Cadets Sponsor Formal ROTC Ball

Allegheny Air Force Ball Court, 1962

Brooks Hall will again be the site for the Annual Air Force Ball, a formal dance sponsored each year by the cadets of the Don H. Blyth Squadron of the Arnold Air Society. The dance will be from 9-12:30 on Saturday, April 14, with music provided by Johnny Martin's Band.

The program includes a Reception Line, announcement of the Air Force Queen and her court, a Grand March and refreshments. The dance will follow the procedure of a regular formal Air Force Ball.

The dance is open to all Aellegheny College students. Air Force cadets should wear a white shirt and black bow tie with their uniforms while regular formal attire will be approproate for others who are attending. There will be corsages given to all the girls in attendance.

String Clinic Held April 21

Bimitrey Erdelt, cellist and Howard Shilken, first violist of the Erie Philharmonic Orchestra, will be among the visiting musicians who will lecture and conduct demonstrations at a day-long clinic for players and teachers of string instruments to be held at Allegheny College next Saturday.

Heading the clinic will be Professor Paul Rolland, violinist and chairman of the string division at the University of Illinois. Rolland recently returned from a State Department tour of Austria, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Turkey, and Israel.

A feature of the clinic will be the performance of works of Hindemuth and Boccerini by a string quartet of Allegheny College students.

The clinic is under the direction of Herbert G. Neurath, professor of music at Allegheny who served as concertmaster of the Erie Philharmonic from 1953 to 1955. He is a former member of the Vienna, Indianapolis and Pittsburgh Symphonies.

Exhibits at the clinic will include new and interesting music for strings.

The day's program begins at 9 a.m. in Ford Memorial Chapel. A registration fee of $2 covers all admissions and luncheon at the Allegheny College cafeteria in South Hall.

New Nameplate For THE CAMPUS

Consistent with coming changes in college life brought about by the three-term plan, The Campus is adopting a new look. After 21 years of use The Campus is dropping its old nameplate for a more contemporary design.

In 1876 the name appeared with the typical frills of the period. At the turn of the century, three college buildings appeared behind the letters of The Campus. But in the '20s and '30s, The Campus of Allegheny College appeared without a background. In 1941 the "C" of The Campus of Allegheny College framed the center of the college seal.

With our new design, by Mr. George McCullough of The Meadville Tribune, The Allegheny Campus combines the heritage of Allegheny with a modern format.

Smoot Lectures On Negro Press

A "six month slice of life" as viewed through the Negro press will be the topic of a lecture by Dr. James Smoot on Wednesday, April 18, at 8:15 in Henderson auditorium.

For the past half year, Dr. Smoot has been reading and analyzing a geographically distributed sampling of Negro newspapers. A random selection of papers from approximately thirteen major cities—including Pittsburgh, Chicago, Los Angeles, Houston, Detroit, and Atlanta— yielded a wide range of quality. It is his intent to make these papers available for student use in study and research.

Dr. Smoot explains that his interest in communication and his experiences with his G-1 classes in recent years revealed that images and stereotypes shape what we say and how we interpret information and events, so that "we listen to the image, not to the person." He became curious about the forces which shape those images and discovered that they include parents, school, church, and the press.

At the same time, he was developing an interest in "hate" groups. He discovered that more Negroes than he had suspected were sympathetic with the "Black Muslims," a Negro group preaching complete racial separation. He

Goals, Aims Group Reports To AUC

The report of the committee appointed to survey the goals and aims of Allegheny College was presented to AUC Wednesday evening by Jim Hart, Chairman.

In addition to stating the goals and aims of Allegheny as a liberal arts college, the committee made specific recommendations for improvement in three specific areas: academics, student body and the college community. The full report will soon be published by ASG for the information of the college.

Although returns on the Honor Program survey are not complete, Tom Clark reported that the voting trend does not indicate an ASG recommendation to the President for the adoption of a universal honor program. A full report including statistics will be published in a future issue of The Campus.

In further business, annual reports of the standing committees, National and International Affairs, Activities, Traffic, Human Relations, Assembly and Public Events, Elections and Chaperones, were given. Spencer Watson, chairman of the Traffic Committee, announced that upperclass women may park their cars in the Bentley lot overnight if they are removed by 8 a.m. New registration rates for the three term system are $5 for three terms, $4 for two and $2 for a single term.

An endorsement of the Literary Magazine by the Executive Committee of Pi Delta Epsilon was read to AUC.

Dean McFall verified that the no cut policy does not apply to classes over Easter weekend. Persons wishing to attend special Easter services should contact the Dean of Students' Office.

An open house for Highland Hall will be Sunday from 24 p.m. Since Highland will be a men's dormitary next year, men desiring to live there are encouraged to attend the open house.

New student government and class officers will be installed at the next AUC meeting.

Independents Meet Elect ASG Members

There will be an important meeting for all Independents on Monday evening, April 17 at 7:00 in Quigley Auditorium. The purpose of the meeting is to elect the five representatives and alternates of the Allegheny Student Government Council. Nominations will be accepted before Monday evening and all those interested in these positions are urged to contact Mike Bavar.

The agenda for Monday will also include a discussion of committees to co-ordinate Independent sports and social activities.

Requirements and Hour Load

The three-term calendar, as such, involves no change in the general graduation requirements of the college. The total number of credit hours for graduation, exclusive of Physical Education and ROTC, is 120. The average number of hours each year, as at present, will be 30. In any one year this may vary from a minmum of 27 to a maximum of 33. The minimum in any one term is 9, and the maximum 12.

Registration Procedures

The new calendar will involve some changes in registration procedures and will need more careful planning of schedules than at present. At pre-registration in the spring, schedules will be made out for all three terms of the next year. If a student then wishes to make changes in this schedule, there will be three opportunities to do so:

1. For the first term, at registration day in September.
2. For the second term, during a two-week period in November.
3. For the third term, during a two-week period in February.

On registration days for the second and third terms, no further changes may be made, unless the student has failed a course, or unless the adviser or a teacher recommends a change within a department. After classes in any term have begun, no course may be dropped or added unless the adviser or a teacher recommends a change within a department.

Special Programs

Attention is called to two special program, for pre-medical students, and for those working for a secondary or elementary teaching certificate.

1 A typical pre-medical schedule is as follows:

Freshman year: Chemistry 1, Biology 1

Sophomore year: Biology 3, Chemistry 5, Chemistry 2, Mathematich 3 and 4.

Junior year: Chemistry 3, Mathematich 6, Biology 12, Physics 11-12.

Senior Year: Science 50

2. In the term which includes Student Teaching, the student also takes one theory course and a seminar, for a total of ten hours. No other course is taken during this term.

Final Exam Policy

The final examination policy for next year under the three term system will be as follows: Exams will cover a five-day period, with three two-hour exams given per day. There will be a maximum of two exams per day for each student.

Editorial

It goes without saying that Allegheny College needs a literary magazine. By encouraging the nurture and development of writers, the magazine performs a function as basic to the college as that of the Playshop in developing actors, the Sinfonietta in developing musicians, and the art department in developing artists.

The importance of such intellectual and cultural activities should be self-evident; if their existence is a subject of controversy at Allegheny College, perhaps, commented one faculty member, we are entering the "era of the Yahoos."

It is to be hoped that the "virtue" of a majority vote shall not determine the fate of the Literary Magazine, for under this reasoning the College should abolish the Physics Department, the Music Department, the Classics Department, and even the ASG faculty grant, since only some thirty students attended the recent faculty grant lecture.

If the contents of the Literary Magazine have been rather homogeneous, perhaps it is because other topics have not been handled well enough to deserve publication. Certainly the magazine's staff and adviser should be the best judges of the works submitted; they have studied literature carefully and many of them have made a life commitment to writing.

At any rate, in all fairness to the present staff, final judgments of the magazine should be withheld until the second issue, now at the printers, is published.

It has been suggested by some that the appropriation of the Literary Magazine be cut. This idea, however, goes against the goal of a continually improving magazine.

The Campus believes that the Literary Magazine should be given strong student support and that if its quality is to be improved its appropriation must be increased.

'Fashion' Melodrama Protrays 1845 Society

Fashion, or Life in New York, is a witty meledrama portraying a segment of American society in 1845. The Tiffany's are a typical bourgeois family which has risen to the limelight of society from a dim past that is best forgotten. The efforts of Mrs. Tiffany (Marilyn Behrens) to secure for her daughter, Seraphina, (Joan DuMars) a suitable mate come in conflict with the hopes of Mr. Tiffany (Fred Koesling) who because of financial difficulties has consented to give his daughter's hand to his unscrupulous private secretary. The romantic problems of Gertrude (Ann Blair), the family's virtuous but positive thinking piano teacher and Millinette (Joan Thergeson) the French maid add amusing complications to the plot.

One of the most amusing portions of the play is the natural offhand way Marilyn Behrens mispronounces French, language of the day. The fractured phrases slip out before the audience is aware they've been said, making the realization of what is meant even more entertaining. Most of the melodramatic elements are supplied by Chris Brown

Illinois U. Geologist Visits, Lectures Here

This week the Geology Department was host to Dr. George W. White, head of the Geology Department at the University of Illinois, a position which he has held since 1947.

Dr. White, whose major field of interest is the geology of glacial deposits, has in the past several years been in charge of an extensive research project, mapping the boundaries of the several ice sheets in the northern United States. A recent publication, "Glacial Geology of Northwestern Pennsylvania" was a result of this project.

Dr. White met with various groups of geology students and presented an illustrated lecture Thursday afternoon on the "Constitution of Glacial Till".

Dr. White has been a geologist for several state organizations, private companies and has been senior geologist for the U.S. Geological Survey since 1948. Dr White is a fellow of the Geological Society of America and the Geological Society of London. He is a student of the history of geology and is keenly interested in undergraduate instruction in the sciences for non-science majors.

Praises Ring for Hemlock Cup

Dear:
Name Withheld for Personal Reasons &
Staff Taking 5th Amendment,

We wish to express our heartfelt appreciation for the brilliant example of scintillating collegiate humor so ably illustrated by the remarkable issue of The Hemlock Cup. What other campus but the oldest - college-in-existence-under-the-same - name-west-of-the-Allegheny-foothills could produce such a masterpiece of high comedy? Not once did you find it necessary to resort to hackneyed phrases, trite references to sex in place of humor, or base vulgarity.

Fresh, fresh, fresh! The issue fairly crackles with matters of contemporary interest! Was it a mere two years ago that the Humbard affair took place? How clever of you to be the first to satirize R.O.T.C., the pillars on campus, Philo-Franklin!

We are still chuckling over Curt Fee's delightful piece of satire on student government.

Again, we must thank you for the time you must have spent in constructing such eloquent prose, such sparkling wit. These issues which we will have will be the highlights of our college scrapbook, to which —tear in eye—we will point with pride.

With humblest gratitude,

Julie Fryatt

June Fair Enjoys Fisk Life Encourages Others To Apply

Dear Students and Faculty of Allegheny College:

Now that about half the semester is over, it is perhaps time to tell you, who sent me, something about my experience here at Fisk. I know of no better way to report on the exchange than to tell of my own experience with it. There are many facets to life here, and you have heard something of the social protest mevements, so I shall tell you something of the other sides of Fisk life.

Finds Courses Challenging

The largest portion of my time is of course devoted to academic pursuits. Course-wise, I find real challenges in my German literature courses, in the seminar on existentialism, and in my course in Negro literature. This last one I find very rewarding, even though there is a tremendous amount of work to keep caught up on, in that it has helped to guide my reading about Negro life, to provide a background of history and philosophy for my own experiences. Doubtless the most emphasized department here is sociology, but there are challenging courses in every department. Needless to say, there is a big difference between going to a college in a small town like Meadville, and one in a city the size of Nashville. Nashville is the cultural, as well as the political, center of Tennessee. A good part of its culture centers in the several universities and colleges here, of which Fisk is the oldest, and a distinguished member of the group.

This is the opportunity to get to know Negroes as individuals, and as friends, and to know subjectively what I have known objectively all my life, that a man is the same inside, no matter what the degree of pigmentation of his skin. There has been a very definite change in my own outlook since I have been here. This means a lot to me, and I wish all of you who come from "lily-white" high schools could share this experience with me.

I shall close, with a hope that some of you will want to come here next year, and share the experience Pete, Rick, and I have had. I heartily recommend it.

SARAH HOMER PRIZE

Tomorrow is the deadline for entries for the Sarah Homer Prize.

The prize is awarded each year for the best piece of undergraduate creative writing submitted to the Department of English during the college year. The prize this year will be in the neighborhood of $25. Entries may include poetry, short fiction, articles, or essays. The entry may or may not have appeared in The Campus or The Literary Magazine. Three copies of the competing manuscript must be submitted to Mr. Katope by tomorrow.

Judges will be two members of the English Department and one faculty member from another department. In case no entry seems to merit the prize, the judges may withhold the award until a later year.

Letters To Editors

Dear Editor:

I would like to express my sincere thanks to Mr. Cares and those who had any part in bringing the Cleveland Orchestra to Meadvidlle this week. The program was excellent, the quality of the music and the musicians was of the highest caliber, and I'm sure it was enjoyed by all.

A program such as this is not only appreciated by the great majority of the student body, but also helps to bring the college and its surrounding community closer together.

Again, thank you for an extremely enjoyable evening, and I hope more programs such as this are planned in the future.

Gator's Spring Sports Provide Key To PAC Annual Championship

Allegheny College's four spring sports teams last year posted an outstanding 27 won, 6 lost and one tie record, with Presidents' Athletic Conference in baseball and golf, and are hopeful that a comparable surge this year will return the college to the top of the PAC all-sports standings, a position occupied in 1959-60.

The Gators are in a good position for the stretch run, being only one-half point behind Wayne State University, the leader, whereas last year they trailed in a fourth-place ie, four and one-half points back of the pace setter.

The two championships, with a fourth place in tennis and a fifth ranking in track, accounted for 23 points and pulled Allegheny into a solid second place finish. Wayne State, leader last year, scored 21 points in the spring season.

The task of overcoming Wayne's half-point lead this year will be difficult for the Tartars are perennially strong in spring sports. They finished first in tennis, second in track, and third in golf, and only the fact that weather prevented their getting in enough baseball games to qualify for all-sports points enabled Allegheny to cut into their big lead a year ago.

Allegheny's two-year PAC baseball chapions are hurt by the ineligibility of Glenn Beckert, all-PAC shortstop since his freshman days; the graduation of two-year all-PAC catcher Jake Hilliard and outfielder-pitcher Cliff Stranburg; and the transfer of all-PAC pitcher Ducky Hadfield. The golfers are hurt by the ineligibility of sophomore Steve Beinhauer, low man last year in the Allegheny line-up.

There is hope, however, that both the track and tennis teams can come through with better PAC standings than a year ago. Both seem to have picked up strength in the freshman class, though just how much strength it is impossible to state until the newcomers have been tested in competition.

Coach Garbark's baseballers, riding a ten-game streak that includes a 5-4 eleven inning win over Pitt in the traditional Commencement Saturday contest, open with a doubleheader at Slippery Rock on April 14. The track and field athletes swing into action on the same day with a triangular meet with John Carroll and Edinboro at College Field. The tennis team gets its start against John Carroll in Cleveland on the 18th, with the golfers having to wait until April 26 for a three-way encounter with Bethany and W&J at the Meadville Country Club.

The PAC track and field tournament will be held at College Field on May 11 and 12. The tennis tournament will again be held in Cleveland on May 10-11, with the golfers holding their annual conference tournament at Bethany on the same days.

Altogether Allegheny has scheduled 47 contests, exclusive of tournament appearances. Eighteen are in baseball, eleven in track, and nine each in tennis and golf.

Smoot Lecture

wondered whether most Negroes had an accurate picture of race relations. This interest led naturally to the question of the press, specifically the Negro press. Does it capitalize on racial incidents, overemphasize or slant coverage of them? What is its impact? In a preliminary investigation of opinions on the Negro press Dr. Smoot heard it called an "indispensible tool" an an "agitating protest press resorting to exaggeration, slanting and other devices to create the impression that improvement in race relations is slower than it actually is."

ASG heard of his work and asked him to submit a plan of study to be considered for a faculty research grant. He received the grant, which provided for six-month subscriptions to representative newspapers, and began work. Aided by six of his G-1 students, Dr. Smoot has analyzed the content and coverage of the papers in an effort to determine whether and how the Negro press uses its influence in racial issues. The six students, Tony Ardelia, Linda Burns, Al Dell'Ario, Connie Keefer, Barb Montgomery and Linda Rowe, are each doing individual research in related areas. Their topics include the nature and extent of coverage given by an ethnic and a non-ethnic paper to an inter-racial student-teacher conflict in a Cleveland junior high school and a comparison of the semantic differences in the coverage by a number of Negro papers of a racial conflict.

In his lecture, entitled "The Negro Press as a Crusader for Equal Rights," Dr. Smoot will report on the results of his research and on the tentative finding of his student research team. He will comment also on the history of the Negro Press, a story which has been largely ignored despite the "impressively large" circulation of Negro publications.

as Adam Trueman, an old friend of Mr. Tiffany's from the country. However, the melodrama would not be complete without the appropriate "old time movie" piano as background.

Other roles are played by Phil Shafer, Bill Burkhart, Al Dell'Ario and Dave McLaud. Larry Adams adds charm to the part of the plot, and Miriam Bates is an entertaining busy-body as Prudence, Mrs. Tiffany's other daughter. Steve Frankel acts royally as Count Jolimaitee.

Fashion will be given in the little theater April 13 and 14 at 8:30 p.m. Tickets may be obtained at the ticket office for 50 cents.

Block 'A' Club Honors Lettermen

Allegheny College honored 115 varsity letter winners in eleven sports at the college's annual Block "A" Club dinner Saturday evening. Invited guests included parents of the lettermen.

Among the teams being honored were three current champions of the Presidents' Athletic Conference, the baseball and golf teams from last spring, and the football team of last fall.

Speaker for the occasion was John Knight, athletic director of Bethany College, who discussed the qualities of leadership in college athletics and life after college. Lt. Col. Herbert L. Fleischer was the toastmaster, and Dr. Lawrence L. Pelletier, Allegheny College president, spoke the preceding words of greeting.

All lettermen received the traditional "Block A" monogram, and the members of the three conference championship teams received individual trophies. The seniors received special certificates.

Bruce Carlile received special recognition as the outstanding swimmer and recipient of the Richard Fisher Memorial Plaque. John Berhard's name will be added to the Bill Johnson plaque as wrestler of the year.

Co-captains for next year's football squad were announced. They are Joe Valentino and Stoner Tracy.
