SOPHS OUTCLASS FROSH IN ANNUAL FIELD MEET

TIE-UP AND OTHER EVENTS DE-CLARED BEST IN RECENT YEARS

Although ending in a rather easy victory for the Sophomores, the annual Field Meet between the two lower classes was the best in recent years. In addition to the usual events, the tie-up, tug-of-war, sack race, and obstacle race, two new events, a pyramid race and a relay were added to the program. The meet was supervised by the Student Senate, and the various events were conducted with unprecedented precision and squareness. The final score was 27 1/2 to 10, the second year men taking all but two events.

Promptly at 9:30 the meet opened with the tie-up scrap. Contrary to the usual practice, the Freshmen got a square deal, the number of men on both sides being even and upper-class help being taboo. After fifteen minutes of spirited scrapping three Freshmen had been tied up and carried over the line, giving the Sophs a hard-earned 10 1/2 points.

The next event, the sack race, was also conducted fairly, no cutting of sacks being permitted. Nevertheless, McQuiston, Riener and Weining, all Sophomores, hopped over the hundred-yard course ahead of the entire field of entries, finishing in the order named, and added another seven points to the Soph total.

The third event, a pyramid race, went to the Frosh. The ten men on each team lined up, and on a signal raced thirty yards, built a pyramid, held it twenty seconds, broke down, and raced thirty yards to the finish line. Superior teamwork won for the Freshmen, their last man crossing the line a few yards ahead of the last Sophomore.

The tug-of-war was the most interesting event. Two out of three pulls decided the winner. An even number of men pulled for each side. The Sophomores pulled the Freshmen over on the first attempt, but the decision was given to the Freshmen because the Sophs had received outside assistance. The second pull was also won by the second year men, but by a close margin. The final pull was a walk-over for the Sophs and gave them another victory.

An obstacle race, in which contestants, in succession, jumped over one hurdle, dove through a second, crawled the length of a bench, climbed over a stepladder, under a net, through a barrel, and turned a forward and back-somersault, was won by Stright and Weining, of the Sophomores, over

LEACOCK IS INITIATED INTO PI DELTA EPSILON

PROF. R. W. THOMAS IS ALSO ELECTED INTO HONORARY
JOURNALISM FRATERNITY

Mr. Stephen Leacock and Mr. Robert W. Thomas were initiated into the Allegheny Chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon at a special ritual service held during a private reception given by the fraternity in honor of Stephen Leacock at the home of Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Swartley last Saturday night.

Mr. Leacock is one of the foremost writers of the day. He is the author of humorous books enjoyed by readers in all countries. In addition to these humorous works he has made valuable contributions to the field of political economy. No less than three publishing houses—one each in the United States, Canada and England—handle his productions.

Professor Thomas is acting head of the department of English Literature at Allegheny as well as devoting time to professional advertising. He received his bachelor degree from Allegheny and later did graduate work at Harvard. He edited the Kaldron in his graduating year. He is active in Allegheny journalism at the present time, serving on the Publication Board.

A thoroughly enjoyable social hour followed the ceremonies, and while the Fraternity informally gathered around for buffet luncheon, Mr. Leacock demonstrated that his wit is not confined to platform presentation

ALLEGHENY TO HAVE SONG BOOK PUBLISHED

MR. CHASE GAGE COMPILES SOME SEVENTY-FIVE COLLEGE AND FRATERNITY SONGS

Allegheny is soon to have its new song book which will contain many old standard songs as well as plenty of new ones. Chase Gage, the compiler, has been working on copy during the summer and hopes to have it in the hands of the publishers within a month. Several innovations will appear and the new book which will contain at least seventy-five songs.

The favorite song of each fraternity and sorority will be one of the new features. This will enhance the value to all, and make it mean more to each person who has one.

Several tunes are borrowed from Wesleyan University, of Middletown, Connecticut, and will be included in the make-up of the book as soon as the consent given to reword them is received from the authors.

It will be remembered that a song contest was held last spring in which there were several contributions by the students. The prize winning song "To Allegheny," by E. H. Hartzell, and one other, "Farewell Allegheny," by C. R. Gearhardt, will be included among the new songs. There was only one offering by the alumni for this contest which, although not a prize winner, had good enough qualities to be embodied in the new song book. It was sent in by Joseph C. Blucher, '13, now living in Seattle, Washington.

LEACOCK ENTERTAINMENT HAS CROWD IN CONTINUOUS UPROAR

Humorist Ridicules Absurdities of Literature in Lecture on "Frenzied Fiction"

With a droll and inimitably funny manner of presentation, Stephen Leacock, the great Canadian humorist, delivered his lecture on "Frenzied Fiction" last Saturday evening in Ford Memorial Chapel before an audience of more than three hundred people. Mr. Leacock, who is professor of Economics at McGill University at Montreal, is a humorist of international fame; and has published a number of well-known books, the most recent of which is "My Discovery of England." His lecture, "Frenzied Fiction," which appears in expanded form in a book, is a satire on different types of romantic literature.

The lecture concerned four general types of hero and heroine which occur in fiction from the Victorian period to the present. Probably the hero most familiar to many readers is "Ned," the ever-present idol in boys' books, whom Mr. Leacock characterized as being indestructible. "Ned" is the boy who could fight scores of savages in the tropics and slaughter a large number of them before he had to surrender. Invariably, however, he was finally seized and led to a boiling cauldron by the fiercely yelling savages. "But," said Mr. Leacock, "could they boil Ned? No! Ned is unboilable. This is the first point in the technique of story writing: never boil your hero."

This type of story did not persist. Mr. Leacock said, because there was one thing missing, namely, love. True, Ned always brought home a beautiful French or Spanish bride, but never until page 387.

For real heroism one must revert to early Victorian fiction in which there were long prologues with flowery descriptions and family trees. The heroine was always described as a sylph, the most fragile thing in the (Continued on page 2.)

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HEAD STIRS STUDENTS

W. R. LUNK URGES COOPERATION BETWEEN ALLEGHENY AND MEADVILLE

Mr. William R. Lunk, secretary of the Meadville Chamber of Commerce, spoke at the chapel exercises on Friday morning to create enthusiasm for the Allegheny-Grove City football game on the following day. That Mr. Lunk spoke right from the heart and meant what he said was easily perceptible, and the response was spontaneous. After he had sat down, Mr. Lunk was cheered again and again.

Following the usual devotional exercises, Graduate Manager S. S. Townsend took charge, and "All Hail, Allegheny" was sung under the leadership of Mr. Gage. Cheerleader Knapp then led in several rousing cheers, and Mr. Lunk followed him with his talk. "Tomorrow is ALLEGHENY DAY," said Mr. Lunk several times, each time with more force; then "TO-MORROW IS ALLEGHENY DAY!" the whole student body loudly repeated. "There is no Grove City about it," finished Mr. Lunk. In response to the clamor which prevailed after he had sat down, Mr. Lunk again rose and led the students in "TO-MORROW IS ALLEGHENY DAY!" With the singing of the "Pep Song," chapel was dismissed.

COLLEGE IS PLANNING FOR HOME-COMING DAY

GRADUATES TO RETURN TO AL-MA MATER ON DATE OF GENEVA GAME

November 3, the date of the football game with Geneva, is to be Homecoming Day for the alumni of Allegheny College. It is planned to make this day an annual affair, and all of the graduates are being urged to be present for the first attempt of this kind.

Graduate Manager Townsend is preparing a series of special athletic events that will be incorporated with the football game. A definite announcement concerning this will be made later. The game with Geneva will be, of course, the center of interest, because it will virtually decide the Class B Championship of this end of the State.

Social events for the entertainment of the alumni over the week-end are also under way, and there is no doubt but that the first Homecoming Day will be so successful that it will be established as an annual custom.

ALLEGHENY CAPTURES GRID CLASSIC FROM GROVE CITY

Hurricane Wrests 6-0 Score From Crimson
Gridders in Last Few Minutes of Play

Waving their Crimson banner, the emblem of two successive victories over the local Blue and Gold, came a contingent of some 2,000 men and women from Grove City, shrieking their team onto what proved a complete rout administered by these same twice defeated Alleghenians.

Waving frantically their gore-stained insignia come these enthusiasts only to flee back again. In the wake of their hitherto fast going and dangerous grid machine, a demoralized, beaten mob smarting under a 6 to 0 defeat tendered them by the burly McCrackenites.

Performing consistently, brilliantly, before a conservatively estimated four thousand persons, the largest crowd ever packed into Montgomery Field, the warriors of old Allegheny outplayed their invaders at every branch of the engrossing game only to be held at the threshold of several possible touchdowns. The Blue and Gold registered 12 first downs compared to the 3 awarded Grove City.

It was indeed an autumn classic with every indication pointing toward an unsatisfactory 0-0 tie until the close of the final period. Indications then fluttered to the four winds, and "Buck" Wolz charged himself smack into the time-honored hall of fame by sliding through the Grove City forwards, and clutched a delayed pass from Bible, crouching in the Crimson back field. Three minutes were left to play after this unexpected turn of affairs, and Allegheny proceeded to romp through the amazed opposition for a game winning, history-making score. Successive glides by Weaver and Smith placed the ball on Grove City's five-yard line from where Art Dahl crashed over the festive counting line.

The realization that the game was an important one, probably to determine the championship in Class B circles this year, caused both teams to fumble frequently during the first few minutes of play. Parnell kicked off, the ball sailing over the end line and being given to the Crimson on the 20-yard marker. On the first play Keck fumbled and Schultz recovered on the 21 for Allegheny. Dahl plunged through center for eight yards, but the referee ruled that a Meadville man was offside and they were penalized five yards. Hanlon fumbled but recovered for a loss of five more yards. Dahl made two yards at right guard and Hanlon hit off right end for a gain of eight yards. A forward pass failed and it was Grove City's ball on the 20-yard line. Brian punted on the first down. Miller recovering a fumble for Grove City on the Blue and Gold's 27-yard line. Brian made four yards off tackle. But Bible fumbled and recovered for a loss of eight yards. Myford threw Brian for a loss of three more yards and Brian punted offside on Allegheny's six-yard line. Judd immediately punted to Grove City's 45. Three plays lost two yards for the Crimson, and Brian's punt was (Continued on page 4)

WOMEN'S FRATERNITIES ANNOUNCE NEW PLEDGES

FORTY-FIVE WOMEN ADMITTED TO OUTER DOOR OF HEL-
LENIC SHRINES

Flowers and happy, smiling faces of the co-eds marked the termination, on Saturday, October 20, of three weeks of closed rushing of the several sororities of Allegheny College. Forty-five new women have been pledged by the four national and one local organizations and are now wearing the symbolic pledge pins of the sorority of their choice.

The close of a strenuous rushing period finds all the groups well satisfied with the results of their labors, and the radiant faces of the fortunate Freshmen speak well for the future of the sororities. The rushing season this year has been rather unusual because of the fact that the number of Freshmen women of the type from which the sororities choose is exceptionally large. The situation was further complicated because the Pan-Hellenic Council has limited the membership of each women's fraternity to 33. Competition between several of the organizations was extremely keen, but on the whole, the results may be said to be very satisfactory. The following is the list of pledges:

Mu Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta announces the pledging of the Misses Emma Snodgrass, Rochester, Pa.; Mary Webb, Meadville, Pa.; Eleanor Brown, Tionesta, Pa.; Ruth Devore, Meadville, Pa.; Martha Ferguson, Conneautville, Pa.; Loree McClaren, Saltsburg, Pa.; Mary Bell Mellor, Rochester, Pa.; Marian Taylor, Meadville, Pa.; and Jane Williams, Erie, Pa.

Gamma Rho Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma announces the pledging of the Misses Eleanor and Marion Bradford, Mansfield, O.; Martha Bordwell, Warren, Pa.; Hazel Deveraux, Tidioute, Pa.; Elizabeth Hammett, Katherine Hendershot, Jeanette Shiek and Mary Latshaw, all of Meadville, Pa.; Ann Morrison, Erie, Pa.; and Louise McVicar, Tarentum, Pa.

Delta Chapter of Alpha Chi Omega announces the pledging of the Misses Edith Shannon, Emlemont, Pa.; Alice Dorworth, Oil City, Pa.; Margaret Rankin and Anne Mackinac, McKeesport, Pa.; and Marietta Laffer, Elizabeth Collapsy, Josephine Pierson, Helen Brock, Mabel Schuler, Elizabeth Ellis, all of Meadville, Pa.

Kappa Chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta announces the pledging of the Misses Charlotte Derfus, Madeline Crowe, and Arline Smythe, Meadville, Pa.; Muriel Green, Shinglehouse, Pa.; Jean Pickard, Jamestown, N. Y.; Mildred Lose, Tonawanda, N. Y.; Margaret Mook, Saegertown, Pa.; Janet Curry, Meadville, Pa.; Marian White, Indiana, Pa.

Sigma Tau Sigma announces the pledging of the Misses Mary Bollinger, Katherine Crumrine, Katherine Froese, Meadville, Pa.; Sara Love, Vandergrift, Pa.; Luella Davis, Cambridge Springs, Pa.; and Lucille Baker, Latrobe, Pa.

MANY STUDENTS HEAR SOUSA BAND CONCERT

SPECIAL MATINEE ARRANGE-MENTS MADE FOR STUDENTS
BY PARK THEATRE

Citizens of Meadville and students of Allegheny were given an exceptional treat last Wednesday, when John Philip Sousa and his band appeared at the Park Theatre. The world-famous leader and his band of eighty-eight pieces gave both an afternoon and evening recital, with an entirely different program for each.

The fact that arrangements with the Park Theatre allowed the College to sell the students tickets for the matinee at a very low price was to a great extent responsible for the large representation from the Hill. Many students were so delighted with the first program that they returned for the evening recital.

Each performance lasted well over two hours, for, in addition to the regular program, encores were played after each scheduled selection. Many of the numbers were composed by Sousa himself, and nearly all of the borrowed selections had been skillfully arranged by him.

In addition to the eighty-eight pieces, the band carried several excellent soloists. They were: Miss Nora Fauchald, soprano; Miss Winnifred Bambrick, harp; John Dolan, cornet; Meredith Willson, flute; Miss Rachael Senior, violin; George Carey, xylophone.

OF INTEREST TO CARTOONISTS

All students who have had experience in cartooning are urged to demonstrate their ability for 1924 Kaldron. Cartoons or drawings on the following subjects are desired: Faculty, Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores, Freshmen, Football, Basketball, Track, and Forensic. All copy should be vertical and reduceable to 8x10 inches.

A PLEA FOR BETTER CHEERING

Why cheer the team? Let the Freshmen do it. This was a remark that was overheard Saturday before the game. Unfortunately, the one who said it is not alone in his attitude as to college spirit and cheering. It seems to be the general opinion among the upper classmen that a football game is to be observed in discreet silence. Possibly it would be better to follow the English example and applaud in a genteel manner after a touchdown, but colleges in this country have come to believe that nothing instills fight in a team more than the consciousness that behind the eleven there are hundreds of students who make known their confidence in the ability of the team by cheering their playing of the game.

There is no question but that Allegheny students can yell. At the Tech game last year fifty odd students made almost as much noise as the Tech stands. If fifty men can do that, why can't five hundred show their spirit by cheering at least as loudly as Grove City?

We may talk all we please about college spirit, but yelling speaks louder than talk. In chapel we give the college yells in a creditable manner, but on the field we seem to lose our voices just when we should have them.

Let's show the visiting teams that we are not inmates of a deaf and dumb institution—deaf to all pleas for better spirit, and dumb because of that attitude. Let us rather go out to the games prepared to do anything we can to help the team win. The Freshmen can't do all our cheering. If they did, they would be well on the way to running the College. Let us see to it that neither Grove City nor Geneva nor any other college shows better spirit than we who have pardonable pride in Old Allegheny and her teams.

SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS OFFER EXTENDED TO ALUMNI

Letters are very frequently being received from the alumni in which appreciation is expressed for their copy of the Campus. The College is sending its weekly newspaper to all graduates without charge. It is an open effort to increase interest in Alma Mater. The response from the alumni has been most encouraging.

In this issue there appears a subscription form for the Kaldron and the Literary Monthly at a special budget rate. The Kaldron, as the year book of old Allegheny, reflects a side of life on the Hill which the Campus cannot. Likewise, the Literary Monthly gives a local color in its stories, sketches, poems, and other contributions, which is of interest to every Alleghenian.

It is the hope of the Publication Board that many alumni will avail themselves of the opportunity to keep in closer touch with the College through its publications. The Board is making this special offer to that end.

WE DO NOT WANT ANY MORE ORGANIZATIONS

Sentiment grows steadily against the organization of any more clubs and honorary or professional fraternities in the College, most of us realizing that we have all we can take care of now. Yet the problem of checking them presents its difficulties. If one department has a club or fraternity, every other department has an equal right to have one. The right cannot be disputed. However, the dividing line has to be made somewhere, and while it may be quite logical for any other department to thus organize, it certainly is not expedient. There is no better time to limit burdening minor organizations than right now. Surely there is no Alleghenian who is not willing to sacrifice more immediate gratification for anything that will make for greater solidarity of the College.

Saturday, November 3, is Home-Coming day.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Bessie Dean Heath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Heath, of Meadville, to Mr. Harry H. Magee, of Pittsburgh. Mr. Magee was formerly a member of the class of 1922 but left before graduation to attend the Wharton School of Finance, from which institution he was graduated in 1922.

LEACOCK ENTERTAINMENT

world. Madeline, though young, always had a wonderfully-trained intellect and completely cowed the villain, Lord Rip, who wished to inveigle her into marrying him. While the inveiglement was going on, the hero, Markum, an impeccable young man with nothing much to him, made speeches at the villain.

After about eighty years of such stories, people got tired of the insipid characters. Then came into prominence the open air heroine—a strong, bold girl with a sombrero hat and a leather belt with a revolver stuck through it. The hero was a man all boots and beef with muscles like steel which he had tempered on the pampas of Patagonia.

These two, alone and unchaperoned, would go out on top of the Rocky Mountains and have a wild time dashing about on horseback, pursued by Indians. One knows that they were perfectly proper because the hero always called the girl "Miss Middleton," and buckled her into her tent at night as reverently as one would a sister.

After about fifteen years of popularity, this type of fiction was supplanted by the crime story, more commonly known as the detective story, under such titles as "After Midnight."

In this, John Curbstone, a young and sporting clubman, returned home and found that his house had been entered and his sideboard opened with a jimmy.

There was a profound silence throughout the house, made more evident by the ticking of a clock. This was pointed out by Mr. Leacock as an important point in the technique of story writing. "If you want to give the impression of deep silence," he said, "start the clock ticking."

Finally the silence was broken by a sound behind a cupboard door. John Curbstone drew his revolver and ordered the burglar to come forth. Out came "a slip of a girl" who turned out to be a member of an old New York family, even as John Curbstone was.

"I wanted the money so much," the girl said. Thereupon she accused him of hardheartedness for having previously refused to subscribe to an appeal for charity. "At that point the story was usually fifteen-hundred words long," Mr. Leacock said, "and inasmuch as that was all that the author was paid for, there was no use going on; so the story is stopped abruptly." John Curbstone hung his head and said, "Don't you think we've both been a little wrong?" Mutual confessions followed: the two married, and lived happily ever after. "A heroine always sniffs a detective story," said Mr. Leacock, "but since the heroine is there, we must bring her up to date!"

The present day love story is set indoors, contrary to the custom of the Victorian period. A steamer or hotel makes a good setting, but best of all is a midnight cabaret with marble top tables surrounded by waving rubber trees. "The rubber tree sees more of love in one evening than the Hawthorne does in a year," said Mr. Leacock. "Now the heroine doesn't get married at the end because she is married at the beginning. She is the wife of the 'other man'."

One half of the magazine stories now-a-days start with "The man" or "The woman"; the names are never mentioned. The story starts suddenly. The man, seated at a table in a cabaret, raises his head, looks around, and says "Bah! is it worth it?" then drops his head. You know that this is the husband of the other woman. The woman sits in her room in the tenth story of a hotel tearing a telegram into a hundred pieces. "When a woman is too rich to have other work to do," said Mr. Leacock, "she works out her own salvation."

The woman always wears a gown that clings. The man is described as having straight legs and an absolutely clean shaven face. "Keep your legs shaven," said Mr. Leacock, "and if the story should last more than twenty-four hours, shave him again."

Then the two are suddenly brought together. The man is staying at the same hotel as the woman and accidentally gets into her room. The sight of her puts him into a terrible state. His breath comes in quick, short pants, his brain beats against his head, and his veins surge out. The woman seems to sense what is coming. They stand sensing one another and talk in a cold fashion, using extraordinary verbs. Then the other man comes, and all three stand facing one another, conversing in cold, sarcastic terms.

The climax comes when the woman pulls out her revolver, and the story ends in one of three ways. She shoots both men, or she shoots one man, or else misses one after the other.

"Fiction," ended Mr. Leacock. "Is some of the most frenzied stuff that I ever got into."

Any organization desiring their cuts used in the Kaldron the past two years may secure them from the editor until November 10. After this date all cuts will be destroyed.

REPRESENTATIVES OF STUDENT MOVEMENTS VISIT ALLEGHENY

During the past week two men, prominent in religious work among students in American colleges and universities, were visitors at Allegheny. They came for the purpose of meeting and discussing with the local Christian Associations the work and plans for the coming year.

Mr. L. H. Miller, State Student secretary of the Y. M. C. A. met with a joint session of the Y. M. and Y. W. cabinets last Thursday in the oratory of the Chapel. He presented preliminary plans for the Quadrennial Student Convention to be held in Indianapolis, Ind., from December 28 to January 5, and also for the Bible Institute Convention to be held in Pittsburgh on the 3rd and 4th of November. Plans for the work of the year were also discussed at the meeting.

On Friday afternoon Mr. R. H. Warfield, of New York City, who is field representative for the Student Volunteer Movement, met with the two cabinets and talked over with them additional plans for the Convention. Allegheny is entitled to send at least six delegates, and ways and means of providing expenses for as many as possible were discussed. It is greatly desired to have Allegheny well represented at the conference as there will be delegates from all colleges and universities in the United States as well as many foreign representatives.

Mr. Russell Denison and Miss Sylvia Barnes were in Pittsburgh last week attending the fall council of the Student Volunteer Union of Western Pennsylvania.

SEVERAL OLD TREES—LANDMARKS OF THE COLLEGE ARE CUT DOWN

"Why are those trees being cut down?" asked one student as we walked past the spot where only a freshly hewn stump remained. "Why the they spoiling the campus?" remarked another. Similar questions have been passing through the minds of many others since the removal of several trees from the College campus.

How often have we passed those same trees and scarcely noticed them? Now they leave a barrenness which startles us. Their absence gives us a feeling not unlike that of losing a life-long friend.

Those who were curious enough to make inquiry learned that the ill-fated trees were removed for specific reasons and not in a haphazard manner as some were wont to believe. Dead trees detract from the beauty of our campus, and for this reason several were chopped down. The others were either too thick and ugly or were crowding out and injuring smaller trees. Among those unfortunate trees which no longer adorn our campus was a Norwegian Maple which stood at a little distance above the driveway. This maple is said to be the only one of its kind in Meadville, but not even its uniqueness could save it.

Time will darken the stony whiteness of the stumps which now catch our eyes. Young trees, more beautiful perhaps than their predecessors, will in time take the place of the old.

FRESHMAN ORCHESTRA IS ORGANIZED

What is hoped will be a successful Fresh orchestra is now in the making. Several freshmen, with R. L. Birchard as a leader, have had several meetings and have settled on an organization composed of seven pieces: two saxophones, cornet, trombone, banjo, piano, and traps.

It is essentially a freshman product, and the members, expect to play for different college functions as well as to have some other local appearances.

KAPPA PHI KAPPA ADDS
THREE MEMBERS TO ROLL

Allegheny Zeta chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa announces the initiation of Professor Arthur S. Emig, Samuel A. Alter, and H. Wayne Cummings. Professor Emig is a faculty member of the Philosophy and Education department. He has been a student in this field not only in colleges and universities of the United States but also Europe. Both Mr. Alter and Mr. Cummings are advanced students in the department.

The local chapter of this national education fraternity was installed last spring, and since then has had a healthy growth. Because of the requirements to membership, the roll consists largely of Seniors and some Juniors.

In the current issue of "The Open Book" of Kappa Phi Kappa, the publication of the national fraternity, a full page photograph of the Allegheny Zeta group appears. There was also a detailed account of the chapter here.

DEBATE AND INITIATION IS PROGRAM AT PHILO-FRANKLIN FORUM LAST FRIDAY

Philo-Franklin Forum held its regular meeting last Friday, and C. E. Hammett and C. L. Sutton presented a very interesting debate on the question, "Resolved that the United States should enter the League of Nations." The vote of the Forum was in favor of Mr. Hammett of the negative. After a round-table discussion of the subject, new applications were received. The members then proceeded with initiation, and eleven men went through some nerve racking moments before they were received into full membership.

The applications of the following men were then favorably acted upon: John B. Harrison, John H. Blower, H. E. Garland, Gerald A. Brannon, Clarence F. Avey, Lloyd Bromley, and Richard Harvey, and they are to be present at the next meeting for initiation.

The subject for debate next week is, "Resolved that the United States should enter the World Court as it is now constituted." It will be discussed by George M. Fitzpatrick, affirmative, and G. Alfred Palmer, negative. All the men of the College are invited to attend the Forum meetings.

PHILOSOPHY AND EDUCATION CLUB MEETS

The Philosophy and Education Club held its first meeting of the year last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. F. G. Henke, 643 William Street. It was purely a business meeting, and no program had been arranged. The subject chosen for the next meeting is "Hypnotism," and along with its discussion it is planned to have some actual hypnotism. After the election of new members, refreshments were served and the meeting was adjourned.

Professor Arthur S. Emig was elected to the club as an honorary member. As the number of members elected was too large to be handled at one time, a group of eight was initiated at a meeting held in Ruter Hall on Tuesday afternoon. They are: S. A. Alter, J. J. Fries, Iva Jennings, M. M. Mook, Katherine Morrow, Elizabeth Laffer, V. A. Chilcote, and R. R. Denison.

LE PETIT SALON INITIATES

At their first regular meeting of the year, Le Petit Salon held initiation at four o'clock last Monday afternoon in the living room of Hulings Hall. As the program of the meeting and as part of the initiation ceremony, the initiates presented two plays and some Mother Goose Rhymes in French. "Bluebeard" was the title of one of the plays. The part of the crafty Bluebeard was played by C. E. Hammett, Jr., and two of his many wives were Eleanor Barnhurst and Virginia Kerr. The other play, entitled "L'Ad-vocat Patelin," was given by George Bowers, Alex Hill, Boyd Miller, and Edgar Dehne. Nellis Fisher coached it. Mother Goose Rhymes and kid songs were presented by Elizabeth Charlton, Irene Colbert, Adelaide DeMaison, Olga Lewis, Jeanette McKee, Ruth Mumford, Mary Louise Murphy, Helen Robinson, La Roux Rasel, and Elinor Van Scoten. Miss Chevreton and Mary Dorworth coached the girls.

MEMBERS ARE ELECTED INTO QUILL CLUB

Quill Club announces the newly-elected members: Edgar Dehne, John Gordon, Alex Hill, Stuart McQuiston, Alfred Palmer, John Pratt, Karl Reimer, Allison Rumer, Virginia Berry, Ruth Elliott, Virginia Kerr, Florence Shehan, Nellie Titus.

Initiation was held in the Quill Club room in the library last night, after which refreshments were served.

STUDENTS' SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS DISCUSS THE NATURE OF THE BIBLE

Dr. C. F. Littell's Sunday School class, conducted at the Stone Church for college men, met last Sunday for the third time with about forty-five in attendance. The class assembled in its new quarters on the second floor of the south wing of the church. The subject of the lesson taught by Professor Littell and discussed in open forum by the class was "The Nature of the Bible." As in the case of the previous lessons, the question was taken up from the college man's viewpoint, and it dealt with the college man's problem: in clarifying his own doubts concerning the amount of credence he should place in the exact sayings of the Scriptures.

The class, which is organized temporarily under the presidency of Jack Prather, will meet again next Sunday for a discussion of the subject of evolution. At this time it is hoped that a class orchestra can be organized for the opening exercises.

GIRLS' BIBLE CLASS TO BE ORGANIZED

A Bible class for the girls of Allegheny College will be organized next Sunday at the Stone Church. Mrs. Emig has kindly undertaken to instruct the class. Class officers will be elected next Sunday.

All College girls are invited and urged to attend the next meeting, which will be held in the room formerly occupied by the Women's Bible Class of the church.

McCRACKEN PREPARES TEAM FOR ROCHESTER

UP-STATE GRIDDERS MAY PRO-VIDE STIFF FIGHT FOR HURRICANE

With the Grove City game proving that the Blue and Gold squad is in perfect fighting trim, Coach McCracken has turned his efforts to tuning up his huskies for their game with the University of Rochester on this coming Saturday, October 27, at Rochester, N. Y.

In the past, Allegheny grid teams have met Rochester three times scattered through a period of that many years. Only one of these games was played in Meadville, but upon all three occasions the Blue and Gold has won out by scores of 6-0, 7-0, and 18-0. However, since the two squads have not met within the past five years, these scores cannot be taken into account in predicting the comparative worth of the present eleven.

Rochester got off to a bad start this year, dropping two hard games at the very first of the season. On October 13, however, she showed a complete reversal of form and defeated her greatest rival, Hamilton, by a 13-0 count. Rochester usually meets Colgate near the end of the season, playing her final game with Hobart.

Because of the infrequency of athletic relations between the two colleges, little is known of the 1923 Rochester team, but in past years she has always been a worthy foe for the Blue and Gold. This year Allegheny outweighs her only a scant five pounds to the man, and if the up-Staters play the conservative eastern running game intermingled with short passes in which they were formerly so adept, they will put up a brand of football that may prove troublesome to the Allegheny forwards. In Sullivan, right half, they have a back who is rated as one of the shiftest and brainiest broken-field runners in the East. His fifty-four yard run to a touchdown brought the first score in the Rochester-Hamilton game, and he has yet to meet the defense which can consistently stop him.

Although Allegheny should, according to all indications, win this game, the Hurricane will know that she has been up against a tough proposition by the time the final whistle blows. For Rochester has the reputation of being a bunch of scrappers who know the game.

CROSS-COUNTRY TRIALS TO BE RUN OFF FRIDAY

CINDER MEN PREPARE FOR MEET WITH ALFRED ON FRIDAY,
NOVEMBER 2

Trials for places on the 1923 cross-country team will be held on Friday afternoon over the six mile course which the candidates have been working out on, ever since College began late in September. About fourteen men will compete for places on the Varsity in the trials and of this number five regulars and two substitute runners will be chosen.

The team picked in the tryouts will make the first trip of the season to Alfred University on November 2. The Adventists boast of an even stronger team this year than last, and in 1922 their squad rated as one of the champion teams of New York State.

Coach Faries announced that a home meet would probably be arranged with one of the Cleveland colleges if possible. A contest of this nature together with the Alfred and Pitt meets would round out a strenuous schedule. Graduate Manager S. S. Townsend stated that the prospective meet with West Virginia on Thanksgiving day had been dropped. It is probable that an intra-mural race of some sort will be substituted for this.

Smythe and Tornatore, of the Freshman class.

The final event, a ¾-mile relay, was won by the Sophomore team, consisting of Beyer, Harrison, Stright, and Bogardus, in the good time of 3 minutes 36 seconds. The Freshmen team consisted of Mays, Gould, Derby, and Ray.

As a whole, the entire meet was a complete success, and both classes, in addition to the spectators, were well satisfied with the outcome.

ALLEGHENY DEFEATS GROVE CITY

offside on Allegheny's 18. Dahl made two yards at right guard and Hanlon then made a pretty run of 20 yards through right tackle. The referee saw something wrong, however, called the ball back and penalized the Blue and Gold to the 10-yard line. Two plunges by Dahl gained five yards and Judd punted to Keck on his own 40-yard line. Grove City was unable to gain and again exchanged the ball on punts. Smith was downed on his 12-yard line and Hanlon made a beautiful run of 16 yards through left tackle. Dahl gained 16 more yards for the Blue and Gold through left guard, carrying the ball to the 44-yard line. Here the Grove City line held and Allegheny punted as the quarter ended.

The second and third quarters were very evenly played, the two teams resorting to punting usually on the fourth down. In the second period, Grove City completed its first down, a forward pass to Lopeman. Allegheny made two first downs in this period. In the third period, the local squad had frequent chances at the Crimson goal, but on every occasion either a fumble or Grove City's stiffening the line would prevent a score. The Blue and Gold made four first downs while the visitors failed to gain their yardage once.

The two teams were fighting with a grim determination when the fourth quarter opened with Judd kicking the ball offside on the Crimson one-foot line. Keck having waited to see if the ball would go over the goal line. Brian punted, but Allegheny was offside on the play and was penalized five yards. Brian's second attempt to punt was blocked, but a Grove City man recovered on the 8-yard line. Brian punted once again, this time Weaver receiving and advancing 15 yards to the 40-yard marker. Four plunges gained seven yards and Grove City was given the ball on downs. Brian's gain of eight yards was the only gain, however, and he then kicked out of bounds on Allegheny's 29. Weaver lost a yard, but Dahl gained three and then Weaver picked up 10 at left tackle. Failing to gain further, Judd kicked to Keck on the 36.

It was Bible's fumble that here turned the tide of the battle. The Crimson halfback juggled the ball and when the players were finally picked up Wolz was resting comfortably on the pigskin on the Crimson's 25-yard line. Weaver made three yards at left tackle. Smith made two at right guard and then a first down with six yards at right tackle. Allegheny's ball on the 14-yard marker. Dahl was held at left tackle, but Smith and Weaver, on two plunges off tackle, gained nine yards and placed the ball within five yards of the goal. It was on the next play that Dahl plunged directly through the center of the line, carrying three of the Crimson players with him. The huge crowd went into an uproar and the game was halted for several minutes. The attempted placement kick was blocked and the score was 6 to 0.

Grove City made a threat in the minutes immediately following the touchdown when two forward passes, Brian to Hill, gained 16 and 20 yards respectively and carried the ball to Allegheny's 40. Another pass was intercepted by Morley, and the danger was over.

It was the greatest battle of the year in Northwestern Pennsylvania, and was featured by good playing on the part of both teams. Hanlon, Wolz, Parnell and Judd were the outstanding stars for the Blue and Gold, while Hill, Fay and Keck played the best for the losing team.
