

Debating Season

Allegheny Won Second Place in Triangular League.

One of the most interesting oratorical events of the season was the intercollegiate debate between University of Pittsburgh and Allegheny held in Ford Memorial chapel last Friday evening. The league was so arranged that the affirmative team of each college remained at home, and so the affirmative team composed of Fixel, '10 (captain), Sheffer, '12, and Hunt, '12, met the negative team from Pitt, which was composed of George, Hallock and Cannon. The reputation of Hunt and Fixel was established, and they lived up to the strongest expectations. Sheffer made a strong debut into the limelight of debate. Arguments were presented that were almost irrefutable. The Pittsburghers put up an excellent fight and received one vote from the judges. The team showed careful preparation in all lines.

The judges were Hon. Axtel Byles, of Titusville, Pa.; Hon. G. S. Crisswell, of Franklin, Pa., and Hon. T. J. Cochran, of Mercer, Pa.

At Wooster

While the Wooster debate did not add a victory to Allegheny's laurels, the contest was close and spirited. The result was in doubt until Captain Douglas of the Wooster team finished his rebuttal. A large crowd filled Memorial chapel, Wooster, in the expectation of a lively debate and they were not disappointed.

Every possible effort was put forth by each team. Allegheny's three made the trip in easy stages spending Thursday night in Youngstown. Previous to their going, Dr. Smith and Miss Spalding had given valuable time in assisting in the preparation. Wooster, on the other hand, kept their three best debaters at home in the expectation of a representative Allegheny team, and sent what was styled an "alternate" team to Pittsburgh. The cashier of the local bank, a Wooster alumnus and an ex-college professor coached the Wooster team.

A college "sing" preceded the debate which began promptly at eight o'clock. Walter E. Peck, '12, Wooster's oratorical representative in the recent contest, Harry Post, '10, and Richard Douglas, '10, captain, comprised Wooster's team. Peck was a member of the 'varsity debating squad last year while Post and Douglas had each three years intercollegiate experience to their credit. The judges were Professor H. H. Heltzer, superintendent of schools, Mansfield, O.; Professor F. P. Geiger, superintendent of schools, Canal Dover, O., and Rev. E. E. Smith, pastor of the M. E. Church, Geneva, Ohio.

The constructive arguments which were given for Wooster by Peck, Post and Douglas and for Allegheny by Barkley, Yost and Hillman in the order named were slightly in favor of Allegheny. The Wooster team, however, came back strong, their experience telling heavily in their selection of points and presentation. Post and Douglas gave two masterly rebuttals, the Wooster captain's being especially effective as it was last. The Allegheny rebuttal, which was handled by Yost, Hillman and Barkley in order was also well taken. No one could hazard a definite decision until the judges handed in their unanimous verdict in favor of the affirmative.

Wooster at Pittsburg

The Wooster team won at Pittsburg on the negative thus giving Wooster the championship of the league with Allegheny second and Pittsburg third.

First Track Meet a Victory

Allegheny Won From Grove City Last Saturday at Athletic Park, 88 to 29

The first track meet of the season which was held at Athletic Park on last Saturday, was notable for two reasons. In the first place, Grove City, which has long been the rival of Allegheny in track and which team won the dual meet last year, was overwhelmingly defeated by the score of 88 to 29, and in the second place the record for the 16 pound shot put was broken by A. B. Hines, captain of the Allegheny team. The record, formerly held by E. M. Giesey, '08, was 36 feet 8½ inches, and was raised by Hines to 37 feet 6 inches.

It is thought that some good time would have been made in the running events and perhaps that records might have been smashed, if there had been any way of telling accurately what was done, since the supposed quarter mile track was found to be ten yards short. No allowance was made for this in starting the events and hence some almost phenomenal time was recorded.

Among the new men who showed up well, Van Horn and Barstow stand out prominently, the former having won the 440 and done remarkably well in the first lap of the relay, while the latter won the mile. Of the old men, Hines, Hilborn, Stidger and Croasmun were the stars, each having won two firsts. Of the Grove City team, Gimmel and Daubenspeck were perhaps the best, the latter running a beautiful two mile in which he finished with a strong sprint after holding the lead throughout the entire course. Gimmel took second place in the 440, 220 and 100 yard dashes, being beaten by Allegheny men in every instance.

A great deal of credit for the success of the team is due to Captain Hines, who has worked untiringly since the beginning of the season with the new as well as the old material. In addition to making a good part of the score himself he did much to help the rest of the team.

The unusual athletic ability of the men of the Freshmen class was demonstrated on the field on last Saturday. With such men as Van Horn, Barstow, Winn, Gibbs, Dotterer, McKay and Rosenberger beginning at the game, the prospect for track teams in the future seems very good.

In regard to the new men Captain Hines said: "Rosenberger and McKay did good work for their first meet. Herpel was a surprise and he would have won second place in the half mile, had he had more confidence in himself. Gibbs, in the shot, is capable of two feet more after he gets over his stage fright and ought to do great stunts. Bill Dotterer in the hammer and discus surprised himself as well as the coaches. He will soon beat Ball, if Wendell doesn't work. Winn, with more experience in running, will make a cracker-jack in the two mile. I expected Van Horn and Barstow to 'make good.'"

The relay race was run by Van Horn, Ballinger, DeYoung and Hilborn in the order named. It was one of the prettiest races of the day. Van Horn took a pretty stride all the way around and was soon far ahead of the Grove City man. The lead was kept by Ballinger. DeYoung lost some of this, but Hilborn still had a start ahead of his opponent, and in the lap went way ahead.

The third places counted toward making the letter but were not counted in the aggregate points for the two teams. An unusual number of men

BASEBALL AND TRACK TEAMS

As the two athletic seasons advance it is possible to form a more accurate estimate of the teams representing Allegheny. The pre-season hopefulness has been in a large measure justified and the prospects warrant optimism.

Track Team

In the words of Coach Stewart, track prospects are "looking up." The most encouraging feature of the situation is the strong Freshman material which is still "coming." They are daily being rounded into condition and by the end of the season will have developed marvelously. There is no need to point to the results of the Grove City meet to show what can be done by old men and new. The point of interest now is the amount of progress that will be made during the next few weeks. In addition to Captain Hines, ex-Captain Croasmun, Stidger, Hilborn, Hofelt and Ball who have been reliable point getters in the past there is Barstow, Van Horn, Gibbs, Dotterer, Whitney, David, Kulp and Jones who look very good.

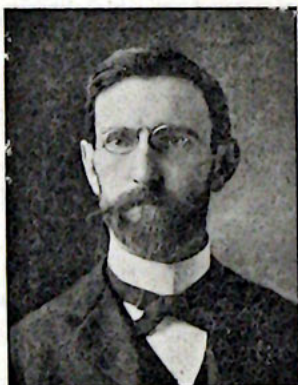

Attention is now focused on the meet scheduled with the University of Rochester team for a week from today. The defeat of two years ago by a score of about 40-0 still has its stigma which all are eager to efface. The Allegheny team is just as strong if not stronger than before while Rochester's older men have gone, particularly their captain. Tickets are now on sale at thirty-five cents each.

Of course the big meet of the year is the W. P. I. A. L. meet to be held at Washington, Pa., June 4th. This is the chance of a college generation to show the Pittsburg critics what Allegheny is made of. The last time Allegheny participated in a meet at Pittsburg was in 1906 when the gold and blue team took second place. Only an accident to Captain G. R. Clark just before the meet enabled W. and J. to wrest first place from the team representing us. Now it looks as though nothing could stop Allegheny and that a duplication of the victories of 1907 and 1909 is to be secured.

Baseball

Truth is a cruel thing, but the announcement must be made that the team is crippled at present. Coach Stewart may be able to repair the breaches but he has a difficult task

Dr. W. A. Elliott

Dr. W. A. Elliott, of the college faculty, will lecture at Ford Chapel next Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Classical Club. His subject will be "On Horseback Through Arcadia," and will be illustrated with stereopticon views. Admission is free to the public.

on his hands if he is to accomplish the desired result. Low marks have resulted in the permanent disqualification of Captain Weldler and the temporary ineligibility of Harris. Croasmun and Meek are two other good men who are also ineligible. Another cloud on the baseball horizon is the forced abandonment of a Pittsburg trip, owing to financial difficulties involved. The fact remains that a team which could play the ball against Hiram that Coach Stewart's pupils did is not to be killed easily.

In explanation of the schedule, it should be said that Grove City's cancellation leaves the date for May 24th open. The attitude of our rivals on the eligibility of Preps to the team was fully explained by the editorial published in the Campus two weeks ago. Coach Stewart is arranging an Ohio trip for the second week in June. A commencement game may be played at Wooster and another Ohio school will possibly be taken on. The schedule as now arranged for the rest of the season is:

May 20—Western Reserve at Athletic Park.

May 24—Open date at home.

May 28—West Virginia Wesleyan (here).

May 30—Thiel College (at Greenville), not yet ratified.

Senior Speakers

Miss Beebe, Miss Emery, Yost, Fixel, Harper and Swick Chosen.

The six speakers for commencement were chosen by the faculty, Tuesday afternoon, three for scholarship and excellence in oration, and three because of general merit. Those so honored are as follows:

Miss Margaret H. Beebe is one of the three chosen for scholarship and oration. Her home is in Nanking, China, where her father is a medical missionary in the service of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Miss Beebe graduated from the Preparatory school in 1906. In college she has been active in several branches of student interest, having been an associate editor of the Literary Monthly in 1907-8, president of the Y. W. C. A. 1909-10 and a member of the Quill and Classical Clubs. She is enrolled in the Classical Course.

Miss Hazel Emery entered college in 1907 and has completed her work in three years. She graduated from the high school in Conneautville and took post graduate work in the Denver, Colorado, high school and in the Redlands, California, high school. She was president of the Women's Tennis Association in 1909 and a member of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet. Miss Emery has taken the Latin-Modern Language Course.

Mr. R. R. Yost, of South Fork, Pa., was the third chosen on account of his high marks and excellent oration. He is a graduate of the Academy, class of 1907. He has completed his college course in three years. In 1908 he was first alternate of, and in both 1909 and 1910 a member of the 'varsity debating teams. For two years he has been on the track team in the pole vault, and during the last season managed the basketball team. He was leader of the Mandolin Club in 1908-09, and of the Glee Club in 1909-10. He has just completed a year in the Y. M. C. A. cabinet.

W. G. Fixel is one of those chosen for general merit. He is from Meadville and graduated from the local high school in 1904. No one man in his class has been more active in student affairs during his four years' course. A record as a member of three winning debating teams has won "Bill" an enviable place in the college community. In both 1907 and 1908 he helped down W. and J. and this year he was captain of the team which defeated Pitt. He served a short time in 1908 as football manager and was assistant manager in 1907. The success of Duzer Du and college dramatics has in a large measure been due to his management. He was one of the originators of the Forum and during the past year has been president of the Oratorical Association.

H. R. Harper, also one of the three chosen for general merit, is the third Prep graduate found in the list. He entered college from Prep in 1907 and has spent three years in completing his course. His home is in Avalon, Pa. While in college he has been literary editor of the Campus, 1908-9, and was a member of the 'varsity debating squad in 1909. In religious work he has been especially active as a student preacher, Thoburn Club member and Y. M. C. A. worker.

W. A. Swick also gained the honor of election on general merit. His preparatory work was done at Slippery Rock State Normal, from which he graduated in 1905. Beaver Falls is his home address. As one of the supporters of the Oratorical Association, Mr. Swick has done very efficient work and in his present position as secretary-treasurer of the association has been invaluable. He is a member of the Scientific Club. This year he taught Physics in Alden Academy besides carrying his regular work. He will graduate in the Latin Scientific Course.

THANKS!

A letter received from one of the visiting Pittsburg debaters contains the following extract which should be gratifying to Allegheny pride and hospitality. "We wish to thank your college for the very courteous and gentlemanly conduct which you have accorded the members of a visiting team."

Western Reserve

Next Home Baseball Game at Athletic Park Friday.

Every loyal Alleghenian is looking forward to the one big baseball game of the season on Friday afternoon. Western Reserve comes here with the reputation of being one of the classiest teams not only in Ohio but also in the entire Middle West. Rafferty, their crack pitcher, recently held Michigan to five hits although his team lost 2-0. The last trip of the Cleveland nine was more successful as the strong Ohio Northern team lost 8-5 to the pitching of Pfau, Reserve's other star twirler, and Wooster fell before Rafferty 5-2.

Stratton, captain of the championship Prep nine of 1908, is playing middle field for Reserve and leads off on the batting list. To those who know Stratton's ability this means that, unless some of the other players are very weak, a fight to the finish is scheduled. In hitting, fielding and base running Reserve has starred this year, but the local nine has been also acquiring some of these essentials. Consistent rooting and loyal support will do much to win Friday's game.

Y. W. C. A. DELEGATES

The following delegates have been elected to represent the Y. W. C. A. at the Summer Conference at Granville, Ohio, June 24th to July 4th: Miss Gertrude Hillman, Miss Mary Sowash, Miss Marguerite Shelmadine, Miss June Shires, Miss Katherine Wheeling; alternates, Miss Lina Power, Miss Bess Emery, Miss Ruth Baldwin. The convention is to be held in the buildings of Denison University at Granville. Many Y. W. C. A. workers are to be there and much interest is being taken in preparation for this conference.

THREE DAYS

Three intercollegiate victories in three days!

There is an indescribable pleasure in triumphing over another college in some line in which both contestants are interested. This pleasure came three times in as many days last week, and the record is one Allegheny is proud of. All three of these victories were won from schools which had defeated Allegheny, and so the results were especially satisfying.

The one word heard repeatedly after the Hiram game was "perfect coaching." Big leagues could not have furnished a better game. This victory over a school which defeated us last year means that Allegheny has the best team in years, and that baseball has fully recovered from the effects of its elimination from spring athletics several years ago. It also brings to mind the fact that lack of money came so near making a baseball season impossible this spring, and that it was undertaken, in large measure, on faith. That the best thing possible was done cannot be denied, but financial support must continue.

The victory in debate last Friday night from University of Pittsburg is in a way an answer to the result of the recent oratorical contest. Pittsburg is one of the schools Allegheny wants to meet in intercollegiate contests, and a victory here was very acceptable. The three men who won this victory deserve the commendation of the whole college for their work. This one victory maintains Allegheny's debating record. And it is fitting here that the officers of the Oratorical Association should be recognized for their work. They began with a heavy debt, but by careful planning and real work, have succeeded in placing the Association on its feet. It is our duty to keep it where it now is.

The other victory was the one from Grove City in track. The defeat last year and in football this year have both been partially atoned for. And again a word of congratulation is due. We heard a student say the other day that "Hines is the best captain an Allegheny team in any line of athletics ever had." That is, perhaps, too broad a statement, but it shows that real work for Allegheny is appreciated.

Three victories in three days is not a bad start for the spring season. All the knockers are surely optimists by this time.

THE MAN WITH THE PLAN

Besides a half million endowment, some new buildings, a history and several other things, Allegheny is looking for a new system of athletic elections. Three or four attempts have been made to produce a new system and start it going, but besides a little noise and some dust, nothing has resulted. It is now coming to be generally felt that the present system is both faulty and unjust, and almost everybody is ready to receive the man with the workable plan with open arms. This man must be sensible; he must not be working for number one; and he must have a birdseye view of the whole situation. When this hero comes with his proposition, it will be accepted by the whole college.

Nothing can be done unless it is better than the present method. It must be accepted unanimously and it will be, if it fulfills this requirement. However, when this new hero is writing out his plan he might as well make a big improvement; otherwise he will not have accomplished very much.

The time seems to have come for the change; all that is now necessary is the man with the destructive and constructive plan.

JUDGES AT WORK.

The Campus competition judges held their first meeting Wednesday, and the material is in their hands. The contest for some of the positions is very close and it may be several weeks before a decision is reached. However, the work will be done as soon as possible so that the new staff may gain some experience this year. Several competitors have already begun work for the coming year, and all who intend to try for positions should begin at once.

ABOUT WOOSTER

The three students who debated at Wooster have nothing but good things to say regarding their entertainment and treatment there. Allegheny has always endeavored to give visiting schools fair play, and it was a pleasure to visit a school where the efforts in this respect are identical with ours.

Wooster is a college very similar to Allegheny. The enrollment is about 400 and the equipment similar to ours. The ravine here gives Allegheny a natural advantage in campus beauty. Chapel, library dormitories and recitation halls are similar. Wooster's great advantage is in scientific equipment, which includes two modern three story buildings, and thousands of dollars in apparatus. But the gymnasium there is not even suitable for basketball, and there is no commons building such as Cochran to which we always take visitors first.

These facts which one can see in a few hours visit at Wooster will show that it is just such a school as Allegheny should want to meet in intercollegiate contests.

FRANCIS H. PIERPONT.

First Allegheny Alumnus to be Honored with a Statue in Statuary Hall, Washington.

One of the greatest honors in years came to Allegheny College on April 30, when the State of West Virginia unveiled in Statuary Hall at the national capital at Washington, a statue of Francis H. Pierpont. This honored American is a son of Allegheny, a classmate of Dr. Jonathan Hammett, '39, and the first child of the gold and blue to take a place in our American Valhalla.

Mr. Pierpont has been called the "Father of West Virginia," and probably no state in the Union owes more to one man than does "The New Dominion" owe to this grand old man. Wherever we find West Virginians throughout the world, the name of this famous plain and kindly man, who was chosen the governor of "Union Virginia" throughout the Civil War, is held in the highest reverence. His devotion to the principles which he upheld during those trying days; his self sacrifice in behalf of these principles, and his gallant up-hill fight to save his state for the Union, makes one of the most stirring chapters in the history of the nation.

Governor Pierpont was born in Marion county, W. Va., on June 25, 1814, of humble parentage, his father being a farmer of inconsiderable means. The son followed farm pursuits until the age of 21, when he decided to get an education. He travelled 180 miles on foot to Allegheny College, enrolling in the preparatory school and graduating from the college in 1839. Bishops Kingsley and Simpson, Homer Clarke and Gordon Battelle, were connected with the college at that time and in later years were close personal friends of the governor.

Returning to West Virginia he taught school for eight months, then studied law for a year in Mississippi. Upon the news of the failing health of his father, he returned to Fairmont, where he practiced law until the outbreak of the Civil War. During this time, though never an office holder, he was prominent in politics; he was a thorough abolitionist and did more than any man in West Virginia to cultivate anti-slavery sentiment. He was strongly in favor of a division of the state, but at the convention of May 12, 1861, he opposed the movement to organize West Virginia as a new state, believing that it was premature. But on June 18, of the same year, when new state officials were elected to take the places of all secessionists, Mr. Pierpont was unanimously made provisional governor, and at the end of the year was regularly elected governor by the people. At the expiration of two years, he was re-elected for four years more. After the division of the state in 1863, Governor Pierpont removed the seat of government from Wheeling to Alexandria, where he had a small legislature. After the surrender of General Lee, he removed the seat of government to Richmond, arriving there in the spring of 1865.

In a few months after his arrival, Pierpont had completely restored the state government. It has been said by leading statesmen that he gave Virginia the best judiciary it ever had. It is worthy of note that there never was a word of suspicion of any dishonest transaction about any officers connected with the state government during his administration. He was the first governor of Virginia who ever proclaimed a thanksgiving.

After his term of office had expired, Governor Pierpont returned to Fairmont, where he spent the rest of his life in calm and restful retirement. At the age of 85 he died, and his remains now lie in Woodlawn Cemetery beside those of his wife. He took a great interest in religious work and was throughout his life a devout member of the Methodist Protestant Church.

There is now in the museum of the Pittsburg Carnegie Institute a large map of Virginia, from which a section nearly two feet square is cut. This map once belonged to Governor Pierpont, and he cut the section and sent it to General Grant to aid him in war operations in that part of the state.

Miss Frances Pierpont Siviter, of Pittsburg, the only grandchild of the war governor, unveiled the statue at Washington, on April 30, and recited a poem, "To a Statue," written by her mother, especially for the occasion.

The statue itself is of white marble in life size and represents the Father of West Virginia standing as though speaking to the people who loved him so well. His right hand is doubled easily across his chest, while the thumb of the left hand is caught in the top of his trouser's pocket. He is represented as a man of mature years, with a kind and beneficent face. This statue, representing as it does the greatest son of West Virginia, portrays also one of the first of Allegheny's sons. The wearers of our gold and blue, may, indeed point with pardonable pride to this statue as representing the first of the sons of Allegheny to stand within our Hall of Fame.

TEUTONIC BANQUET.

The non fraternity men of the college went to the Saegertown Inn last night for their annual Teutonic banquet. About fifty took the half past five car and spent the early part of the evening on the river or enjoying the amusements offered by the Inn. At seven thirty the banquet was served. An excellent menu and toast list had been arranged so that a jovial good time was had by all. After supper the time was passed until late in the evening in several original ways. A special car brought the banqueters back to Meadville.

The menu and toast list was as follows:

Menu.

Saratoga Chips	Boiled White Fish	Cucumbers
Cream Potatoes	Chicken Crouquettes.
Asparagus on Toast	Green Peas

He said that the laymen are the first to covet the whole world for Christ. Christ made little mention of the Jews, or Palestine, but in St. John's gospel, speaks emphatically of the world. He told of the eminent speakers heard in this great convention. Stewart and Bortz rendered a duet during the devotional exercises.

A very successful year for the Classical Club will be rounded out Tuesday evening when Dr. Elliott will give his lecture, "On Horseback Through Arcadia," under the auspices of the club. This is the second lecture which the club has given the college community this year. The splendid success of the lecture by Professor Ross has given good reason to believe that the efforts of this organization have been appreciated. Dr. Elliott's lecture promises to be just as interesting and instructive as was the one by Professor Ross.

By today the tennis tournament will have advanced in the singles to the finals between the two winners of this year's tournament and Bricker and Weidler, winners of last year's tournament. Ten prizes were entered for the preliminary round in singles, and five pairs of two men teams were scheduled to contest for honors in the doubles. Owing to the unfinished condition of the tournament, no accurate prediction can be made for the final result. The fact that five matches in the singles have gone to extra sets and that one match has been forfeited shows the interest taken in this form of athletics.

Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah" was presented Tuesday evening by the Meadville Oratorio Society in the Presbyterian church to an audience that made even standing room at a premium. The chorus contained seventy-five voices under the direction of Mrs. Juv'a O. Hull and the soloists were Mrs. Charles Farrow-Kimball, soprano; Mrs. Jane Lang-

Granger, contralto; Dr. Ion Jackson, tenor; Dr. Carl E. Dufft, basso; Mrs. Edward L. Lawrence, second soprano, and Miss Ruth Heckman, alto. Mrs. Porter presided at the organ and Mrs. Arthur V. Leberman at the piano. The orchestral parts were played by the Northwestern orchestra. The carefully trained chorus combined with the talented soloists brought out the beauty of this remarkable oratorio.

TRACK MEET TODAY.

All is in readiness for the big track meet this afternoon between Alden Academy and Meadville High School which promises to become an annual event. The track has been measured accurately and is in good condition. Impartial judges have been selected and intense enthusiasm prevails in both schools. The Alden Academy faculty has given three medals, gold, silver and bronze to the Alden men gaining the most points. Mr. Smith has very generously presented an 18 inch silver loving cup to the school winning the meet. This cup is to be contested for in a meet held each year under the auspices of the college and it is hoped that it will develop into a big annual interscholastic meet to which all the High and Preparatory Schools of Western Pennsylvania will be invited. Such a meet is planned for at the opening of the new athletic field.

At Purdue last year the new athletic field was opened by an interscholastic meet of 300 preps or high school students, 185 of whom entered Purdue the next fall.

Capt. Himes has promoted and managed this meet with this end in view and for the purpose of encouraging track athletics at Allegheny.

ASSOCIATED CHARITIES

Practical training in organized charity work is offered, free to a small number of carefully selected students, by the Associated Charities of Pittsburgh for the summer of 1910. General Secretary Chas. F. Weller and the Assistant General Secretary, Miss Eleanor Hanson, will give a great deal of time this summer to the direction and training of workers. Experts in various philanthropic lines will address the class. Personally conducted visits will be made to important charitable institutions. Assigned readings will be discussed. Actual field work will be emphasized.

Six weeks beginning July 1st will be devoted to the course. Each student will be expected to work five days each week from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. The main emphasis will be laid upon detailed work with needy families. Several paid positions are likely to be filled later by selection.

Application for admission to the course or request for information should be addressed to Charles F. Weller, The Associated Charities, 535 Fulton Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

ALUMNI NOTES

Notes Gleaned from Booklet Published by Class of 1900

A splendid idea of the work of Allegheny alumni in the world can be gained from the booklet recently issued by the class of 1900. Members of this class are making honorable records for themselves in almost every walk of life. A perusal of merely the occupations of those engaged in actual business or professional practice is a splendid incentive to higher Allegheny patriotism. A partial list of these is given below.

Miss Margaret G. Batchelder is superintendent of the Waterbury Institute of Craft and Industry at Waterbury, Conn.

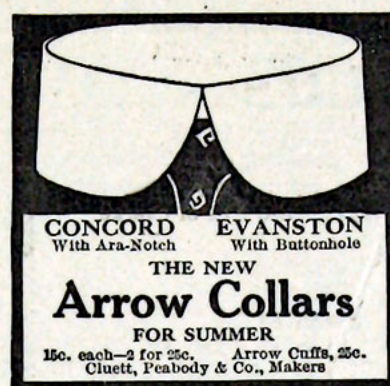

Norman P. Champlin is pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, Arlington, N. J., and is permanent secretary of the class.

Ossian E. Carr spent three years in the Philippine Islands. About a year ago he returned to this country by way of the Suez Canal, spending two months en route in Europe. He now holds the position of assistant superintendent of construction with the United Engineering and Construction Company of Portland, Ore., and is engaged in constructing a bridge across the Willamet River at Portland.

Oliver K. Eaton is an attorney at law in Pittsburgh with offices in the Frick Annex.

W. Roy Goff is in the real estate and insurance business in Pittsburgh.

Miss Josephine Hull is superintendent at the Buffalo General Hospital.

Y. M. C. A. PRESIDENTS.

Hilborn, '11, Represents Allegheny at State College Meeting.

The newly elected presidents of the Student Young Men's Christian Associations of the State met in their nineteenth annual conference at State College, April 21-24. Allegheny was represented by C. E. Hilborn, the president of the local association. This conference was distinctively for student association presidents. Problems, principles and methods of Association work were presented in the most helpful and thorough manner by experts. Ample opportunity was given for discussion. Training, fellowship, enlarged vision, inspiration, were the products striven for. The standard of achievement in the State wide work for the coming year is determined largely by the men of this conference.

Dr. E. E. Sparks, the president of Penn State opened the sessions of the conference Thursday evening. He spoke on the difference between the college student of 30 years ago and the college student of today. In particular he emphasized the difference between religious associations of that time and this. Mr. J. Lovell Murray, Mission Study Secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, gave an inspiring address on "Christian Students United." He briefly reviewed the history of the organization of the Student Associations and forecasted the opportunities before the Y. M. C. A. in the near future. Mr. Murray again spoke before the conference Friday afternoon on "What the Student Associations must do for Foreign Missions." He briefly epitomized the entire situation in the following words: "During the present year is coming the greatest challenge of all times to the American student, greater than any in the past or any possibly in the future. Preparation for a sane answer to that problem must be a knowledge of missions gained through mission study."

Dr. Theodore S. Henderson, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who is remembered for the wonderful work he did here in 1907, spoke on "Winning Men," Saturday evening. His talk was one of the best afforded by the conference in its inspirational nature.

There were in addition to these formal addresses several informal conferences. These took up methods of work and other technical features which will be discussed in cabinet meetings. Some of the leaders at these conferences were Mr. Frank N. D. Buchman, general Secretary of the State College Y. M. C. A., the second largest student association in the world, Mr. William P. Roberts, General Secretary of Lehigh Y. M. C. A., and Mr. Frank O. Koehler, State Student Secretary, who is known to many of the students here. The subjects discussed were of a wide nature, covering fall campaign work, president's duties, summer conferences and other branches of association work.

The social features of the conference were arranged so as to aid the presidents to get the inspiration that comes from personal contact. About fifty delegates were present from every part of the state so that there was a wide variety of experience represented. A reception was given by the faculty, Thursday evening, and a ride taken over the mountains Saturday afternoon. On Sunday a "fellowship" meeting was held as well as a joint meeting with the Penn State Y. M. C. A.

Smith's Clothes Are Different

You may have an idea that our store and our clothes are not very different

From other stores and other clothes; that it doesn't make any difference where you buy your clothes. When you come to Smith's and see our kind of clothes, our makes and styles, you'll soon realize that such an idea is a great mistake. Our clothes are altogether different, they're perfectly tailored and correct in every detail and always all wool. But you must see for yourself, we can't tell you about it.

You'll find our assortment for spring the largest ever seen in Meadville. The newest things in furnishings received every week.

Come and see.
