Miss Ida M. Tarbell
120 East 19 Street
New York City

My dear Miss Tarbell:

The problems in this manuscript all concern the source of the long quotations. It is our custom to put in a smaller type all extracts that exceed five lines in length and that are quoted from written documents. Long conversations or author's paraphrases of conversations or documents, we set in text type.

In this manuscript it is exceedingly difficult to tell just which is which. I am giving below a list of those pages I should like your help on. But first, the following pages will show you the sort of quotation that I feel sure should not be in smaller type: 16, 18, 19, 26, 27, 28, 29, 62A, 73, 79, 81, 92, 94, 104-05, 105-06, 106-07, 115, 130-31, 132, 179ff., 240, 250, 251, 263,

Then there are some that I am undecided about--the speeches. You will notice that I now have them outlined in red pencil to be set in smaller type. They occur on pages: 15-16, 43-44 (and do you want to repeat this on 249-50?), 159Aff., ~~175-76~~ 188, 189ff., 193, 207, 224, 224ff., 238-39, 258ff. yes

I believe that if these speeches are exact copies of written records, the smaller type should be used.

Now, about the following I don't know. If you will tell me whether they are paraphrases, or actual copies from records I shall be very grateful, as we do not like to reset so extensively if my guess should be wrong. Pages: 44-45, 48, 86, 96, 144, 175-76, 187, 203, 207Aff., 209Aff., 211, 250, 253-54, 256-57, 314.

You will notice that I have cut down a quantity of capital letters, and done considerable repunctuating. If you have any objections to our method, we'd be glad to know them now.

Will you also please furnish a title for Chapter
XIII, and let us know when we may expect to receive the Appendix?

We are very anxious to get your book in type now, and can furnish you galleys in a very short time, I believe.

If you can check these pages today, and will telephone us, we shall be glad to send a messenger to bring back the manuscript.

Yours very truly,
THE MACMILLAN COMPANY
