VOL. XXII No. 17. MEADVILLE, PA., FEBRUARY 13, 1906. NEW SERIES.

GRAND MASSMEETING TONIGHT AT SEVEN

TO DECIDE THE BASE BALL QUESTION.

Good Speeches, Lots of Enthusiasm, and Big Results are Expected—Everybody Come Out and Help the Good Work Along.

"Alleghe! Alleghe! Rah! Boom! Allegheny!"

Four hundred enthusiastic, hat-throwing, money-giving students are wanted at the assembly room in the College Gymnasium at seven o'clock tonight to decide whether or not Allegheny is going to have a base ball team this spring.

Every student on College Hill is expected to be present. Seniors, preps, co-eds, flunkers, and political mugwumps will meet tonight on a common ground for the glory of the old school and her traditions.

Captain "Hughie" Nelson, whose cheese-melting grin has been growing wider and wider of late at the star performances of the new candidates, will be on hand and will probably make a speech if called upon. "Cotton says he sees a team, and it will take a wet-blanket of unusual wetness to persuade him that base ball is "dead" at Allegheny.

Manager Phillips, though somewhat taciturn on the subject of finance, is working to the best of his ability on a schedule, and expects to bring to Meadville a series of teams who have already proven their ability to play ball on the Meadville diamond.

The general sentment lies on the lips of every student. We want base ball. The massmeeting tonight is, for the purpose of showing how we can have base ball.

The defunct student who fails to show up at the gym this evening had better hike himself away to some such congenial surroundings as the "pickling vats" of the biological laboratory. He's a dead one.

Pittsburg Alumni Association Banquet

Enthusiastic Alleghenians Dine at Hotel Schenley.

By all odds the most successful banquet ever held by enthusiastic Alleghenians in the city of Pittsburg was that of last Friday evening. Over one hundred sat down to the tables in the beautiful banquet room of the Hotel Schenley, and for five solid hours the place rang with cheers and songs in praise of old Alma Mater. An excellent menu was served, and the toasts fairly scintillated with wit and humor.

Toast List.

Toast Master—Rev. Charles Lindley Smith.
Mr. John B. Townley.....Muzzling
Mr. Benjamin R. Williams.....
.....Scrimmaging
Dr. Ella D. Goff.....Quacking
Hon. G. W. Delemater.....

Dr. Thomas C. Blaisdell..Pedagoging
Rev. Dr. Wm. H. Crawford.....
.....Prognosticating

A brief address was also made by Frank A. Arter, of Cleveland. By-laws and constitution were adopted, changing the name to the "Allegheny College Alumni Association of Pittsburg," and setting the last Friday in February of each year as the time for the annual banquet. W. H. Pratt was elected president, Mrs. John A. Wood, Jr., secretary, and N. B. Madden, treasurer. The executive committee chosen includes James A. Wakefield, Mrs. Thomas C. Blaisdell, Professor Frank Norris and Harry S. Harrop.

At the University of Michigan an organization has lately been formed to superintend class elections. Members from all departments of the college have been elected and the body will be called the Senior Council.

SCIENTIFIC CLUB.

Scientific club meets tonight in the Library, and it is the ambition of its members to have another rousing meeting. The last meeting, on January 23, was well attended and highly enjoyable. Dr. Cook gave an interesting report of the scientific convention at Columbia University during the holidays. A unique feature of the meeting was the roll-call, to which each one present responded by an item of current scientific interest.

The program for this evening, February 13, is as follows:

Cross-Pollenation by Means of Insects .....Miss Edson
A Discussion of the Probable Method of Formation of the Anticlinal Folds Near Meadville.....
.....R. B. Kightinger

All members of the club are urged to be present this evening.

WISHFUL WOOSTER WAS WELL WORSTED

A CLEAN AND EXCITING GAME.

Captain Rossiter and His Men Defeated the Woosterites Handily, Although the Game was Plenty Close Enough to be Interesting—Score 32 to 21.

Allegheny defeated Wooster University last Friday night by a score of 32 to 21. The game was fast and exciting yet at no time was the outcome doubtful. The Wooster five were light. They offset this in speed. Short passing was their style of play. The game was free from undue roughness, while the work of the officials was above dispute.

This was the first game of the season without Comfort. Last semester he completed his required work, and so has retired from athletics. Rossiter was elected captain and well filled "Al's" place both as center and as captain. Russell played the forward made vacant by Rossiter. The work of the whole team was most praiseworthy. They had scarcely rounded into form since the rough game with Westminster yet they played with snap and ginger. Another commendable feature of the game was the freedom from roughness. Fouls were few and far between. No disputes marred the game.

Giesey had not recovered from the severe injury to his back which he received in the Westminster game, yet his work was fully up to his old standard. Mason received a slight injury in the game, and Cramer got a bad bump, but otherwise the playing was free from accidents.

At 8:45 the game started. Good broke the ice, throwing the first basket. Mason immediately evened matters. Allegheny scored again and kept the lead thereafter. At no time, however, did Wooster loose courage or even ease up. They played with aggressiveness from start to finish.

Rossiter got into the game with the first toss up of the ball. His responsibility seemed to nerve him. He was always where he was needed with a good eye on the basket. The first half he secured five goals at the same time keeping his opponent from finding the basket. Mason threw two goals; Ferry and Russell each one.

Allegheny too, played a close guarding game. Only four baskets were thrown on her the first half, Good getting three and Coupland one. Four fouls were called on the home team to two on Wooster. Good caged two; Rossiter one. Score first half: Allegheny 19; Wooster 10.

The second half Rossiter continued to shoot, basketing the ball four times.

Mason evened the first half by shooting two. One of these from deep center. Coupland and Crabtree gingered up and threw five baskets; the former three, the latter two. Crabtree scored a pretty one. Two fouls were called on Wooster with four on Allegheny. Good and Rossi-

MUSICAL CLUBS AT HOTEL RIDER

A PLEASING PROGRAM.

Concert Before Merchant Tailors' Convention—Appreciative Audience Applauds the Efforts of Members of the Glee and Mandolin Clubs.

The Glee and Mandolin Clubs entertained on last Wednesday evening the members of the National Merchant Tailors' Protective Association, in their annual convention at the Hotel Rider, Cambridge Springs.

The boys did themselves proud, as was evidenced by the prolonged and hearty applause of the audience, which numbered over three hundred.

After the rendition of the last number on the program, there were requests on all sides to repeat some of the numbers. The boys never sang before a more appreciative audience.

A number of original and funny verses were composed for the benefit of certain popular men in the audience, which created a great deal of amusement. To further show their appreciation, the tailors gave the members of the musical clubs an excellent as well as substantial lunch.

After meeting many of the merchants personally and enjoying friendly chats the clubs left for Meadville, with a warm feeling in their hearts for the Merchant Tailors.

NOTICE.

Remember that this is the last week to procure tickets for the Washington Birthday banquet. You can get them from any of those whose names are on the bulletin board. Price 50 cents.

Students having any photos or sketches of peculiar interest to the college community would bestow a great favor on the management of the Kaldron by submitting them as soon as possible to Wm. Cappeau, manager.

Phi Kappa Psi Entertains at Dinner

A Beautiful Dinner Party at the "Old Frat House."

Pennsylvania Beta chapter of Phi Kappa Psi entertained its friends last Thursday evening at a very enjoyable dinner party at the "Old Frat House." Fifty-two covers were laid and an excellent menu was served. The guests were seated at small tables scattered through the parlors, and the soft light afforded by the candles with ther pink and lavender shades gave delightfully artistic effect to the whole.

After the dinner the guests were initiated into the mysteries of a very sepulchral-looking room, where hung plaster of Paris death-masks of all the members of the chapter, identified by numbers only. By the aid of dainty pink candles with finger guards of lavender crepe paper, the guests endeavored to guess the real identity of each mask. Miss McLaughl'n won the first prize, guessing each one correctly. Mrs. Crawford and Dean Fraser tied for the consolation prize, Mrs. Crawford winning the draw. Before leaving each guest was persented with a beautiful silver spoon as a souvenir of the occasion.

Miss Ida M. Tarbell, class of '80, has been recently honored by being the only woman in the board of the Lincoln Farm Association. The Lincoln Farm Association, which was organized through the instigation of Colliers' Weekly, and whose president is Governor Folk, of Missouri, is an organization which proposes to buy the property on which Lincoln was born, and to convert it into a national park. Miss Tarbell, who has written an excellent biography of the great Lincoln, is naturally very much interested in the Farm Association.

BASKET BALL TRIP.

Manager Stuntz, with the basket ball team, leaves tomorrow morning on train 5 for a trip into Ohio. On Wednesday evening they play a return game with Buchtel College at Akron; Thursday they meet the strong Wooster "five;" Friday evening they play the Canton Athletic Club, and Saturday evening play Oberlin. These will all be hard games for the boys but they are confident of winning. They will probably return home Sunday or Monday.

A trip into New York state has been arranged and the team will leave here on the 23rd or 24th of February. On Monday, the 25th, they play St. Lawrence University. Tuesday the Pottsdam Normal School, and Wednesday Colgate University. A game will probably be arranged for Thursday evening in the meanwhile.

"EASY PICKINS" FOR PERSISTENT PREPS.

A GOOD, THOUGH ONE-SIDED GAME.

The Preps. Filled With Determination to Win, and Ably Aided by Loyal Rooters, Defeat Conneautville High School—Score 42 to 6.

The Prep. School basket ball team retrieved their slump in the game with Erie by overwhelmingly defeating the Conneautville High school team. The game was a fast, clean exhibition of sport and reflected credit upon the two teams. The visitors were completely at a loss and succeeded in scoring only one field goal.

The Prep. rooters were out "ten thousand" strong and before the game was over had yelled themselves hoarse and their immediate hearers deaf. A Prep. yell is a degenerate hybrid possessing most of the objectionable features accredited to the Indian war whoop and a western college yell. It is generally understood that the new Prep. building is not only dust proof but sound proof as well.

The Conneautville boys could not break up the team work of the Preps. or perhaps it was the large floor that prevented them from doing their best. They have played much better games on their own floor, by the light of two oil lamps and the aid of a number of posts scattered over the floor.

Tyrell and DeArment showed up well for the locals, but every man on the team played a good game. Stidger went in the second half. McMichael relieved DeArment for the last few minutes of the game.

A Word of Appreciation.

There has again slipped quietly into his accustomed place on the hill, after an enforced absence of many weeks, a man whose modest, unpretentious, yet real and genuine value to us has been brought home the more forcefully by the very fact that he has been away from us the while. The niche he fills in our college and class-room life has stared us almost startlingly in the face—so accustomed are we to have these niches filled, nor to anticipate their vacancy.

For after all, the university spirit has not yet so thoroughly pervaded the halls of old Allegheny that our lecture-room has become a mere Rialto where facts are bartered in exchange for tuition fees, and a diploma seals the bargain. Did not Calvin Kingsley, of the generation past, teach manhood along with his mathematics? And is it not likely that if we could measure the actual results of his teaching, it would be found that his course in "manhood" played a greater part in the lives of those who went out from under him, than the rigid mathematical training received at the hands of the stern old drill-master?

So also in the present generation. The man who can teach Latin well, but along with the Latin teach fairness, equity, courtesy, self-sacrifice, loving-kindness—this is the man whose influence will penetrate deepest and be felt longest. Most men can judge a thing from their own standpoint; few can put themselves in the other fellow's place. The majority of people can insist on accuracy in others; it is the genius who can practice what he preaches. It takes neither a great deal of scholarly understanding nor plain common sense to make out an examination paper of absurd length and technical superficiality; it is an art to confine one's questions to the brief essentials of a subject, in such a way as to make the passing mark easy for the conscientious student, yet to preserve the honor of the "A" grade by admitting only a few to its sacred precinct.

In the routine of our college work we are altogether too likely to be stupidly blind to the "little" things that go to make every-day life more than a mere grind. The presence of one among us who stands as such a constant reminded by his example, of these "little," all-important things of life, means much for us.

Base Ball.

A base ball team or no base ball team—"that is the question that makes calamity of so long life." It is all very good to talk of setting aside base ball for a season to accommodate a temporary state of affairs. But while calmly considering the above question we hold that it would be well to consider that "there is a fear of something after death that murders the innocent sleep." Precedents are dangerous things to establish. In some cases they are like the nail hole created in a mother's better chair, the remembrance of which makes the sinful boy "flee to others that he knows not of." They bring up unpleasant associations of the past, they are ever a danger to the present. We believe the remembrance of a good effort put forth to maintain the best of college sports will be more valuable, more comfortable than the remembrance of a year that went to the wall for the want of a little enterprise and a little effort.

Very seriously, we must consider base ball as the best college sport. The great foot ball agitation can not but make the most enthusiastic admirer of the game fear for its future. If it must go, it must go, but base ball is another proposition. Does it not bid fair to become the great college sport? Is it not the cleanest college sport? Then under no consideration can the student-body afford to drop the game, even for a season. It is a matter for serious thought and serious action.

We say the student-body can not afford to drop the game, because it is up to the student-body to decide this matter. The student-body means every man and woman registered in the institution. It is no time to shift responsibility. It is no time to leave it to the other fellow. There is but one thing to do and that is for every Allegheny man to come out and do his utmost in every way to maintain what we say is the best college sport.

To return to the "fear of something after death" phase of our text, let us suppose that we decide to pass by base ball. How much good, in the way of spirit and money will such an action add to the game of foot ball for next fall? Will the enthusiasm that is reserved in the coming spring be carefully bottled, corked, and labelled for use during the following fall? Will there be more spirit for the other games? We are very much afraid that such will not be the case. We fully believe that the apparatus that produces college spirit improves with constant use. So it is very well to look to the after effect of such an action as suspending the good sport.

As has already been said the matter is up to the student-body. We sincerely believe that they will be equal to the occasion. It is their school, their sport, their team. The responsibility is theirs and they will meet it.

A HISTORY OF THE LOCAL PREP SCHOOL

FROM ITS EARLIEST DAYS.

An Interesting Account Taken From the Columns of the Meadville Tribune Republican—Together With a Resume of the Present Faculty.

The newly assumed individuality of the Preparatory School of Allegheny College places that institution on a new plane in the scholastic world, as well as in the athletic circles. For nearly half a century the Preparatory School has been an integral part of the college, closely affiliated with her life and interests. The personality of the school has been lost in that of her foster mother; the victories and defeats of old Alleghe shared alike with joy or regret by Prep. and college student. In the early days of their existence the two institut'ons were in fact scarcely distinguishable.

The first step towards separation was made in 1879, when Ruter Hall was dedicated for the use of the Preparatory School. Professor A. W. Newland was the first principal of the fast growing school. His administration extended to 1886, when Professor J. H. Miller took charge. Professor Miller was succeeded in 1889 by Dr. W. A. Elliott, the present registrar and professor of Greek in the college. In 1892 Dr. Elliott was succeeded by Prof. C. F. Ross, who now holds the chair in Latin in the college. Prof. Ross, a most popular and successful principal, was followed in 1902 by E. F. Korns, one of the most generally liked men who has ever served on the Prep. faculty. In 1903 the health of Mr. Korns failed, compelling him to resign and seek other fields of labor. The year 1904 was filled by Mr. R. E. Hendershot as acting princ'pal. Mr. Hendershot discharged his duties with great executive ability, but his value as an instructor of mathematics induced those in power to retain him in that capacity and call Mr. F. S. Breed, the present principal.

During these years of the history of the school, hundreds of students have been well prepared for entrance to this and other colleges of the country. The educational standing of the school has always been high. Within the last decade the general growth and prosperity of the whole college had brought a problem before those in whose hands the administration rested. The large attendance in both schools made further combination well nigh impracticable. Without losing the beneficial influences to be derived from the participation on the part of the preparatory students in the general atmosphere of college life, the schools must be separated. The Preparatory School with rapidly increasing attendance, demanded room for growth and expans'on.

President Crawford had for years been dreaming of a new Preparatory building, bringing with it the advantages of independent school life, when the generous gift of Andrew Carneg'e solved the problem. The magnificent building on the upper campus marks the birthplace of the New Preparatory School. The building is of pressed brick, terra cotta finish, and beautifully des'gned throughout. The first two stories of the building contain class rooms, four on each floor. On the third floor are two halls for the use of literary societies. The chapel, tastily frescoed, extends back from the main building and will seat 300 people.

Mr. Frederick S. Breed, the energetic and enthusiastic principal, began his administrat'on with this year, and is an alumni of Allegheny College, of the class of '98. Mr. Breed has had long training in academic and public school work, and, fresh from a post-graduate course at Harvard, is most adequately equipped for the difficult task of guiding the Preparatory School through the difficulties and problems which will attend the new enterprise.

Mr. R. E. Hendershot, instructor in mathematics and science, has been connected with the school for some years, serving last year most acceptably as acting principal.

Mr. R. N. Taylor, class of 1902, instructor in Lat'n and Greek, returns this year from a post-graduate course at Harvard. Mr. Taylor, a classical student of rare merit, spent a successful year here as instructor in Greek and ancient history, before going to the univers'ty.

Miss Jessie E. Merchant, French and ancient history, has been on the Preparatory faculty since her graduation from Allegheny College, in 1901. Miss Helen E. McClintock, of the class of 1902, has been instructor in German for the past two years. Both these instructors are recognized as teachers of marked ability and high standing in the scholastic world.

Mr. Benj. F. VanRiper, of last year's class, is d'scharging with marked ability the duties of instructor in chemistry and physics. Mr. Van Riper served last year on the college faculty in the capacity of assistant in physics.

Altogether a more popular and competent faculty than that now possessed by the Preparatory School would be hard to find. With such an administration the school must soon force its way to a high place in the academic world.

W. W. Weeks, '09, spent Sunday in Corry.

Archie Perry, '08, spent Sunday at Warren.

W. S. Taft, '07, spent last Sunday at Erie, Pa.

F. L. Mickle visited his home at Garland Sunday.

W. R. Main, '08, made a trip down to Oil City Sunday.

J. A. Thompson's father was visiting him last week.

The Brown Club has removed to 403 Prospect street.

Fred Shaffer, '06, went to Franklin Monday on business.

M. J. Beaty went to his home in Warren, Pa., for the week-end.

"Phil" Porter, '08, who has been ill with tonsilitis, is able to be about again.

C. T. Greer, '08, visited his home in New Castle, during the latter half of last week.

Miss Fredericks, of Greenville, was the guest of Miss Wynona Baker, '07, at the Hall last Friday.

Coupland and Overholt, of the Wooster basket ball team, were entertained at the Phi Gam house.

Miss Mae Fuellhart, an ex-special, was the guest of Miss Gertrude Dowler, '08, at Hulings Hall last week.

B. W. VanRiper, instructor of physics in the Preparatory School, took dinner Friday at t he Hanks club.

Dr. Rhodes, of New York city, will give a series of lectures in the college chapel on February 14th, 15th and 16th.

Phil. Porter's father, from Newton Falls, and Charles Ensign, '80, a Delt, visited at the Delt House last week.

The Prep. team is to be commended upon the style of basket ball they put up in the game Friday night against Conneautville High School.

Dr. Hamnett is telling an interesting anecdote of a misfortune that befel him seventy-four years ago last Saturday. The story is well worth hearing.

Dr. Beebe, class of '74, a man eminently interested in old Alleghe, and respected and admired by all who know him, led the chapel services on Tuesday morning.

Before the game Friday night the Wooster players, wrapped in their red blanekts, resembled a band of Indians. Later, in the game, they displayed the cleverness of Indians.

"Bob" Ray, '99, of Oil City, was a caller at the Phi Gam house Sunday.

R. G. Diefenderfer, special, left Meadville last Friday afternoon for Conneaut, Ohio, having accepted the position of sporting editor for the Conneaut News. We wish him great success in his new field of work.

An unfortunate member of the Quill Club reports that at the last meeting of that organization, a mix-up of rubber overshoes took place between himself and another unknown Quiller. A readjustment can be made by application to the editor.

THE PAN-MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT.

Preparations for a B g Time Friday Evening—Girls' Glee Club to Make First Appearance — College Band and Mandolin Club to Play.

The Pan-Musical entertainment will be given Friday night in the College Gym. It is the first public appearance of the Girls' Glee Club of eighteen voices. The College Band and the Mandolin Club have numbers on the program. The Club Quartette and Miss Stolzenbach will also sing. The readings are by Miss McLaughlin and "the humorous" by William Thomas. There will be singing of the college songs, preparatory to the Washington Birthday celebration. The entire evening is planned to be a jolly, typical college occasion. Japanese refreshments are to be served after the oriental fashion. The worthy purpose is to raise money to have Allegheny College represented in the great student gathering of 400 colleges and universities at Nashville on February 28th. The admission is 25 cents.

BROWN CLUB CELEBRATES.

An Enthusiastic House-Warming in Their New Quarters.

Last Tuesday evening when the members of the Brown Club had returned from their short vacation, they gathered in the parlors of their new house for a house-warming. Several visitors were present. Several members of the club sang or played and Mr. W. E. Thomas favored those present with a number of his delightful impersonations. Light refreshments were served, and after a hearty sing and yell the "fellows" left in high spirits. The club moved during vacation from 585 North Main street to their new house at 403 Prospect street. Every indication is for a very successful semester in their new home.

DR. ERNEST T. BYNUM.

Former Member of Allegheny College Faculty Becomes Associate President of Epworth University.

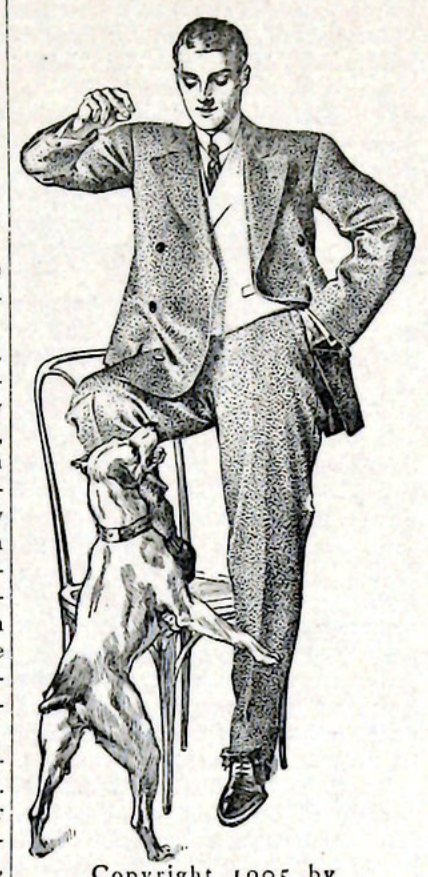

The many Meadville friends of Dr. and Mrs. Ernest T. Bynum, both formerly of the Allegheny College faculty and who left here two years ago, when Dr. Bynum accepted a position in the Oklahoma University, at Norman, Ok., will be interested to know that he has resigned his position there to accept the associate presidency of Epworth University, at Oklahoma City, a Methodist institution of acknowledged prominence in the West. In his new capacity Dr. Bynum will also head the German department.

Associated with Dr. Bynum as president of Epworth University is Dr. Bradford, who was a student under Dr. A. C. Knudson, when Dr. Knudson was at Baker University, Kansas, some years ago.

Dr. Bynum is preparing to give himself to raising funds for his school, and the Kansas City papers say he is about to make a descent upon Andrew Carnegie and Rockefeller. College friends, knowing something of his energy and ability, will not be surprised at his steady promotion, and will be pleased to know that his worth is meeting with such distinguished recognition. Mrs. Bynum was formerly Miss Maude Shadduck, class of '02.

Dr. Charles Bayard Mitchell, '79, is pastor of the most beautiful Methodist Episcopal church in the world. It is sometimes called the Methodist Cathedral. This church is the First church of Cleveland, O. Dr. Mitchell entered upon his duties there in 1901, having removed from Minneapolis, Minn. Dr. Mitchell was born in Allegheny City, August 27, 1857. He received his preparatory training in Leavenworth and Topeka, Kansas. After spending three years at Mt. Union College, he came to Allegheny. He completed his post graduate work in 1892, and the following year was honored by his Alma Mater with the degree of Doctor of Divinity. Dr. Mitchell has made four visits abroad traveling in Egypt, Palestine and Asia Minor. He was a delegate to the Third Ecumenical Methodist conference held in London in 1901, and made one of the addresses. He was a delegate to the General Conference of the M. E. church held at Los Angeles, Cal., in 1904. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa and is the author of "A Bundle of Letters from Three Continents;" he is also one of the four ministers of Cleveland to appear in "Who's Who in America."
