WESTERN RESERVE EASY FOR ALLEGHENY FIVE

Visitors Completely Outclassed and Secure Only One Field Goal.

Allegheny had little trouble in defeating the five representing Western Reserve University by the overwhelming score of 69-6 on last Saturday night. At no time was the final result in doubt as the gold and blue had, after the first few minutes of play, completely outclassed the red and white. The Reserve team had defeated the strong University of Pittsburgh team by a score of 23-22 on Friday night and it was expected that Saturday's game would be hard fought. However, the visitors failed to show much strength in any department of the game, while Allegheny played a fast game, accurate shooting being especially in evidence. However, at several stages of the game there seemed to be a lack of team work, when some of the men tried long shots when a pass would have been preferable, but on the whole the work of the team was pleasing to the large audience present.

The first half started by Nichols securing a goal in the first few minutes of play, and from that time on he found the basket almost at will. Hawk and Mates soon followed his example and this trio connected with the basket repeatedly. The Allegheny forwards were exceedingly clever in evading their guards, and many open shots were offered.

In the middle of the first period Kalish scored the only field goal for Reserve with a pretty shot from one of the corners. Reserve also managed to get two points from the foul line, which made the score 30-4 at the close of the first half

The second half was almost a repetition of the first, except for the fact that the gold and blue managed to get 39 points while the Clevelanders failed to score a field goal, getting two points from the foul line. During this half Hawk dropped the ball from the center of the floor, over a beam, and into the basket without touching the rim. This undoubtedly was the feature of the game and climaxed the star shooting work that "Louie" had performed throughout the contest. Thomas also surprised the audience with three difficult field goals and Graham was not far behind with two. These guards covered up the Reserve forwards so closely that they had no chance for open shots at the basket beyond the center of the floor. About the middle of the period, Captain Hawk substituted Lindberg and Cox at forwards, and they kept up the pace getting three goals apiece. Hawk, as usual, was the star of the game being responsible for a third of all Allegheny's points. However, Thomas and Graham at guard, holding their men to one goal, and Nichols and Mates and Lindberg and Cox shooting eighteen times successfully were not far behind their captain in effectiveness.

Following is the line-up and summary:

Allegheny.		Western Reserve.
Mates, Lindberg	R.F.	Kalish
Nichols, Cox	L.F.	Englehardt
Hawk	C.	Zeigler
Graham	R.G.	Williams
Thomas	L.G.	Robinson

Goals—Hawk 8, Nichols 9, Mates 3, Lindberg 3, Cox 3, Graham 2, Thomas 3. Fouls—Hawk 7 out of 10, Zeigler 4 out of 5. Referee—Peckinpaugh.

Inspector Here

Of Carnegie Educational Foundation For Teachers.

Friday and Saturday the college had as guest Dr. Furst of the Carnegie Educational Foundation who was visiting Allegheny for the purpose of inspecting and placing the grade of the school. He dropped into many of the classes and took careful note of everything. Saturday morning he spoke to the student body at chapel time.

In introducing the visitor President Crawford mentioned the increased notice Allegheny has been receiving from the various educational organizations during the last months, and referred to the visit of Mr. Babcock, the government inspector, a year ago.

Dr. Furst said that the most interesting thing he had seen in regard to the student body was that they did not seem to mind being educated; they seemed rather to like it. It might be a curious situation that a group of middle aged people should presume to give young people what they will need tomorrow and it might seem strange that they should care to do it. But they do, he said, and he was glad to see that we enjoyed receiving it. In spite of the many differentces of opinion that have prevailed as to what will be the best for the young people, there has come to be a good deal of unanimity on the subject and it is for the helping on of the ideas that his organization exists. There are many things in the course of study which the young people may not want now, but, he said, they will want them in twenty years. The instructors are looking a generation ahead. This decade has been marked as a coming together of the colleges, the spirit of willingness to profit by what others know.

The purpose of the Carnegie Foundation primarily is to provide a fund on which the aged professors may be able to retire, recognizing that the men will thus be free from outside pecuniary considerations and so able to give their best to their work.

College Activities

Final Arrangements for Installation of New Limiting Plan.

For a number of years the Faculty has been searching for some satisfactory method of regulating the outside activities of the students. The trouble has been that the outside activities of the college have been carried on by a comparatively small number of students, and that these students have overburdened themselves to such an extent that they could not do their best work in college. On the other hand, a few who had perhaps less ability, were prevented from entering outside activities and competitions because of the apparent monopoly of the few. It is believed that these troubles will be eliminated and a wider interest stimulated in all outside activities by the enforcement of the regulations recently passed by the Faculty to regulate extra curricular activities of the students.

These regulations were published in the Campus some time ago, and have since been distributed in pamphlet form among all the students. Any who have not received copies of these rules may procure them at the Registrar's window.

Owing to the fact that a strict enforcement of these rules at this time would unjustly deprive a number of students of activities in which they are now engaged, two units extra outside activities will be allowed this semester. If, for any reason, these regulations should not operate in the case of any student he should consult the Registrar at once that a definite understanding may be arrived at. Unless other satisfactory arrangements are made all students will be deprived of all work above the allowed number of units, after March first. Beginning with next fall the regulations regarding extra work will be enforced strictly.

The Mask and Wig Club of Pennsylvania University will present "The Yellow Taxi," a musical comedy by a late graduate, during Easter week.

ALLEGHENY WITHDRAWS FROM ATHLETIC LEAGUE

Dr. Crawford Explained Action at Assembly Last Friday.

On account of the discussion that has been aroused by the recent withdrawal of Allegheny College from the Inter-Collegiate Athletic League of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, Dr. Crawford, its former president, explained in Chapel Friday morning the exact reasons for Allegheny's action in this matter and denied certain rumors that have been current as to the cause of the withdrawal. As the action was inevitable its announcement was kept secret until it had really been taken in order to avoid any premature discussion. In the first place it was explained that the move was not made because Allegheny had become disgruntled; that although there had been times when differences arose, such as the affair with Carnegie Tech last year, and there had been some unfriendliness of feeling, at the present time, none but the best of relations exist between us and the other institutions. Also, contrary to the report given out through several newspapers, there is no purpose of forming a new league behind the withdrawal of Allegheny following that of several other of the colleges. Further, there was no thought that by going out of the league this college could thus have greater freedom and consequently lower standards. On the contrary Allegheny has stood for high standards.

The whole reason was this: The time had come, when, appealed to without avail, three other of the most representative institutions had withdrawn or were on the point of withdrawing. They were West Virginia, University of Pittsburgh, and W. & J. It seemed to the Allegheny Faculty that without these colleges the league would not be representative of the territory it covered.

The President expressed the wish that notwithstanding our withdrawal from the league we may still maintain good relations with these colleges, also that we come into better relation with the schools of Ohio and New York. Now that we do not have our course fixed for us by the rules of the league it is up to us to decide what ought to be the policy in the future of this college in regard to athletics.

Dr. Crawford said that he himself was not altogether sure that we should have less intercollegiate athletics, but he was certain that we ought to have more home athletics. In connection with this he mentioned the splendid opportunity our newly acquired Montgomery Field and overflow field offered for the participation more generally in athletics of the entire student body.

In the course of his remarks it was announced by the President that the college expected to invite twenty or thirty representative high schools in the surrounding country to come here in the spring for an inter-school meet and thus show them something of the athletic program of Allegheny College. He said also that it had been requested by this college that we be allowed to act as host to the Inter-Collegiate meet in the spring as scheduled before we left the league. This, however, has not as yet been decided.

INTERCLASS BASKETBALL.

The much delayed beginning of the Inter-Class Basketball League takes place next Friday afternoon when two games will be played between four and six o'clock. The strong Sophomore team, last year champions, will meet the Senior five and the Freshmen and Juniors will clash. These will undoubtedly rival in interest the varsity game of the evening. It is the plan to play a schedule of six games, two an evening, once a week. The next contests will be between the Sophomores and Juniors and Freshmen and Seniors, while the last evening will see the final meeting of the rival Sophomore and Freshman teams and the Seniors and Juniors.

College Dinner

Large Attendance Expected at Annual Affair Next Saturday.

Final preparations are being made for the annual Washington's Birthday Banquet which will be held on Saturday evening. This institution came into existence thirteen years ago to meet the demand for a function in which everybody—alumni, faculty, undergradutes, and friends, might join together in an event of jollity and mirth for the increasing of loyal cooperative Allegheny spirit.

It is probable that the attendance this year will reach numbers that will tax the capacity of the Gymnasium to its utmost and a Senior platform, present in former years, will not be used and every available inch of space will be in demand. The committee are making preparations to seat over 500, as a larger attendance of alumni is expected this year as well more visiting friends than formerly.

The decorations last season seemed almost too fine to be surpassed, yet the committees are working new combinations and features which will transform the gym into a veritable banquet hall. The central decoration committee will take care of the walls and girders with college and national colors, while the tables and other parts will be decorated with class colors and banners. Each of the classes will occupy a corner as in former years and the tables of the olumni and the Faculty will be arranged in the center of the room.

It has become a permanent part of the banquet for the two upper classes to wear regular gowns. The Seniors will then appear for the first time this year in their black academic caps and gowns. The Juniors will wear caps and gowns made of white with the purple hood. The dress of the Sophomores and Freshmen furnish novelty and another opportunity to rival and outdo each other, and this has always been one of the most pleasing features of the banquet. The Sophomores last year appeared in summer outing costumes, and the Freshmen in the costumes of the Pilgrims. The paraphernalia is now being made and the underclassmen are using all the ingenuity at their command to surpass the successes of the classes of former years.

The toast list will be headed this year by Dr. Mulfinger who spent his sabbatic leave abroad last year. For the Faculty, Dr. Crawford will speak. H. J. Wieler is the Senior speaker and will answer to the toast, "Women." In just what way Mr. Wieler will handle this, the most delectable of subjects, has lead into all sorts of surmises, but it is certain to be a comprehensive dissertation. Miss Ruth Dodd is to represent the Juniors, answering to the toast, "Men." Evidently the committee came to the conclusion that with these two toasts, "Women" and "Men" they had covered every important subject in the college world for to the Sophomore speaker, H. J. Hartman, they gave "The Leavings." The Alumni speaker has not been definitely selected at this time.

Tickets are already on sale at the fraternity houses and at the dormitories and should be purchased at the earliest opportunity in order that complete and exact arrangements may be made for the accommodation of all who wish to come and especially those intending to bring visitors. The price of the tickets is the same as last year, fifty-five cents. The ladies of State Street Methodist Episcopal Church again have the banquet in charge. Because of the great amount of work that is necessary to get this banquet ready it is requested that the class committees who have the decorations of their corners and tables in charge will have the work done as early as possible Saturday morning. This will give the ladies a part of the morning and all of the afternoon to properly do their work. The banquet will begin promptly at six-thirty.

Otterbein claims to be the first college which admitted women as students, thus making it the first co-educational school in the United States.

D. J. BLASDELL, '13, WINS WAKEFIELD CONTEST

With Oration "Delusions of War." Eight Contestants.

The annual Wakefield Oratorical Contest, which was held in the Chapel on last Thursday evening for the prize of fifty dollars furnished by Mr. James Wakefield of Pittsburgh, in honor of his grandfather, the Rev. Samuel Wakefield, D.D., was won by D. J. Blasdell, '13, with his oration on the "Delusions of War." C. A. Eckels, '13, was second with "The Modern Slavery," and J. R. MacGowan, '14, third with "The Criminal and the Public." The decision of the judges, who were President Southworth of the Theological School, Manley O. Brown, Esq., of Meadville, and Prof. C. F. Ross, was based both on composition and delivery. All the contestants showed that there had been much practice and hard study on their part and the decision of the judges was very close as a consequence. The winner of this event will represent Allegheny in the Tri-State Oratorical Contest in which the following colleges and universities are represented: Ohio Wesleyan University, Colgate University, University of Pittsburgh, Allegheny and Wooster. The contest will probably be held this year at Delaware, O., on the first Friday of May. The following is the list of orations and contestants:

Roy Manne,' 15—A Call to Patriotism.

Charles Wolf, '15 — International Peace Inevitable.

P. H. Nichols, '14—Our Flag on the Bosphorus.

Charles W. Flick, '15—Industrial Peace.

C. A. Eckels, '13—Modern Slavery.

P. F. Barackman, '14—Social Unrest.

J. R. MacGowan, '14—The Criminal and the Public.

D. J. Blasdell, '13—Delusions of War.

Duzer Du Play

To be Decided Upon Within the Next Few Days.

For some weeks now Duzer Du has been communicating with prospective coaches and endeavoring to select a play for presentation this year. As yet, however, nothing has been definitely decided. Two plays are under consideration, the one "The Magistrate" by Pinero, and the other "Prexy's Lambs," written by R. J. Black, Jr., '15, and G. M. Paulson, '15. The latter play has received especial attention since it is the work of two students. The coach that the club is trying to secure is Mr. F. L. Short, of New York City, a man who is one of the best dramatic instructors in the United States, having had charge of the plays in the principal universities of the east, including Yale. March thirteenth has been proposed as the date for the staging, but that also is not definitely fixed yet.

By going without chicken for their Sunday dinner, by washing hair at 25 cents a head, cleaning rooms, and other menial tasks, the two hundred girls of the four dormitories of Colorado College have raised $9,300 toward a fund of $50,000 needed to obtain $100,000 offered for a gymnasium by Mrs. A. D. Julliard, of New York City. As E. P. Shove, a retired business man, has offered to give a dollar for each one they raise, the girls now have obtained $18,600.

A Student Senate.

That Allegheny's only representative of a student Senate is far from being the representative body that it should be and that it differs in every particular from similar bodies of other schools has been shown at various times by the jokes and jests to which the College Council has been subjected. Although supposedly Democratic in its makeup, the very method of choice of its members is an indication that it is simply a Democratic body with the name—minus the ability to act, due to the fact that it does not represent the students.

The usual student Senate in the colleges and universities is comprised of the representative men and women of the school chosen in a Democratic way. The members are selected by the classes and by the student body rather than on a fraternity and non-fraternity basis, and thus the members are representative of the school rather than of any organization. It is readily seen that such a body to be representative must be as free as possible from any semblance of bias and that is especially impossible under the present plan of electing the College Council. On account of the minor place which it holds in the college world, its actions are not looked upon with any degree of authority—one of the real marks of a representative Student Senate. While The Campus has no fault to find with the present organization of the College Council nor of any of its members, yet the very fact that it is unrepresentative and undemocratic is suggestive of the fact that something could easily be done along the line of organization here.

Action Necessary Soon.

If the proposed plan for the selection of managers of all athletic teams on a competitive basis is to receive a fair trial, it is absolutely necessary that some action be taken at once. The second semester election is scheduled to take place within the next two or three weeks and the necessary amendments to the athletic association constitution will have to be made before that time. The way in which the proposed plan has met with the general approval of the student body is a sufficient guarantee that every effort will be made to make it a success. However, it will be a benefit to both the athletic teams and to the plan itself if the system is made effective at once and the assistant managers of the football and track teams be selected on a basis of merit this year.

MODERN POETRY DISCUSSED.

The regular meeting of the Quill Club was held last Tuesday evening in the Library. The attendance was large as each member had the privilege of bringing one guest to the meeting.

Professor Doane of the Theological School was the speaker of the evening and gave on interesting talk on modern poets and poetry. Professor Doane has kept a scrap-book of the poetry published in the best magazines for several years and believes that we are just on the verge of an age of great poetry. While there have been no great masterpieces in poetry produced in the past few years yet there is much poetry being published today which is worth while. He said in part:

"The modern poetry shows the prevailing spirit of the day, the social unrest and disturbance. There are three kinds of modern poetry which deserve especial emphasis. There is the poetry of pure despair which deals in a somewhat pessimistic way with social conditions which are prevalent. Then there is the poetry which calls to arms. It is in the nature of appeal, calling men to rise up and overcome the tendencies of the age. And lastly there is the lovely and exquisite poetry dedicated to womanhood and motherhood, inspired by the increased idealization of women."

Professor Doane left a collection of small volumes of modern poetry in the Library for the use of the students of Allegheny for one week. This is a rare opportunity to read some of the best modern poetry which is being published.

At the close of the discussion, James Miller, '13, gave his delightful reading, "The Stuttering Auctioneer."

LIBRARY NEWS.

During the past few weeks the Library has been the recipient of several new volumes among which the nine volumes of the Egypt Exploration Fund are the most interesting. These books are the gift of Mrs. Harriet Krufts of Boston, Mass. Another helpful feature that has been added to the Library lately is the bindings for the current magazines, which keeps them in much better shape. Under the new arrangement, the latest number is on the table and the previous one on the rack. Recently all of the college programs, reports, etc., have been put into binders. Since some of these files are not quite complete, anyone would confer a favor upon the librarian, Miss Rowley, by turning in all old programs, reports or other publications of interest.

Other new additions are as follows:

"The Stock Exchange from Within," by William C. Van Antwerp. Gift of the publishers.

"Proceedings of the Natural Ice Association," a gift of the association.

"Korea Quarterly—Centennial Documents," a gift of the Missionary Society.

"Manual of Experimental Botany," by Frank Owen Payne. A gift of Dr. Breed.

"Goethe's Faust," by George Wetkoiski, German department addition.

PROFESSOR BEILER THE SPEAKER AT UNION MEETING.

The first union prayer meeting of the new semester was held Wednesday evening in the Chapel with Prof. Beiler, of the Bible department, as leader. He took that often quoted question in Genesis, "Am I my brother's keeper," as his subject. Although he said at the beginning that he did not bring a new message, his presentation of this important question provided considerable material for thought. His answer was that we may be responsible for our brother and we may not be, but we are responsible in so far as what we do affects others. The principle of social solidarity, he said, was the great one involved in the discussion. Men are held together with common bonds and can never hope to be entirely independent. Anyone that lives alone must be either a god or a wild beast. From this comes the thought that we have common interests and for the good of all we must have cooperation. The best cooperation necessitates the best kind of cooperators, morally and religiously. So far as the cooperators are weakened just so far is the cooperation weakened and the interests of us all are injured. Since we are bound up so closely to those about us we must the more consider the question, "Am I my brother's keeper." I am my brother's keeper so far as what I do reacts on him, when what I do causes him to do something he ought not to do. And in dragging another down the responsibility is one hundred per cent worse. But the responsibility does not stop there. Some think that if we do nothing that harms anyone else we cannot be very far wrong. But we should not even do anything that weakens ourselves. We should keep ourselves in the best condition possible. Also we may have something that others do not have. If we have something that helps us then we are under obligation to share it with others. Jesus Christ came into the world not for the few but for all everywhere. If He is ours, He is ours to share. It is necessary that we have Him and have Him to the greatest extent. Only so can we be as helpful to our brother as we ought to be.

JANUARY-FEBRUARY LIT TO APPEAR THIS WEEK.

The combined January-February number of the Literary Monthly will make its appearance in the latter part of this week. Many of the stories and poems are in keeping with the season, especially those relating to Valentine incidents. The first page is given over to a poem by Miss Elizabeth Best, '16, entitled "Shapes in the Fog."

"From the Shore of Old Killarney," by Miss Anna McKenna, '16, is a story from a new contributor. "Valentine Verse," is a page of poems contributed anonymously. "Fifteen Minutes Handicap," by Pierrpont Nichols, '14, is a story of college life and with a good college plot. "Lost?" by Frank G. Brooks, '15, is a story with an ethical background.

Among the sketches are found "That Billig Family," by Lucile Lippitt, '15. This is first of a series of three sketches which will appear in later issues of the magazine.

"Station Side Lights," by Dorothea Abrams, '15, is especially good for its descriptive qualities. "Patsy," by J. R. MacGowan, '14, is a human character sketch of merit. "Transformation" is a bit of verse contributed anonymously. "Winter Poetry," by Miss Florence Griswold, '13, is a bit of poetry in keeping with the season. "A Matter of Names," by Miss Alice Chapin, '15, is a little prose article and is well worth reading. "A February Mystery," by Miss Ethel Bayard, '13, is a Valentine story.

The Potpourri is as usually well filled and the editorials and exchanges show the effects of close scrutiny on the part of the editors.

In the Alumni Department is found a letter from J. A. Bortz, '11, on "The Life of the Indians."

NEW YORK BANQUET.

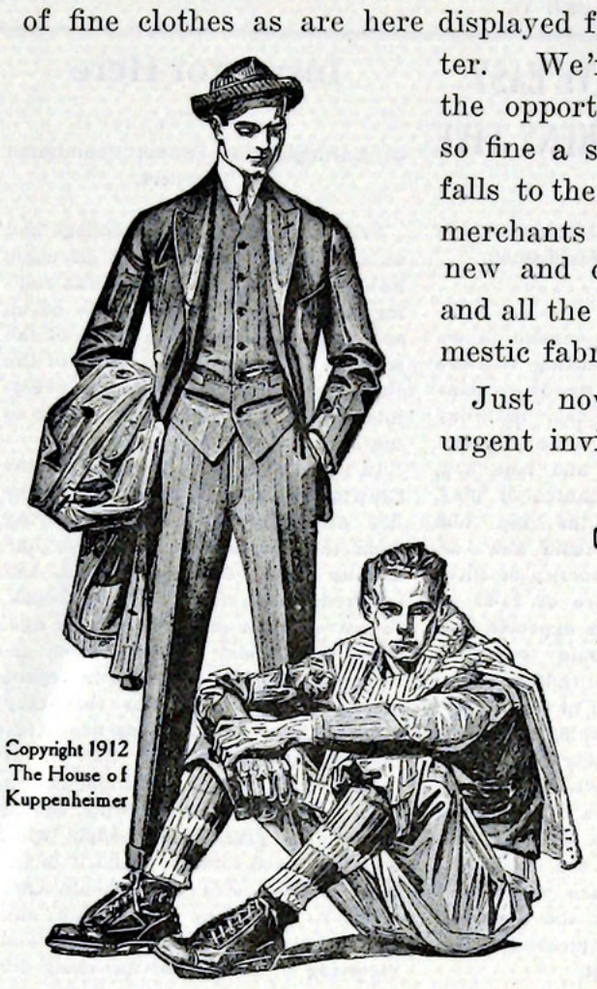

Thirty alumni of Old Allegheny gathered most informally at Manhattan Hotel, Friday evening, January 31. A call was sent out, no replies requested, each one being privileged to order dinner as he wished in the public dining room, and yet grouped at tables, and then a general "get-together" afterwards in the private state room, placed at the company's disposal by the management of the hotel without additional cost. This was the scheme. It worked well. Under the direction of Frank C. Bray, president, and W. P. Sturtevant, secretary, college songs were sung, and each one present in old-fashioned Methodist class-meeting style was "called upon." Everything turned toward the Centennial of 1915. President Crawford had come to work out with the General Educational Board the details of their new gift of $50,000, and was enthusiastically greeted as the builder of the "New Allegheny." His ability to see visions and to seize strategic opportunities time and again has been demonstrated. He always has a cheering word, and inspires confidence. His enthusiasm is contagious. Doctor Smith, of Princeton University, a former member of the Faculty and writer of the coming "History of Allegheny College," was warmly welcomed. Paul Sturtevant, of Pittsburgh, chairman of the alumni committee for the Centennial, brought greetings and kindled enthusiasm. The "new plan" of meeting was approved. Each one could make the cost to suit his convenience. No risk was taken by anyone. The informality made possible a real "get-together." More like it will follow.—N. Y. Advocate.

Mr. Walter Cox, of Kane, Pa., visited his brother, Raymond, '16, over Sunday, attending the basketball game Saturday night.

Last Monday afternoon, Doctor Lockwood informally entertained the students of his advisory list and the members of the English VII class at his home.

James M. Miller, '13, reader of the Glee Club, on last Thursday evening read before a large and appreciative audience in an entertainment given by local talent in the St. Paul's Reformed Church.

James G. Lane, '14, left Meadville last Tuesday evening for New York from where he expected to sail in a day or two for Alexandria, Egypt, to meet Dr. C. M. Cobern and carry out their trip through Egypt and the Holy Land as was described in the Campus recently.

E. J. Hall, '13, R. D. Mosier, '14, and B. B. Breckenridge, '14, were in Pittsburg over Sunday. They were in attendance Saturday night at the banquet of the Pittsburgh Alumni Association of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity. Mr. Hall was one of the after dinner speakers.

The Junior class was delightfully entertained at the Phi Kappa Psi house by the Junior members when, on last Friday evening, the members met there to sew their gowns for the Washington's Birthday Banquet. After a pleasant informal time, light refreshments were served by the hosts.

The German Club held their first meeting of this semester in the club rooms in Bentley Hall with a large attendance present. After a pleasant informal chat in German, Mrs. O. P. Akers read a comprehensive and instructive paper on "German Art of the Reformation as Reflected in the Works of Duerer and Holbein the Younger." The paper of Mrs. Akers was exceptionally interesting to the members present and showed the effects of considerable research.

A very pleasant Valentine Tea was given by the girls of the Senior class in the parlors of Hulings Hall last Thursday afternoon. Each guest received a valentine as a souvenir of the occasion. Miss Helen Harper and Miss Clara Hutchinson were the hostesses and Miss Fawn McDonald and Miss Irene Beatty poured.

T. D. Ballinger, '11, who was the assistant here in the Biology laboratory last year, won a fellowship at Massachusetts Polytechnical Institute during the first term of this year. However, soon after the beginning of the second term the city of Princeton, N. J., sent to Massachusetts Tech for a man for the Health Department. Mr. Ballinger was recommended and received the appointment. He will assume his new duties as the head of the Department of Health about May first.

Last Wednesday morning Doctor Crawford made an appeal to the students of the college to take a deeper and more vital interest in the Chapel service each morning. The Chapel service, to accomplish the work for which it is intended, must be entered into by all the students. Every part of the service should be entered into promptly and with spirit if it is to be impressive and not seem mechanical. Doctor Crawford stated that if in any way the Chapel service could be made more interesting and effective he and the other members of the Faculty would be glad to cooperate with the students in making all the necessary changes.

SOME ENROLLMENT FIGURES.

The register of students now enrolled in Allegheny has now been completed and is posted on the bulletin board in Bentley. The enrollment is the largest that Allegheny has ever had and is divided among the four classes as follows:

Seniors, 74; Juniors, 79; Sophomores, 119; Freshmen, 118; resident graduates, 3; special students, 7; making a total of 400.

Hulings Hall

Miss Elizabeth Lord, '13, Editor.

Miss Mary Carroll, '16, spent the week-end with Miss Bernice Thoburn, '16.

Miss Esther Counsins, '13, was the guest of friends at the hall Friday night.

Miss Laura Strickland, '13, was called home yesterday on account of the illness of her mother.

Mr. Olson, of Titusville, called upon his daughter, Miss Ellen Olson, '13, at the hall on Saturday.

Miss Marguerite Shelmadine, '12, was a guest of Miss Annie Bishop, '13, at lunch Wednesday.

Miss Lucile Glenn, of Oil City, was the guest of Miss Helen Gates, '16, on Wednesday.

Miss Lois Skinner, of West Springfield, was the guest of Miss Louise Gould, '15, for several days last week.

The Misses Hazel Ross, '16, and Lois Foster, '16, were guests of Miss Hazel Gaskill, '16, at dinner Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Mary Carr Curtis, college secretary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, has been staying at Hulings Hall for several days, as the guest of the Y. W. C. A. Mrs. Curtis was for some time an active missionary, having been in Penang and in the same field with Bishop Thoburn.

Sunday evening at the Y. W. C. A. Mrs. Curtis told the girls a very interesting chapter from her own life, as an example of the hearing and yielding to the call to service. After telling many things of her work with children and also of the country in which she worked, Mrs. Curtis closed her talk with a plea that the girls would do some definite work for missions this coming summer.

ALLIANCE FRANCAISE.

The regular monthly meeting of the Alliance Francaise was held last Monday afternoon in the Library with a large number of members present. The attendance was greatly increased by the fact that Professor Christie of the Meadville Theological School held the principal place on the program. After reading in French several selections from Daudet, Professor Christie gave a very clear exposition of the philosophy of Henri Bergson, Professor at the College de France. This subject was very interesting and appropriate because of the fact that Professor Bergson is now traveling in America and lecturing at a number of the larger universities of the country.

Professor Bergson is clearly a desciple of Kant and is doubtless the greatest philosopher since the time of that great thinker. His philosophy is taking a strong hold upon the minds of the French people, and under its influence great numbers have been led to turn to the established church. He endeavors to place science in its proper relation to religion and the church.

WHAT EASTERN SCHOOLS THINK OF THE TEAM.

The following clippings from the papers of the schools where Allegheny played the last two basketball games give some idea of what other schools think of the basketball team. The first is from the "Orange and Blue" of Bucknell regarding the 46-5 game played on the seventh:

"The varsity basketball team went down to defeat Friday night before the quintet from Allegheny College, the fastest and cleverest team that has played on the Tustin gymnasium court in many years. At no time in the game was the Bucknell five equal to their opponents and the visitors piled up 46 points to 5 tallies by the Orange and Blue. The defeat at the hands of Allegheny was not altogether unexpected, especially by those who were acquainted with the record made by the basketball teams from that school during the past few years."

The "Penn State Collegian" had the following to say about their seventh consecutive victory when they defeated Allegheny on the eighth in the Armory at State:

"The Allegheny College basketball five met its second defeat of the season on the Armory floor last Saturday night in a close and exciting game. The victory over Allegheny was well earned and gives Penn State increased prestige, as Allegheny is rated high in basketball circles."

MT. UNION NEXT.

As it has usually been the custom to have a strong basketball attraction here on the night preceding the Washington's Birthday Banquet for the benefit of the numerous visitors and alumni who wish to see the Allegheny five in action, Manager Perley has secured the speedy Mt. Union five for a game on the local floor that night. The Ohioans come with a basketball reputation in their own state, they having defeated some of the strongest teams in the Ohio Conference Eight, and they expect to give the gold and blue a good game. This is not the first time that they will line up against a Pennsylvania five this season as they already have played the University of Pittsburgh, which is one of the strongest teams in Western Pennsylvania, and held them to a comparatively low score. The line-up for the Allegheny five has not been determined, but in all likelihood will be the same as used in the previous games.

GLEE CLUB TO GIVE FIRST CONCERT THIS WEEK.

The combined Glee and Mandolin Clubs will give their initial concert of the year when on next Thursday they journey to Pine Grove, Pa., to open the season's work under the auspices of the M. E. Church. Manager T. Thoburn has also obtained dates at Franklin and under the auspices of the Epworth League of the Stone Church. An extensive spring vacation trip is also planned and will likely include Brookville, Clarion and other cities which the clubs have visited before. The Glee Club under the direction of Hugh Wells, '13, has already come up to the high standard set by Allegheny's musical organization in previous years and this year offers a few features that will no doubt make a hit with every audience. A quartette composed of T. Smith, G. D. Rose, E. S. Weidle and C. A. Eckels will no doubt prove a strong attraction. The soloist for this year will be E. S. Weidle and James M. Miller, the reader. The Mandolin Club under the direction of C. C. Miller, '14, has by hard practice come up to the standard and will likely prove to be one of the best clubs ever representing Allegheny in a musical line. Many new features have also been introduced in the rendering of the pieces of this club and they, to say the least, will take well with every audience.

The personnel of the combined clubs is as follows:

Glee Club—First tenor, Sherman, '15, Mosier, '14, Horner, '16, Hoffman, '16, Wolfe, '16; second tenor, Wells, '13, Weidle, '14, Pappenhagen, '15, Zimmerman, '16; first bass, Smith, '15, Downing, '15, Sanner, '16, Dundon, '16, T. W. Thoburn, '14, Welker, '14, Dunbar, '15; second bass, Graham, '14, Eckels, '13, Palmer, '14, Askey, '15, Ellis, '16, Pillow, '16; accompanist, Nicklin, '16.

Mandolin Club—First mandolin, Miller, '14, Witherup, '15, Shields, '14; second mandolin, Sherman, '15, Brooks, '15, Hutchinson, '15, Colt, '16; guitar, Boyer, '15; flute, Marcy, '16.

ALLEGHENY LEAVES ATHLETIC LEAGUE.

On last Saturday the Inter-Collegiate Association of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia breathed its last gasp. Some time last week the Faculty of Allegheny College held a meeting at which they voted unanimously to withdraw from the league. Following this action, President Crawford, of Allegheny, president of the association, called a meeting for Saturday at the Fort Pitt Hotel, Pittsburgh. At the appointed time he found himself the only one present, the other schools apparently not taking enough interest in the proceedings to send a delegate. Needless to say, there was no objection to Allegheny's withdrawal.

Carnegie Tech, Westminster, Geneva and Grove City are now the only remaining members. Of these Westminster is said to have definitely decided to get out and has already tried to schedule games with other schools in this section in violation of the league ruling. Geneva will not support a baseball team this spring.

The annual track and field meet of the association was to have been held at Montgomery Field, the new athletic field at Allegheny. Allegheny's withdrawal will of course make this impossible and probably means that there will be no meet.—Red and Black.

ALLEGHENY SONGS.

In order to prepare for the singing of the Allegheny songs "as they should be sung," at the Washington's Birthday Banquet, the assembly period on Friday will be given over to a college sing. In addition to the "old stand-bys" several recent songs will be used—two of which are printed here. The one Alma Mater, Beatissima, by J. D. Hammond, '66, has been published before while the other "Alma Mater," by An Alumnus, is a new hymn.

Alma Mater.

(Austrian Hymn.)

Allegheny. Gracious Mother,
  All thy sons shall sing thy praise,
And, in love of one another,
  Cherish thee through all our days.
Now, when shoulder touches shoulder,
  And the wine of life is new,
Then, when parted and grown older,
  Ever shall our love be true.

Strong the hands that toiled to make thee;
  Warm the hearts that planned thy birth;
  Naught should ever come to break thee
  While the sun gave light to earth.
Unto them be praise and glory;
  Unto them give homage due;
Fame be theirs in song and story,
  Ringing down long ages through.

So may we in consecration
  Hearts and hands to thee devote,
Blest in holy inspiration—
  Heritage of time remote.
In thy faith and virtue serving,
  In the knowledge thou dost give,
May we, from thy truth unswerving,
  Live as thou hast bade us live.

O'er thy campus skies are bluer
  Than in all the world beside,
And thy children's hearts beat truer
  Than the pulse of ocean's tide.
Allegheny, Gracious Mother,
  All thy sons shall sing thy praise,
And, in love of one another,
  Cherish thee through all our days.
  An Alumnus.

Alma Mater, Beatissima.

Fair Allegheny, yonder on the Hill,
Through all the years, our hearts are turning still
In love to thee, and so they ever will,
  O, Alma Mater, Beatissima.

Warm rests the sun, so soft, on wall and vine;
No air in all the world can equal thine.
Again, we flame our torches at thy shrine,
  O, Alma Mater, Beatissima.

Hail, Allegheny, fair thy name shall be,
As light sent forth at morn o'er land and sea,
Our truest and our best, we pledge to thee,
  O, Alma Mater, Beatissima.

INTERCOLLEGIATE.

A bill is soon to be presented in the legislature providing for the union of the Starling-Ohio Medical College with Ohio State University.

In order to bring the 'varsity athletes closer together as an organization, an "O" Association was formed at the Ohio University last week.

Harvard, Yale and Princeton, in Massachusetts Agricultural College passed through a scarlet fever epidemic during the latter part of January. Two students succumbed to the disease, while nearly twenty-five others had the fever in various forms.

It has been definitely decided that the entire student body of the University of Virginia will march in the parade at President-elect Wilson's inauguration. Mr. Wilson is the first alumnus of the University to gain the Chief Magistracy of the nation.

their annual triangular debate, will have as a question: Resolved, That the present attitude of the United States in desiring to exempt our coastwise trade from Panama Canal toll, is justifiable. The debates will be held on March 14.

The Y. W. C. A. at Indiana University held a county fair last week. Over two hundred dollars were raised. The sororities put on various stunts and shows, such as shooting galleries, minstrels, merry-go-'round, fortune-telling booths, etc.

A Hikers' Club has been formed at Wittenberg, composed of about a half dozen college men. The members of the club are all imbued with the idea that long cross country walks are extremely beneficial in building up and maintaining a strong physique. It is planned to take walks to Dayton, Columbus and other cities on the Saturday holidays during the winter, if the condition of the roads will allow.

At the University of Missouri the Senior students in the Civil Engineering department, who received safety razors as Christmas presents, have put them away and foresworn barbers—at least as long as the Whisker Club is an active organization. "Thou shalt not shave" is the command. Every man must have at least two square inches of beard, and anyone whose face cannot show that amount of "brush" by a certain time is to be fined $2. The fines collected will be used as a banquet fund.

Colgate University has the lowest allowance with 15 cuts a semester. Attendance at chapel service is entirely voluntary at Harvard, Columbia, Cornell, Oberlin and California. The apportionment of chapel cuts at a few institutions are: Princeton, 81; William and Mary, 72; Penn State, 42; Wesleyan, 30; Bowdoin, 23; Yale, 20; Williams, 18; Brown, 18; Colgate, 15. The average length of the daily service is 15 minutes. The hour of holding service is varied, but the majority of services are between 8 and 9 o'clock.
