PROF. KALFAYAN TALKS OF TURKEY IN CHAPEL

At the regular chapel services on Friday, December 14, Professor Kalfayan delivered an interesting address on "Race Prejudices." Drawing from his boundless knowledge of the racial problem, the speaker commented very forcibly on several phases of his subject.

In his talk Professor Kalfayan stated that a great difficulty with the various nations of the world is that they will not try to understand each other. They will solve petty disputes between each other with satisfaction to all concerned but when a great dispute arises between nations, the powers involved will not attempt to solve this difficulty in the same manner as used in the petty disagreement. A knowledge of Europe or the Near East, continued the speaker, cannot be secured by a traveller in the course of a few weeks time but must be the product of many years of careful survey. When nations remember that they have received many misfortunes at the hands of their adversaries, great harm arises through the situation as they do not remember that many of these had been done in retaliation.

Turkey, according to Professor Kalfayan, is in the midst of a great piece of work. Through the individual genius of one man, Mustapha Kemal, she is beginning to grow mentally and morally. Turkey is now trying to accomplish in one generation what it took other countries many centuries to bring about. Realizing that if Turkey is to rise to the level of other great nations, the inhabitants must become educated, Mustapha Kemal has started a great educational reform throughout the country. Thus arises the great crisis in Turkey's history.

Frederick J. Libby Speaks in Chapel On War Prevention

Last Wednesday Frederick Joseph Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, spoke at chapel on the present-day political conditions. He also spoke at the final fall meeting of the Meadville Forum Wednesday evening at the Stone Church.

Mr. Libby is a graduate of Bowdoin College, and has studied in Germany and England and at Andover Theological Seminary. He has been a pastor and a teacher, has traveled in Europe, southeastern Asia, and Australia, and served for two years as European commissioner of reconstruction and relief in France for the Society of Friends. He has been the executive secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War since 1921.

In his lecture he described the general attitude throughout the world on the question of peace, pointing out the danger spots where trouble is likely to arise. In Europe the most notable antipathies are those between Germany and France on reparations and armament, between Italy and Jugoslavia on the control of the Adriatic, between Hungary and Roumania and Russia and Roumania on the boundaries, and between Poland and Germany on the question of the Polish Corridor. In other parts of the world there are also powder-barrels waiting to be blown up: the Latin-American countries are suspicious of the United States and are tired of the Monroe Doctrine, Japan is attempting to control China and keep other nations out of China while the latter country is trying to rebuild her government, and American and British diplomats and editors are managing to keep suspicion alive between the peoples of England and the United States. But in spite of these nationalistic controversies, there are men in every country who are striving to have co-operation, arbitration, and compromise take the place of suspicion, bloodshed, and imperialism. To these men, as leaders, the younger generation will look for inspiration and guidance in the world peace movement.

VARSITY DEBATING TEAM CHOSEN FOR COMING YEAR

TEAM TO REPRESENT COLLEGE HAS FOUR VETERANS AS A NUCLEUS

In Ford Chapel last Monday afternoon the final trials for the varsity debating team were held, with ten men competing for the six sneaking and two alternate positions. The following teams were selected to represent the College this season: Affirmative, Messrs. Rutherford, Munnell, and Gill with Wilson as alternate; negative, Messrs. Billings, McGill, and Wycoff, with Gilbert as alternate.

Competition for positions on the team this year was especially keen, as there were five veterans left from last year's team, as well as several very good new men who were anxious to make places. Preliminary trials were held on Monday, December 12, with fourteen men competing, and four of these men were eliminated from the final trials of last Monday. The team will debate on the question: "Resolved, That the principle of complete freedom of speech and press is sound on political and economic questions." Several debates have already been arranged, and the committee is working on one or two others. A successful season is anticipated, as the teams this year are composed of veterans for the most part.

FEW STUDENTS SUFFER FROM "FLU" AS YET

The influenza epidemic in Meadville, especially on the Hill, is, at the present writing, well under control and does not warrant the closing of school. Westminster, Thiel, Edinborough, all schools in our immediate neighborhood, have been closed as a precaution to the epidemic, but the Meadville physicians and the authorities of the College emphatically state that there is not one serious case of influenza in the College as yet. If the disease is carried to the Hill, and the students are thrown in contact with the dreaded germ, school will unquestionably be dismissed immediately. Otherwise the holiday recess will begin Friday noon, December 21, and will terminate the 8th of January.

Miss Maude Strauss, ex-'27, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Strauss, 274 Park Place, and Dewey Garfield, Grove Street, were united in marriage by Rev. J. H. Jelbart, former pastor of Grace M. E. Church, in a quiet ceremony at 10 o'clock, Saturday morning, December 8. Both are well known young people of Meadville, the bride having been a member of the Tribune-Republican office staff for several years.

PNEUMONIA CLAIMS LIFE OF JUDGE JOHN J. HENDERSON

Vice-President of Board of Trustees Dies at Philadelphia; Funeral Services Held Sunday

JUDGE JOHN J. HENDERSON

One of the worthiest of the Allegheny Alumni, Hon. John Joseph Henderson, '62, of Meadville died last Wednesday morning a little after half-past nine in the the Lenkenau Hospital, Philadelphia, after several days of suffering from pneumonia. He was taken ill during the session of the Superior Court of Pennsylvania, on which he was sitting.

Judge Henderson had been a trustee of the College for fifty-four years, vice-president of the board of trustees for thirty-seven years, and a judge of the Superior Court for twenty-five years. He was graduated from Allegheny College in 1862 and has received the degrees of A. M. and LL. D. from his alma mater. He served in the Civil War and has since been engaged in law.

The Judge was universally admitted to be a jurist of great strength. He was a close student and had a mind of logical acumen and penetration. He had long taken high rank as an eloquent and forceful public speaker. He possessed broad scholarly attainments and was noted for his genial temperament. He gave much of his time and talent to the service of his alma mater. He was a member of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and of several clubs.

This distinguished alumnus was born in Allegheny County on September 23, 1843, the son of Reverend William C. Henderson. At the age of seven he came to Meadville with his parents, where he entered the Meadville Academy. He matriculated at Allegheny College at the age of fifteen. He was an excellent student, distinguishing himself for his literary ability. He was one of the sixteen charter members of the local, Pi, chapter of Phi Gamma Delta, which was established in June 1860. He also acted for a time as instructor of Greek, and was graduated in June, 1862, at the age of eighteen, a year before the graduation of his brother, E. H. Henderson, and two years before that of the late Frank A. Arter, another of the most able of the alumni of Allegheny College, who was his close friend. Immediately after his graduation he enlisted in Company K of the 150th Pennsylvania Volunteers, in which he served until June, 1865. His company was elected as Lincoln's bodyguard and was on duty at the Soldiers' Home and the White House for more than two years.

Following the war he entered the law office of his brother, the present Hon. E. H. Henderson. He was admitted to the bar in 1868.

BASKETBALL SEASON TO BE INAUGURATED FRIDAY

Blue and Gold to Face Wittenberg in Opening Game; New Faces in Lineup

Those students that stay over next Friday evening will have their first opportunity of seeing Allegheny's 1928-29 basketball team in action. At eight o'clock on Friday evening the Blue and Gold passers will open their season with Wittenberg College of Springfield, Ohio, as their opponents. The Ohioans boast of consistently good athletic teams and the opening game on the Allegheny schedule can in no way be considered a soft spot.

Much interest is being displayed in the Blue and Gold team this fall and the fans are anxious to discover what sort of an outfit it is going to be. The team is expected to have a great deal more strength than last year's outfit, and this is indicated by the fact that, although all of last year's regulars are back for this season, only one of them is sure of starting on Friday. The chances are that all of the positions except the forward held down by Captain Bair will be filled by new men, all of whom are freshmen. The team has been working hard in preparation for the game and a hot fight has been going on for varsity positions.

The starting lineup will probably find Bair and Dennison as forwards, Conn as center, and Berger and Garbark as guards, although Coach Baker is quite likely to make some last minute shift. The fight for forward positions centers around the two previously named and Lane, Gornall, and Gillies. Al Moon has been handicapped in his fight for center position by illness and it looks as though Willard Conn will start, with Moon and Nesbitt in reserve. Coach Baker will have, besides Berger and Garbark, three or four other good guards to rely upon. Included in this list are Elghmy, Rowlingson, Allison, and Heffrin.

The team is showing considerable promise of developing a speedy offense.

Combined Glee Clubs Give Two Concerts During Last Week

The Men's and Women's combined Glee Clubs of the College presented two concerts on Sunday, December 16. The first of these was given as a Vespers Service in the Ford Memorial Chapel at four o'clock. The chapel was appropriately decorated, six-foot candle holders having been placed through the aisles, and a platform having been built containing seats for the singers. Several Christmas trees, and other decorations were in evidence. The entire assemblage sang several hymns, after which Miss Spalding gave a Biblical account of the Nativity. The main offering of the clubs was a cantata, "Child Jesus," in which Miss Green, Miss Hughes, James Springer, James Meadowcroft, and Clifford Behrhorst took very pleasing solo parts. In conclusion, "Silent Night," "Little Town of Bethlehem," and "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear" were sung very softly. During the singing of these last three songs, a picture of the Child Jesus was lighted, producing a beautiful effect. Mr. Lu was directed the singing, and Mary Chamberlin played the accompaniment.

At 7:30 o'clock at Stone Church, the clubs again sang several sacred songs, after which the Men's club sang "On the Sea," "The Son of God," and "Crossing the Bar." The women concluded the program by singing "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," "The Green Cathedral," and "One Fleeting Hour."

OUR GLEE CLUBS

Allegheny may well be proud of its Glee Clubs, both the men's and the women's. The performances of these organizations during the past year have been of exceptional quality and the character of the entertainment that they have produced is far above that which the average college musical organization offers. The Christmas program which the combined clubs gave in Ford chapel last Sunday afternoon was a splendid affair and all of those who were present at the service spoke very highly of the clubs and their music. Such a program requires a great deal of work, not only on the part of the singers but also on the part of the director and the manager. Mr. M. J. Luvass, the director of the glee clubs, is deserving of much praise for his efforts at Allegheny, for in the time that he has been here he has built up two splendid glee clubs which have provided the College with several excellent programs and have brought recognition to the College wherever they have appeared. Also the hard-working manager of the club, Norman Laffer, deserves much credit for the manner in which he has taken care of all arrangements concerning the club. It was he who was responsible for the decorating of the chapel for the service Sunday and on numerous other occasions he has proved his worth. We wish the clubs success in the future and appreciate their efforts a great deal.

JUDGE HENDERSON

In the death of Judge John A. Henderson last Thursday the state lost a most valuable servant and Allegheny College a beloved leader. It is futile and impossible to pay just tribute in this column to such a man. To review the history of his life is to chronicle a succession of unusual and memorable achievements. Through them and through him Allegheny has been much enriched, not merely by way of the reflected glory that comes to any Alma Mater when one of its sons rises to heights of prominence and fame, but more because of the active interest and leadership Judge Henderson has always taken in the affairs of Allegheny College.

A certain sense of pride, therefore, is blended with our grief in his passing. His long life of service is an inspiration to us all. His whole-hearted devotion to Allegheny makes us all proud that we are Alleghenians.

That devotion, coupled with a state-wide prestige, made his position here one of peculiar eminence. It is certain that no one else can fill it. Even though the College feels a tremendous personal loss with the passing away of this great alumnus, looking at his life we will always feel, secure from the accident of death, a great personal satisfaction.

THE SCRUBBING BRUSH

Here we are again after several weeks of a lay-off. We have had an easy time because there was lots of news but this week we thought we would like to get back into print again and say hello once before Xmas comes along.

What's more, with this flu around we find that it seems more and more probable that we won't be here until Friday, but then you never can tell. While we are writing this we may get home and you would never see the words of wisdom that we are able to produce on occasion.

It is nice that there was no sickness around the hill before the fall parties. At W. & J. the annual fall parties were called off because of the flu and all the houses that were having parties were forced to abandon them and cancel their dates. This was bad enough for everyone, but one fellow we heard of was bringing a girl from Kansas and she had already started for Washington. That's the biggest and best argument we have ever heard for not importing girls.

The recent predicament of the Theta's shows at least that the boys don't hate all the co-eds. At least, they don't dislike them too much, for every house on the hill, so we have heard, offered their chapter hall to the belated Thetas for their party. That's the proof of the pudding. The only trouble was that the Thetas couldn't accept them all at once. Some other year perhaps.

The big problem confronting the college student of today is whether or not there will be things doing when he gets home for vacation. The epidemic of flu that has swept the country makes it doubtful, but everyone is hoping. Maybe only children's parties will be banned.

In spite of all the desires to go home early and the limits to which some students will go to get out of a class or two, we strongly recommend that no one try to get the flu because after you get it you find its really very disappointing. It isn't the flu it ought to be after all. You have to stay in bed and you feel all washed out and there simply isn't any joy in life whatever. Better stay well as long as you can.

We hear plans for bigger and better—but then we aren't allowed to tell yet for nothing is definitely decided. All we can say is that if things go through as they are planned we shall be there with bells on and extra bells for anyone who might need them.

"The Sponge" Given By The Play Shop In The Little Theatre

On Monday and Tuesday afternoons the Allegheny Play Shop gave in the Little Theatre in Bentley Hall a one act play entitled "The Sponge." The characters were: Nina, a prima donna, Eleanor Arbuthnot; her daughter, Catherine, Florence Smythe; Ralph, an accompanist, Lucius Bugbee; Bettina, a maid, Francis Antico; Alfredo, a young song writer, Theodore Spero. Robert Wilson managed the production, and Miss Spalding directed it.

The story is built around Nina, the prima donna, who sacrifices everyone else to further her own interests. When Catherine, her daughter, was young, she had sent her away to be cared for by relatives in order not to hinder her career as a singer. Her husband, who was now dead, had given his entire life to cultivate her voice. Even Bettina, her servant, had been forced to separate from her family to serve this ambitious woman. Ralph, the pianist, who loves Catherine, realizes the grasping nature of Nina and decides to leave her employ. Of course this makes the singer very angry, and she refuses to let Ralph marry her daughter. The story ends by Nina relenting and allowing the two young people to marry because she does not want her daughter to become the pianist of her main operatic rival. Alfredo, the song writer, becomes Nina's pi-

All the cast played their parts expressively. Miss Arbuthnot and Miss Smythe are to be especially commended for their able characterizations.

ALLEGHENY ALUMNI NEWS

ALUMNUS RESPONDS TO REQUEST FOR CRITICISM

PAUL S. DWYER, '21, WRITES ON ALLEGHENY'S NEW ATHLETIC STAND

The alumni secretary's attempt to focus attention on Allegheny's present athletic policy should be commended. It may even be necessary, in order to get a spirited response, to prod "a sedate body of alumni from the gay nineties or thereabouts" by insinuating an inability to keep abreast of modern ethical developments. Though a careful consideration of policy during the preceding year would have been much more timely, it is not entirely useless now to examine the magnitude and direction of any changes which have been made. It is the purpose of this letter to show clearly what the new policy is, its extreme defensiveness, and the "liberal, modern standard of morals" which accompanies it. Quotations of college officials, gleaned from correspondence and from the official publication of the college, will be used frequently. While this letter is written in a spirit of frankness, as the alumni secretary requests, it is hoped that a sense of fair play will be in evidence throughout.

What is Allegheny's new athletic position? "Is true that the football team is strengthened; 'tis true that 'worthy young athletes who are unable to go to college without help' are assisted, but these items are merely incidentals. The keynote of the new policy, it seems, is that the college administration is taking the sport of football and making it into a business, a business which pays its dividends in publicity. Quotations from the commencement number of the College Bulletin will serve to substantiate these statements. Excerpts are taken from an editorial, so they are presumably from the pen of our alumni secretary.

"Athletics for athletics sake don't seem to exist in American colleges any more." "... the fact that college football has become the chief publicity instrument of the institutions of higher learning, and little else than a publicity instrument."

"So when you talk football these days you talk publicity."

"... it has come to pass that the college dollar invested in good football will buy about three times the space that can be bought by any other method."

Why has the college adopted the new policy? It is not because the college officials feel that it is something to get enthusiastic about but because they feel that they are forced to do it. Listen to President Beebe in his "Open Letter to the Alumni":

"We are shut up then to pursuing the present policy, but with greater vigor and candor. This policy is not essentially different from that which has been adopted by every school in Western Pennsylvania, except that we have done it timidly and hesitatingly what others have done energetically."

The approved report of the special trustee committee on athletics contains:

"It (the committee) is driven to the conclusion that no college in itself can revolutionize the conduct of intercollegiate athletics and, as well, that no college of continuing prestige can abandon this activity. It would be a mere waste of words in this report to theorize upon conditions of idealization in college athletics impossible of attainment, hence your committee commits itself to the possible."

The highest authorities of the college state that Allegheny is "shut up" and "driven" to do what other colleges do. I cannot fully understand old Allegheny with an inferiority complex, but there it is. If she would extend her horizon she would be able to find schools "of continuing prestige" which have not found it necessary to go into the business of making football teams. And if she would examine the record of the past century she would discover that her most respected accomplishments were voluntary rather than compulsory—acts of self sacrifice rather than of self preservation.

It is only fair to state that consideration of the opinions of the students directed the administration toward the present policy. After mentioning the advantages of intramural athletics in his "Open Letter to the Alumni," President Beebe goes on to say:

"But it should be said emphatically that in all probability the adoption of such a policy would result in a substantial decrease of male students in the institution, and I do not believe that anyone in authority is prepared to assume responsibility for such a result."

Not having been on the Allegheny campus for some time I can estimate student opinion only by indirect means. But I do know that an editorial in The Campus less than a year ago states:

"... we do not believe that this heavy financial subsidization should be undertaken or that it will long remain in public favor." And I have intimate acquaintance with undergraduates during the past decade, so perhaps I might be forgiven if I dared to infer that that the Allegheny undergraduate is more loyal to Allegheny's educational and cultural program than Doctor Beebe seems to suspect. And I be-mitted to the bar in 1857, and in 1872 he was elected district attorney. He became a trustee of Allegheny College in 1874. He was President Judge of the Crawford County Court of Common Pleas from 1888 until January, 1898, where he served with marked distinction. In 1896 he became the vice-president of the board of trustees of the College. On March 11, 1903, he was appointed by Governor Pennypacker to the Superior Court to fill a vacancy. He was elected to that office, which has a ten year term, and was twice re-elected, receiving in 1923 a plurality of 700,000 votes. He has been commissioned by the governor for the office of Judge of the Superior Court more times than any other judge on the present Superior Court bench.

Judge Henderson was a member of the Stone Church, the University Club, the Round Table, the Literary Union, the Meadville Country Club, and the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, and was a founder of the Kiwanis Club. Besides the multitude of friends both in and out of these organizations whom he leaves to mourn his departure from their midst, are the two members of his family, his brother Edward Harvey Henderson, and his niece, Miss Grace Henderson, who live at their brother's home in Meadville.

Mrs. Frances Walton, ex-'02, and her mother, Mrs. J. P. Colter, spent Thanksgiving with relatives in New York City. John Walton, a student in Allegheny, who has been in the East recovering from illness, is much improved and expects to return to his work soon.

I believe sincerely that the student body would have followed enthusiastically if the administration had decided to adopt Emerson's motto of "high endeavor rather than low prudence."

But why must the college have athletic publicity? Publicity precedes prestige, prestige precedes endowments, and endowments are necessary to perpetuate the college plant and machinery. It is admitted that the perpetuation of the material institution is a heavy burden which the administration must carry; but should the athletic energies of the students be professionalized for the questionable scholastic value of athletic publicity?

And what of the morals? It is admitted that the college has taken football and has made into a business whose aim is the securing of publicity. But if you are in business you can't leave the personnel to chance. So "the athletic scholarship" has been invented for the purpose of having men in the college employ without any formal recognition of that relationship. It seems to be a hypocritical thing at best and I question its place in a Christian college. Hypocrisy could be eliminated by announcing to the public the salaries of all athletes in the college employ; but that simply isn't done.

As the alumni secretary states, you are expected to adopt a "liberal modern standard of morals about college football." The issue is beginning to become clear. Winning games is of paramount importance. If ideals interfere, they will have to become more flexible. If to win is of paramount importance, it follows as logically as night follows day that in due course of time our fine sportsmanship and our vaunted scholarship will be discernible only in a "sedate body of alumni from the gay nineties or thereabouts."

I conclude with the words of President Wilkins, of Oberlin:

"IF THERE ARE ANY TWO LESSONS WHICH THE AMERICAN PUBLIC, AND, IN PARTICULAR, AMERICAN YOUTH, NEED AT THE PRESENT TIME, THEY ARE, FIRST, THAT PUBLICITY IS NOT THE MEASURE OF PERSONAL SIGNIFICANCE; AND, SECOND, THAT FINANCIAL DISPLAY IS NOT THE ULTIMATE MEASURE OF SUCCESS. AND INTERCOLLEGIATE FOOTBALL, AS AT PRESENT CONDUCTED, GLORIFIES BOTH PUBLICITY AND FINANCIAL DISPLAY."

INTERFRATERNITY SWIMMERS STAGE THRILLING CONTEST

Delts and Phi Dels Tie With Twenty-one Points Apiece;
Phi Gams Press Leaders

Last Wednesday evening swimming teams representing Phi Delta Theta and Delta Tau Delta tied for the interfraternity swimming championship. Each team scored 21 points, while Phi Gamma Delta pushed the leaders to their best efforts by scoring 20 points.

B. Sankey of Phi Delta Theta was the ranking individual point gatherer, scoring 13 points. Bowen, Delta Tau Delta, and Showers, Phi Gamma Delta, by garnering 11 and 10 points respectively, were second and third in the individual ranking. Sankey won the 40 yard backstroke, took first place in the dives, and second in the 40 yard free style, and swam as anchor man on the third place relay team.

In the opening event, the 40 yard free style, Showers and Sankey raced so evenly that there was less than one-tenth of a second difference between their times. Showers, however, slipped the edge of the pool an instant before the captain of the swimming team completed the course. Ledger, S. A. E., was a good third in this, the most closely contested race of the whole program with the exception of the relay.

In the diving matches Sankey of Phi Delta Theta, Rumsey of Delta Tau Delta, and L. Bugbee of Phi Gamma Delta, placing in that order, turned in the best performances. The work in this event was excellent, and consequently the judging had to be very close. The 40-yard backstroke was the only event in which any one fraternity captured more than one place. Burdell Sankey again led the pack. Ledger, S. A. E., and Harold Sankey, Phi Delta Theta, took second and third respectively.

Ledger swam ahead in the 220 yard free style when Eighmy, Phi Gamma Delta, gave out with only a few yards to go. Rumsey, Delta Tau Delta, and El Young, Phi Delta Theta, captured the other two places. Bowen, Delta Tau Delta, took first place in the 100 yard free style. Showers and Ledger immediately followed him, Showers almost beating out the Delt in a last moment spurt. Bowen took another first place for Delta Tau Delta in the 60 yard breast stroke. Ralph Young, Phi Delta Theta, and Mansell of Beta Upsilon turned in the next best times.

With the Phi Dels leading the Dels by two points and the Phi Gams by six, the relay seemed to be the deciding factor in the championship running. Fate, however, refused to play favorites and ended the meet in a tie. The Phi Gam team, composed of Bugbee, Crandall, Behrhorst, and Showers, nosed out the Dels by less than a yard and the Dels beat out the Phi Dels by an even narrower margin. So the Dels and the Phi Dels tied, while the Phi Gams missed a triple tie by one point.

The meet was undoubtedly the most successful of any staged in recent years. All of the space for spectators was filled by a strangely non-partisan crowd of undergraduates. Every competitor received an ovation. Coach Hammett said in reference to the meet that the spirit and sportsmanship shown in this inaugural of the intra-mural athletic season was the best ever shown in his experience at Allegheny.

The summary of events:
40 yard free style: (1) Showers, PGD; (2) Sankey, PDT; (3) Ledger, SAE; Time, 22 seconds.

Diving: (1) Sankey, PDT; (2) Rumsey, DTD; (3) L. Bugbee, PGD.

100 yard free style: (1) Bowen, DTD; (2) Showers, PGD; (3) Ledger, SAE; Time, 1:7.5.

40 yards backstroke: (1) B. Sankey, PDT; (2) L. Bugbee, PGD; (3) H. Sankey, PDT; Time, 27.5 seconds.

220 yard free style: (1) Ledger, SAE; (2) Rumsey, DTD; (3) E. Young, PDT; Time, 3:19.5.

60 yard breast stroke: (1) Bowen, DTD; (2) R. Young, PDT; (3) Mansell, B. U.

Relay: (1) PGD—Bugbee, Crandall, Behrhorst, and Showers; (2) DTD; (3) PDT.

R. P. Eaton, '24, of Warren, Pennsylvania, was a visitor at the College on December 11, and F. C. Eaton, '28, a visitor on December 14 and 15.

Mile Run Will Open Sixth Annual Frat Track Meet in Gym

This afternoon at four o'clock the opening event of the sixth annual interfraternity track meet will be staged. The one mile run is the event which is scheduled for that time, the other events of the meet to take place on the first Saturday following the Christmas recess. Several men have been practicing for this event, which is open to any student, the qualifying time being six minutes. Entries for it will be received up until the time of the race. Each man is run separately on time, and the five places are awarded to the five best times.

The events to be staged after Christmas are the shot put, high jump, fence vault, and 85-yard dash. The contest is for the possession of a handsome bronze and oak plaque, which, at the present time, is in the possession of the Sigs, who won it last year. The plaque becomes the permanent possession of the fraternity which wins it three times, and at present the Alpha Chi Rhos have two legs on it, and the Sigs, Phi Psis, and B. U.'s each have won it once.

Each fraternity may enter as many men as it desires in the meet, to compete in any or all of the events. The fraternity entering the most men is awarded fifteen points, and twelve, ten, and eight points respectively are awarded to the fraternities with the next largest number of entrants. Five places are awarded in all events, the points counting 5, 4, 3, 2, and 1. The following qualifications must be conformed with before a man is considered in any event: at least five feet in the fence vault; over four feet, three inches in the high jump; over 30 feet in the shot put; under 12 seconds in the dash; under six minutes in the mile. Entries for all events are accepted on the day of the meet.

BASKETBALL SEASON

fense, although not much can be told about it until it is tried out in a game. Some uncertainty is being expressed as to the type of defensive play that the team will exhibit, several systems having been experimented with. The team that takes the floor on Friday will lack the same thing that the football team did, namely experience. It will undoubtedly take the combination some time to learn to work smoothly together, but when this is accomplished, it is to be hoped that the season results successfully.

Class Basketball Will Begin Soon After Holidays

Another fall has passed and it will soon be time again for the inter-class basketball teams to swing into action. As soon as the holidays are over the call will go out for candidates for the various teams, so that they may organize and prepare for the coming campaign, which is looked forward to with a great deal of expectancy. Each year the inter-class contests develop a number of hard-fought games and this year should prove to be no exception to the rule.

Last year the sophomores carried off the honors, but only after a hard fight. The championship was not decided until the last game of the season. Several of the sophomore players have graduated to the ranks of the varsity, so that the team will probably be weaker this year than it was last season. The freshmen are expected to have a strong outfit this year, for there are several promising players in the class which just missed making the varsity squad.

The schedule:

Jan. 19—First round: 2 P. M. Seniors vs. Freshmen; 3 P. M. Juniors vs. Sophomores.

Feb. 9—Second round: 2 P. M. Seniors vs. Sophomores; 3 P. M. Juniors vs. Freshmen.

Feb. 16—Third round: 2 P. M. Seniors vs. Juniors; 3 P. M. Sophomores vs. Freshmen.

Feb. 23—Fourth round: 2 P. M. Seniors vs. Freshmen; 3 P. M. Juniors vs. Sophomores.

March 2—Fifth round: 2 P. M. Seniors vs. Sophomores; 3 P. M. Juniors vs. Freshmen.

March 9—Sixth round: 2 P. M. Seniors vs. Juniors; 3 P. M. Sophomores vs. Freshmen.

"Doubled and redoubled"

A leading bridge expert once said, "The aces and kings play themselves; it's the little spots that make games."

What's true in bridge seems equally true in the cigarette business. Aces to deuces, spades to clubs—from the very first deal, Chesterfield made every card good!

No risky finesses, no sharp double squeezes—Chesterfield rose to world-wide popularity by straight honest selling with a straight honest product—an outstanding success in cigarette history.

So Chesterfield can bid high. Tobacco quality, perfect blending, purity, mildness, natural sweetness—with a hand like that, Chesterfield can redouble your smoking pleasure...and today, next month, next year, keep right on fulfilling the contract.
