JOINT CONFERENCE ON BRIDGES CASE

RESULTS NOT YET MADE PUBLIC.

President Crawford, However, Expresses Satisfaction With Meeting—Friendly Relations Between the Two Colleges to be Maintained.

President Crawford, of this college, and Prof. H. E. Wells, chairman of the local faculty committee on athletics, went to Pittsburg last Friday to confer with President Moffat, of Washington and Jefferson College, and Prof. H. T. Ford, chairman of the W. and J. faculty committee on athletics, concerning the Bridges case. The conference was held at the Hotel Lincoln and was in session between three and four hours, from two-thirty to six o'clock. All matters pertaining to the unfortunate case were discussed in detail from beginning to end. President Crawford describes the results of the conference as being eminently satisfactory to both parties.

By mutual consent of the parties to the conference, only the two following statements are at present given to the public. First: The representatives of both colleges expressed themselves as most desiring that the most friendly and cordial relations exist between the two colleges, not only in athletics but in all other intercollegiate matters. Second: Further statements regarding the Bridges case and the further athletic relations of the two colleges will be made public after the representatives have conferred with their respective faculties.

NIAGARA SURPRISES ALLEGHENY PLAYERS

ONE TOUCHDOWN WINS GAME.

Allegheny Fails to Score, Losing Thanksgiving Day Game to Canadians—Nelson and Benedict Star for Allegheny, While O'Rourke Paces the Most Turf for Niagara.

The Niagara University football team won the game last Thursday from Allegheny by the small margin of 5 to 0. The visitors won by playing a steady, aggressive game. In the first half no score was made, but in the second half, besides scoring, Niagara kept the ball in Allegheny's half of the gridiron nearly all the time. O'Rourke was the best ground gainer for the visitors, and Benedict carried the ball well for the locals.

The York state boys had about the best assortment of delayed passes and double passes ever seen on the local gridiron. Agala and again the man with the ball tricked the defenders of the blue and gold and almost got away for a touchdown, only to be brought down by the spectacular tackling of Quarterback Nelson. His work in the back field could not have been better.

No team has made better gains through Allegheny's center than Niagara in last Thursday's game. They massed a play through, over, or around the center rush that seldom failed to net a gain. The effectiveness of this play kept the local team close together on the defense and enabled the visitors to profit by many trick plays outside of the tackles.

The ground was covered with snow and a cold wind blew all afternoon. Many of the players—besides the usual amount of padding—wore gloves and ear caps. And even with these precautions it is reported that the substitute full-back suffered a severe frost bite.

Considering the unpleasant weather that prevailed, a creditable number of spectators witnessed the game. A lamentable feature was the apparent inability of the police to keep the field free for the players. Toward the close of the game the spectators crowded in so close that the visiting

VALUABLE SUGGESTIONS OFFERED.

Four Answers to the Question, "What Can We Do To Improve Foot Ball Conditions at Allegheny College." Do you Agree or Differ With the Views Expressed?

President Crawford.

In reply to the question, what can be done to improve foot ball conditions in Allegheny College, I would say first of all that I think there is much to be done. We have been playing a clean game; our players have done their best and in most trying circumstances, their courage and fidelity increasing to the end of the season; there is nothing to be said against the athletic board, coach, captain or manager; the students have given the team and the game good support, and nothing has occurred during the entire season to bring the least dishonor upon the college. All this means much and I am very glad to be able to say it.

About the only criticism of present conditions which I have heard from any source has been that we have not won as many games as we ought. When we stop to think about it this is not a serious criticism. In fact it is very slight criticism in comparison with the one made against some colleges that they have won by unfair means. On the whole I think we are to be congratulated on the success of the season.

But how may conditions be improved? We are not so good that we may not be better. I make two suggestions:

First: That the team get earnestly to work earlier in the season. At least twenty men ought to report to the coach a full week before opening day. Two weeks would be better.

Second: That the squad be greatly increased. We ought to have not less than thirty-five men who will be on the field for regular practice every practice day from the day college opens until the last practice of the season.

W. H. Crawford, President.

Chairman Wells, of Athletic Committee.

The foot ball season of 1905 is now a matter of history and, judged according to the standards by which a foot ball season is judged from the outside, for us it has not been an eminently successful one. Let us not now, however, waste much time in publicly discussing the subject and giving too openly our individual opinions, but get together with our most intimate friends, study earnestly and carefully the whole situation and then be ready to do our part in making the season of 1906 thoroughly successful.

There has been more than the usual amount of discussion over the game as it is now played; the whole college

SECOND MEETING OF CAMPUS COMMITTEE

DISCUSSION OF MINOR POINTS.

Sub-Committee Not Yet Ready to Report, and Conference Takes no Definite Action.

The conference of representatives from the faculty and student-body, appointed to solve the various problems of the Campus situation, met for a second time in the oratory of the Chapel Friday afternoon at four o'clock, with Dr. Elliott in the chair.

Mr. Gill, reporting for the sub-committee appointed at the previous meeting to draw up an exhaustive statement of the case, requested on behalf of his committee that the date set for its report be postponed. It was moved and seconded that the conference meet on Wednesday at four o'clock to hear the report of the sub-committee. Carried. Mr. Gill then brought up a few minor questions for discussion of the conference. The sentiment of the body, as expressed in informal motions, was that the same care and impartiality be shown in the selection of the subordinate members of the Campus editorial staff as in the case of the editor-in-chief; that the associate editor be elected on a basis of competition; and that correspondence for newspapers, whether local or otherwise, be considered to some extent as competitive work for the Campus. Dr. Elliott appointed as the sub-committee to report exhaustively on matters connected with the annual selection of the Literary Monthly board, Mr. Robert

THANKSGIVING PARTY AT WOMEN'S DORM

HULINGS HALL ENTERTAINS.

New Gymnasium Makes Delightful Reception Hall—Good Farce Adds to Pleasure of Evening—Girls' Glee Club Appears.

The young ladies of Hulings Hall celebrated Thanksgiving by entertaining their friends in their new gymnasium. The room was tastefully decorated with ferns and made a most delightful reception hall. So complete was the Thanksgiving menu at the Hall that in doing justice to it, the hostesses were made a little tardy in appearing. They were, however, all the more fully appreciated when they finally arrived. Daily programmes were furnished as souvenirs of the evening and Miss Spaulding announced the various numbers. The program commenced with a song by the Girls' Glee Club, an entirely new organization in the Hall. The girls were vigorously applauded in their "maiden effort" and responded to an encore.

The main feature of the evening's entertainment was a one-act farce entitled "The Two Lunatics," presented by Miss Courtney and Mr. Taft. Both showed undoubted talent in the rendition of their roles and their efforts were highly appreciated.

Dainty refreshments were served after which Mr. Wm. Thomas added to the enjoyment of the evening by some well selected readings.

The event closed with a grand march led by Miss Spaulding and Mr. Miller, and the young men said good-night promptly at half-past ten, all being unanimous in declaring the evening a most delightful one.

Miss Fraser was assisted in receiving by Miss Langellier and Miss Deane.

Yale has established a department of oratory with John W. Wetzel at its head. This work will count for university credit.

Notice.—The next regular meeting of the Classical Club has been postponed to Tuesday evening, December 11.

TEAM ELECTS 1906 CAPTAIN.

Saturday, after chapel, the football players met to choose a captain for the coming year. Robert Gill, '08, was elected. He has played for two years on the 'varsity and should make a good leader for the 1906 eleven.

WOMEN'S GYMNASIUM FORMALLY PRESENTED

PRES. CRAWFORD RECEIVES THE KEYS.

Mrs. Sarah B. Cochran, the Donor, Present at Ceremonies—Dr. T. L. Flood Makes Speech of Presentation.

Tuesday evening brought the opening of the new Annex to Hulings Hall with its fine, large gymnasium room, its rooms for students and on the fourth floor its assembly halls and sorority rooms. The reception was a most enjoyable one, marking as it did the completion of a new series of improvements to the college buildings.

To receive the many guests of the evening were Dr. Crawford, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Sarah Cochran, to whose generosity the college and its friends are indebted for the Annex and for support in building the new preparatory building, and Dr. M. Emma Fraser, dean of Hulings Hall and an instructor in the college.

The early part of the evening was spent in social intercourse and in admiration of the new gymnasium, which will mean much to the young women. The need has long been felt of such a gymnasium for the women thoroughly modern in its equipment. The gymnasium measures about 53x39 feet and is entirely ceiled with hard Georgia pine. The room is very high and across the south end of it runs a balcony, by which the gymnasium is connected with the second floor of Hulings Hall. The lockers, the baths and storerooms which naturally go with a gymnasium are in the basement, the walls of which are ceiled like those in the gymnasium proper, the floors being cemented. When the equipment of the gymnasium is installed, it will be as fine a modern gymnasium as the most enthusiastic friend of the college could ask for.

At about 9:30 the guests were called to order and Dr. T. L. Flood, representing the building committee of the College, formally presented the keys of the new Annex, of Reuter and of Bentley Halls, recently remodeled, to Dr. Crawford, representing Mr. Durbin Horne, president of the board of trustees.

In his address, Dr. Flood spoke very happily of the marked improvements in the college in the last few years, which stand as a monument to the untiring zeal and earnestness of its President. He spoke of the comparatively new Ford Memorial chapel, Library and Observatory, of the increase of $250,000 to the endowment fund and of the enlarged faculty and student body. More particularly, he spoke of the improvements during the past summer to Reuter and Bentley Halls, both of which have been re-

Entered as Second-Class matter October 30, 1904, at the Postoffice at Meadville, Pa., under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Elsewhere in this Foot Ball issue appears a series of statements and College Spirit—bearing upon the local foot ball situation—to which are respectively subscribed the news of the president of the college, the chairman of the faculty, committee on athletics, the captain of the 1905 team, and the business manager. The consensus of these various opinions would seem to exonerate team, coach and manager from any blame for the deplorable percentage of games won and lost. At the risk of repeating what we have heard unanimously declared on campus and gridiron alike, by students, faculty, and townspeople, we too, desire to indorse this statement that no censure, except of petty and despicable nature, can possibly accrue to team, coach or manager. The student-body, and it alone, is responsible for whatever failure can be connected with the 1905 foot ball season.

But can we stop here? Can we in the future pursue the wild terror of our way, and see another earnest team, another earnest coach, and another earnest manager lose games—games that might have been won and ought to have been won—only to wag our heads wisely and declare that something is wrong. There is something wrong—decidedly wrong. But it demands more than a mere passive realization. It is a wrong that wants energetic and strenuous righting. It is a wrong that can only be righted by the loyal heart and the willing hand of every son of Allegheny that truly loves his Alma Mater.

Are we to believe that college spirit has died out at old Allegheny? Are we, as a student-body, grown to be so dainty, so immaculate, so purely abstract and intellectual in our conceits, that we are no longer prepared to give our money, our help, our unselfish devotion to the success of the boys who wear the blue and gold? Then let us abolish foot ball and all the rest of our manly athletic sports and go back to the kindergarten games of our early childhood.

At the University of Chicago sixty girls are candidates for the basket ball teams this year.

Columbia College has abolished foot ball. Students who play the game are liable to expulsion.

The Seniors of Mount Union have refused to deliver their orations on commencement day unless the faculty grants them a vacation before graduation. An attempt will be made to secure Bishop W. F. McDowell, of New York, as the speaker for the occasion.

President Dabney, of the University of Cincinnati, advocates the formation of a student senate to control the athletics at that institution.

Yale has adopted the system of faculty supervision over the Freshmen. Each member of the faculty will have a few of the Freshman class under his control.

The faculty of New York University have invited nineteen colleges to discuss with them the abolition of foot ball. Yale, Harvard and Pennsylvania were not invited to attend the convention.

Mount Union has begun to practice for the winter season of basket ball. Great interest has been shown in the work.

Different colleges are discussing the advisability of barring Freshmen from foot ball for six months. This rule, if adopted, will affect some of the smaller institutions unfavorably.

A swimming team is being organized at Brown University. Regular contests will be held with Harvard, Yale and other eastern colleges.

"Should the Girls Root?" is the subject of a wide awake editorial in a recent issue of Syracuse Daily Orange. It seems that in western colleges "Girls Rooting Clubs" are being organized.

All students using the Cornell library, are required to deposit $5 with the librarian. If at the end of the year the library record of the student is clean, the amount is returned.

modelled and better adapted to use by the student body and faculty. But most particularly, Dr. Flood spoke of the new Annex and of the generosity of the guest of the evening.

In accepting the three keys, Dr. Crawford pledged himself that in so far as he was able he would see that the aims and the purposes of the donors of the buildings should be carried out.

After the presentation of the keys, the reception adjourned to the fourth floor of the Annex. On the third floor over the gymnasium are additional rooms for the women students, who are increasing in numbers from year to year. On the fourth floor, the old gymnasium with the fourth floor of the Annex has been finished off into delightful sorority and club rooms. There are suites of two rooms for each of the three college sororities, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Kappa Alpha Theta and Theta Sigma. There is a large, fine room for the Ossoli Literary society and across the north end of the Annex is an Auditorium which will seat about 200 people and which will be used by the Y. W. C. A.

After refreshments had been served by the young women of Hulings Hall, the party adjourned once more to the gymnasium, where in taking leave of Dr. and Mrs. Crawford and Mrs. Cochran, they had the opportunity once more to express their pleasure at being present at so happy an occasion and of wishing the college as rosy a future as it has had a past.

COMMENTS ON LOCAL FOOT BALL SITUATION.

world is stirred as never before; and although it is difficult to predict just what the outcome will be after the smoke of battle has cleared away, no one believes for a moment that we will have anything essentially different from the great American college game. Therefore next season the athletic board will have practically the same problems to deal with and it desires and greatly needs the help of the student-body, whose servant it is. If then, there is at this time one suggestion to be offered it is that we get together a little more as a college body and stand together. The problems are not for the athletic committee, nor the athletic board, nor those who will come out and work nobly on the "squad" or "scrub" alone to solve but for the whole college body.

H. E. Wells.

Chairman of Faculty Committee on Athletics.

Manager Sturtevant.

There are five lines along which we can work in bettering our team. First, the manager of next year should not schedule games with W. R. U., professional teams or with Niagara, because the first two are clearly out of our class and the last school has no rules regarding the men who play on their team.

Secondly, the coach next year should be willing to work as hard as Coach Rickey did this fall. He must, like "R ck," be a "good fellow" and a man who thoroughly understands his business.

Thirdly, the faculty must not apply the rules concerning low grades more rigidly to foot ball men than they do to other men. All the professors must do as some of them did do this season, that is, must show the men that they appreciate their labors in behalf of old Allegheny.

Fourthly, every man who is physically able should come out and try for the team. When we consider that night after night during the past season only about a dozen men were on the field we realize that this is a condition which needs a remedy.

Lastly, the students should support the team with more of their spirit and more of their money.

I believe the season just past has opened our eyes to this fact and I also firmly believe that next year will see wonderful advances in the matter of winning foot ball games. So, here's to the 'varsity of 1906 and may she be the best team Allegheny has ever had.

W. P. Sturtevant, Mgr.

Captain McQuiston.

The foot ball season of Allegheny College, upon first thought, seems to have been a failure; and in the matter of winning games, it was. But in considering the work of the men on the team and the loyalty which they showed in sticking by the team to the end, it certainly is highly gratifying. The need of the team during the whole season has been for a second team as strong as the first. The foot ball team this year has been weak on defense work, but at times it has been very fast and successful in offense work as was shown at Westminster, Wooster and Western Reserve. If there had been a strong second team out every night the first team would have been much more effective in defense work and would undoubtedly have turned the three games mentioned above from defeat into victory. Some means ought to be devised for keeping the men on the scrub team together and for giving them some incentive for their work by scheduling games for them or by giving them some letter or token.

team refused to play unless the crowd withdrew to the side lines. At this time the scene was an animated one. The two teams steaming in the frosty air, were closely surrounded by a crowd of men and boys cheering wildly and urging Allegheny to make a last stand. The locals responded nobly to the call and held Niagara for downs on the three yard line.

The only touch down was made by O'Rourke in the first five minutes of the second half.

Allegheny made many long gains but was caught often behind the line of scrimmage. St'dger was especially unfortunate in this respect. Some opposing player got him from behind almost every time he carried the ball. Allegheny kicked off to Niagara's 15-yard line. By a series of gains of from 5 to 25 yards long the visitors carried the ball into the locals territory. They were forced to punt. Nelson caught the ball. Benedict made 15 yards, St'dger 7 yards, and Braymer added a number of short gains. Then Allegheny was held for downs. After making a few good gains the ball was again surrendered and Allegheny attempted to pierce the visitors line. But after trying a few trick plays with no results, the ball was again lost to Niagara. Lowney now made a dash of 35 yards, but fumbled the ball when tackled by Nelson. The locals carried the pigskin out of danger before the whistle blew for the first half.

In the second half Niagara kicked out of bounds and Allegheny punted from the 25 yard line. Within five minutes Niagara had carried the ball over for the only touch-down of the game. On the next kick off Benedict carried the ball back 25 yards. Brown, Benedict and Ginn made good gains when given the ball, but Niagara held and in turn advanced the pigskin to within three yards of the goal line. Here Allegheny held and soon worked their way out of danger. The game ended with the ball on Allegheny's 15-yard line. Line-up:

DR. LOCKWOOD ON SHAKESPEARE

GAVE SCHOLARLY ADDRESS.
 Dr. Frank C. Lockwood, of English Department, Gave the Second Lecture of the Epworth League Series at Stone Church.

Dr. Frank C. Lockwood gave the second lecture in the Epworth League series at the First M. E. church Friday evening. His subject was "Shakespeare, the Man and the Poet" and his lecture was a scholarly and able effort which was appreciated by all who heard it.

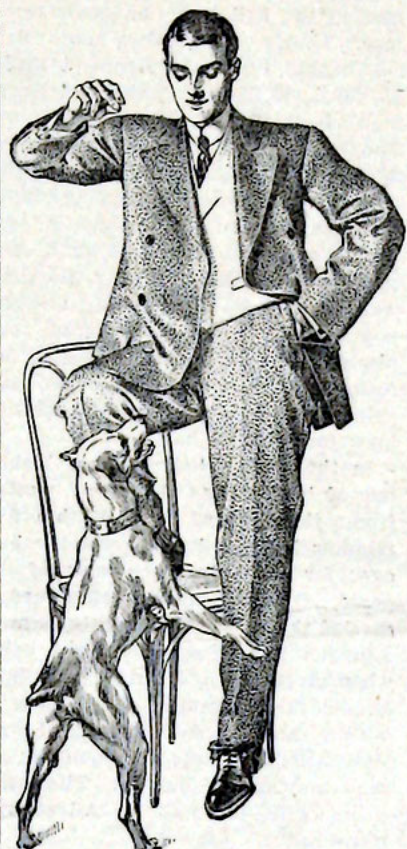

After reviewing Shakespeare's wonderful genius, describing his masterpieces, telling of his creative imagination Dr. Lockwood said:

Finally, Shakespeare surpasses all other dramatic artists in moral elevation and insight. While it is not his primary object to instruct men in moral conduct; and while he was too true an artist to subordinate beauty to didactic ends, he frequently touches the high and solemn passions of life with impressive grandeur, thereby purifying the soul of the reader with pity, fear and terror. His art is consummate in that he unshrinkingly depicts life as it is—in the baseness and its glory alike. He omits nothing; he falsifies nothing. He presents life in its completeness. Whatever he pictures he pictures in strict accordance with the impartial and undeviating laws of life. He paints lust and crime and depravity; but he never forgets to paint the effects of lust and crime and depravity. The deed and the consequence go hand in hand.

In Shakespeare's villain, the tyrant the libertine may be sure that his sins will find him out. He shows that the wages of sin is death; he teaches unostentatiously but impressively that he who sows to the wind must expect to reap the whirlwind. He shows how guilty ignorance and neglect even draw upon them consequence as terrible and damning as active crime. He lights up the whole moral universe with his astonishing genius and shows us the far-reaching consequences whether fortunate or fatal, of every trivial act as well as of every daring crime considered in the heart of man.

The result is that we frequently close one of his great tragedies after solemnly pursuing it to the end; and gravely yet sadly approving in our inmost soul the rewards and penalties meted out to the dear misguided, sinning and suffering mortals whose fortunes we have been following with rapt interest—we close the book, I say, with awe-struck and subdued acquiescence, feeling that the inevitable has happened—that all is as it should be—that Shakespeare's world moves in accordance with the laws of Great Judge Himself who subdues all things to His own righteous will. It is thus that Shakespeare instructs us in the deep things of life.
