

THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH—

Approximately a year ago today the Allegheny campus was thrown into a mild state of confusion by the announcement that tradition had been dealt a cruel blow with the appointment of two women as editors of the Campus. The men threw up their hands in horror, and even the women felt that precedent was more to be valued than the advancement of their own sex. Today the experiment comes to a close, and the editorial reins of the Campus are once again clutched firmly in masculine hands.

Whether or not this experiment has been a success, we shall never know—we are satisfied, in our own minds, at least, that we have published a paper as we promised—without bias or personal prejudice. Further than that, we cannot judge, for student opinion on our campus is in such a state that compliments are considered unorthodox, and constructive criticism is practically unheard of. Could it be that anti-publication sentiment is considered smart and fashionable?

We sincerely hope that the college students will, in the future, endeavor to make the Campus and all other publications an organ of their opinions and attitudes, rather than a target for their abusive epithets. Be it understood that we are not pleading a cause for ourselves—the "weaker" sex is such in name only—but we are doing it in the interest of our very able successor, Mr. Gibbs.

Mr. Gibbs, we hope, will have a staff as cooperative and capable as the one with which we have had the pleasure of working this year. To him, and to Mr. Brossman, Mr. Snead, Miss Van Ostrand, Miss Horner and the other members of our staff we extend a hearty vote of thanks. We have enjoyed our work and association with them and with our adviser, Mr. Seely.

IN EXPLANATION—

In connection with the action taken by the Allegheny undergraduate council on this year's class elections, we note with concern the dissatisfaction which seems to be running rampant among the student body. It is our belief that the opinions of many would be changed if they understood fully all of the factors which are involved. That the Allegheny Undergraduate Council has the power to control all class elections is a fact seemingly unknown. In the light of this, is it not logical that the council, composed of representatives—not of the Greek letter organizations, but of major activity groups on the campus—should be able to select competently a slate of officers?

Naturally, the council did not expect that action such as this would eliminate politics with one fell swoop, nor did they expect their plan to carry without opposition. But certainly they were not prepared for the barrage of verbal attacks such as those which greeted them at the sophomore election last week. It would appear to us that Alleghenians are not quite sure whether or not the automobile is here to stay—such is their reaction to any attempted change or reform.

In addition to taking a step toward the removal of politics, the council aimed at a recognition of merit by placing on the slate names which might have been omitted in the onslaught of fraternity coalitions. This purpose, we believe, was achieved.

LECTURE CHANGED

The fifth in the current series of business lectures with Joseph B. Eastman, chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission as speaker, which was scheduled for tomorrow night in the playshop, has been postponed until May 2, it was announced Monday. No lecture will be held tomorrow.

Next Thursday, March 28, Corwin Edwards, special deputy to the United States attorney general, will speak in the Playshop at 7:45 p. m., in another of the series.

BULLETIN

Dr. C. W. Skinner's condition was reported "unchanged" yesterday afternoon when City hospital authorities released a statement to the "Campus".

He has regained consciousness but complete recovery is held doubtful, said the report.

ANNE COOKE TO OFFER NEW TYPE OF PROGRAM

WRITTEN, SUGGESTED STAGED BY STUDENTS IN THIS NEW FIELD

New to Allegheny Campus and relatively new to the drama world is the program offering of the Association of American Colleges. Such a program will be presented this evening at eight o'clock under the direction of Miss Anne Cooke, a guest of the college this week. This program, along with a one-act play, is open to the public.

Concerning itself with Allegheny life, this program was written, suggested and staged by students in this new field. Prominent among the people participating are Jean Megahan, '41, Jean English, '40, Virginia Kiser, '42, Mary Lou Gingenbach, '40, Mary Ellen Reilly, '40, Marjorie Wible, '41, Nancy Caldwell, '43, John Donahay, '43, Elmer Baader, '42, Charles Liggett, '40, Edgar Wood, '40, Michael Enserro, '40, James Fox, '40, Henry Lavelly, '43, and Robert Schutt, '42. Faculty assisting in this production are Miss Virginia Boyd, Mr. John W. Hulburt and Mr. Delisle Crawford.

Grants Interview.

In an interview, Miss Cooke explained the main object of her visit to our campus. "It is my object to take part of the college groups and make them pick their own American scene and develop it through their own thought channels. The concert project of the Association of American Colleges had a program offering with lectures and musicians (continued on page 4)

Political Science 10 Class Visits Washington

"The National Government at Work" will be studied at close range when the Political Science 10 class visits Washington, D. C., next week.

Under the direction of Mr. Paul H. Giddens, sixteen Allegheny students will spend part of Easter recess in the nation's capital. Arriving March 26, the group will stay until March 30. Mr. Paul B. Cares, history instructor, also will accompany the class.

Arriving in the late afternoon, the group will spend the first evening visiting the Lincoln Memorial and the Library of Congress. During the rest of the stay the evenings will be free while the days will be spent in studying the government according to plans, partially completed now, arranged by Mr. Giddens.

Larger Building.

The first full day will be spent in visiting the largest government building in the world, the Department of Interior offices. Following an interview with J. Edgar Hoover and a visit through the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the group will attend a congressional committee hearing.

After being received by Thomas E. Waggaman, Marshall of the U. S. Supreme court, the students will view the opening ceremonies of the court (continued on page 4)

The President and Vice-President will assume A. U. C. seats after spring recess, President Charles Miller announced.

LEAP WEEK TO OPEN MARCH 31. END APRIL 6

WEEK TO END WITH ANNUAL PAN-HELLENIC DANCE AT BALIZET'S

The annual "tables turned" event, Leap Week, will begin on Sunday, March 31, and will last through Saturday, April 6, announced Margaret Feagan, '41, chairman of the committee in charge of the week's program. The other members of the committee are Edo Euwer and Virginia Viets, both of '42.

For seven days the men and women on the campus change places. The women not only ask for dates, but they act as escorts and pay their way. Women are to call for the men, but they need not take them home. All the Allegheny co-eds are asked to put on their best cavalier manners and see if they can live up to their standards of a gentleman.

The week will by no means be a quiet one. Tuesday and Thursday nights may be celebrated by attending the listening hours in the oratory. Wednesday night four short French films will be shown in the Playshop for holders of the membership cards. Friday night entertainment can be found at the Lhevinne concert. If Mother Nature will be kind, picnics and bushels of fun can be in order. Then if you are running out of ideas, why not escort your date out for breakfast?

Dance Scheduled.

Leap Week ends with one of the biggest dances of the year. This year the Pan-Hellenic dance will replace the customary Leap Week one. Plans for the event are not yet completed, but a (continued on page 4)

HENRY G. ALSBERG TO VISIT CAMPUS FOR THREE DAYS

Henry G. Alsberg, journalist, dramatic director and author, will visit the campus for three days beginning April 15. He will be the Chapel speaker on the fifteenth and on the same evening will give a lecture on the subject of "Literature and the Contemporary Scene". He will also be available for small group and individual conferences.

Mr. Alsberg has had unusual experience and will be able to give practical advice to those who are interested in writing. He is sent to Allegheny by the Association of American Colleges. Only six or eight colleges will have the opportunity of hearing Mr. Alsberg as his time is limited.

Miller President of Philo-Franklin Union

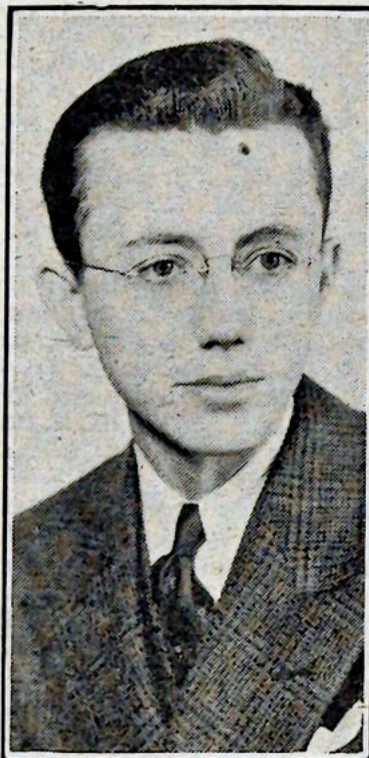

Richard Miller, '41, was elected president of Philo-Franklin union, forensic organization, in meeting of the organization Monday night in the speech library. Mr. Miller succeeds James Gettamy, '41, to that office.

Nancy Martin, '41, was named secretary, and Mary Brock, '41, was elected to the treasurer's post. Robert Oberlin, '41, was reappointed to take charge of the series of Philo-Franklin programs that will be presented again monthly next year.

The group also discussed plans for celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the union this year. Next meeting will concern itself with the election of new members.

SUBJECTS FOR PLANKS NAMED AT MEETING

FACULTY MEMBERS TO SUB-COMMITTEES WILL ACT AS ADVISORS

Platform planks for the Mock convention scheduled on Allegheny's campus May 7 to May 10, were put under discussion with a meeting of the platform committee last Sunday.

Chairmen of the state delegations sent one representative to act on this committee. Subjects for the planks include foreign policies, government in business, labor, taxation, relief, housing and public health, tariff, civil service and national defense and the territories.

Faculty Aid.

Faculty members will act as advisors and consultants to the sub-committees delegated to formulate the planks for the platform. Consultant for tariff and labor is Mr. Joseph Fisher while L. J. Long will advise the groups on taxation and finance, agriculture and government in business. Relief, housing and public health goes to Mr. L. D. McClean and Mr. Paul H. Giddens will help in planks concerning territories, foreign policies and civil service. Mr. Giddens stressed that these faculty representatives were in no way attempting to dictate policies but merely were there for consultation purposes.

Megahan Head.

Student head for all resolutions to be drawn is Jack Megahan, '40. The entire platform committee, under him, will set up the resolutions at the suggestions of each sub-committee. These resolutions will be put to a vote before the student delegates at convention time.

Chairmen for the various issues will meet with their groups several times immediately after Easter recess. The bulletin board outside Mr. Giddens' office in Arter hall and the Campus will give further information for these meetings.

Gordon Watson, '40, has been appointed chairman of the committee on Tariff. Working with him are Robert Galbreath, '41, Charles Miller, '40, Arthur Nichols, '41, and Joseph Nasta, '42. The Labor committee is headed by Robert Hoover, '41. His co-workers include Alan Brandt, '41, Richard Caldwell, '42, Julius Raskin, '42, and Robert Schutt, '41.

Issues on Taxation and Finance will be formulated in Arthur Diskin's, '42, group. The committee includes Richard Taylor, '41, James Fox, '41, Georgia Seitz, '41, and Edward Robinson, '40.

New Staff Will Begin To Function After Easter Vacation

Brossman Chosen to Fill New Position of Managing Editor; Staff Tentative

Howard Glen Gibbs, '41, was named editor of The Campus yesterday to succeed women co-editors Miriam Fay and Elinor Kistler, both of the senior class.

Mr. Gibbs is a member of Kappa Phi Kappa, honorary men's educational fraternity, a member of Allegheny Christian council, and has served as make-up editor, assistant news editor, and associate editor of this paper.

New Post Made.

The position of managing editor has been created this year. W. Robert Brossman, '42, has been appointed to this post.

Mr. Brossman is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity and is secretary of that group. He is a member of M.U.C., and served last year as news editor of the Campus.

The new editor was chosen by the incumbent editors, in conjunction with the faculty advisor, Mr. Frederick F. Seely, and President William P. Tolley.

Other members of the staff are Cynthia Logan, '43, feature editor, and Richard Madtes, '43, news editor.

Mr. Gibbs' appointment brings to a close the colorful reign of co-editors Fay and Kistler, the first twin women editors the 64 year old paper has seen. To them went the privilege of guiding the publication during the 125th Anniversary year.

Staff Tentative.

The new editor made it known that the staff which will finish out the year is a purely tentative one, and is subject to change at any time. He also voiced a plea for more active student aid in issuing the paper. "There is a need for more students who wish to write and for others to assist in the make-up department," Mr. Gibbs stated. Opportunity for tryouts will be given after Easter, he added.

An appeal for closer cooperation from students and campus organizations was also made by Mr. Gibbs, who said that "some of the errors and omissions that have occurred in the past could have been prevented by closer relations between these groups and the paper."

The new staff will begin to function with the first issue of the Campus after Easter recess.

SENIOR BANQUET WILL BE APRIL 6

Mr. Mort Graham, Erie attorney, will speak at the banquet if the senior class to be held Saturday, April 6, in Cochran hall at 6:00 p. m. Dress will be formal.

John Megahan, '40, will act as toastmaster. A short student program is also planned.

Edgar S. Wood, head of the committee in charge of arrangements for the banquet, voiced a plea for student support of the dinner since "It is to be the last function of its nature to be held by the class."

Persons planning to attend the banquet are urged to inform special members of the committee, Betty Spring, Cora Kraus, Edgar Wood, or Charles Miller, before the Easter recess. Other members of the committee are Wayne Knight, Madeline Karlitsky, and John Topper.

Persons interested in working on The Campus make-up staff are asked to contact the new editor.

All library books are due March 20, the Wednesday before vacation begins. Books may be reserved for Easter vacation, from 9:00 a. m., March 14, and may be withdrawn March 21, Thursday. All books must be returned April 1—Reserve books by 9:00 a. m., stack books, anytime during the day.

EASTER VESPER SERVICE WAS HELD IN FORD CHAPEL

Approximately two hundred students and townspeople attended the annual Easter vesper service held by Allegheny Christian Council in Ford chapel Sunday afternoon.

Singers, under the direction of Mr. Morten J. Luvaas, presented three groups of hymns during the program. Among them were: Halleluia to the Lord, Christiansen, Cherubim Song, Glinka, Kingdom of God, Christiansen, Beautiful Saviour, Gladstone Radiance, Gretchaninoff, and Praise to the Lord, Christiansen.

James Gettemy, '41, read the invocation and presented the Easter message. He chose as his subject Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem. "No principle can ever be attained by abandoning it temporarily," he pointed out, applying the theme to Christ's refusal to lay aside his principle of love for force and worldly power.

Letters to the Editor

The Editors:

This letter is provoked by the over-zealous activity of the A.U.C. on the behalf of the present Sophomore class and rests upon a single authority, the writer.

We, the class of '42, were branded juvenile our Freshman year for attempting to disrupt the long-established "coalition system" by a fraternity-sorority-independent council to operate as an executive body.

I'm not very proud of our lack of backbone. We should have walked out on the recent (and only) class meeting this year. The A.U.C. not only kindly attended the meeting, giving us a presiding officer superceding our non-functional president, but had the affrontery of suggesting, in no uncertain terms, that we adopt a closed slate, formed entirely without sophomore representation, from which to select our executive body. Speaking of juvenility!

My opposition rests solely upon principle. Ideally, the A.U.C.'s plan has some merit. But the method in which it was presented and the obvious futility of forcing a selection from an unknown group of our class is certainly below A.U.C. standards. We probably have our quota of sheep, but further action of this sort will meet with more violent opposition, I assure you.

May I publicize a phrase so aptly coined by Mr. Michel, '42: "A college campus is no place for a Hitler election."

Walter Morris, '42.

CARRAVACCI NEW CLASS PRESIDENT

Hector Caravacci was elected president of next year's junior class in a meeting of the class last Tuesday afternoon in Ford chapel. Mr. Caravacci succeeds Robert Welday as president of the class.

Nancy Martin was named vice-president, Richard Graft, secretary, and Jean Chamberlain, treasurer. The retiring officers, in addition to Mr. Welday, are Richard Lewellyn, secretary, Katherine Hill, vice-president, and Robert Brossman, treasurer.

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

The library schedule for the Easter recess will be affected by construction and repairs. Those planning to work on comprehensives should note that the library will be closed from March 27 to April 1. From March 21-26, except Saturday afternoon and Sunday, the library will be open from 9:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. Students requiring additional time should consult the librarian.

Any student artist who wishes to submit a cover design for the 125th anniversary issue of the Literary Magazine, has until May 1 to submit his entry to R. F. Miner at the Phi Delta Theta House. The design is to be made for exact reproduction on a linoleum block, 4 1/2 x 6 3/8 inches. The entrant has only to submit the design; the block will be cut for him.

H. V. Procknow, of the 1st National Bank, Chicago, will be the speaker the first Thursday after the Easter recess, April 4, in the Playshop.

Tonight's Playshop performance is open to students.

"What Shall I Wear?" New Spring Question

According to the poet, in the spring the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love; but the more prosaic members of the male sex scorn love, girls and such "rot" in preference for the Great American Game. Yes, the little ladies must yield their place of prime importance in the hearts and minds of men to Carl Hubbel, Joe Di Maggio, Bill Dickey, and such.

There are also many struggling souls who lie awake at night trying to decide which is the more important. Like Helen O'Connell and her "rubber" dolly: Is it love or is it baseball or love? But young gals find themselves in no such predicament. Their thoughts of one accord turn to spring fashions. Suzy, Talbot and Schiaparelli are the "men" of the hour. The spring editions of our leading fashion magazines are inflated to twice their usual size. Women buy them avidly and devour each page. Shall my suit jacket be long or short? Does a low, girdled waistline suit me? Is the new milk chocolate brown a flattering shade for me?

But these are comparatively simple although the snow is still on the ground is, "What about my hat?" I think women give more thought and consideration to their hats than any other article of clothing with which they adorn or attempt to adorn themselves.

A hat is such an important part of a woman's ensemble. It can be her crowning glory or mmake her a grotesque caricature. It all depends on the woman and the hat she chooses.

Men always derive a great deal of fiendish enjoyment from woman's hats. Whenever mentioned a woman's hat will bring a smile—or is it a smirk—to the face of the superior male. But this situation is again due to the woman's choice. A hat that is frankly and hideously unbecoming rightfully deserves this, however cutting criticism.

Though we may deny it again and again, the fact remains women do dress for men. Perhaps that is reason we give so much thought to our spring hats. There is no denying it, a man may scoff at a silly little bunch of flowers, but he really enjoys the femininity of it if he finds itself perched atop the curls of the girl who looks as if she should be wearing just that hat.

So we find ourselves every spring pouring over the latest style notes, looking through the hat shops, trying on sailors, turbans, pillboxes, bretons, skull caps with an adornment of flowers or a bit of veil, toppers, baby bonnets—everything that the imaginative creators of women's hats can conceive, all in the quest of just the right hat. Finally, we find it, tucked away in some corner, in the window of a shop—that's the thrill of it, you never know where you will find it. And with our new little spring hat perched on our head we step out, ready to conquer the world.

Just as men take delight in predicting the winning baseball teams are in dating the girl of his dreams we young things feel the real joie de vivre when we find our new spring hat.

FORUMS WILL BE IMPORTANT IN PROGRAM

Professional forums will occupy an important place in the program commemorating the 125th anniversary of Allegheny here this June.

With plans for the four-day celebration, June 6 to 10, rapidly taking shape, Professor Philip M. Benjamin, general chairman of the anniversary committee, said today that one of the outstanding features would be panel discussions on the general subjects of medicine, law and business, and press and radio.

Prominent Allegheny alumni will preside as chairmen of the forums, scheduled for Friday, June 7.

Heading the medical forum will be Dr. Charles S. Burwell, dean of the Harvard Medical School. John W. Kephart, recently retired chief justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, will lead the law and business forum, and William P. Beazell, former managing editor of the New York World and now executive director of the New York Citizens' Committee on the Control of Crime, will preside at the press and radio forum.

Professor Hurst R. Anderson of the Allegheny speech department and chairman of the committee in charge of the discussions, said the panels of speakers now are being organized. All of the speakers will be Allegheny alumni who have distinguished themselves in their respective professions.

KAPPA PHI KAPPA HAS INITIATION

Kappa Phi Kappa, honorary men's educational fraternity, initiated six undergraduates and two graduate students Monday night in the Ruter Hall chapter room.

Those initiated included James Fox, '40, Robert Hoover, '41, Gordon Petrie, '41, Edwin Spofford, '40, Charles R. Stone, '42, Edgar Gasteiger, '42, graduate students Gerald Acker and Willard Hancock.

Plans were completed for the Founder's day banquet scheduled for April 18. It was announced by Mr. F. G. Henke, faculty adviser, that President Robert Steele of California State Teacher's College would speak. Kappa Delta Epsilon, women's educational fraternity, will join in the banquet.

BASKETBALL IN FINAL STAGE—

After being bandied about for last few weeks the Greek cage tourney schedule is now on its last lap.

No more matches are charted until after the Easter lay-off. On Tuesday, April 2, Delta Tau Delta will engage Phi Gamma Delta at 7 p. m. Following this encounter, the Phi Delta Theta club will meet Phi Kappa Psi at 8 p. m.

The following evening, Wednesday, April 3, Alpha Chi Rho and Phi Delta Theta are dated for 7 p. m., while at 8 p. m. Delta Tau Delta and Phi Kappa Psi will see action.

ANOTHER DELAY?—

The possibility of Leap Week's fair head being raised on both of the above evenings is a factor that must be cogitated. Reports from the front offices of Montgomery Muscle-Building Institute put the hooks to any such occurrence. These authoritative remarks have it that when fraternal honor is at stake, social life must remain in a state of coma.

DELTA TAU DELTA NO. 1—

In the first place in the basketball soiree, the DTD's five win, no loss record is secure until at least April 2. On that date they play the Phi Gams, and on the following night the Phi Psis.

A loss of either one of these games may throw the Deltas into a tie, or even out of the money, so both matches will be plenty hot.

NEW MATCHES ARE ADDED TO TENNIS CARD

Oberlin and Duquesne Are New Additions to Twelve Match Schedule

Allegheny tennis enthusiasts will soon begin indoor training for an extensive schedule that begins on May 1.

Joseph L. Fisher, of the economics department, will serve as coach of this year's squad. Many standout players of past seasons will comprise the team. Among these men are Bill McEwen, John Topper, Art Gratz, Bob McVey, Roger Flint, Hector Carravacci, Bruce Harper, and Glen Loveday.

Montgomery gym will be the scene of training activities until the weather permits use of the outdoor courts.

Several changes have been made on the already printed schedule for the tennis season. These include a match with Oberlin at home on May 3. The Pitt meet has been moved up to May 9, and a match with Duquesne scheduled for May 14.

The schedule is as follows:
May 1—U. of Buffalo at home.
May 3—Oberlin at home.
May 4—Carnegie Tech at home.
May 7—Slippery Rock at Slippery Rock.

May 9—U. of Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.

May 11—Grove City at Meadville.

May 14—Duquesne at Meadville.

May 16—Mount Union at Meadville.

May 18—Western Reserve University at Cleveland.

May 21—Westminster at New Wilmington.

May 23—Geneva at Meadville.

May 25—Grove City at Grove City.

MIXED DOUBLES IN BADMINTON ARE UNDERWAY

The All-College badminton tournament, in which many of the first round matches have yet to be played, has created a great deal of interest on the campus.

There is a large entry of these mixed teams, and they are arranged in alphabetical order.

Establishing themselves as early favorites, the team of H. P. Way and Ginny Boyd easily defeated Dick Taylor and Phyl Black, 2-0. Other teams to advance, all winning by 2-0 scores were Spears and Shaffer, Barner and Strock, Cardoza and Sheasley, Randall and Fauver, Lichtenfels and Seitz, McClusky and Williams, McKnight and Kiser, Waldsmicht and Zema.

ALLEGHENY IS RUNNER-UP IN GIRLS TOURNEY

Slippery Rock Host To Eight Schools in Basketball Play Day

A team of girls representing Allegheny finished as the runnerups in a tournament held at Slippery Rock State Teachers' College last Thursday, March 14. The team representing Edinboro was the winner.

Members of the Allegheny team were Bettymae McComb, '43, Betty Pidgeon, '42, Phyllis Black, '42, Ruth Godley, '42, Mary Graf, '40, and Mary Jane Stewart, '40. Virginia Kiser, '42, an original member of the team, sprained her ankle and was unable to make the trip.

Allegheny played four games that afternoon. They defeated Slippery Rock, 13-8, Westminster, 13-10, Lockhaven, 6-4, an dlost to Edinboro, 7-1, in the final.

Meet Difficulty.

Considering the difficulties which confronted them, the Allegheny girls did remarkably well. Besides the handicap of the girls never having played together, they entered with only one experienced guard, Nell Hervey. All the rest were forwards.

Each game lasted twenty minutes, and that included timeouts. There were three floors in action at the same time. Other participants in the tournament were Edinboro, Geneva, Slippery Rock, Carnegie Tech, California, Lockhaven, Grove City and Westminster.

After the tournament there was a banquet, with the basketball theme being used throughout. A trophy of Easter goodies was given to the winner. Later our team was taken through the women's dorms. On the trip back Hilda May, the chatterbox college station wagon showed Edinboro's bus her dust.

FALOON IS BLOCK 'A' HEAD

William Faloan, '41, was elected president of Block A club, succeeding Arthur Gratz, '40, in a meeting of the organization last Tuesday evening in Cochran hall.

Clark Saylor, '41, succeeds Alex Hart, '40, as vice-president, and George Evert, '41, supplants Edward Robinson, '40, as secretary treasurer. The new officers will take their positions after Easter.

The club decided to donate money to the college towards the purchase of a public address system to be used at football games, basketball contests, and track meets.

BADMINTON TOURNAMENT.

The second round of this mixed doubles tournament must be played off by Thursday.

BLOCK A CLUB HOLDS BANQUET

James Hagan, director of athletics at the University of Pittsburgh, and Richard Cassiano, celebrated Pitt football player, were the principal speakers at the Block A banquet held in Cochran hall last night.

Dean John R. Schultz served as toastmaster and introduced the speakers. The banquet was attended by members of the club, those who have won varsity letters in intercollegiate competition.

Among the guests were the faculty committee on athletics, the Messers. Horace T. Lavery, Benjamin R. Beisel, Howard P. Way, Louis J. Long, and Karl J. Lawrence, Johnny Johnston, sports editor of the Meadville Tribune-Republican, and Karl Smock.

Funds to hold the banquet were raised from members' dues and from the recent and successful "Varsity Day" sponsored by the group.

Good Publicity for Dartmouth—

Allegheny would do well to get themselves a good indoor track, even if they don't have any runners to put on it. They might get themselves some athletic publicity — much more than even their basketball team gave them.

Dartmouth has done a pretty good job of it. They built themselves a large 6 2-3 laps-to-the-mile cinder track and later decided to cover it with thick pine planks. What resulted was as unexpected as it was amazing. They discovered that they have the fastest indoor track ever built. This discovery has paid big dividends in publicity, because now little Hanover, N. H., is one of the centers of the track world.

Little Hanover had its biggest night last Wednesday. They staged a meet in which there were more new world indoor marks produced than in any indoor meet in track history. No less than 8 new world records were made in five races! And not one was created by a Dartmouth runner!

Jimmy Herbert, N.Y.U. senior, hit 48.4 in the 440 and 47.9 in the 400 meters en route. Long John Woodruff, former Pitt wonderboy, blazed out with an amazing 1:47 in the 880 and a 1:47.0 in the 800 meter.

The only man ever to run faster was Rudolph Harbig of Germany who did 1:46.6 outdoors at Milan, Italy, last summer. Those marks make the school 880 record of 2:02.6 look pretty puny.

PAUL DOUGLAS GIVES WARNING TO ECONOMICS

Pleads for Return To Competitive Basis Of Nation's Business

Straightforward pleas that "business get back on a competitive basis," that price monopoly be uprooted, that the social security system be strengthened and enlarged—these were effectively voiced here last Thursday night by Paul Douglas, University of Chicago professor of economics, delivering the fourth in the series of lectures in Business Problems.

"We need some system to put people back to work," he said simply. "The salvation of the capitalistic system and the democratic form of government depends upon business getting back on a competitive basis."

"Unless this is done, we are in for very rough times. I fear for the future if we have to go through another ten years like the last. I don't think our economic structure would be able to stand the strain."

Social Security.

In line with his topic of social security he added: "If there are rough times ahead, ordinary social security may prove grossly inadequate."

The chief responsibility for the precarious position of national economy rests in the monopoly of prices, he declared.

An exceptionally entertaining and fluent speaker, Professor Douglas had much more than sober warnings for the stimulated audience in the Playshop. He gave an enlightening description of the workings of social security in the United States and of some of the fundamental purposes that went into the drafting of social security legislation several years ago by the federal government.

Speaks as Authority.

Having served on the advisory board responsible for the construction of the social security plan, and important amendments to the social security act, he spoke with authority. He expressed a sincere belief in the policy of social security.

Going into the immediate history of what led to social security legislation, Professor Douglas described how the economic collapse of 10 years ago found this country unprepared. He traced through the desperate years until 1933, when national measures were started, and there was a "political honeymoon for a year."

Once the federal government took the lead, state governments were prompt to follow, all states immediately passing unemployment insurance laws.

State unemployment insurance laws were designed to be financially solid, he said. But they went so far in this direction that they moved toward a new danger in steadily accumulating reserves.

"We have the ludicrous spectacle," said Professor Douglas, "of reserves accumulating in bad times as well as good times." This is contrary to the theory that in lean years more funds should be paid out than are taken in. "In effect," he said, "this is merely an intensification of the depression."

Either unemployment taxes should be decreased or benefits liberalized, according to Professor Douglas; and his personal recommendation was the latter. He suggested that the duration of unemployment compensation payment be extended from 15 to 20 weeks, and that the one-to-six ratio, concerning relation of payment to previous income be lessened.

Allegheny carries on in spite of the fact that "spring has not yet arrived". The lads and lassies of "Ye Alma Mater" are still traversing back and forth among the various fraternity houses.

Kappa Kappa Gamma.

On Monday, March 18, the sophomores of Kappa Kappa Gamma gave a dinner for the Junior and Senior members of the chapter in the sorority rooms.

Theta Upsilon.

Theta Upsilon had installation of officers at a supper meeting Monday. —Frances Batchelor, '39, was a week-end guest.

Alpha Gamma Delta.

The sophomore class of Alpha Gamma Delta entertained the upper class members at a steak dinner Sunday. The theme of the party was in honor of St. Patrick's day.

Week-end guests were: Jean Brachen, Marian Ramsey, and Margaret Richardson, all of '39.

Phi Kappa Psi.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Phi Kappa Psi entertained at a dinner for the chapter on Tuesday, March 12.

Miss Blair Hanson was a dinner guest of Phi Kappa Psi last Thursday.

Phi Gamma Delta.

Ahoy! A sail! A sail! was the familiar cry of those present at the annual chapter party of Phi Gamma Delta last Saturday. The house represented an island resplendent with bananas and coconuts, on which were the passengers and crew of the shipwrecked S. S. Fiji. Continuing the South Sea spirit, was music by the Towne Club. Guests were: William Mays, '42, Robert Spears, '42, Gordon Petrie, '41, Mullet Williams, '43, Henry Jacobus, '42, and Robert Bailey, '43. Saturday a radio party was the evening's diversion at Phi Delta Theta. Mr. John Hulburt and Miss Virginia Boyd were chaperones.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Right up to the minute was the annual Sigma Alpha Epsilon chapter party last Saturday which was appropriately called a "Confucius" party. The house was decorated in true Chinese fashion with tapestries and chains of bright colored lanterns. Favors were also in-keeping with the Chinese spirit, being fans, lanterns, and coolie hats. Frank Fornear and his New Alleghenians furnished music, and chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Crawford. Also present at the party were the members of Delta Tau Delta and Alpha Chi Rho.

Week-end guests of Sigma Alpha Epsilon were Al Hoagland, '39, James Boyce and Jack Major, ex-'39.

Alpha Chi Rho.

Week-end guests of Alpha Chi Rho were: Karl Thiele, ex-'40, and Edward Warren.

Anne Cooke Offers New Type of Program

(continued from page 1) where the faculty artist visitors did the performing, thus giving the student no opportunity to participate. They thought the drama was the basic means whereby they could correlate music, pantomime, the spoken word and dance." Thus Miss Cooke has attempted in many colleges to interest the student in individual work in writing, staging and performing in works of their own imagination.

Is Chapel Speaker.

Miss Cooke in speaking before the Chapel group on Monday summed up the usual place of fine arts on the campus. "Specialization comes out of the feeling to participate," said Miss Cooke. "Special gift and ability that fine arts have, come under the academic hammer and departmentalization, which leads to two things, one keeps fine arts in an ivory tower while the other precludes or prohibits wide spread participation in creative processes and thereby compels the majority to be silent observers. What happens to these fine arts is influenced by the American attitude."

Miss Cooke is the director of dramatics at Spelman College and also the summer theatre at Atlanta University. After leaving Allegheny she will return to Yale University where she is working for her Ph.D. degree.

Annual Leap Week After Easter Recess

On Friday afternoon a novelty Leap Week tea dance will be sponsored by the committee.

"This is the girl's opportunity to ask her man of the hour. Don't be afraid of being aggressive—this is your one chance of the year," said a committee spokesman.

Mimeographed listed rules were handed out in chapel today. Take them seriously and really make it a go. It's fun and everybody will be doing it.

In speaking of the forthcoming event, Margaret Feagan said, "If everyone enters into the spirit of Leap Week, a wonderful time will be had by all. Come on girls! Here's your chance to date your favorite S. P."

Political Science 10 Visits Washington

In addition to seeing the House of Representatives in action, meetings with Congressmen Robert L. Rogers, Robert J. Corbett, and Joseph M. Martin have been scheduled. Senators J. J. Davis, Arthur Vandenberg and Robert Taft will be interviewed.

Senate Visit.

The next day will include trips through the Union station and the government printing office before meeting Senator J. F. Guffey and attending the opening of the Senate. In a visit to the Republican Headquarters, John M. Hamilton will speak to the group while later lobbying will be discussed by Frederick J. Lehler when the offices of the National Council for the Prevention of War are visited.

With the exception of a conference with the director-general of the Pan-American Union, most of the third day will be given over to sightseeing. The White House, Washington Monument, Mt. Vernon, Alexandria, Arlington, and Annapolis will be viewed.

Last Day.

Before leaving Washington, the assemblage will spend some time at the Smithsonian Institute, the Corcoran Art Gallery, the Folger Shakespearean library, and the U. S. Navy ward.
