At Cochran Hall

Annual Banquet of Round Table Last Monday Evening.

The annual banquet of the Round Table, one of the noted organizations of this city, was held in Cochran Hall on last Monday evening. The brilliant character of the event marked it as one of the most successful in the history of the society. Pleasing music, fragrant and beautiful flowers, an appetizing repast and delightful sociability all combined to make the function a memorable one.

Mr. and Mrs. Gutzon Borghum were the guests of honor at the reception which lasted an hour. In the receiving line were several persons who are active in college affairs. Among these were Dr. T. L. Flood, the chairman of the executive committee, Prof. W. T. Dutton, secretary of the organization, Prof. Ernest A. Smith, Mrs. C. J. Ling and Mrs. O P. Akers.

The guests took their places in the banquet hall to the accompaniment of music by the Northwestern Orchestra. After the invocation by the Rev. C. T. Chase, the following repast was served by Mr. Bave, steward of Cochran Hall:

Consomme Printaniere Royal in Cups
Queen Olives Celery
Hot House Radishes
Cutlet of White Fish, Sauce Tomat
Saratoga Chips
Spring Chicken
Stuffed with Italian Chestnuts
French Peas Haricots Verts
Malaga Grape Salad
Ice Cream, Old Glory
Petty Fours Compote Grapes
Candied Fruits
Cafe Noir

The menu cards were in the form of a ten page pamphlet, bound with red silk ribbon.

During the evening musical selections were given by Misses Helen DeArment and Grace Pappenhagen and Messrs H. W. Manville and Clyde Miller. Miss Mary Thorpe Graham presided at the piano.

In introducing Mr. Borglum, Col. Ned Arden Flood, who was the presiding officer, spoke quite at length on American art, and praised the works of the honored guest in the highest manner possible. Although by no means an orator, Mr. Borglum is a very fluent and interesting speaker, and throughout his entire discourse, held the undivided attention of his hearers. He spoke mostly without the aid of notes and read a few extracts from a paper which he had prepared for publication in a current magazine, on the subject of Lincoln. During the course of his remarks he said that faithful portraiture of the best that is in one would be a good text for all to take, and that faithful portraiture of the best that is in humanity is the very soul and essence of our fine arts. "Art," he said, "which we should not forget, whether in language, or in music, in painting, or in sculpture, is little more than the garment humanity has invented for the purpose of conveying what is nearest and dearest or best in our lives. To cut in stone, in steel, or in bronze, is simply an expression that man must find a medium with which he can carve his thought in a way that it will not be rubbed out."

Mr. Borglum spoke at length on American art, bringing out the point that the history of the country forms a part of its final portraiture, whether written, drawn or carved. The last part of the address was taken up with a sketch of the life of Lincoln, which has been the object of much study to Mr. Borglum.

SERVICES AT VALLONIA CHAPEL.

A number of the college students are participating in the revival services at Vallonia chapel, several men going each evening under the auspices of the Thoburn club. The sermon last Sunday evening was preached by E. N. Hubbard, '10, and resulted in one conversion. The Sunday evening song services are being led by C. L. Nevins, '13.

Outweighed by Mt. Union

Allegheny Defeated Again Last Saturday. A Story of the Trip

The 'Varsity foot ball team played their fourth game of the season last Saturday afternoon, at Alliance, O., where they were defeated 24-0, by the strong Mount Union eleven. Despite the weather and condition of the field, the game was a good one, and Allegheny's fight was plucky, although against odds.

The team left Meadville Friday evening, at seven o'clock, after a long wait at the station. This wait was however, made more endurable by the presence of nearly fifty loyal students, who had accompanied the team from Bentley Hall. As far as loyalty is concerned, no team has ever had a better send-off than the one which went to Mount Union Saturday. The trip was a tiresome one, including a change of cars at Youngstown and a thirty-five mile trolley ride from there to Mount Union. It was almost eleven o'clock when the men reached Alliance.

Saturday afternoon was anything but an ideal day for a football game. Throughout the afternoon, there was a steady downpour of rain, which made that part of the gridiron scraped for a base ball diamond, a field of mud. This fact was another advantage in Mount Union's favor, as their team was the heavier. Notwithstanding the condition of the weather, about four hundred rooters were out on the side lines. The exceptional enthusiasm was in part due to the fact that Mr. E. J. Stewart, Allegheny's coach, had been at Mount Union for two years preceding his coming here. This fact was one of the drawing cards advertised by the Alliance men, and accounted for much of the interest. Coach Stewart was "kidded" considerably by his former understudies, because of the result.

Both teams were in good shape, but the advantage in weight was with Mount Union, fifteen pounds per man.

The Game.

The final result of the game was never in doubt, for Mount Union, by steady line bucks, pushed the ball over the line for the first touchdown in three minutes of play. For the rest of this half, Allegheny kept her opponents from scoring, but never came near the Mount Union goal posts. The ball was in Allegheny's territory most of the time. However, too much credit cannot be given the men for their splendid work on defense in this half, and for holding down the score to 6-0.

In the second half, Mount Union scored three touchdowns and three goals, making eighteen points in all. This they did by line bucks, with an occasional end run. The forward pass was not tried by the Alliance men, but was worked successfully by Allegheny several times.

A feature of the game was McGregor's faultless kicking, scoring all four goals. O'Brien who starred here last year, also played well for Mt. Union. Leffel and Lavely did consistent work for Allegheny. Hawk was injured on the head, and Doterer came home with a wrenched shoulder.

The return trip was made over the same route as the trip going, the men

The line-up follows:

PROFESSOR LEE IN OHIO.

Prof. and Mrs. Edwin Lee left, Thursday, for a short stay in Ohio. They went first to Youngstown, and from there Dr. Lee went to East Liverpool to deliver two lectures before the annual teachers' institute held in that place. He will then rejoin Mrs. Lee at Canfield, O., and remain in Ohio until the first of the month.

This is not Prof. Lee's first appearance in East Liverpool, as he has been invited there several years in succession to address this institute.

MEN'S CLUB BANQUET.

The fifteenth semi-annual banquet of the Stone Church club was held in the parlors of the church Thursday evening. Quite a few of the college people were present, and some of the students took an active part in the entertainment. L. C. Harris gave two readings which were so heartily applauded that he was obliged to respond with encores. R. R. Ross contributed a violin solo. R. R. Yost led the chorus of singers, and Dr. C. M. Cobern told the members of the club, "What the Church Offers."

DAVID BISPHAM RECITAL.

A very rare musical treat was afforded the college and town people on Wednesday evening, at the First Presbyterian church, when Mr. David Bispham, accompanied by the talented pianist, Mr. Woodruff Rogers, gave an excellent recital under the auspices of the Pennsylvania College of Music.

He sang to an appreciative audience that hung on the closing tone of every selection. He was heartily and enthusiastically applauded every time he sang. Encores were a demand of the evening. The singing was effectively reinforced by the excellent instrumental music of the accompanist.

Mr. Bispham has a deep, rich baritone voice, with marvellous range. His stately mien and perfect poise added to the effectiveness of the music. A number of the selections were dramatically rendered.

The choice productions were "Edward," "Far Off I Hear a Lover's Flute," "The Mother's Visit," and the closing number of the program. It was Edgar Allen Poe's "The Raven" recited to music. In this the singer proved his ability as an actor as well, for it was highly dramatic and artistically given.

MISSION STUDY BEGUN.

The first meeting of the Mission Study class was held in the chapel Oratory Tnursday evening at 6:45. About eighty members were present and heard Dr. Smith's interpretation of the first chapter in the text book, "Korea in Transition," by J. S. Gale. The discussion was concerning the land and the people.

CLASSICAL CLUB.

The first regular meeting of the Classical club will be held in the Library next Tuesday evening, November second. The program for the evening is in charge of a committee, and will be appropriate for the opening meeting.

There will be three other meetings before the Christmas vacation, occurring on the evenings of November 16th, November 30th and December 14th, respectively.

Borglum Here

Eminent Sculptor Speaks Briefly to Students.

Mr. Gutzon Borglum, America's most prominent sculptor, addressed the student body and a large number of visitors on Saturday morning after the regular chapel exercises. Mr. Borglum is a man of good presence, with none of the eccentricities of dress or appearance, characteristic of artists. He was exceedingly modest and un-assuming, but spoke with great earnestness and feeling, with no mention of himself or his works.

In introducing him, Acting-president Dutton spoke of a visit to see Gen. Phillip Sheridan shortly after the war. He gave a sketch of "the chubby little Irishman's" famous ride, and his characteristics as an officer in the Civil war, ending with a description of Mr. Borglum's statue of Sheridan at Washington. Prof. Dutton further paid a very fine tribute to Abraham Lincoln, adding that the bust of Lincoln in the capital at Washington is considered the finest representation of Lincoln ever made, not only in execution, but in revealing to us the inner soul of our great martyr-president.

Mr. Borglum was very much touched by Prof. Dutton's remarks, but spoke of giving the students a message, if he might. He said in part:

"Youth is a time of ideals. It is a time when all have aspirations of some kind towards greatness. But the critical time in a young person's life comes when he weighs what is right against what is expedient. It was the right decision at this crisis that made Lincoln and Sheridan the great men that they were. They never thought of winning a place in history, or never cared about it. Sheridan at the time of his famous ride was only 33 years old, weighing less than 130 pounds, a little over five feet tall, but genial and beloved by his men and fellow officers. We all know the story of his ride, how he regrouped his men under new officers, reorganized his lines, regained his old ground, and by night had routed the enemy. Sheridan cared only for the one thing in hand and did that to the best of his ability. Such an ambition is within the reach of every young person.

"We cannot afford to compromise with our ideals. We may fool all our friends, but never ourselves. A compromise is a tribute to one's weaker nature, and a banishment of the great things of life. Fame, fortune and honor seem great things, but they are not important. The really important thing in all the world is to do the right thing at the right time.

"As a final counsel, don't aim to be a great lawyer, or a great doctor, or a great teacher, but a good lawyer, a good doctor or a good teacher."

Mr. Borglum was given very hearty applause and a good "Allegheren."

Scrubs Won

First Allegheny Goal of Season Was Made By Hendricks.

That the 'Varsity football team is not the only one in college was demonstrated on last Saturday, when the scrub team, captained by Joe Piper, went to Edinboro for the express purpose of beating the Edinboro Normal team. This they did, 6-0.

The game was played in a drizzling rain, and the field was covered with mud. This made the play very slow. Most of the gains were made on line bucks, although several end runs netted good gains for both teams. The score came after about ten minutes play in the second half when, after the ball had been carried to within eight yards of the line, Strawn plunged through the Normal team for the remaining distance. Hendricks kicked the goal, the first kicked for an Allegheny team this year.

The scrubs lined us as follows:

R. E.—Stockdale, Wieler.
R. T.—Piper.
R. G.—Small.
C.—Leitzel.
L. G.—McKay.
L. T.—Wieler, Sheffer.
L. E.—C. Grant.
Q. B.—Culp.
R. H.—Strawn.
L. H.—Harris.
F. B.—Hendricks.

BIBLE STUDY.

At a recent meeting of the group leaders of the Bible Study classes being organized, plans for the year were discussed. The enrollment is already large enough to insure the success of the movement, and as soon as the books arrive, the meetings will begin.

TIME FOR THE FIRST STEP.

The notice of the proposed changes in the constitution of the College Council brings to mind the criticisms which have so often been heard regarding that honorable body. Ever since its organization, almost every action it has taken has stirred up some adverse comment.

A year ago its aim was to make more practicable the rules of Campus competition. Unfortunately, the committee of revision forgot to omit one of the sections for which another was substituted, and the result was a decidedly bad mix-up. The judges of competition last year, in their report, stated that they "found no little difficulty in deciding, a difficulty which was increased by certain inconsistencies and vagueness in the rules governing the contest." They also recommended "such alterations as may be necessary to make the rules complete and consistent."

The correction of these competition rules is only one of the important matters which should come before the Counci.. But instead of regulating rules or managerships, the Council calls a meeting to decide whether its own chairman shall be permanent or temporary. The result of this revolutionary measure will be awaited with interest.

So far in its history, the College Council has failed to inspire in the student body respect and confidence. Why? Because it is not handling college problems. Why? Because it has not yet taken itself seriously. In order to take the place which it should have in Allegheny, certain changes will have to come in its own nature.

One of the important reasons of its failure lies in the fact that it has no regular time of meeting. It always adjourns sine die," and is immediately forgotten until the next meeting is called—sometimes within a month, usually not for several months. The setting of a definite time of meeting would be a step in the betterment of the organization, and certainly of more importance than the selection of permanent instead of temporary officers.

"OUR DEBT TO PAY."

The chorus of the "Red and Blue," a new University of Pennsylvania song by Florence Earle Coates, is stirring enough to be adopted as a motto by any school:

"And eager a part of our debt to pay,
With thine honored sons of yore,
We follow the Red and Blue today,
And love thee forevermore."

If we should all look on our duty to our alma mater in this light, the necessity of appeals for college spirit would be utterly removed. Put something into college and see if you do not get something really worth while out of college. What we enjoy here at Allegheny today has come from just such unselfish efforts on the part of those who have gone out from the historic halls of their honored college. And who shall say that these men have not had their reward for all that they did in bygone days?

FOOT BALL SONG FOR NOV. 6TH.

Several songs appropriate for use at the Westminseer game next Saturday have been handed the editor. The best one received so far is printed below:

Tune—"Marching Through Georgia."

Take the good old foot ball, boys,
And shove it o'er the goal,
Smash Westminster's line in two,
And make a great big hole,
Work with every muscle, boys,
And play with all your soul,
Allegheny must win, boys.

Hurrah, hurrah, for the team of Kennedee,
Hurrah, hurrah, for good old Allegheee,
Make noises to Westminster
That will sound like twenty-three,
Allegheny must win, boys.

(After a Loss.)
Never mind the losses, boys,
But go right in again;;
Where you had a one yard loss,
You'll make a gain of ten;
You're going to make a touchdown,
Or you're going to die like men.
Allegheny must win, boys.

(Chorus) —Hall, '13.

KALDRON TALK.

The Junior class met in Bentley at 1:30 Thursday afternon for the purpose of entertaining the sentiments of the class relative to the college year book. Various members of the class offered their opinions on the matter, and the feeling was prevalent to have the Kaldron in the hands of the Junior class, providing such a move would effect a better book.

The Kaldron has been lately under fraternity supervision, both as to the management and to the editorship. If, however, such action of putting the book in the care of the Junior class would be the means of securing a better annual in comparison with the year books of other schools, it was thought that this would be a good move.

REV. KRAUS AT CHAPEL.

The chapel exercises of Thursday morning were rendered especially helpful by the presence of Rev. Phillip Kraus, pastor of the Zion Evangelical church of Meadville.

Rev. Kraus read the scripture lesson, gave a short talk to the student body, and offered the prayer. The speaker, as he said, received the greater portion of his education in Germany, but what he said was very appropriate. Ideals were the burden of his theme. The one main thought which clung to the minds of those who heard his message was: "In the pursuit of our ideals and in the attainment of our life's ambition, let our efforts be linked with our duty toward God."

IN THEIR OWN ROOM.

The regular weekly meeting of Duzer-Du was held in the club room on Tuesday evening, and the following members were present: Fixel, Harris, Phillips, Hilborn, Kennedy, Boyd, Maxwell, Apple, Robinson, Gahan and Hughes.

Most of the time was occupied with the discussion of plays. The Club has not yet decided what kind of a play will be put on this year, whether classic or modern. Several plays, dealing with college life were considered but no definite decision was made. It is likely that the decision will be made at the next meeting.

The Duzer-Du room on the third floor of Bentley has been equipped with a stove. A committee has taken charge of the room, and will fit it out in fine style before competition for the play begins. It is already showing signs of marked improvement and this fact is merely indicative of the enthusiasm and spirit with which the "Duzers" are endeavoring to raise the standard of dramatics this year.

DINNER AT STONE CHURCH.

While the Round Table was enjoying its banquet at Cochran Hall Monday night, the ladies of the Stone church served the men who usually board at the Hall with an excellent supper. The menu was as follows:

Roast Beef Mashed Potatoes
Warm Biscuits with Gravy
Cold Slaw
Bread and Butter Hot Biscuits
Blackberry Jelly
Preserved Peaches Assorted Cake
Grapes Coffee

TWO DEBATES.

Last Two Meetings of Forum Lively.

The Forum met in Philo-Franklin hall on Thursday afternoon, October 21st, at the usual time. A good crowd responded to the roll call, and the debate was immediately begun. The question of the previous meeting was resumed: "Resolved, That senators should be elected by popular vote." Mead and Akerson on the affirmative defeated McClellan and Nodine on the negative.

Another meeting was held last Thursday afternoon. The question for discussion was, "Resolved, That the jury system should be abolished." It was hotly contested for half an hour by Limber and Brockway on the affirmative and Thomas and Calvin on the negative.

The Forum also passed a motion of importance at this meeting. It has to do with the election of delegates for the Intercollegiate Peace and Arbitration Contest. This is a thing of particular forensic interest just at present. Allegheny has always held up well in platform work and so the Forum will prepare men for this contest.

MISS ROWLEY IN PITTSBURG.

Attending Convention of Keystone State Library Association.

Miss Rowley, the college librarian, left Thursday afternoon for Pittsburg, to attend the ninth annual meeting of the Keystone State Library Association. The convention will be held in the Carnegie Library at Pittsburg, on Friday and Saturday, and will be addressed by some of the best known librarians in the country. Mr. W. W. Bishop, of the Library of Congress, Mr. John Thompson, of Philadelphia, Mr. Henry F. Marx, of Easton and Miss Sara Bogle, of Pittsburg, are included in the program.

In addition to visiting the libraries of Pittsburg and vicinity, the delegates will be given an opportunity to go through the Homestead steel works of the Carnegie Steel Company.

It is of interest to college people to note that the secretary-treasurer of the association is Miss Daisy M. Smith, a sister of Dr. E. A. Smith. Miss Smith is one of the librarians in the Carnegie Library at Homestead.

LIT TO APPEAR SOON.

The college monthly publication will be out sometime during the coming week, and it is with interest that the college awaits the initial edition. The literary material is now in the hands of the printer, so the appearance of the magazine will soon be a reality.

The editor has been handed some good literary work so far, the majority of which will be published.

The "Lit." is an important literary activity of the college, and is worthy of the best interests of the pen and pencil artists of the school. Competition for places on the staff for next year has begun and it is found that there is yet room for a number of competitors. It is understood that that quantity alone is not the sole requisite, but that quality counts as well. The Quill club aspirants should get busy at once.

PROFESSOR DECKER SPEAKS AT Y. M. C. A.

The mid-week Y. M. C. A. meeting was led by Prof. Decker, who read as a lesson, the story of Saul, his meeting with Samuel, and his choice as king. Prof. Decker said that this was one of the Bible's most interesting stories, as it was for Saul the opportunity of his life, just as every young man is given it. Continuing, he said, "Saul, a man of fine physique, was chosen by God and by the people as their ruler. This was his opportunity. He soon took upon himself the office of priest. Later jealousy crept in and developed in his heart. This failure told on him later in life, and he was overcome by melancholia. When he was wounded in a battle against the Philistines, he took his own life.

"This story has a lesson for every student, for each one has an opportunity to become a prince. Desire not self aggrandizement as did Saul. If Saul had worked for the good of the people and not for himself he would never have shown such a spirit against David. So live for others. As you look into the face of the future you should have a strong foundation, at least. Any work you may choose is a trust which is not for self. Be a servant for those whom you influence."

SIR EDWARD COIT IN MEADVILLE

Several students and members if the college faculty heard an interesting and instructive lecture on the subject of "Eugenics," at the Unitarian Seminary, on last Tuesday evening.

The speaker was Sir Edward Coit, an American by birth, who has spent many years in England and who is now one of the leading social reformers there. He is now a candidate for the House of Commons on the Labor ticket. Under the direction of the Ethical Culture Society of England, he is making a lecture tour in this country, having as his object the molding of public opinion in favor of Eugenics.

"GREENHORNS."

Rev. William Branfield, D. D., gave his lecture on "The Greenhorn," in the State Street M. E. church on Thursday evening. He was a former pastor of that church and so he spoke from a familiar pulpit.

The address contained wit, humor and intermingled pathos, and was delivered in a quaint, but unique fashion.

Mr. Branfield believes in the whole-souled, big-hearted man, whose mind and heart is open to every thing that is high and noble. "The Greenhorn," he says, "is the man who goes through life with his eyes shut and sees only the wrong side of the picture." At this point, the speaker made a plea for optimism in Christian life.

ANOTHER ORATORICAL CONTEST.

To Be Under Auspices of Pennsylvania Conference for International Arbitration and Peace.

With the advance of the school year, the season for debate and oratory is rapidly approaching. The Oratorical Association, through its executive committee composed of President Fixel, Secretary-Treasurer Swick, Prof. E. A. Smith and Prof. E. S. Armstrong, has been working hard to get everything in first class condition for a successful year in forensic work.

At a meeting of all interested in oratory, held on Thursday afternoon, the committee presented a proposition submitted by the Pennsylvania Conference for International Arbitration and Peace. This proposition, which was ratified by the meeting, provided for both a local selective contest and for an inter-collegiate contest. A silver medal is offered the winner of the local contest provided that certain conditions are fulfilled. They are: first, the oration must contain not more than fifteen hundred words, dealing with some selected phase of the general subject; second, that there must be at least five contestants; and third, that the winning oration, with others, if desired, must be sent for the state contest.

The state contest will be held, if possible, in some central place on the 22nd of February. In this contest six orations will be delivered. These six will be chosen by judges and each of the six will receive a silver medal. In addition, a gold medal will be awarded the winner. All orations must be submitted before Dec. 18 with some special identifying mark, and a note enclosed identifying the mark. The announcement of the six successful contestants will be made about the middle of January.

The basis on which the first selection of six will be made, is that of power in influencing public opinion It therefore depends upon selection and arrangement of facts, power of expression and any other element which tends to effectiveness. Special judges will be appointed for the public contest in which oratorical power will be a large feature.

It is imperative that all orations for the local contest be in the hands of the executive committee of the Oratorical Association by November 20. Literature dealing with the subject will be found in the Library, and special documents will be supplied by the State Conference on Arbitration and Peace, under whose auspices the final contest will be held.

Debating Prospects.

Besides looking after the oratorical interests of the college the executive committee has been busily engaged trying to arrange a three cornered debating league with institutions ranking high in platform work. At present two propositions are partially accepted, with the result that the whole matter is in a hang-fire position.

Albion has considered favorably a league with Allegheny and De Pauw, but De Pauw is yet to be heard from. Albion, it will be remembered, three years ago administered the last defeat suffered by Allegheny in recent years. Wooster has accepted a proposal for a three cornered contest embracing Allegheny, Wooster and Dickinson. The matter is to be placed before the students of Dickinson, and on their decision will rest the fate of this combination. All of these three schools were represented in the Oratorical Contest held at Wooster last year, which was won by W. L. Stidger of Allegheny.

Letters have also been sent to Syracuse and the University of Pittsburg, concerning the same sort of arrangement, and to Ohio Wesleyan regarding a triangular league with Albion as a third member. Such a combination would bring three Methodist schools together.

More definite information can be expected within a week, and until then the Forum will continue to be the center of interest.

SEVERAL SURPRISES.

Football Games Last Week and the Resulting Scores.

The inter-collegiate football world was given several surprises in the results of the games played on last Saturday. Those of greatest importance to western Pennsylvania followers of the game were the remarkable work of Westminster in holding W. & J. down to a single touchdown, the defeat of the Carlisle Indians by Pitt, and the no-score game between Tech and the heavy Dennison eleven. In view of the fact that both Westminster and Tech are to be met here at Meadville, the strong showing made by these teams causes special concern to the supporters of Allegheny.

In the east, Penn State held U. of P. to a 3-3 score, neither team being strong enough to cross the goal line. Lafayette humbled Princeton by scoring the only touchdown of the game. The Annapolis middies were beaten by the University of Virginia eleven, 5-0. Across the line in Ohio, Oberlin and Case fought out a 0-0 game desperately.

Other results last Saturday were as follows:

Fordham 21, Swarthmore 3.
Brown 0, Harvard 11.

COLLEGE BOYS PRESENT "BROWN OF HARVARD."

Kirk Brown Introduces New Cast at Academy of Music.

The audience at the Academy of Music, Monday night, was immensely pleased with the presentation and keen interpretation of "Brown of Harvard," by a cast of twenty-three college boys. Those who had seen the first cast of "Brown of Harvard," said that it was inferior in every stage to Harry and his crew.

The first scene was in Tom Brown's and Claxton Madden's ("Sammie R.") apartments. It was a typical college room. Here all the boys gathered for their little smoke, and enjoyed the generosity of Tom (Harry.)

The love scene in act two was in the yard at Harvard. Tom's love song was well taken, considering, and when he had finished "When Love is Young," there was a hushed stillness —perhaps Tom (Harry) thought it was the perfect tribute— but not so the audience. Tom had another song prepared for an encore, but the crowd did not seem to want it, and the show went on.

The great scene of the 'Varsity Boat Club," on the day of the race with the English amateurs, in the third act, was thrilling. The great, manly crew, composed of Joe Piper, "Red" Hickernell, "Husky" Doterrer, "Long" David, "Jack" Brigham and Claire Hilborn, with little "Sawdy" Croasmun as coxswain, made a hit. The realistic feature of the race, though, was the expert cheering done by Kirk and his boys, with Kirk as cheer leader.

Act four reaches the climax when Tom and his love, Evelyn Kenyon (alias Harley G.) get together. Here again Tom starred by his bewitching love eyes.

The boys thanked Kirk and his company for their help in the presentation of the play.

ROBERT B. MURRAY DEAD.

Robert B. Murray, a member of the Board of Trustees of Allegheny College, died at his home in Youngstown, O., on last Sunday, October 21. Doctor Cobern represented the College faculty at the funeral services which were held at Trinity M. E. church, Youngstown, on Wednesday, afternoon. The sermon was preached by Dr. Hillman.

Mr. Murray was a graduate of Allegheny, and had taken his A. M. degree here in 1866. After graduation he began the practice of law, and was ranked among the prominent lawyers of Youngstown.

The vacancy made in the board of Trustees will probably be filled at the annual meeting next June.

COUNCIL TO MEET.

The College Council proposes, at its next meeting, to pass on the following amendments:

Article IV, Section 1, to read: "The only officers of the College Council should be a chairman and a secretary, elected at the first regular meeting of the year, and holding office throughout the year."

Article IV, Section 2, to be omitted. The article now reads: "Meetings of this organization shall be presided over by a chairman pro-tem."

INTERCOLLEGIATE.

Notes of Interest From Near-by Colleges.

Geneva College students are planning to place a flotilla of pleasure craft and row boats on the upper level of the Beaver river, which flows within a stone's throw of the college campus. President George is giving this movement his support and approval, and the success of such an innovation will be watched with interest by all the neighboring schools.

Endowment at Ohio Wesleyan.

Ohio Wesleyan University, so a news item in a recent daily states, is to have its endowment increased by $125,000. The gift was voted to the college at a recent meeting of the general education board.

Athletic Field for Albion.

The alumni of Albion College are undertaking the entire work of providing that institution with one of the finest athletic fields among the smaller educational institutions of the middle west. To do this will necessitate an outlay of $8,000 in improvements on the field now used by the college.

KIRK BROWN ENTERTAINS.

Kirk Brown, who has been playing at the Academy this week, showed his good will to some of the college boys on Thursday evening. The occasion was a dinner after the show in the private dining hall of the Rathskellar.

Nothing was lacking for the entertainment of the guests. College songs and yells added to the affair, and impromptu toasts were given in regular order from each of the fifteen boys and lastly from Mr. Brown himself.

"Booze" Russell, class of 1908, who has been studying law in the office of W. S. Smith, left last week for Los Angeles, California. Mr. Russell expects to enter the Law School of Leland Stanford University.
