Denver — Nov.

Curious impressions come up in this Denver mtk. Mr Forest who believes he knows more than any body else in the world about 2. will not "take" to Mr Schneider's suggestion to make Wyllie their member. A pessimist this if there ever was one. Think the world is going to ruin. Wall-Street is dominated. Wall-St. is the only nation Wall is a fact the money question will close finished America.

He like all the rest of these men likes to condemn the daily-side of things - all ask me if I have read Hendrix first-edition & he smiles knowingly as he says it. I say yes right boldly and tell him I think more the more of it. Judge Trumbull refuses to this and is glad to have such good opportunity to call it a Hackyard. Judge Bradwell spoke [illegible] but gives no judgment - his talk flavored and evidently. no. afraid of the use that - I will make of his material. Mr Van Benthuysen thinks suppressing a mistake. It is well to know the far above such influences & feelings human nature can rise.

Mr Emerson. finds in his Negativity - "only the dust in the tree trunk" the effect of his standing where he did in life. The country in which he lived negro in the extreme - the seat of its descent from poor Hagar - We have heard him tell the most negro stories but never with any delight - in their negativity - always in parables to illustrate a point he wanted to make. a truth he would emphasize.

She tells with a certain maliciousness. She thinks her a perfect Tomagant. Tells how when "Abe" was away (notice that all these old-timers here speak of "Abe" invariably never Mr Emerson) she had roof of house raised which she had forbidden. He came home from the merchant & found it done & asked in astonishment "Whose house is this" She came at him & told him to come in & she would show him. Says that Mr Dubois of Springfield was kept out of office by Mrs L's contempt for his manners - Judge Bradwell says she kept Headden out too. Judge & Mr Bradwell got Mrs Hinrichsen out of insane asylum at Batavia. She tells with glee & fragment lapses into chuckling but I miss the the story of her rescue. Doesn't think she took insance but addmits she had an awful tempor. He has lot of correspondence with her etc. — He thinks she made Mr L. by constantly pushing him on in her ambition. Thus is a similar view expressed by Hendrick quotation from a "friend" on p 142 of Vol II.
