

SEASON TOTALS 10 VICTORIES AND 3 DEFEATS

Review of Post-War Season Shows Near-Championship of 1918-19 Team—443 to Opponents' 338

The basket ball schedule for 1919 has run to completion, and again Allegheny finds herself enjoying the reputation and distinction of being one of the foremost exponents of this winter indoor sport in this section. Allegheny has long been recognized and widely known for the championship teams which have represented this institution, and as each succeeding year finds the caliber of the team of championship class, the sport lover finds it difficult to reconcile himself to the actual fact. Knowing the size of Allegheny and the fact that no financial inducement is offered to attract athletes to this institution, it has long been a matter of study to the sport lover how Allegheny maintains its basketball reputation. We are not going to try to explain this problem: the fact remains; Allegheny has an enviable reputation in the basketball world and the season just ended has strengthened its claim and title to this deserving and just honor.

A survey of the season just closed reveals the fact that we were forced to lower our colors on three occasions, but that happens to the best of teams. However every loss was sustained on foreign floors, where there is an admitted advantage to the home team. Then, on the other hand, our victories were scored over some of the strongest teams available, teams which have almost equal prestige in the basketball world: Geneva, West Virginia, Great Lakes, Colgate, Carnegie Tech. Every victory was clean cut and save in possibly one or two cases, the margin of the score was decisive, while the games lost were hotly contested and the victor determined only in the last few minutes of play. Thirteen games were played during the year, ten of which resulted in victories, a percentage of .769, eclipsing the record of the two past seasons, even though the opponents were of equal if not stronger caliber.

There was much conjecture as to the probable outcome of the season prior to the opening game. Three men remained from the previous year as a nucleus: Captain Volk, with three years of varsity playing to his credit; Kerr, who played opposite Volk at forward, who had served two years on the Gold and Blue, having, as in the case of Volk, made the varsity his Freshman year. Meredith, at center, was the third of this trio about whom the team was to be formed. Coach Gilbert naturally looked to the second string men of last year and to the Freshman class. The honor of filling the shoes of former Captain Bianchi and Lane fell to the Freshman and Sophomore classes. Baldwin, '21, and Kofford, '22, fitted in best and were elected to complete the quintet. Parker, '22, who broke into the lineup later in the season; Preston, '20; Russell, '21, and Parent, '22, complete the personnel of the 1919 basketball squad.

The team to start with was handicapped by not having the services of Prof. Hammett, who has done so much to improve athletics at Allegheny, and who has been basketball mentor for the past few years, meeting with phenomenal success. Coach Gilbert, however, assumed charge of the team, following closely Prof. Hammett's methods and style. Coach Gilbert was compelled to leave after the first few games on account of illness and so turned the work over to Mr. Keogan, the physical instructor. Eight victories in a row were won while Coach Keogan was mentor, significant proof of his ability and work, culminating unfortunately in a defeat at the hands of Washington and Jefferson College, which eliminated Allegheny as a possible claimant of sectional championship.

Elsewhere in this issue appear a few statistics which might be of interest, showing perhaps how a game was won, how it was lost, and why we consider we were represented by a team of championship caliber. The summary of the season follows:

*Allegheny, 61; Hiram, 5.
*Allegheny, 25; Pitt, 30.
*Allegheny, 34; Carnegie Tech, 22.
*Allegheny, 35; West Virginia, 43.
*Allegheny, 32; Grove City, 23.
*Allegheny, 28; Geneva, 23.
*Allegheny, 30; West Virginia, 29.
*Allegheny, 34; Great Lakes, 29.
*Allegheny, 35; Colgate, 26.
*Allegheny, 39; Westminster, 26.
*Allegheny, 29; Geneva, 27.
*Allegheny, 31; Grove City, 19.
*Allegheny, 30; Washington and Jefferson, 36.

RESUME OF THE GAMES.

Allegheny, 61; Hiram, 5.
The basketball season for 1919 opened rather auspiciously on the local floor with Hiram as the attraction. Allegheny outclassed the Ohioans in every department of the game, defeating them by the one-sided score of 61 to 5. The quality of the team was of unknown caliber and the seeming ease with which they disposed of Hiram and the splendid clock like precision with which the plays were worked forecasted a rather successful season. Volk, Kerr, and Meredith between them scored twenty baskets, indicating that Coach Gilbert, who took charge of the team during Prof. Hammett's absence in France, had developed a powerful offensive as well as a close guarding team. Kofford and Baldwin were the new faces on the team, filling the vacancies caused through the graduation of Capt. Bianchi and "Shady" Lane.

Allegheny, 25; Pitt, 30.

For the second time in nine years a defeat was scored by Pitt on the Allegheny records. They turned the trick, winning 30 to 25, after forty minutes of fast basketball playing. Allegheny had lost the larger part of the almost perfect team work and accurate passing which had characterized the Hiram game yet they gave Pitt a hard tussle for the game. Two weeks had elapsed before the Pitt game following their first contest, one of these being examination week in which little opportunity was had for practice. The team seemed bewildered the first part of the contest, being unable to get under way. It was one of their poorest exhibitions of the year

N. W. Kerr, '20, Elected Basketball Captain

CAPTAIN-ELECT KERR FITTINGLY HONORED AFTER THREE YEARS ON ALLEGHENY VARSITY TEAM.

At a meeting of the basketball team held last Wednesday, N. W. Kerr, '20, was given the highest honor which can fall to an Allegheny athlete, that of the captaincy of the team. Captain-elect Kerr has just completed his third year of Allegheny basketball, and his election to the captaincy is a fitting climax to his career on the basketball floor. The outlook for next year is promising, as we lose but one man this year, Captain Volk, and with "Sniv" piloting the team a championship quintette is to be expected when the whistle blows for the tip-off at the start of the 1919-1920 season.

Address By Dr. Henke On German Philosophy

"THE FALSE REASONING OF GERMAN PHILOSOPHY," SUBJECT POINTS OUT THE FALLACY IN THE CODE OF THE HUN.

Dr. Henke gave a very interesting talk in Chapel last Friday morning on the "False Reasoning of German Philosophers." The talk was very appropriate, as Doctor Lee in a previous talk at Chapel spoke of the contributions of German scientists to science as compared to scientists of other nations. Dr. Henke proceeded to show the falseness of their philosophy, and thus, in these two speeches, the weakness of the German nation in science and in philosophy was shown.

The German philosophers, as well as the German scientists, impressed upon their people the idea of a superior race with superior intellect, the German race. That doctrine was the cause of their downfall.

He said that Fichte, as early as 1808, in his addresses to the German people impressed them that they were the superior people of the world. This is really where their self-pride began. This was just after the Battle of Jena when Napoleon allowed Germany to have a standing army of 42,000 men. In the course of several years these men were discharged and others took their place. It is thus evident that soon Germany was a nation with a large portion of its men having military training.

Shortly after Fichte gave his addresses, Immanuel Kant made declarations in which he called the German people the pure race. Soon Hegel announced his dogmatic ideas by saying that a process of studying the laws of the mind was a study of the outside world. When he had set this before them, he then concluded by saying that the state was the supreme thing in the universe, and that to make it supreme, war was a necessity.

The later German philosophers drew more of their false conclusions by three steps; namely, thesis, antithesis, and synthesis. By thesis and antithesis they would take poorly developed thoughts and then by synthesizing these thoughts they would reach highly developed conclusions and finally emphasizing the state which was already the most sacred thing to them. They followed very closely the reasoning of the three Greek philosophers, Parmenides, Heraclitus and Democritus. Parmenides claimed that nothing was changeable, while Heraclitus said everything in the universe was changing. Democritus in his atomism, then synthe-

Wakefield Contest Next Friday Evening

FIVE ORATIONS TO BE PRESENTED IN CLOSE COMPETITION FOR THE FIFTY DOLLAR PRIZE.

What promises to be one of the most spirited oratorical contests held for some time in Allegheny will be given next Friday evening, March 28, at 7:30, when the Annual Wakefield Contest will take place in the Ford Chapel. It is expected that a large crowd will turn out to the big oratorical event of Allegheny.

With five enthusiastic speakers aspiring for the fifty-dollar prize, a real interest and revival of Allegheny pep features Friday evening's contest. There were more than eight candidates for the Wakefield Contest; but the Committee on Oratory, after much deliberation, selected the five best orations to be presented. The orations are all interesting and current topics which will prove profitable and instructive to all who attend the contest.

The following are the list of speakers whose oratory the students will have the pleasure of hearing:

"Our Debt to France"—Thomas McCafferty, '20.
"The Turning of the Tide"—Irwin C. Krueger, '21.
"The Trend of the Ages"—Thomas E. Colley, '21.
"The Unfolding of Democracy"—G. A. Benson, '20.
"America First"—Leonard H. Hoover, '20.

From the mentioned names, it can be seen that the judges will have no easy time to determine the recipient of the fifty-dollar prize. Two of the speakers in the Wakefield Contest have won prizes last year in the Philo-Franklin Contest. Benson, '20, captured the first prize in the Philo-Franklin Contest with his oration on "Peace," and Leonard H. Hoover, '20, won the second prize with his oration on "America and Christianity."

The winner of the Wakefield prize will be entitled to represent Allegheny in the Inter-collegiate Civic Oratorical League Contest held sometime in May.

The Wakefield Prize.

The Wakefield prize is offered annually by Mr. James A. Wakefield, of Pittsburgh, in the name of his grandfather, the Reverend Samuel Wakefield, D.D.

Y. M. C. A. Get-Together Proves Huge Success

WRESTLING, BOXING MATCHES, TOGETHER WITH SMOKES AND REFRESHMENTS MARK FIRST AFFAIR OF ITS KIND.

Dr. S. W. Bell, of Erie, Makes Powerful Appeal to the Men of the College.

Every one who didn't think that our "Y" is a live affair in Old Allegheny had their eyes opened last Thursday evening when they saw the fellows flocking to the get-together in the Gym. And then, if anyone still had any doubts about its success, a few minutes spent in listening to the fellows talking after it was over would have quieted any fears as to its having been a boresome affair.

The fellows met in the Trophy Room of the Gym. The first half hour or so was spent in getting re-acquainted and in having a good time in general. This was the first time all the fellows have been together for some time where they could talk things over, so everyone picked out someone else and unbundled their joys and sorrows upon them, as long as they would listen.

From the Trophy Room, the party sojourned to the basketball floor where the main features of the evening was staged. The proceedings there might not have been uplifting and elevating to society but from the actions of the fellows and some of the faculty present, it appears that we are not so far above the civilization of the Greeks and Romans, that we can't appreciate a good wrestling or boxing match.

How Walter Welty, '21, the renowned Sophomore champion, went down before "Big Bill" Potter, '22, is a most exciting tale told in three chapters. To all appearances, Welty spent most of his time trying to figure out how to turn his stubborn opponent over on his back; in fact he was rewarded for his perseverance by success in the first draw. But "Big Bill"

PERSONNEL OF THE TEAM SKETCHED IN BRIEF

Loss of Captain Volk By Graduation Will Be Severely Felt—Strong Combination To Build On Next Season

Captain Volk.

No one will be missed on next year's basketball team so much as John Volk, who has completed his fourth year of college basketball for Allegheny, serving during the past season as captain. Volk played a wonderful game of basketball his Freshman year but the season just closed eclipses all past performances. His record of sixty baskets in thirteen games against eleven baskets for his opponent is a record worthy of emulation. During his whole college course Volk has played a prominent part in the successes of the Blue and

Kofford

Gold's floor team and during the past year there was scarcely a game which would have resulted in victory except for his wonderful scoring ability. He had all sorts of competition for a regular berth his first year, yet Coach Hammett decided that even though a Freshman he was the man to complete the championship combination of Cox, Bash, McKay and Bianchi. During his Sophomore and Junior years the hope of Allegheny was pinned on ex-Capt. Bianchi and Volk. He was located at guard his Freshman year, but with the passing of Cox and Bash he was moved up to the forward position where he was able to display his ability to the best advantage. He has almost uncanny ability at locating the basket from all parts of the floor and his handling of the ball is unsurpassed by any individual representative of any team that Allegheny has opposed in the last three years. Aggressive attack, careful guarding when the opposition has possession of the ball, and hard but clean and sportsmanlike fighting are the main characteristics of Volk's playing. His loss will be keenly felt by Allegheny and it may be safe to say that he will be remembered for some time to come as one of the most polished and finished players who have ever worn the Blue and Gold.

Captain-Elect Kerr.

Kerr was Volk's running mate at forward. As in his other two years of varsity playing, his work was characterized by his tireless and unceasing efforts. His record for the season hardly compares with his record of the previous year; he had an off year, hitting his normal stride only on a few occasions. He was, however, put at a disadvantage in having a running guard opposing him in most every game, which disconcerted his aggressiveness in as much as he was compelled to play a defensive forward style of play in order to take care of the running guard, who plays the floor almost as much as the forward, and in many cases is a much more dangerous man to watch. A few of the men who played Snivy during the past season include Henry, of W. & J., who outweighed him a hundred pounds; Dawson, captain and star of the West Virginia team; Mervis, of Pitt, picked by Walter Camp as an All American tackle, and Linnehan, of Colgate. Kerr's best games were the Westminster and Grove City games. Allegheny owes its victory over Westminster largely to Kerr's efforts in the last half of the game. The men showed their estimate of Kerr's value to the team by honoring him with the greatest honor that can be conferred on an athlete: elected leader of an athletic team. Snivy follows in the footsteps of Cox, Bianchi and Volk in captaining an Allegheny basketball team his last year of play. Next year will be Kerr's last year and he has the co-operation of all the men and their good wishes that he may have the pleasure of piloting a championship team.

Meredith.

Meredith was a valuable asset to the team inasmuch as he made it possible for the coach to develop a powerful offensive tactics because George could be depended upon to get the tip-off and give Allegheny possession of the ball at the start. Those who have witnessed basketball games know what advantage a team has when it gets the tip-off and can work plays. Meredith, too, played a much improved floor game reaching top form against Great Lakes when he played Chandler, of Western Conference fame, to a standstill. The Great Lakes game, too, put an end to Meredith's fine play for he suffered a dislocation of the knee, an injury which laid him up for the remainder of the season. Judging from the box score his most fruitful game was the Carnegie Tech game in which he was high man with four baskets. Meredith has another year under the Gold and Blue and bids fair to eclipse his performance of the past year which was brought to such an untimely end.

Kofford.

Kofford takes his place with Bianchi, Volk and Kerr in gaining the unique distinction of winning a regular berth on an Allegheny quintet his Freshman year. Usually it takes at least two years seasoning before a player can jump from a High School to an Allegheny team and win a regular position. Kofford's record has been phenomenal and indicative of future prowess. Besides holding down the guard position he threw the fouls. A glimpse at the statistics will show that his percentage is very high and commendable. With experience, age and development added to his own native ability and willingness, Kofford in time should graduate from the Gym floor as one of Allegheny's best basketball products.

Baldwin.

Baldwin was one of the new faces on the 1919 team. He came out for the basketball squad the latter part of last year, but did not break into a varsity contest. From the start of the 1919 season the caliber of his playing was of such quality that he was chosen to fill the position left vacant by the graduation of Lane the year before. He played a steady guarding game, showing up especially well against Abrams, of Carnegie Tech. He jumped into the breach at the center position when Meredith was forced to retire for the season on

EDITORIAL.

With this issue we introduce a feature hitherto foreign to the "Campus," and we take this means a word of thanking Mr. Inman, '22, for the basket ball cartoon which appears on another page of this paper. It is expected that a number of pictures of Allegheny College life, from the cartoonist's standpoint will be printed later in the year from the pen of the same artist. Mr. Inman is doing most of the art work for the "Kaldron" and Alleghenians may get a hint of the excellence of the "Kaldron" which they will receive in June, from the sample of his work here.

There is a constant source of misunderstanding and irritation to both groups involved in the fact that the rules and regulations of the college as set forth by the faculty have never been collected and put in such form that they are available to the student body for reference. Numerous cases have arisen where regulations of the faculty were broken without knowledge of the existence of those regulations. In view of these facts, it would seem most wise to have the regulations collected, revised to meet the present conditions, and put in some form available to the student; either by filing a copy of the assembled rules with the Student Senate, or by causing reprints of the original to be made and distributed. If this could be done, and we see no reason why it could not, we believe that much of the trouble caused by misunderstanding would be done away with, and that both faculty and student body would be greatly benefitted thereby.

A case which has recently caused a great deal of discussion brings to light the need of revision of that portion of the faculty rules pertaining to the limitation of the number of college activities in which a student may be engaged, and the qualifications necessary for participation in any activity. Apparently, from the information which it is possible to gather, portions of the present rules have become dead letters and other portions are strictly observed. This fact alone points to the need of revision, and it is stated, moreover that the present code does not meet the present conditions, that it was drawn up when the college was in a different state as regards activities and affairs in general than it is at the present time. It has been suggested that some such plan as the following would remove the great bulk of troublesome restrictions involved in the present system of limited activities: A proposal has been made that any student having an average grade of C or above be permitted to engage in as many activities as he chooses, providing that he keep up this standard. Provisions for his withdrawal from certain or all activities, if his grade falls below that average, could be added to the foregoing.—Some such plan as this seems to be the solution of the problem. As long as a student does his work well, it seems that his possibilities in the field of college activities should be limited only by his ability. If he should over-estimate his ability and, as a consequence, his grades should fall below the limit, automatic restriction from certain of his activities would insure no continuance of the overload. Certain it is that something should be done to clear up the uncertainty and irregularity involved in the present system.

PENNSYLVANIA'S RELAY CARNIVAL TO BE HELD AT CARLISLE, PENNSYLVANIA.

Big Colleges of Both East and West To Be Represented.

Pennsylvania's Annual Relay Carnival is to be held at Franklin Field, Carlisle, Pennsylvania, on April 25 and 26. From all indications it will be one of the greatest athletic events of the year. Already the list of teams to compete is approaching the three hundred mark. It now looks as if nearly all of the colleges east of the Rocky Mountains will be represented.

The final date for the closing of team entries is April first. Managers of teams desiring to enter are requested to send in word at once so that the scores of watches, banners, and medals may be lettered or engraved in time for the Carnival. The management merely desires to know by April first that the various institutions will compete. The names of the men composing the various teams that are entered will be called for on April fifteenth. But no teams will be admitted after April first as the drawing for position pole and the final classification is made at that time and post entries except for championships and the individual events can not be permitted.

Allegheny Invited To Join New League

INSTITUTIONS IN "PITTSBURGH DISTRICT" TO FORM INTER-COLLEGIATE BASKET BALL LEAGUE.

Allegheny College was invited to attend the first session of the Inter-collegiate Basket Ball League for the institutions of higher learning located in what is generally known as the "Pittsburgh District." Coach Keogan received a communication this week from the promoters of this league, inviting Allegheny to send a representative at this conference. Coach Keogan has referred the letter to Dr. Lee, who will undoubtedly decide as to whether the Meadville institution should affiliate herself with the proposed league.

Representatives of the University of Pittsburgh, Washington and Jefferson College, West Virginia University, Carnegie Tech, Westminster, Grove City, and Geneva met last Saturday afternoon at the William Penn Hotel, of Pittsburgh, to discuss the formation of an intercollegiate basket ball league.

The league was proposed some time ago and a communication was sent to all the western colleges to send representatives to the Saturday conference. Pitt was non-committal of her membership in the league, but nevertheless sent a representative to the William Penn Hotel. The Morgantown correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch, March 21, throws some bouquets to the Allegheny basket ball players when he stated that the Meadville institution was needed in the new conference. The correspondent maintained that since basket ball was a major sport in Allegheny, the college should be represented in this league. In addition to that, Allegheny's schedule is made up exclusively of Western Pennsylvania teams.

The Pittsburgh meeting is only a preliminary get-together. It is expected that delegates of the several colleges will report back to their own institutions the general purport of the constitution and by-laws of the proposed league for final vote at each institution on whether or not membership in it will be asked for. It is believed that Allegheny will play a big role in the new league, if it joins with the other institutions.

CLASSICAL CLUB.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Classical Club was held in the Library on Tuesday, March 18, at 7:00 P. M. Miss Zella York, '19, was in charge of the meeting. It was voted to have the annual banquet in April at the time that Dr. West will be here. Miss Rowley read a paper on the civilization of Crete. She explained the situation of Crete and said that the Cretans had many things which we call modern. Their plumbing system is an example of this. Miss Rowley explained how some unknown force had suddenly destroyed this elaborate civilization. The talk was illustrated by pictures of the excavations of Crete. There was a general discussion on the subject.

DEBATE WITH WASH-JEFF ARRANGED FOR MAY 16

"Government Ownership of Railroads" the Subject—Tryouts for Varsity Thursday—Prospects Bright

Intercollegiate debating will once more be ushered into college activities of Allegheny, after an interval of rest. Washington and Jefferson College, which won the Tri-State championship by defeating Allegheny a few weeks ago, will thus again be rivals with the Meadville institution, but this time the contest will not be in basket ball but in debate.

The Oratorical Association, after corresponding for some time with many colleges to arrange for one debate this year, has finally succeeded in scheduling W. & J. for a dual debate on May 16 on the current question of "Government Ownership of Railroads." The exact proposition of the debate reads: "Resolved, That the Government Should Own and Operate the Railroads in Interstate Commerce." It should be noted that this question is a debate on the principle of Government ownership rather than on the proposition as to whether the administration should retain the railroads for a period of five years, as is being advocated by Director General Hines. Another point to be noted by the debaters is that they should not confuse Government control and Government ownership as synonymous terms.

The affirmative of Allegheny and the negative of W. & J. will debate the proposition in Ford Chapel on May 16, while the Allegheny negative team will travel to Washington to meet W. & J. affirmative the same night. This contest promises to be one of the most spirited inter-scholastic events between these two rival institutions.

The Committee on Oratory called a special meeting last week of all those who desired to try out for the varsity team. There were not as many candidates for the debating team at this year's meeting as there were last year. Two of Allegheny's veteran debaters, who figured prominently in inter-collegiate debates for many years, are not back in college this term, and their vacancies will have to be replaced by others. The former members of the team, who did not return this year, are Clifford W. Skinner, ex-'20, and Frank M. Parrish, ex-'20. It is believed, however, that there will be plenty of good material to select from for the two vacancies. The members of last year's varsity team; namely, Colley, Benson, Jones, and alternate, Carney, are with us this term and will uphold Allegheny's prestige in debate as faithfully as in former years.

The date for the try-outs has been set by the Committee on Oratory for Thursday afternoon at 3:30 and 4:30 in the Ford Chapel. As there are only twelve men trying out for the varsity, the committee has arranged for the hearing of two teams, consisting of six men on each team. The program is as follows:

Team No. 1—3:30 P. M.

Affirmative—G. R. Barr, '19; Hart, '19; Abe Glassman, '21.

Negative—G. F. Meredith, '20; W. S. Zehring, '19; J. O. Russel, '21.

Team No. 2—4:30 P. M.

Affirmative—E. J. Smith, '22; G. Benson, '20; T. Colley, '21.

Negative—K. McClelland, '20; W. J. Carney, '21; J. Williams, '21.

These men will toss up among themselves for their order of speaking, and will divide the subject to suit themselves. The speeches will be seven minutes for the constructive argument, with three minute rebuttals.

The judgment of the men in these try-outs will be rather upon the ability of rebuttal; the ability to relate facts, and the delivery, than upon thorough preparation of the argument, since the late date makes this process a necessity.

The debaters are urged to get busy and dig up material on the subject. Government ownership of railroads is one of the most timely topics in this country, of which all magazines are full. Miss Rowley has reserved some books and magazines, which deal with the question pro and con, and has placed them for the benefit of the debaters on the tables of the reference rooms.

Having lost the basket ball championship to W. & J., Allegheny is naturally anxious to defeat her old rival on the platform. With plenty of enthusiasm or pep characterizing the 1919 varsity debating team, Allegheny hopes to capture the dual debate with W. & J.

Kaldron

Preparations for the publication of the 1919 Kaldron are well under way, and a board of editors is enthusiastically at work to insure the publication of the book before Commencement time. Prior to the 1918 issue of the year book, for several years it was published behind schedule time, sometimes not appearing until Fall. Hence if the Kaldron board is able to give us our copies of the Kaldron by Commencement time, the entire school will sit with reverential jaws agape, and surprised and thankful eyes open wide.

On page 5 of this issue will be found a ballot for the Kaldron popularity contest. If you are or want to be popular, or if you are not or don't want to be popular, or if you have a friend who is or wants to be, is not, or does not want to be popular, watch the results of this contest closely. The ballot will be strictly Scandinavian—that is, secret—and the results will be published in the Kaldron. Don't fail to vote. Your suffrage is a sacred right. Ballots should be filled out in pencil, and deposited in the Campus contribution box in Bentley Hall within two days. This box has been very kindly offered by the editor of the Campus.

In one other portion of the Kaldron further co-operation of the student body is desired. This is in the matter of contributions from the student body in general of humorous incidents, and interesting snapshots taken during the school year. If you will picture an immense joke standing by the Campus contribution box in Bentley—a joke with a red nose and long ears, let us say—you will if you have any imagination, see it when you cast your ballot in the Kaldron Popularity Contest. Immediately this joke will remind you of others, and it will occur to you that you have forgotten to hand in those snapshots for the Kaldron. Having been reminded of the matter, if you do not then hand them in, you will be a dilly-dallier—a sloth; you will have let golden intentions take the place of diamond deeds.

It is interesting and not at all amusing to note that of the students attending, about one hundred have not paid their first installment on the Kaldron. No doubt a great many of these will purchase the book at its full price when it is issued, but as an important college activity it is deserving of support, and this support should have taken the form of a larger percentage of sales of Kaldron slips. McAdoo got his idea of popular loans from an observation of previous years at Allegheny, when Kaldron slips went out to the students on a 100% basis—every student a subscriber. Not that money invested in the Kaldron is a loan—far from it. It is a college activity worthy of support, and if you wish to remember the important things of your college course, it is a good investment.

Allegheny, 30; W. & J., 36.

Allegheny's championship aspirations went a glimmering when they stacked up against the powerful Washington and Jefferson College team, only to be returned a loser, 36 to 30, in the final game of the season. W. & J. won the game, not by virtue of superior basket ball ability but through the great advantage they had in weight, enabling some of their men to force their way through their lighter opponents. Henry, who was largely responsible for W. & J.'s victory, scoring five field goals, was at least one hundred pounds heavier than Kerr, who played the forward against him. Allegheny put up a great fight and a game battle against these odds for supremacy. At one time during the first half they doubled the score on W. & J.; it was at this point that Henry began his damaging work, against which all the efforts of Allegheny proved of no avail. In the second half, W. & J. pulled away and were never headed thus earning the right to claim the championship of Western Pennsylvania. The inability of Volk to get loose from the close guarding of W. & J. was another deciding factor in Allegheny's defeat. In the first half he was held scoreless, the only time this year that he did not score at least one basket in every period of a game. In the second half he scored twice but his efforts were not sufficient to overcome the big odds against them. The W. & J. victory was well earned; they scored just double the number of Allegheny baskets, twelve, and their foul shooter, Carroll, held his own with Kofford, scoring twelve out of seventeen tries, while Kofford shot seventeen out of twenty-two fouls. Kofford played his best game of the year against Carroll, out-scoring him both in baskets and fouls, besides breaking up numerous long passes of W. & J.'s. Parker, too, played a steady guarding game. He scored his first basket of the year, which was incidentally the first Allegheny basket of the game; this basket broke the ice for Allegheny; hitherto they had been playing a guarding game, and with this incentive they started to work the ball down the floor and were rewarded in seeing Allegheny temporarily holding the lead. Kerr made one of the most sensational shots of the game just before half time, caging a basket from mid floor. Baldwin was handicapped in playing a much taller opponent which kept him on the defensive most of the time. Allegheny deserves considerable credit for holding their bigger opponents to the score they did on their own floor.

Seniors Defeated By Juniors in Class Game

LAST GAME OF INTER-CLASS SCHEDULE RESULTS IN 29-17 TALLY FOR 1920—ENDS BASKET BALL SEASON.

The final game of the Inter-Class series was played in the Gymnasium on Thursday, March 20, at 7:00 P. M. between the Juniors and the Seniors. The game as a whole was very interesting although it would not pass as much of a basket ball game. The game was especially featured by star playing on the part of two of the men. Baldwin, with 6 baskets, was the principal scorer for the Seniors and he always seemed to be on the spot to take a shot at the basket. Rowley, with 5 baskets, seemed to be the principle scorer for the Juniors and was to them much the same that Baldwin was to the Seniors.

One of the prominent features of the game was the lack of called fouls. In the first half of the game the referee called no fouls at all. In the second half there were not very many fouls called, being five altogether. This fact was of great aid in stimulating the interest of the game as it was not stopped every few seconds to toss a foul.

One of the leading features of the game was the spirit shown—especially by the under classes. The Sophomores started the cheering for the Seniors and were soon followed by the Freshmen cheering the Juniors. There was more pep shown than at any previous class game. The lineup:

sized the points of view of these two opposite conclusions, and claimed that his conclusions were more correct than either of the other two.

In the latter part of the nineteenth century Nietzsche took the opposite stand of the world at large. He began by asking what was right and what was wrong. He then said Christianity was a curse, and that it merely represented the meagre elements in society in contrast to the strong elements which, he emphasized as Germany. He impressed upon the German people that the Christian nations by their belief expected mercy from the larger states. He caused them to believe that a good war would hallow every cause, and produce a type of super-man which he said was to be realized in the German nation.

Doctor Henke said that these false ideas had been overthrown by the recent war. He closed by saying, "God has cast down the proud and mighty nation from the earth."

The faculty of Columbia University has announced its intention when the university opens next September, of substituting psychology tests for the usual entrance examination system.

Freshmen Win the Class Championship

22-14 SCORE OVER SOPHOMORES GIVES 1922 CLEAR RIGHT TO INTERCLASS BASKET BALL TITLE FOR CONCLUDING SEASON.

The interclass basket ball games ended last week with the Freshman Class holding the championship of the school. It is to be remembered that the Sophomores defeated the Seniors in the first game of the season by a score of 27-21. Also on the same day the Freshmen defeated the Juniors with the high score of 46-9. The next week the lower classes again defeated the upper classes. With 27 points to 24 of the Seniors the Freshmen added another victory to the one of the week before. The Sophomores also added another victory by defeating the Juniors, 21-18. In the last week the two decisive games were played with victories for the Freshmen and Juniors. The standing and averages follow:

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Freshman.....	3	0	1.000
Sophomore.....	2	1	.667
Junior.....	1	2	.333
Senior.....	0	3	.000

One of the most interesting of the class games of the year was played on Wednesday, March 19, at 4:30 P. M. This contest decided the class championship of the college as each of the teams were undefeated before. Both teams fought hard and played good basket ball—especially in the second half of the game. The Freshmen gained a lead of 8 points in the first half but were barely able to maintain this advantage in the second half.

Kinnear, with three baskets, was the principle star for the Sophomores, while Dye, Murphy and Frazier, of the Freshmen, are to be commended for their work. Dye, in the second half, caged one from under the basket which aroused the admiration of everyone.

There was a great deal of pep shown by the spectators, especially by the Freshmen Class. It would be a good thing if the other classes would put as much pep and interest into class affairs as the Freshmen. Good plays were properly acknowledged.

The line-up:

INTERCOLLEGIATES.

The Carnegie Tech football management has already arranged six games for next year. According to the schedule Allegheny plays Tech at Pittsburgh on November 1.

Colgate University has two members of the faculty on leave of absence doing Y. M. C. A. work in France.

Pennsylvania College claims to be the first college in Pennsylvania to organize a complete Reserve Officer's Training Corps this year.

Alfred University has an enrollment of 123. 63 of these are men while 60 are women.

Coach Issues Call For Track Candidates

W. & J. HERE MAY 10TH AND CARNEGIE TECH AT PITTSBURGH MAY 31ST SCHEDULED—ANNUAL INTER-SCHOLASTIC MEET HERE MAY 17TH.

Preparations for the opening of the track season began last Friday, when about fifty men responded to the call of Coach Keogan for track candidates. Practice started yesterday and judging from the material present, Allegheny will be able to resume the position she lost last year owing to war conditions.

The prospects for a good team seem to be promising and the men will have the chance to show their ability, as arrangements have been made with Washington and Jefferson for a meet here on May 10. A dual meet has been scheduled with Carnegie Tech to be held at Pittsburgh, on May 31.

The Annual Interscholastic meet, held under the auspices of Allegheny College at Montgomery Field, will be staged on May 17. At this meet are entered teams from about twenty-five first class High Schools of Pennsylvania, Ohio, and New York State. Gold, silver, and bronze medals are given to the individuals winning first, second and third place, and the High Schools winning first and second places receive suitable trophies. This event is one of great interest in the college year because of the closeness of the contests and the prospective Allegheny material which is represented in the contestants.

Burns spoke to the members about the Centenary movement with specific reference to the South American Problem. Rev. Burns gave a very careful analysis of the forces that are making their impression on the South American people, some for good, others for evil.

KLEE-O-KLEET.
Girls' Dramatic Organization to Put on Play.

Klee-o-Kleet, the Girls' Dramatic Club, has decided to present "Pomander Walk," by the well-known English dramatist, Louis N. Parker. This is a play of the early part of the nineteenth century. Its setting is quaint and unusual, the theme of the play is humorous with easy, natural characters ranking all the way from a baby to an old, portly sea admiral with only one eye. Of course, this includes a pretty charming girl and a breezy young naval lieutenant.

The club considers itself most fortunate in procuring Dr. Schultz to coach the play. Try-outs are to be held this week and the cast and date of the performance will be announced soon, as soon as Faculty approval has been secured.

Y. W. C. A.
Miss Richards, Field Student Secretary, Guest of the Association.

Miss Katharine L. Richards, Student Secretary from East Central Field, was the guest of the local Association from Wednesday, March 19th, until this Tuesday. This is the first visit of a secretary this year, and the girls were very glad to have the privilege of having Miss Richards with them.

Wednesday evening she led the Senior girls' World Fellowship Class, telling them of the Student Conference at Evanston, which was held in February. She also told them of the opportunities which are opening for women now. After the Fellowship Classes, she met with the class leaders, with whom she talked over the work.

Thursday evening she talked at a regular Association meeting, using as her theme the merchant who bought the pearl of great price. The application which she made to our life as college women went straight home to each one.

Friday afternoon, after a meeting with the Advisory Board she led a Freshman and Sophomore discussion group. After dinner the Juniors and Seniors group met in the lounge rooms.

The Sunday night meeting centered about the story of Zachaeus. The question was put up to each girl: Do people judge Jesus by me? Do they think He is exclusive, colorless, self centered, because I am?

Discussion groups were held on Monday to finish and bring to a point the discussions of Friday. Miss Richards left Tuesday for Margaret Morrison, Pittsburgh, Pa.

The girls feel that her visit has meant a lot to the work, and were very sorry to see her leave.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER BAND.

The Student Volunteer Band held its meeting in the Oratory at eight o'clock on last Wednesday evening. The speaker for the evening was Mrs. McMahon, who gave a very interesting talk on South America. Her husband is in the employ of the South American Development Company, at Ecuador. She herself had spent several months at Ecuador so that she was very well acquainted with the country. She spoke of the life and customs of the people in that section of South America thus giving the members of the Student Volunteer Band a very helpful talk. She also had a very interesting collection of relics and souvenirs that she displayed to the members of the band.

MISS ROWLEY INTRODUCES THE SENIOR WOMEN TO THE LADIES OF THE FACULTY AT FORMAL TEA.

Saturday afternoon, at a most delightful tea given by Miss Rowley in the Hulings Hall parlors, the women of the Senior Class were formally introduced to the faculty ladies.

The receiving line, with Miss Rowley at its head, greeted the guests. After the guests had all assembled, Miss Ruth Miller sang a very delightful series of songs. Miss Marie Francis played a number of selections, and Miss Miller sang again.

Mrs. Crawford and Mrs. Ling poured. The whole affair was most pleasant and enjoyed by all.

Special Dinners and Luncheons served on order at Tea Room.

Y. M. C. A. MOVIES.

The movies which were to be shown it aided greatly in breaking the mood did not prove to be as much of a success as they should have. This was due largely to the fact that trouble was experienced in the operation of the machine and it was impossible to show them. The picture which was to be shown was "The Pretender" in which William Esmond played the prominent part.

Great credit is due Louis Miller, '20, who led the singing, and to Mr. Carney, '21, the pianist, for taking the part in entertaining the audience as it aided greatly in breaking the monotony while waiting for the adjustment of the reel.

A PAGEANT AT HULINGS.

Under the direction of the Department of Rhythmic Expression, the women of Allegheny are planning a program for Friday evening, April 4, in Hulings Hall gymnasium. The first part of the program consists of regular class work under Miss Pittman's direction. Following will be some rhythms to modern poems chanted by Dr. Schultz. The girls and the Girls' Glee Club will present the Masque of Persephone. The members of the faculty, their wives, the girls of the college and a few town guests will be present.

FORUM.

The regular weekly meeting of the Philo-Franklin Forum was held in the room in Bentley Hall on Friday, March 21, at 4:30 P. M. Owing to an engagement of one of the speakers the debate was held previous to any other business. The debate was upon the subject, "Resolved, That the German Fleet Should Be Rendered Ineffective as a Fighting Force." Dwyer, '21, and Horne, '22, upheld the affirmative, while the negative was upheld by Barr, '19, and Eaton, '22. The Forum decided in favor of the affirmative.

After a brief summary of the debate by Dr. Swartley, the Forum took up the business of the day. After the roll call the election of officers was held. The following officers were elected: Hoover, '20, Speaker; Mossman, '20, Speaker pro-tem; Davies, '22, Secretary, and Dunkle, '22, Sergeant At Arms. After the election there was a parliamentary drill under the direction of Dr. Swartley.

It was decided that the subject for the next debate will be the same as is being used by the varsity in the Intercollegiate Teams. The question will be debated by men who are going out for the varsity and this gives them a good chance to become well acquainted with the question. The question to be debated is: "Resolved, That the United States Should Own and Operate Interstate Railroads." Hart, '20, and Neely, '22, will uphold the affirmative side of the question while Brown, '20, and Neigh, '22, will support the negative. It is to be hoped that all who are interested in the varsity question will come out to the Forum next week and arouse more interest in it. The practice in Parliamentary Proceedure is also helpful and well worthy of the time spent. Come and spend the most valuable hour of the week.

PUBLICATION MANAGERS.

The Kaldron and Campus Electoral Boards met last Thursday and elected D. E. Carnahan, '21, assistant manager of the Kaldron, and L. L. Campbell, '20, assistant manager of the Campus. These men will be Assistant Managers for the rest of this year and Managers next year of their respective publications. In this way they receive training for the positions which they are elected to fill.

The January number of the Phi Beta Kappa Key contains an article on President Crawford's Quarter-Centennial Celebration, by Dr. Wm. A. Elliott, the Secretary of this Chapter. The article consists of a brief survey of the history of Dr. Crawford's twenty-five years here, together with an account of the various features of the celebration.

Y. M. C. A. GET-TOGETHER

proved too much for him in the next two rounds. Officially the match was decided a draw since the terrible sissors hold was employed in gaining the victory; but there is not much question in the minds of the Frosh as to the winner.

Spike Croasman and Kid Parent went four spirited rounds for the championship of Cochran Hall. The men were pretty evenly matched and neither scored much of an advantage. Many admiring remarks were passed on the Kid's boxing form, (we wonder if he has been attending the dancing classes at Hullings), and Spike has been carrying around a peach of a "shiner" since the affair.

After the contest, the fellows were served with dough-nuts, cookies, and coffee. Every one was invited to enroll in the College Y. M. C. A. and many membership cards were filled out in the course of the evening.

Everyone voted the affair a success, and it is hoped that something along the same line can be held again. If nothing else it served to keep the fellows on the hill and for this reason it ought to receive the sanction of the faculty, since they have been striving for this for the past years.

The Y. M. C. A. held its regular meeting in the Ford Chapel, while the rooms in Cochran Hall are being repaired.

Dr. Bell opened his talk by saying, "This generation of men will not get any farther or higher in the way of morals and ideals than that reached during the past four years. The recent war has been so productive of good results that the moral and ideal nature of man has been elevated to a much higher plane than has been previously reached in a whole generation. We have grown more in understanding and ability to think under pressure, in one month, than normally in two or three years."

Dr. Bell went on to say that the men who are coming back from the war are new men. Men who are resurrected in their morals and ideals. "They are men who have been permitted to see farther into the future and know the fundamentals of life better than men of middle age. It seems that in a crisis a man is able to look right through the small and inconsequential things of life and see there the big heart and center of it. And we find that these men are just such men as you are."

He pointed out the influence which the war had had on men of the S. A. T. C. by saying, "It would be strange, indeed, then, if the men of the S. A. T. C. did not have something like it. For were they not preparing and anxious to go? And had they not dropped everything and seemingly given up all? And then to have it all fall through."

"Ideals must be made concrete if they are to endure. A man must give himself up to his ideals while he is young. An ideal must be seized before it fades. It is while a man is young that he must determine the enthusiasms which are to rule his life. We must grasp the ideals of the men who were in this war. Theirs are the ideals which are worth while. One must take them into politics and into business, or whatever his life work may be. That is why a man in college should fix his ideals and then strive to follow them."

Dr. Bell ended his talk with the final appeal, "Pick out the hard things in life and avoid the easy. It is the only way in which one may become a real man. So begin now to fix your ideals while they appeal the most strongly to you, and while you can get the most out of them."

Dr. Bell addressed the Chapel last Thursday morning. He gave a very interesting talk on Redemption and the maintaining of our present high standard of morals and ideals. He made his appeal in an earnest and heartfelt manner. No one who heard him could doubt that he was in earnest.
