OF ALLEGHENY COLLEGE

1912

VOLUME XXX.—NUMBER 18. MEADVILLE, PA., FEBRUARY 24, 1912.

ANNUAL COLLEGE DINNER HELD LAST THURSDAY

Washington's Birthday Banquet Successfully Held in Gymnasium.

The eleventh annual Washington's Birthday Banquet at Allegheny was celebrated with more than its usual splendor and patriotism on Thursday evening when nearly five hundred students, Alumni and friends gathered in the Gymnasium in honor of the father of his country. The capacity of the gymnasium was taxed to its full capacity with tables for the banqueters and it was necessary near the end of the preparations to limit the number that would be admitted. The Alumni had a large table completely filled with members of the previous classes. A number of guests and prospective students were also present. The gallery was well filled with visitors who came to hear and see the evidences of the real Allegheny spirit.

The Senior class followed in the footsteps of 1911 in producing a special publication for the occasion, this being "The Jawbone." It was a witty journal printed in the class colors and was full of terse sayings. Its sale was hindered somewhat by a "yellow sheet" named "The Revelation," whose coming had been announced the night before at the basketball game. It was a knock at everything in school that did not suit the publishers and was more sarcasm than wit. Both these papers were on sale before the banquet and considerable profit was evidently reaped by the parties.

The decorations both of the class sections and of the whole Gymnasium were up to the usual standard. Large strings of evergreen were wound about the girders of the building with an occasional Japanese lantern set in. The walls under the running track were decorated with college colors while at opposite ends of the building hung the portraits of George Washington and Timothy Alden. The Senior section in the southeast corner was the most brilliant spot of the evening. A platform was erected on which the members sat, this being illuminated with a large number of electric lights strung about. The top and bottom of this little exclusive building was arranged in the form of lattice work draped with the class colors and an electric sign spelled out "1912." A pseudo Phi Beta Kappa key was given each member. The Juniors were seated in their usual place diagonally across from the Seniors. White caps and gowns, which have now become one of the traditions of the banquet, were worn by the Juniors. Their colors of scarlet and grey were draped everywhere and numerous butterflies were hung about, the effect produced being that of the butterflies. A red rose was laid at each plate.

The usual rivalry between the Freshmen and Sophomores was again in evidence. Each vied with the other to surpass in decorations and costumes and as a result both were at their best. The Sophomores were dressed as Summer boys and girls. A canoe hung above the center of their section and tennis nets and rackets together with other evidences of their costuming were to be seen about. The men of the class appeared in white shirt waists with ties in their class colors and the girls wore sailor suits.

The Puritan period was portrayed by the Freshmen. Dressed in the old style with the large collars and cuffs they marched into the gymnasium preceded by a band of men with muskets. Two members of the class representing Timothy Alden and his wife lead the way. Their decorations consisted in the reproduction of a Puritan home with the old fashioned fireplace. Antique candlesticks were used on the table. Their colors of red and white were draped for the first time before the other classes. The decorations of the Faculty and Alumni were unique in every detail. The Faculty table held a small tent, in front of which was seen a miniature Kaldron and several small pine tree imitations were about the table.

As soon as all the banqueters were at their places, R. W. Thomas brought in Miss Margaret Megirt, Miss Edna Yost, and J. R. McGowan representing Mary, Martha and George Washington. Grace was then said by Dr. C. M. Cobern and after an Allegheny song had been sung the class singing began, the classes all following in order. The singing of the under classes was again a feature, each delighting in challenging the other in all their songs.

Professor Breed prefaced the toast list with a number of telegrams from various Alumni scattered about the country. One greeting was read from President Crawford after which it was moved to send a telegram to him telling of the regret of the assembly that he was unable to attend.

Miss Margaret Megirt, as Mary, told in a reminiscent way, the early life of George and of his deeds while under her protection. She described the present "new-fangled" notions about women and declared that such things would not be thought of in her day. Her toast was one to the "good old days." This was followed by a sextette from the Senior class on "Allegheny."

Miss Edna Yost toasted to the twentieth century as Martha. She spoke humorously of the present movement for women's rights and for the new order of things that is giving way to the old. J. R. McGowan represented George and gave his toast to the future, to the time when things should not be done by international agreements but by "inter-planet" and when things more wonderful than those already in existence should be even excelled.

Frank E. Baker, '05, was to have been the Alumni speaker but was unable to be present and his place was taken on the program by F. R. Miller, '07, he responding to "Uncle Sam." He told what a true citizen of Uncle Sam should do and finally toasted to "the best citizens of the land—those of Allegheny." Alleghee was praised in the most witty toast of the banquet by Dr. Akers, he relating the deeds of all the college heroes and representatives in every line of activity. The toast list was brought to a close by the whole company singing the college medley.

Pitt Tonight

Victory Expected in Game with Basketball Five from U. of P.

This evening, for the first time in several years, Allegheny meets the team from the University of Pittsburgh on the local floor. Judging from the record Pitt has made thus far and from the teams they have defeated, an interesting game should ensue. They have played nine games thus far, seven of which have been victories; and have defeated Mt. Union, Tech, Westinghouse and P. A. A., and lost a very close game to Grove City. They are described by the Pittsburgh scribes as being very fast and clever basketball players. They will undoubtedly play their best game this evening to defeat the team which their college paper describes as "the invincible Allegheny team."

In spite of the fact that Allegheny has had two of its hardest games of the season within five days and although they have had only one day in which to prepare for the game this evening the men are in good shape and are expecting to add another victory to their unbroken list. The team will probably line up with the same men who defeated the Germans and Hiram.

FRESHMEN STEAL GOWNS AND RECEIVE PUNISHMENT

Upperclassmen Exercise Their Authority Over Unruly Underclassmen.

The past week has witnessed some rather strenuous administration of discipline on the part of the upperclassmen to the Freshmen. On Monday a number of Senior gowns disappeared from the room of F. H. Callahan at the Phi Delta Theta house and it was discovered that certain Freshmen were responsible for the affair. In a class meeting that evening the majority of the Senior class decided that some means should be taken to discover and punish the offenders. For this purpose a committee was appointed from the Senior class. This committee was not long in finding out the offenders and reporting them to the students.

On Tuesday morning at the call of the president of the Senior class, a meeting was held after Chapel of all the men of the three upper classes at which time a committee composed of five Seniors, four Juniors and three Sophomores was appointed to take the affair in hand, try the offenders and decide on their punishment. After giving them a trial, the decision was that the six guilty ones should run a gauntlet the following morning at Chapel time and wear their green caps until further notice. Following this plan every man was provided with a belt or paddle on Wednesday morning and the guilty Freshmen were required to run through and receive their punishment. The line of men extended from the beginning of the driveway at Ruter to the fork in the walk at Bentley.

At the trial on Tuesday night, L. W. Wells, W. H. McWhorter, C. W. Ricker and Wm. Newlin refused to speak of the affair. Donald Dunbar and L. L. Williams confessed their share in the theft, their plea being that they did not think they were Senior gowns.

On Thursday again, the day of the banquet, seven more gowns were taken from the same place that the previous ones had been stolen from. It was at first decided to exclude the Freshmen from the annual college dinner unless the missing gowns were returned but the class disclaimed any knowledge of the affair and consented to sign a statement condemning the action of those who had done it a second time. Nothing more was done about the gowns before the banquet as enough gowns were borrowed from other sources to supply those who had none.

The action of stealing gowns from the Seniors is something entirely unprecedented in the history of the school. It was remarked in the meeting of the upperclassmen on Tuesday morning that the upper classes had been too lax in enforcing the rules this year and that this was partly responsible for the action on the part of the Freshmen. Then, a decision was reached in the meeting to see to it that every Freshman wore a green cap from that time until the end of the prescribed time and strenuous efforts were made to carry out this plan. Every Freshman seen without the proper headgear was attacked by a party of upperclassmen and his hat taken from him. Several attempted to show fight, rather than carry out the rule. They were finally persuaded that the short time remaining until the end of the season would be more pleasant if the law were carried out. Rules in regard to wearing green caps are now removed from all Freshmen, except the six implicated in the gown theft.

AN ALLEGHENY SUMMER SCHOOL.

A plan is under consideration by the Faculty at the present time for opening a summer school at Allegheny. The courses would include all the elementary courses in the college branches and would enable teachers and students to make up special work in the summer. If a sufficient number can be enrolled in time, the plan will be tried next summer.

Hiram Loses; 36-24

Ohio Team Defeated in Good Game on Local Floor.

The Hiram College basketball team suffered their first defeat this season at the hands of a collegiate team on Wednesday evening when they were defeated by Captain Hawk's five here by a score of 36-24. The game although far below the standard of the German game was the best exhibition that any college five has made here this year and was at times exciting.

The first few minutes of play were the best of the game, neither side apparently being able to get free enough to get a shot. Allegheny scored the first point when a foul was called on Hiram, but the lead was soon changed to the visitors' side by a field goal by Coombs, shot while under guard. The scoring done by Hiram was almost exclusively by Coombs, who was an adept at shooting over his head. The score at the end of the first half was 20-9.

The second half was featured by somewhat faster playing than the first period. The visitors were able to hold the score to sixteen points, while they secured fifteen themselves. Mates was forced to retire about the middle of the period on account of four personal fouls and his place was taken by Lindberg. Braund took the lead in scoring for Hiram and added six points to their score and Swartz and Coombs each added a field goal.

The playing of the locals while not as good as that of the week before was all that could be desired. Captain Hawk had fourteen of the thirty-six points to his credit. Nicholls passed and shot well. Mates got away for four baskets, and besides, stuck close enough to his perpetual motion guard to prevent his making any tallies. Graham was in the game at every point, showing that he is developing rapidly into a whirlwind guard. Thomas, at the other guard, played in his usual aggressive manner. Lindberg, who went in after Mates was retired, secured a basket.

Coombs for the visitors, was the most prominent man. Half of their eight field goals were secured by him and half their points on fouls, he making four out of four trials. Braund also played a good game at the other forward, having six points to his credit. Everhardt, at guard, was prominent for his fast and consistent floor work.

The lineup and summary:

Allegheny.		Hiram.
Mates,
Lindberg	R.F.	Coombs
Nicholls	L.F.	Braund
Hawk	C.	Hasbrook
Thomas	R.G.	Everhardt
Graham	L.G.	Schwartz

Field Goals—Hawk 5, Nicholls 4, Mates 4. Graham, Thomas, Lindberg; Coombs 4, Braund, Hasbrook, Everhardt, Schwartz. Goals from field—Hawk 4 out of 4; Braund 4 out of 7, Coombs 4 out of 4. Referee—Peckinpaugh.

One of the most nefarious as well as the most cowardly acts ever perpetrated in the name of Allegheny College was the publication of a small, yellow, four-page pamphlet, entitled "The Revelation," which was sold at the Washington's Birthday Banquet on last Thursday evening. The publication is not only the work of a contemptible, sarcastic cynic, but is plainly the product of one who is a detestable liar and coward. Not only is the sheet full of sour complaint, but no less than three or four personal insults to prominent men in college have been brazenly made. To read the thing is enough to make one boil. One of the worst insults is that made to Louis L. Hawk, captain of the last football team and the present basketball team, than whom there is no less yellow and more devoted athlete in Allegheny. And yet, this unnamable writer, as yellow as the paper his stuff is printed on, comes forth saying something uncomplimentary in regard to Hawk's recently announced engagement, and goes further to say that "it is hoped that Louie will stick to his school and not show the yellow feather in football next year on this account." If there is one man in college who has worn himself out for the sake of Allegheny's athletics and who has always been far removed from any semblance of yellowness, it is Hawk, the mere mention of whose name at the college dinner last Thursday brought the house spontaneously into applause. And yet there exists one in this college who has the effrontery to come forth with such an intimation! Other insults are hurled at other men in college, and even President Crawford is spoken of in a way in which no gentleman would speak of another. The publication claims to be working for the betterment of conditions at Allegheny and the improvement of real Allegheny spirit. It aims to "give as true an account as can be secured of the happenings of the college" and yet the four pages are replete with lies. The present condition at Allegheny will never be remedied by such impudent onslaughts as those made in this paper. The man or men who will write such stuff are always the ones to sit back and do nothing toward actually improving the condition of affairs. It is easy to talk and criticise, easy to point out faults. But what men ought to do is to work for improvement constructively, not destructively.

Cowardly Revelation.

The man or men who issued this paper ought to be dealt with severely when they are found out. If there are other numbers, as promised, the guilty parties ought easily to be discovered. Even expulsion from college would not be too severe punishment.

PHI KAPPA PSI FOUNDERS' DAY.

Last Monday evening the active members of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity together with a large number of Alumni observed Fouiders' Day with a banquet that would meet the requirements of any Epicure. An elaborate seven course dinner was served to which all did justice. C. A. Eckels, '13, acted as toastmaster, while W. E. Abbott, '12, C. N. More, '12, Bishop James M. Thoburn, '57, Dr. Camden M. Cobern, '76, and F. L. LaBounty, '07, responded to toasts.

The Adventurer

The proposed trip to the Old Ladies' Home, which had been planned for the whole crowd by several of the brother Adventurers, was anticipated with feelings far from delight by the Adventurer. He did not expect anything in the way of personal enjoyment. Missionaries and social workers, he thought, never expected to get pleasure from their work,and of course never did. They felt called as a preacher, and gave their lives in devoted service for the good they were doing and not for the pleasure they received. And so on this evening the Adventurer felt that he was giving that much time in service for the good it might do and not at all with any expectancy of pleasure.

But in thinking that there was no enjoyment in such work he soon found his conception to be wrong. The crowd soon arrived at the Home, and were shown by the preceptress into a small auditorium on the second floor. In the front of the room was a little pulpit holding a large Bible. A piano was at one side. In the other end were a few chairs, on which were contentedly seated several old women and men, evidenly prepared for the unusual event. Their faces were worn and wrinkled and if one loked closely enough he could see written there many stories of hardship, privation and trouble. But behind all this there was always an expresion of contentment and peace with the world. One old man in particular had such a kind gentle expression which, coupled with his long hair, gave him almost an effeminate appearance. But such are the marks of age. A mere look or two at these people was enough to give the Adventurer a new idea of this litle mission into the land of sorrow and friendlessness. There were the little children, orphans or worse in all probability, seated on the floor and two or three comfortably ensconced in the laps of the women attendants.

Then the singing began, and the Adventurer believes he has seldom heard such a lusty chorus from so few men. Every one seemed to put his whole self into his voice, expressing loudly and gladly the joy of his heart. As the singing went on, the feeling of magnanimity increased. The Adventurer was having an entirely new experience. The old folks and children alike—especially the six little totc who came in late in their bare feet—listened and looked with eyes, ears and mouths wide open, expressing unconsciously their great joy. And to see their joy brought gladness to the singers, so that they lost all idea of working in the name of service and found themselves working for pleasure alone.

And thus, the Adventurer learned something he never realized before—that bringing happiness to others is an excellent way to get happiness for oneself. He almost believes that this is, in the last analysis, the only way.

RESOLUTIONS FOR THE PRESIDENT.

After a telegram from President Crawford, in which he expressed his regret at not being able to be present, had been read at the banquet on Thursday evening, the following resolutions were proposed by Dr. F. C. Lockwood and were unanimously accepted by the student body. The message which was signed by the presidents of the four classes and by C. E. Hilborn for the Alumni, was telegraphed to Dr. Crawford as follows:

Resolved, by the Faculty, Alumni and students of Allegheny College assembled at the College Gymnasium for the enjoyment of the Annual Washington's Birthday Banquet,

First: That President Crawford's enforced absence from the banquet deprives us of one of the chief accustomed delights of the occasion;

Second: That we assure President Crawford of our unqualified appreciation of the arduous and devoted efforts that he is now making in the interest of a nobler Allegheny; and,

Third: That we send him these greetings by telegraph with the assurance of our united loyalty and good will.

At the meeting of the Pittsburgh Alumni Association held on Feb. 20, Geo. H. Lamb, '85, was nominated for election as one of the Trustees.

LECTURE ON CITIZENSHIP.

Mr. C. M. Jesup, a New York business man and father of the Intercollegiate Civic League of which the Modern Problems Club is a member, visited Allegheny last Saturday as a guest of the local civic club and gave several talks to the college students. At six o'clock, the Modern Problems Club gave a dinner in the club dining room of Cochran Hall at which Mr. Jesup told of the founding of the Civic League and of its purpose. At eight o'clock a lecture was given by him in the Chapel on "The Responsibility of Citizenship."

The idea of combining the various civic clubs in the schools and colleges in the country under one main body came to Mr. Jesup in 1905 when he was on his way to New Haven to address a body of students at Yale University. Soon he presented the plan to a number of civic leagues until now there are about fifty-four schools represented. Yearly conventions are held at which men prominent in public life as economic and civic authorities are present to speak to the students, the whole plan being to educate the students in the problems that will confront them later in business and public life.

The speaker presented in his lecture in the Chapel the problems that come to a business man in his political life. His two gratest problems were those of immigration, and capital and labor. He showed that the responsibility of citizenship required that every man do his duty towards solving these problems that make for the betterment of the whole nation and country.

In substance he said:

"The responsible citizen can solve the question of capital and labor by asserting that each needs the other and by developing a sense of joint responsibility. The responsibilities of citizenship begin in the home. If we were more careful of the home life there would be less talk and more prosperity. The community takes its color from the home. Second, comes the responsibility to the community. This demands that a man investigate conditions for himself and not allow others to make his opinions for him.

"The third responsibility is responsibbility in business. The chief requisite for a citizen is honesty. We need more of the golden rule and less of the golden calf. Lastly we may mention responsibility in politics. The patriot is one who serves his country; the professional politician is one who serves himself. The trouble with us is that we do not study the conditions and public questions enough. True citizenship means Loyalty, Integrity, Faith and Energy and these spell out the great word—life."

COBURN PLAYERS IN MACBETH.

The Coburn Players, noted for their interpretation of the famous plays of Shakespeare, will appear in the Academy of Music on Monday night in Macbeth. This company together with that of Ben Greet plays the Shakespearean plays as they were originally played at the time of the author himself. The greater part of the scenery is done away with and simplicity marks the staging. A special price is offered to college students.

That the Coburn Players' engagement represents the highest appeal of the drama of the season, is, of course, known. Their appearance here is a matter of deep concern to the student body since the presentation of the classics as illuminated by these players, is considered a necessary education to all who speak the English language. They bring here their productions intact as seen in New York and other large centers.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT LAST NIGHT.

Last evening in the High School Auditorium the Glee and Mandolin Clubs gave their second concert of the season in this city. The concert was given under the auspices of the High School Athletic Association and was enjoyed by an appreciative audience. As usual, the second part, in the nature of a college serenade, was enthusiastically received. As a whole the concert was well received.

The latest report from the City Hospital where Prof. Benjamin is confined states that he is improving very slowly. He is still in a nervous condition and no definite statement as to when he will be able to be in his classes can be made.

Newton Longfellow, '13, visited Leroy Peterson at the Summit Hospital in Kane, Pa., over Sunday and he reports that Peterson is improving rapidly. The attending physician expects to have him in a chair before long and Peterson himself confidently expects to be in college by May 1.

Mr. James Lane, '13, at a memorial service given by the W. C. T. U. in honor of Francis Williard, in Titusville last Sunday afternoon, gave his oration on "The Second American Emancipation." This is the oration for which he received the fifty dollar prize at the Wakefield oratorical contest.

The Y. W. C. A. meeting on Sunday evening was a Bible Study Rally, and was led by Miss Marguerite Shelmadine, '12. The speaker gave a number of reasons why systematic Bible study is necessary to spiritual growth, and several girls followed with short helpful talks. Miss Rose Williams, '13, gave a vocal solo.

The Wednesday evening prayer meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was in charge of Mrs. C. J. Ling, who took for her Scripture lesson the parable of the talents. Mrs. Ling said that every person had at least one talent, and the question was whether or not he should make good use of that one. Mrs. Ling also spoke about friendships and choosing one's friends, giving the advice "to choose friends who need you."

COWARDS.

"The most cowardly act which has happened at Allegheny College in its existence of nearly one hundred years was the dastardly and untruthful statement of the yellow journal, the so called, 'Revelation.'

"No person or persons with any manly character at all would publish such foul, cowardly and malicious lies and then be too much of a coward to sign their names to their articles or in some way make known the publishers and editors. It certainly is a deplorable condition when several of the so called loyal students of Allegheny College can make such insinuating and cowardly remarks and be allowed to get away with them without an outcry and public protest from the entire student body.

"The most cowardly act of all was to bring into the matter and cast slurs at two young ladies in no way connected with the school. To my mind no man is such a cur and coward as he who insults a woman.

"If these persons have any honor or manhood at all they will make themselves known and retract certain remarks made in the so called 'Revelation.' "Louis L. Hawk."

LECTURE POSTPONED.

The lecture on "The Federation of the World," which was to have been delivered in the Chapel on next Wednesday evening by Mr. Hamilton Holt, the managing editor of The Independent, has been postponed to a later day. Professor Dutton has received word from Mr. Holt, stating that he could not come to Meadville on this trip, but that he will be glad to lecture here at a later date.

Mr. Holt is perhaps one of the best known men in journalism today. As the managing editor of The Independent, he has come into prominence on account of the reputation and standard of that magazine. It is classed with the Outlook and several others as the leaders in the line of up-to-date public magazines. Mr. Holt is a graduate of Yale University and has also taken a post-graduate course in Sociology and Economics. He spends a great amount of his time in the study of economic and industrial problems, on which he is an authority. He is president of the New York State Initiative and Referendum League and a member of the International Conciliation Society. He is also a member of the American Association for Labor Legislation, the National Civic Federation and the American Society of International Law. In 1905, he was decorated by the Emperor of Japan with the order of The Sacred Treasure. He is the author of "Undistinguished Americans" and "Commercialism and Journalism." His lecture on "The Federation of the World" is said to be one of the greatest on the subject.

ORATORICAL CONTEST AT PITT.

The State Peace Oratorical Contest in which Allegheny will be represented by C. E. Vogel, '12 and R. J. Piersol, '12, will be held at the University of Pittsburgh in the latter part of March. The date has not been definitely set as yet. The University of Pittsburgh will be represented in the contest and for that reason Pittsburgh has been chosen as the place for the contest.

Although Mr. Vogel is now attending Harvard, he will nevertheless be able to represent Allegheny in this contest, since he was a student at Allegheny when he entered the contest and will graduate here in June.

That German Game

Detailed Account of Game With Buffalo Germans.

On last Friday evening, Feb. 16, one of the most hotly contested games of basketball ever seen in this city was played in the local gymnasium when the Allegheny five defeated the Buffalo Germans by a score of 11-10. In the first half, four points were scored by Captain Hawk's team while the Germans were held scoreless, the first time in the seventeen years of their organization that they have failed to tally in the first half. The size of the crowd at the game was another significant feature, it being estimated that nearly a thousand spectators saw the Germans go down to defeat.

As is indicated by the score, the game was close and exciting from start to finish. It was some minutes before either side got close enough to the basket to venture a shot. The long experience of the Germans at the floor game was evident throughout, especially when it was necessary to make long passes or to advance the ball down the floor. Their system and team work was very good.

The beginning of the game was a signal for the spectators to begin cheering. Everyone realized the strength of the opponents and an Allegheny victory was hoped for, although not confidently expected. The first five minutes was nothing more than close guarding on the part of both fives, neither side securing any loose shots. Soon after this time, Allegheny secured possession of the ball. By clever team work it was advanced to a good shooting distance of the goal and Mates dropped it in for the first score. Near the close of this half, Hawk secured another field goal, closing the scoring for this period.

In the second half, the experience of the Germans and their greater endurance was shown, they scoring ten points to Allegheny's seven. E. Miller started the scoring by shooting a foul soon after Nicholls secured his first basket and the score now stood 6-1. Three field goals on the part of the Germans and one by Allegheny brough the score 8-7 and then everyone began to fear lest the Germans take the lead. Each side added another basket and a foul to its credit and the game ended with the score 11-10. Near the close of this half Hawk was hurt and it was thought for a time that it would be necessary for him to go out of the game but he was revived and continued the game in the same way that he has been playing all season. His grit and determination were one of the features of the game.

The work of the whole team was beyond criticism. Every man realized the strength of the Germans and played with a determination to win.

The lineup and summary.

Allegheny—11.		Germans—10.
Mates	L.F.	Linneborn

BOWLING TOURNAMENT

T. R. Fitzgerald, the manager of the bowling alleys in Cochran Hall has arranged a schedule for a bowling tournament to be held between the several fraternities and Cochran Hall. It will be remembered that there is a cup offered each year to the team winning the tournament and that last year the games were never rolled off. The cup is now in the possession of Phi Gamma Delta whose team won it two years ago. It is the desire of the manager that the cup be contended for this year. Accordingly, he is trying to arrange a good schedule for the teams.

Since the opening of college in the fall all of the alleys have been planed and put in good shape. New duck pins and duck pin balls have been purchased and the alleys now are as good as any in the city. The manager requests that the several fraternities select their teams as soon as possible and assist him in arranging a satisfactory schedule. He has prepared a schedule subject to the approval of the several teams, which has been posted in Cochran Hall.

COACH STEWART PROSPERING AT O. A. C.

The many friends of Coach Stewart will be glad to hear that he is giving satisfaction at his new post as Director of Athletics at Oregon Agricultural College. Some of the men here have received letters from him since his arrival at Corvallis; all of which seem to show that the coach likes his position pretty well. As soon as he arrived there in January, he started to work with the basketball team, which has been somewhat weak in years past, with the result that, up to the present, no games have been lost. His team is fast looming up as a contender for the championship of the state. The members of the team say that Coach Stewart is the most gentlemanly coach they ever worked under and are unanimous in the statement that he can get more work out of them than former incumbents of the coaching staff. The O. A. C. students give Coach Stewart great credit for the work he has already done and say he has only made a beginning of his work. He is characteristically popular with the student body. A specimen of the interest is shown by the fact that 150 men are out for positions on the track team. Last year this track team won the championship of the Pacific Northwest. Coach Stewart has also organized an inter-class basketball league as he did here. There is an interfraternity basketball league as well, so that he has plenty of chances to find and develop new material in this branch of sport.

Mrs. Stewart who has been staying with her mother in Ohio expects to join her husband sometime during the spring.

DR. MULFINGER BUYING PICTURES AND DISHES FOR GERMAN CLUB.

On Monday evening the regular monthly meeting of the German Club was held in the seminar room in the Library. Owing to the inclemency of the evening only a few members were present and, consequently, the program for the evening was dispensed with. At this meeting it was decided that a German dinner should be held some time in the near future. A letter from Dr. Mulfinger was also read at this time in which he states that he has purchased a number of pictures and books for the club and that he expects to purchase a set of monogram dishes for the use of the club.

EDWIN S. OAKES, '99.

The following article concerning Mr. Edwin S. Oakes, class of 1899, is taken from a Cattaraugus, N. Y., paper:

In the January number of Case and Comment, the lawyers' magazine, there appears an article written by Edwin S. Oakes entitled "The Value of Modern English Decisions to the American Lawyer." Mr. Oakes is the son of F. S. Oakes of this place and formerly practiced law here. Case and Comment is considered among attorneys one of the best legal magazines and the contributors to its pages are men whose opinions are given much weight. In the August number of 1910, Mr. Oakes contributed an article on "Powers of Courts in Vacation;" in the February issue of 1911 he wrote on "Ethics of Advocacy in Unjust Cases;" and this was followed in the August number of the same year by an article in "The Caseless Law of Wireless Telegraphy." Mr. Oakes is one of the ablest associate editors of The Lawyers' Co-operative Publishing Company and during the past year has been assigned to very important editorial work on a set of books entitled "British Ruling Cases." He is a close, exhaustive searcher, a deep thinker and a very clear and able writer.

MEN TO EAT TOGETHER.

Next Thursday evening at six o'clock all men of the college will meet at Cochran Hall where they will take dinner together. This will be the first of what is planned to be a series of weekly dinners to be held in the hall. The purpose of the dinner will be to create a more intimate spirit of fellowship among the men and also to lay the foundation for a better college spirit. Short speeches will probably be made by a number of the men, explaining the purpose of the dinner and during the meal an attempt will be made to have a spirited sing. After the meal a short time will be spent in a general good time about the hall.

TAGS SOLD YESTERDAY.

The Assembly period on Friday morning was given over to a short rally in the interest of athletics. Dr. Lee explained very briefly but clearly the difficulties with which the athletic board meets in attempting to make out a football schedule and asked for the support of the student body in bringing teams here to play. A vote was then taken to determine whether West Virginia or Westminster should be given an open football date for the next season. The vote favored Westminster and a game will be arranged with this team. The matter of athletic tags was then taken up and explained by H. T. Lavely who said that in view of the fact that the girls of Allegheny had asked so ardently that they be allowed to have equal suffrage it had been decided to allow them to hove the opportunity of voting. The remainder of the period was then given over to the sale of these tags.

REHEARSALS TO BEGIN SOON.

Although no definite arrangement has as yet been made it is very probable that the rehearsals for The Comedy of Errors will be begun with Miss Warren on Thursday of next week and will continue throughout the week. The men will be asked to be familiar with their lines by that time as Miss Warren's first work will consist in interpreting the lines correctly, and it will be much easier for her to do this if the men are familiar with their parts. After Miss Warren's departure rehearsals will be conducted regularly every week up until the date of the play which has been set for March 28.

FORMER PREP DIES.
