the imparted fragments of scholarship. "And the student is to learn, not only how to find books in the library, and sufficient information on how to hold a job and earn a livlihood, but also the zeal and enthusiasm of association with great thoughts and significant ideas." Thus the joy of knowledge is transmitted from master to apprentice in Mysteries 101.

Meadville's Spring sunshine enhanced the colorful academic procession last Friday morning. The faculty donned robes and colors for the annual Founder's Day Convocation, highlighted by a talk given by Mr. Robert L. Kirkpatrick. —Photo by Swersie

How Did We Ever Do Without It?

The formal opening of the Modern Hi-Fi (Jazz) Room at the College Union is only the latest in what appears to be an unending stream of improvement and services.

With this newest addition, the CU offers a bewildering array of attractions. We think first of the jazz and classical music-listening rooms, but also of the bridge facilities, the TV lounge, the completely-outfitted kitchen, the bridge facilities, ping-pong and pool, the large selection of games ranging from bridge through chess and monopoly to bridge, and the machines which dispense ice cream, soft drinks, candy, and cigarettes and coffee for the late-evening bridge player. And this is only a partial list! The services the CU supplies are also too numerous to cover fully but most used are the information desk, the phone and directories, the lost and found, and the recently added stamp machine.

But the most important benefit of the College Union is an intangible thing — fellowship. Just by providing a central meeting place on campus for everyone, with tasteful and comfortable furnishings, the CU renders a valuable service to the school.

In the conference rooms on the second floor, small groups meet to discuss Christianity or camping, pacifism or politics. In these same rooms the Allegheny Undergraduate Council holds its public sessions, guests lecture to cozy groups, seminars meet, and relaxed — yet effective — classes are held.

The large ground floor lounge serves as Allegheny's agora where — spurred on by natural gregariousness and CU-sponsored sings, parties and dances — people meet and talk and argue, healthfully, as individuals.

What makes the College Union's importance so astonishing is the fact that just a year ago the CU was a lead-legged white elephant, not much more than a college dorm. Then Mr. Cooper took charge.

Under Bill Cooper's energetic guidance, and with the unflagging aid of Student Directors Bill Severn and Ray Stark, the Union has become the flourishing success it is today. Now, when each new innovation suggests more facilities that could be provided and the CU daily enlarges and improves, we look back at how things were when he came and we say, very quietly, Thank You, Mr. Cooper.

Some Thoughts (Slightly Damp)

While we sat at the Convocation last week, the combined effects of Mr. Kirkpatrick's remarks and the bombardment of heavy drops from the leaking roof set us to thinking.

Isn't it strange that the very qualities that characterized the founder of our College would not stand a student in good stead? As Mr. Kirkpatrick pointed out, Timothy Alden was a man of great energy and enthusiasm. He could not stay interested in one thing, but would flit around till he found something that interested him and then he would expend huge energy on it — for a while at least. Alden was, Mr. Kirkpatrick said, "an impractical dreamer," always living in the past and future, rather than in the present . . . ready to embark upon new schemes . . . desirious of doing good."

On the other hand, it would seem that a good student must be a plodder; he must limit and maintain his interest and ration his energy carefully; he cannot afford to be an impractical dreamer always ready to embark upon new schemes.

We wonder if the good student would ever have the inclination to do a ridiculous (to his contemporaries) thing like found a college in the wilderness. When all is said and done, from which type person spring the most lasting contributions to society?

Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir:

In an age possessing the power of unthinkable destruction, it must be the primary concern of every citizen of this country to establish international understanding, and to abolish the ever-present possibility of war. The United States today is in a position to lead the way towards peace, and it must meet this grave responsibility. We feel that our present foreign policy, founded as it is on the struggle to maintain military supremacy, is leading us towards, rather than away from, war. The outcome of every arms race in history has been war, and this one is carrying us headlong in the same direction. The accumulation of military strength implies the threat of using that strength as a means for protecting our interests. It is unthinkable that we fully intend to unleash the destructive powers of our atomic weapons on even our most bitter enemies. Yet even if we do not intend this, and our threat is a bluff, it is naive to suppose that this bluff will not eventually be called. When it is called, we will be compelled to carry out our threats, and the use of arms will cease to be a bluff. It will be a necessity. Our race for military supremacy draws us inevitably to the use of military power.

To our militaristic foreign policy is now to be added the Eisenhower doctrine committing us to military involvement in the Middle East. Expression of public opinion received by mail in Washington has been eight to one against such involvement. We feel it our responsibility as citizens of the United States to add to this manifestation of opinion. As students we have the unique opportunity to do so. If you feel as we do:

1) Write individual letters to your senator, expressing your views.
2) Urge your student government to draft a petition against our policy in the Middle East, to be sent to the President.

Committee of Wesleyan Students
John S. Mann, Chairman

Varied Activity To Highlight Weekend; Fraternity, Sorority, All-College Events

by Peri Grenell

There's a busy weekend coming up, featuring fraternity formals, sorority dances, parents' weekend and pre-freshman weekend.

The events begin tonight with Alpha Gamma Delta Spring Formal being held at the Oakland Beach Hotel. Music will be provided by Ray Stomp's Band and the faculty is invited.

The Kahkwa Club will be the scene of the Phi Delta Theta Formal, also tonight. Those present, including alumni from Erie, will dance to the music of Neil Charles' Band.

Tomorrow morning brings the arrival of the pre-freshmen and the parents attending the various parents' weekends.

On this list are the men of Delta Tau Delta, who will entertain their parents at Kerr's for dinner and with entertainment at their house that evening. Sunday breakfast and the noon meal will be served at the house.

Mothers of the Kappa Alpha Theta and Kappa Kappa Gamma girls will journey here for their Mothers' weekends. The Kappa's will have dinner at the Cottage, and entertainment consisting of skits and a trio in the sorority rooms. Theta mothers will be dined and entertained at the S.A.E. house. Their weekend will end with a tea Sunday.

Trellises of roses will decorate the Marine Bar of the Oakland Beach Hotel tomorrow night for the Alpha Xi Delta Rose Formal, with music provided by Al Berkebile's Combo.

Sunday will bring a unique close to the weekend with a concert by Elizabethan Folk Singer Suzanne Bloch at the College Union.

Young-Seeley Marriage In Va. During Vacation

A surprise was in store for Allegheny students when they returned from their vacation. They discovered that Dr. Frederick F. Seeley, well known professor of English was married on April 15 to Mrs. Pauline Parker Young of 25 Allegheny Street.

The wedding took place in Harrisonburg, Va., after which the happy pair paid a visit to Dr. Seeley's mother, Mrs. Ida Seeley in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Dr. and Mrs. Seeley are now residing at 225 Meadow Street. Mrs. Seeley is employed in the Admissions Office.

Junior Pat Bell Named Meadville Ambassador

by Ginny Perrine

Pat Bell, sophomore, has been selected by the Meadville Area as Community Ambassador to Germany for this summer. She was selected from her application and personal interview on the basis of scholarship, high school and college activities and a complete description of her and her family.

Pat will leave for Germany on about June 10 and will return September 15. While in Germany she will live with a German family for four weeks and then she will tour for four weeks.

"The reason for the selection of Germany can be credited to Dr. Paul Cares and History 18. Also, Germany is in the heart of Europe," Pat commented.

Pat, a history-political science major, is a member of the Alpha Chi Omega Social Fraternity, Senate, and AUC, is Rush Chairman of Alpha Chi Omega, a Junior Advisor, and is in charge of the fashion show for May Day.

Commenting on her trip, Pat said, "I'm hoping that the knowledge and experience I pick up on the trip will help me to get a position with the government when I graduate."

Jazz Expert Hammond Talks, Spins, Fascinates

"Jazz is found in all sorts of odd places" was the point stressed by the jazz critic John Hammond during two informal discussions last Thursday at the College Union. The entire day's program was entitled "Jazz Day At The College Union."

To illustrate this point Hammond played a spiritual recording with Clara Wood as vocalist in which a definite jazz beat could be recognized. Another example was an over-accentuated primitive beat of Bo Didley in his "I'm A Man."

Hammond also stressed that new singers are coming from churches. The beat was more compelling at religious shows but this type of gospel music has been frowned upon because of its misconception as Holy Roller music. "It is the kids today," said Hammond, "that are discovering this music and accepting it."

In regard to Benny Goodman, Hammond said that Goodman was a musical genius who insisted on rigidity, had an uncanny sense of rhythm, and paved the way for mixed racial groups. "But due to his nervousness, Goodman's best music is in the past."

Because of Goodman's tour of the Far East, the American policy has been strengthened, Hammond claimed. His mixed groups showed the Orientals that the Negroes and whites were not at swords' points. Goodman was invited to places that State Department officials could not visit. In reference to Goodman's trip, Hammond declared. "I'd like to see him in Moscow."

Toward the end of the discussion, Hammond turned briefly to one of his discoveries, Count Basie. The playing of "Teco Shuffle" brought these words from Hammond, "Count Basie may not play many notes, but what he plays is so right."

Hammond stated, "Jazz must be unwritten and spontaneous; it is primarily an improviser's art." A good jazz artist has integrity and talent, he continued, and he would consider Ella Fitzgerald, Teddy and Wilson, "even" Benny Goodman, and Dave Brubeck ("a man of passionate convictions as well as talent") good artists. On the other hand, Hammond would not include Stan Kenton ("does not have much technical talent as a pianist") in this group. He criticized Kenton for resting too heavily on classical music for support. "Jazz", he stated, "does not have to apologize to classical music."

Asian Land System And Overpopulation Discussed At Smith, Schwartz Lecture

by Peri Grenell

"Feudal or semi-feudal land systems", poverty and overpopulation, and desire for industrial growth compose the basic problems in the "Battle for Asia", which was the topic of the symposium conducted by Dr. Robert Aura Smith and Dr. Harry Schwartz, both of The New York Times Editorial Council, in Ford Chapel on April 24.

Asia, aside from being the most populated area in the world, is also the poorest. "Tens of millions of Asians live on less than $50 a year, with poverty and disease the breeding grounds for Communism," Dr. Schwartz stated.

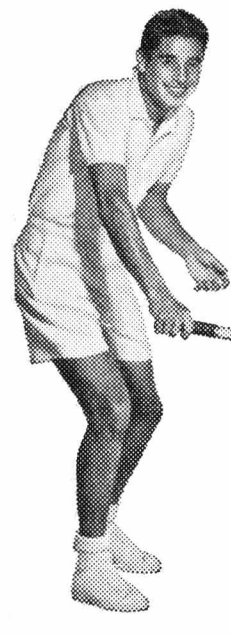

Dr. Smith then proceeded to elaborate on the cutting of foreign aid. He referred to this policy as "people playing an obscene numbers game with the lives of other people in the world."

In discussing Asia as an area composed of individuals, Dr. Smith made the observation that there is no such thing as the "Asian Mind", just as there is no such thing as the "Western Mind". "We've got to take the labels off them and understand them as individual human being," Smith added.

Freshmen Judged On G-1 Techniques In Philo-Franklin Contest Participation

The annual Philo-Franklin Speech Contest will be held in Quigley Auditorium at 7:00 p.m. next Wednesday evening, May 8. The contest is open to all G-1 students and is an opportunity for students to exhibit the skills they have acquired in the course. Speeches are prepared and must last from five to seven minutes. Contestants will be judged on clarity of organization, aptness of supporting material, delivery, content, and general effectiveness.

Preliminary eliminations will be held on Tuesday, May 7 from three to five in the afternoon with about forty students participating. The eight to twelve finalists will be competing for prizes of $5, $10, and $15. Judges for the finals have not yet been chosen.

Gator Golfers Down Edinboro 14½-3½; Defeated By Grove City College 13-5

The Allegheny Golf team opened their 1957 season with a decisive 14½-3½ win over Edinboro last Saturday. The Gator Golfers won four and tied two of the six matches.

Gator captain Dave Law fired his way to a sizzling 5 over par 77, while teammate Bill Henry shot a hot 78. The best score the Red Raiders could turn in was an 18 over par 82 by Chuck Holowach.

Grove City evened the Gators record by smashing Allegheny 13-5 at the Oakland Beach Country Club, Conneaut Lake on Tuesday. Once again, Law led the Gators, with a 78, but lost his match to Don Kennedy, 2-1. Bill Henry was the only Gator to win a match as he downed Dick Ladley, 3-0.

Netters Defeat Gannon; Lose Second To Case

Allegheny's tennis team is riding on a 1-1 record after their first week of competition.

The Gator netters lifted the lid on the 1957 season by downing Gannon 7-2 here last Saturday. Brock and Boyle rallied nicely in the first and second singles matches and pulled out wins. Midlam, Borakov and Herron also won singles matches and Brock and Boyle, Borakov and Linn won doubles matches.

Tuesday the story was reversed as the Gators were upset by a tough Case squad, 6-3. Borakov and Herron were the only Gators to win singles matches and Midlam and Herron won their doubles.

The results from the Gannon match:

George Brock (A) defeated Brighton (G) 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Ross Boyle (A) defeated Carey (G) 6-8, 6-3, 6-3.

Dale Midlam (A) defeated Foht (G) 6-2, 6-2.

Howard Borakov (A) defeated Campbell (G) 6-1, 6-1.

Gator Nine Defeats Mt. Union 5-4; Then Defeated By Clarion STC 3-2

by Jack Hazlett, Sports Editor

The inexperienced Allegheny baseball team pulled a 5-4 upset here Saturday afternoon as they opened the season against a strong Mount Union team. The Ohioans, with eleven returning lettermen and six games already under their belts, were highly favored over Bob Garbark's squad which only had a few days practice prior to the opener.

Pitcher Jack Keppel struck out three and allowed no walks but was tabbed for ten hits by the Raiders. The Gators only collected four singles off starter Bill Nutt and reliefer Bob Conkle but drew eight walks during Nutt's six and a third innings on the mound.

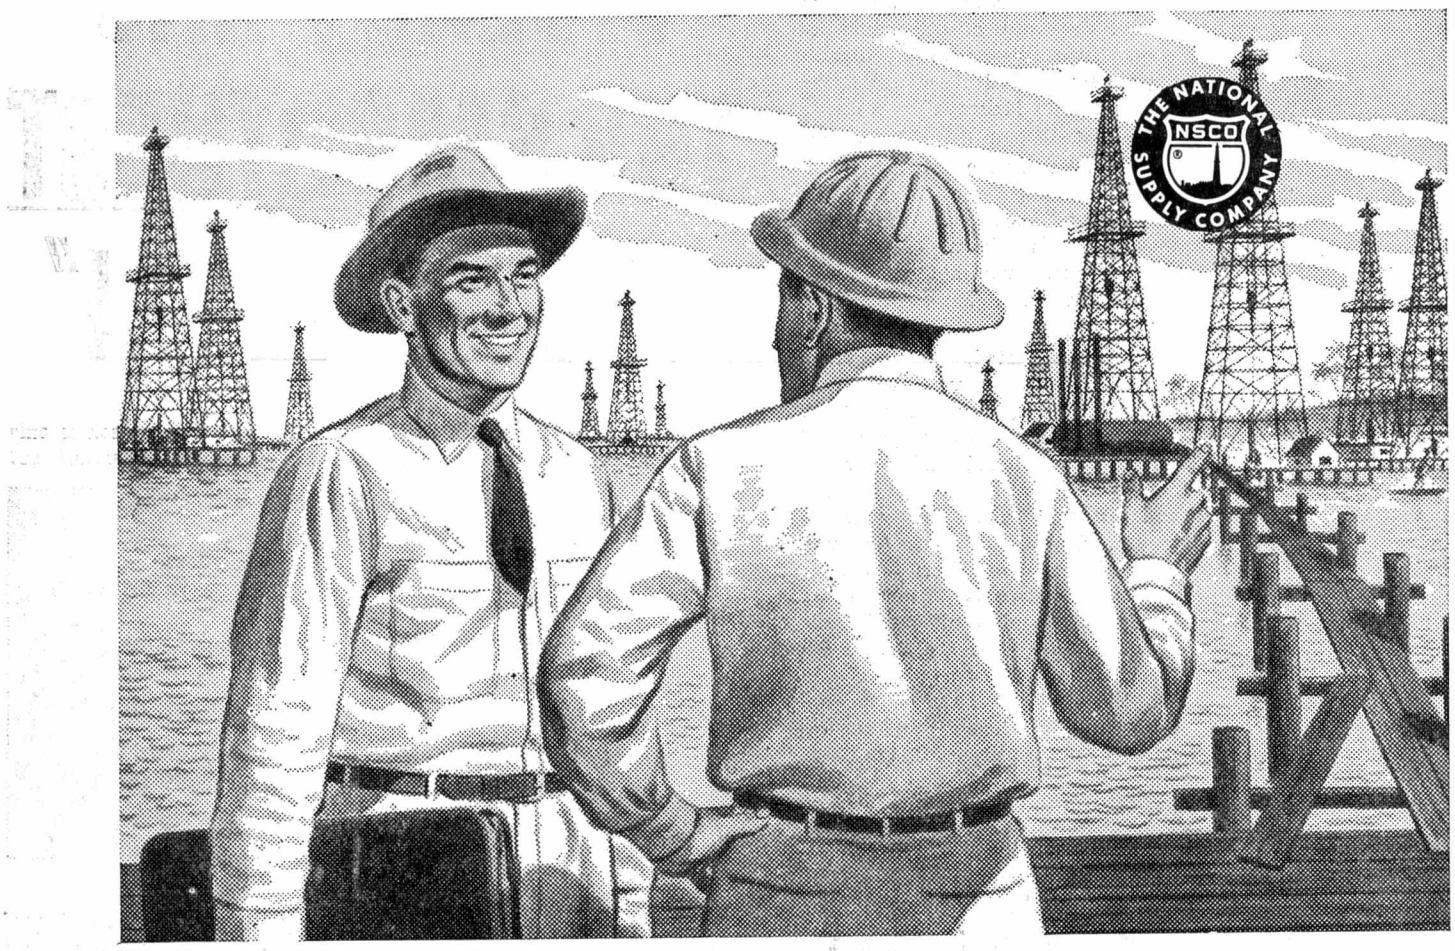

Allegheny drew first blood in the first inning when Heinie Mueller, Jim Dronsfield, and Jim Knepper were walked with two men out. A grounder by Jim Swartz was fumbled by Fehrman and two runs scored. Cullinan muffed the throw to the plate and Knepper crossed the dish with run number three.

Keppel got into a jam in the fifth inning and the Raiders singled home one run before the fire was out.

Bill Stoughton came up with an unassisted double play in the seventh but not before Mount Union had tallied twice again. The tie score was broken in the home half of the inning as Dal Matthews and Bucky Crabb singled and Jim Knepper was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Matthews walked home as Swartz was issued a base on balls. Frank Maldonado hit a sacrifice fly to left and Crabb trotted home with the Gator's fifth run of the ball game.

Keppel was in trouble again in the ninth but the Raider rally fell one run short and the Gators walked off with the victory.

In his second start of the year Tuesday, Jack Keppel pitched a beautiful six hitter but the Gators only collected three themselves and ended up on the short end of a 3-2 score at Clarion.

HE TRAVELS THE WORLD

Not long ago he was a young man with an apartment in New York and a future with National Supply. Now, as evidence of that future, he finds himself 2,700 miles to the south, calling on a drilling superintendent on the shore of Lake Maracaibo, in Venezuela.

The Many-Sided Travellers—They make quite a group, these travellers who cover the entire free world for National Supply. They work with our representatives and agents in 24 countries on six continents. Selling oil field machinery, they handle orders involving hundreds of thousands. Negotiating with high government officials as well as with businessmen, they must be diplomats as well as salesmen.

All Roads Lead Up—If our traveller had elected a National Supply career closer to home, he might now be managing an oil field store with annual sales over a million; helping to streamline a cost system at one of our six plants; trouble-shooting an engineering problem on a drilling rig in Illinois; helping to build our distribution for pipe and conduit in the heavily populated areas of the country.

These are only a few of the good stepping-stones in National Supply. With some $260 million in sales last year, with product lines that cover a very wide range of industry, National Supply is big enough so a good man need never be stymied by lack of a better job ahead. But it is not yet so large that a good man can be lost in the crowd.

Just Twenty-Five—Every year National Supply conducts a search for twenty-five exceptional college graduates. Accountants, industrial management majors, salesmen and engineers—men who want responsibility, who prefer to move up rather than vegetate. For those interested in a general business career there is a broad nine months training program which includes indoctrination lectures, field assignments and plant visits. For the engineer who seeks the challenge of product design there is a longer range development program embracing indoctrination, plant and field experience. In either case, they will be men who are attracted by National Supply's growth possibilities.

The National Supply men coming to your campus soon can tell you more. Meantime, for further information, write to the Supervisor of Personnel Training, The National Supply Company, Two Gateway Center, Pittsburgh 30, Pennsylvania.

Freshmen: Registration Advice

The Counseling Center has drawn up the following memorandum to all freshmen (although others will be interested, too) to assist them in the selection of fields and change of advisers.

Now is the time for pre-registration for next year's courses, and you will want to give thought to selecting, at least tentatively, a field of concentration. Probably you will raise questions such as:

How Do I Choose A Field?

Many of you already have educational goals in mind. Others may need more information and more experience before deciding on a major field. A Liberal Arts college like Allegheny, fortunately, offers you an exposure to a number of fields, so that whatever specialization you eventually settle upon, may be wisely chosen in the light of your values and capacities.

In selecting a major field, you should first discuss the opportunities and courses in any departments that interest you with faculty members in those departments.

Your present faculty advisers will be glad during the pre-registration period to discuss in more detail with you the making of choices for next year. They will probably suggest that you first talk with faculty in departments that seem to interest you. If you want further information on the nature of various occupations, the training required, and the future outlook for various fields. it is suggested that you look over the occupational material at the Counseling Center. Mrs. Sonia Esterly will be glad to help you to locate such information. Then you may initiate applications for enrollment in a department on forms provided by your present adviser or by the Counseling Center.

What If I Cannot Decide Now?

If you do not wish to make even a tentative choice of a field yet, you may remain with your present faculty adviser for the time being. In that case, you should also make an appointment at the Counseling Center to see if we can help you through occupational information, vocational tests, and conferences to develop more knowledge of your own capacities related to the world of work and to programs here.

May I Change My Field Later?

Yes, remember that you may make choices now that are tentative, and, with a certain few exceptions primarily in the sciences, you may still change your field by the end of next year. The faculty will expect you to maintain a 75 per cent average in any field that you select.

What About Changing My Adviser?

However, if you have chosen a field different from that in which your present faculty adviser teaches, even though you may feel reluctant to make a change from your present adviser, you should do so for two reasons: First, he or she cannot have time next year to serve as a general adviser for the incoming freshmen, particularly in a new class whose size may well be increased, unless most of his advisees, as is usual for upperclassmen, have moved on to departmental advisers. Secondly, you will, of course, maintain your friendship with your present adviser, and should also become well acquainted with a faculty member in the department where you may be spending most of your time. This departmental adviser can answer your questions in full detail about that particular field, and can help you plan a program to meet any special problems within that area. In some cases the chairman of the department may wish to indicate an adviser for you in order to keep faculty advising loads balanced within his department. The department chairman concerned must approve your application in order for you to be considered as majoring in that department. The form that you use for applying to a department has a place on the lower-half for your present and new advisers to sign. This slip is detached and brought to the Counseling Center for our records.

What About Finances?

Scholarships must be renewed each year. Application blanks for scholarships and for work aid may be obtained from Mrs. Dorothy Stephens, secretary, 2nd Floor Bentley Hall.

Whom May I See If I Want Further Help?

A list of faculty members in various department who will be available for conferences will be posted, and distributed through your residence counselors. Your faculty advisers will meet with you in a group, and for individual talks if you wish. In addition the following members of the Personnel Staff will be glad to assist you in clarifying your objectives:

Mr. William Wharton, Counseling Center, 2nd Floor Bentley, phone ext. 298. Come in or call Mrs. Sonia Esterly for an appointment.

Mr. William Cooper, College Union, Cochran Hall. Come in Tuesday or Thursday during the day or phone ext. 227 for an appointment.

Mr. Charles McCracken, Student Personnel Office, 2nd Floor West Bentley. Come in or phone Mrs. Beverly Brink, ext. 221 or 264, for an appointment.

Mrs. Ruth Knights, Student Personnel Office, 2nd Floor West Bentley. Come in or phone Mrs. Sally Freund, ext. 221 or 264, for an appointment.

AUC Attendance Records

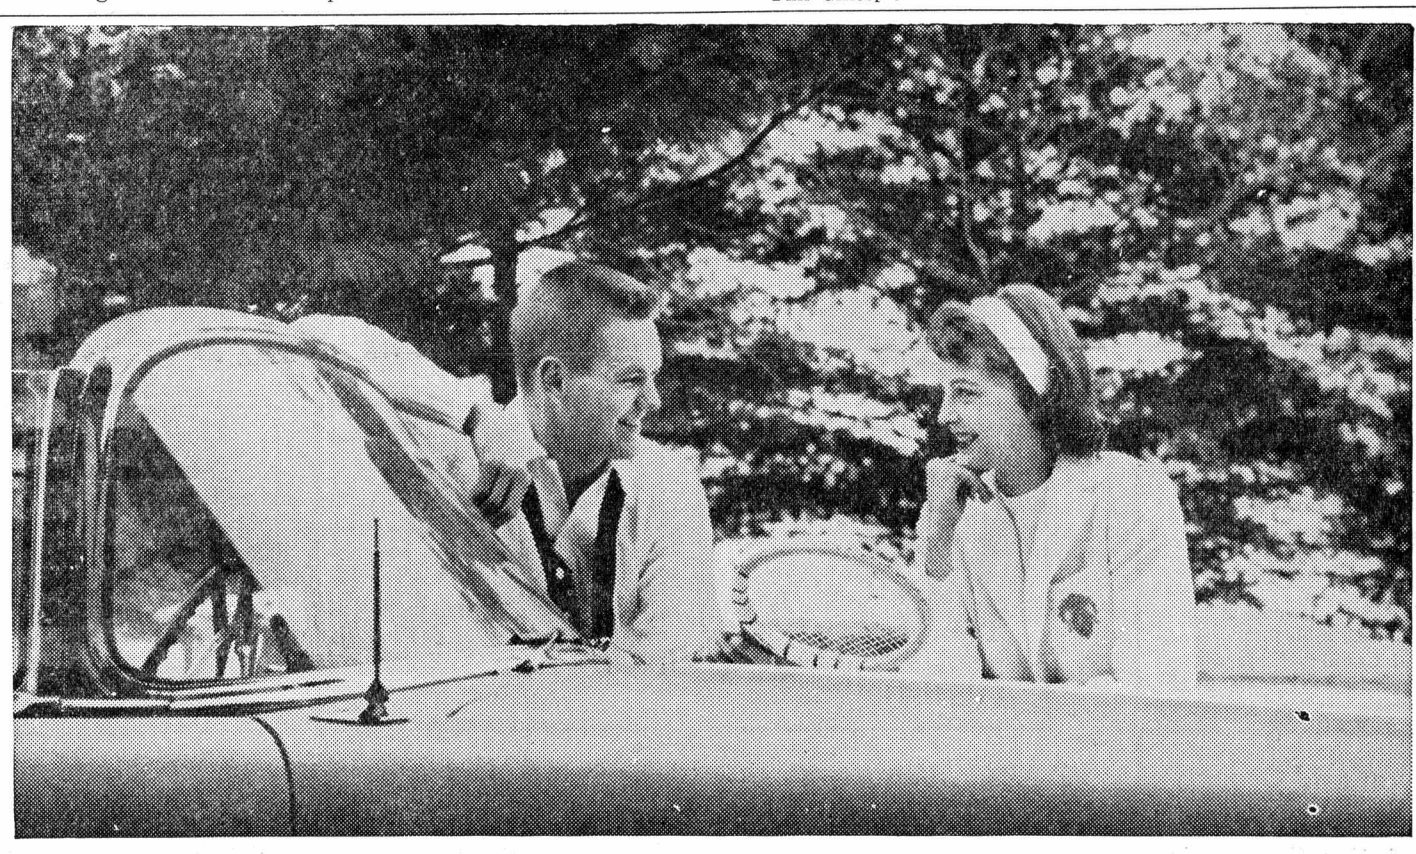

The following attendance records of Allegheny Undergraduate Council members include the period from the inauguration of the present administration through last Sunday, a total of 26 meetings. Data is complied from official AUC records.

The first column indicates how many meetings the representative attended. The second column indicates the number of times an alternate replaced a representative at a meeting. The last column indicates the number of meetings at which the group was not represented.

Indented names are those of representatives who assumed their positions during the semester.

AUC By-Laws state that, "If any member of the Council is absent from more than two meetings of the Council in a year without a valid excuse, the member shall be dropped from the Council."

Burroughs Sales Representatives enjoy the pleasures of success early

Your career's off to a fast start—the rewards of success are yours early—as a Burroughs Sales Representative.

You'll take pride in representing such a top "name" company, too, as you make day-by-day business contacts with high-level executives. You'll be a systems counselor—with a company that's a leading producer of business machines, electronic computers, data processing systems and other electronic equipment for business, government, industry and defense.

As a Burroughs Sales Representative, you'll be paid while receiving thorough training designed to equip you fully for your career ahead. Your training is continuous, too—for you'll be kept up to date always on the latest developments and techniques required for top performance.

After your formal training and some experience under the guidance of experts, you'll be ready to go on your own, analyzing your clients' special needs, recommending appropriate systems, and implementing them with the necessary Burroughs equipment. And, of course, most of these client contacts are at the management level.

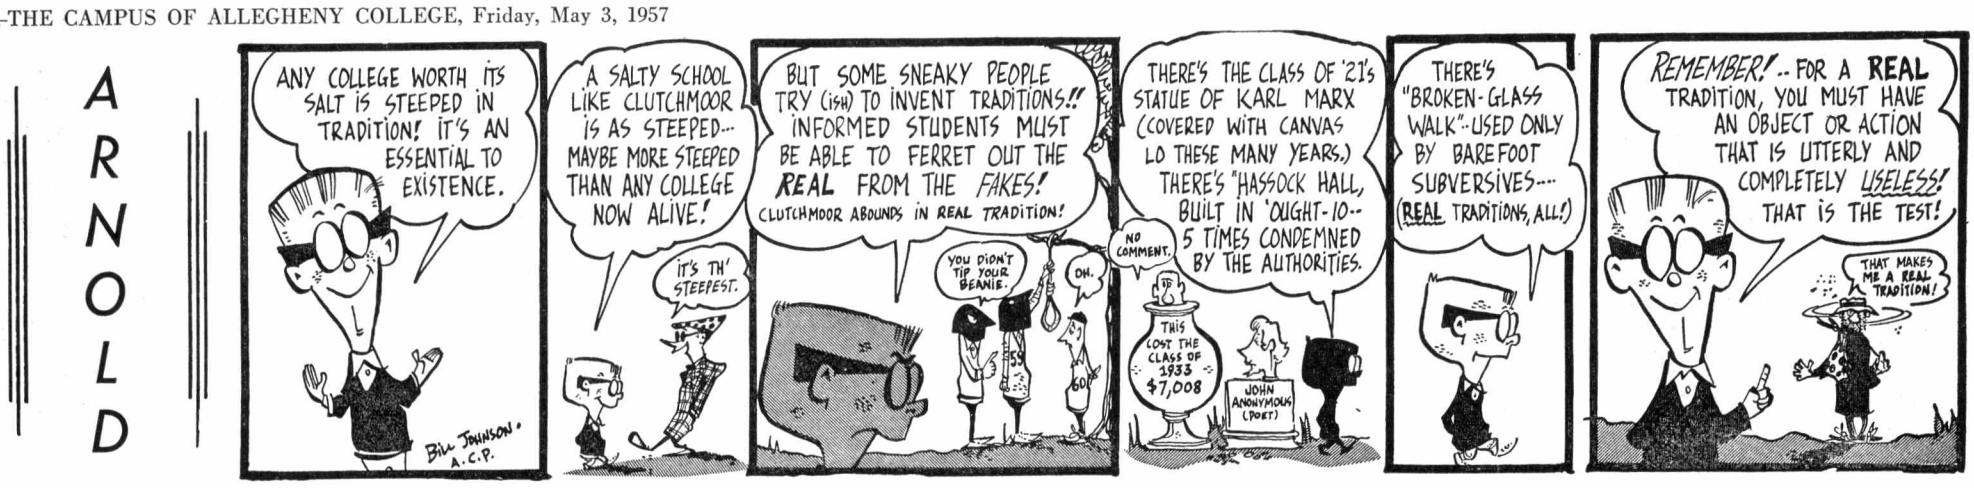

And here's a "plus" benefit. Burroughs Corporation has offices in all principal cities of the United States and Canada and you can select the area in which you want to work.

Your income potential as a Burroughs Representative will be outstanding; general company benefits are the finest. Why not find out now how you might fit into this success picture?

Study and Travel

by Jan Bailey

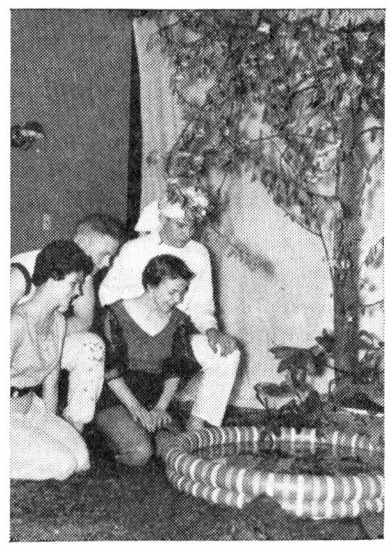

With this beautiful weather we're having, it doesn't seem so long until summer vacation. What are you planning for this summer? Here is the answer: a fabulous summer in Europe at a low, low price.

United States National Student Association, in answer to many demands, is offering an exciting new tour, 1957 Whirlwind Tour, for only $780.

Sailing time is Saturday, July 6, aboard the trans-Atlantic ocean-liner "Neptunia". A special program will be held on deck during the crossing. You will walk through the fascinating sections of Paris, France; will see Cologne, Heidelberg, and Munich, Germany; and sight-see the interesting places in Austria. In Italy you will sail down the canals of Venice, will visit the ancient Roman monuments in Rome, and see Florence and Genoa. When you travel back through France you will see the famous places on the Riviera, will continue on to see the Alps, and will pick up those places you missed in Paree.

Transworld Travel Service is also offering a unique summer in Europe which combines just enough of the planned tours of Europe with time in all cities to browse on your own. You will be visiting Stratford-On-Avon, Oxford, and have a week in London, England. From there you will fly to Amsterdam, then take a train through Belgium to France. Rome and Venice, Italy, are also included along with Belgrade, Yugoslavia, and Vienna, Austria.

If you really feel like doing SOMETHING this summer stop up at the Campus offce for more details.

"Campus" Staffers Will Attend Press Meeting

The recently formed Penn-Ohio Collegiate Press Association, of which The Campus is an active member, will hold its First Annual Spring Meeting at the Hotel Pick-Ohio in Youngstown, tomorrow.

The session, which will last all day, will feature a talk by N. R. Howard, editor of the Cleveland News. In the morning, students working on participating colleges' newspapers will talk on various aspects of newspaper writing.

One of the main highlights of the meeting will be the presentation of awards in 9 categories of newspapering. The awards are being sponsored by Youngstown area industries. The colleges that are competing for these awards besides Allegheny are Grove City, Hiram, Slippery Rock, Thiel, and Youngstown University.

Orchesis To Perform; Seasons To Be Depicted

Orchesis, Allegheny's modern dance group, will present its annual show in the Playshop at 8:15 p.m. on May 8, 9 and 10. This year the group is working around a theme which is based on the year, its seasons and their various holidays.

Previously, Orchesis has had a faculty director, but this year's production is completely student directed, choreographed and costumed. Included in the program will be a solo, a duet and a specialty number by the freshman members.

The following members are participating in the show: Audrey Bishop, Phyllis Bogert, Ann Butler, Barb Carnahan, Val DiPipi, Peggy Doncaster, Peggy Gray, Dotty Hanson, Mary Alice Hanson, Jane Parker, Penny Pollock, Jane Reid, Sally Ann Reynolds, Judy Senkewitz and Pat Van Olinda.
