

JUNE FIRST HOBBY CONTEST DEADLINE

Special Awards for Outstanding Entrees in Campus Photography

Students Still Urged To Enter Hobby Contest Faculty Among Judges

The deadline for acceptance of entries to the Hobby contest has been extended to June 1st to care for late exhibits, it was announced today. The contest, sponsored by Mr. A. W. Robertson, president of the board of trustees, offers prizes to the extent of $325. A special prize for photographs of the campus during this period will be awarded, it was stated.

The senior libraries are to be exhibited along with the hobby exhibits. The display is in the proposed Thompson Treasure room.

The contest covers any field of recreational work. Among the entries already submitted, photographs seem to be the most popular, Charles Bayliss, '41, Leroy Schneck, '41, George Cardozo, '42, all having entered work in that field.

James Moffat, '42, and John Krimmel, '40, both entered mineral exhibits. Dorothy Jane Konstanzer, '42, has her metal work entered, Howard Gibbs, '41, a money collection, Marion Ramsey, '39, clothes, Robert Brossman, '42, a display of his printed matter, David Beighley, '40, an art display.

Jim Schultz, '41, submitted an autograph collection, Thomas Cort, '41, stamps, Gail Burkett, '41, pastels, Betty Pidgeon, '42, leather and bead work, and the Outing club has entered a unique jug.

PROFS. CHEVRET, DARLING HONORED AT BANQUET

Allegheny's faculty will have their annual banquet May 18 at Cochran hall, honoring Professors Antoinette Chevret and Chester Arthur Darling.

Professor Chevret will retire at the end of the current school year, and the banquet is a testimonial dinner in her honor. Miss Chevret came to Allegheny in 1919 and served on the faculty both as instructor and assistant professor prior to receiving the associate professorship she now holds.

Dr. Darling will also be recognized in commemoration of his 25 years of service at Allegheny. Coming to Allegheny in 1913, Dr. Darling has acted as Professor of Biology and Geology and is now Curator of the Museum.

Before coming to Allegheny, Professor Darling was Professor of Biology at Defiance college and assistant and tutor in Botany at Columbia university. Dr. Darling is now president of the Allegheny chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Co-eds Do Differ---Disapproving Accusation to the Contrary

"College students are all alike." "Talk to one co-ed and you've talked to them all." "They're all of the same pattern," are but a few of remarks hurled at the young college women today as they try to protect their own rights.

Allegheny is, of course, the outstanding example by which we may survey the question; therefore the Allegheny women students will stand before the footlights for a survey.

The friendliness that is evident on the Allegheny campus is genuine in all of the students here. The atmosphere doesn't encourage the breeding of snobs. The coeds join one hundred per cent in cultivating friendships. Congeniality is a subconscious motto. On a whole the girls are well-groomed. (Undoubtedly one of the most important factors is that Allegheny is a coed institution.)

For those few points the observer's remarks are proved to be true, but even the latter remark has a few exceptions.

All co-eds don't wear saddle shoes. In fact, there are some girls at Allegheny who have never owned a pair of saddle oxfords. There are a "thousand and one" kinds of hair-styles. There are those who are fickle and there are those who take their love seriously and prefer to go steady. Some are slender and some are otherwise. Each woman student has her

LAST PLAY OF SEASON GIVEN BY PLAYSHOP

"A Murder Has Been Arranged" Proves a Successful Novelty

Capacity audiences greeted the Playshop's final performance of the season, Emlyn Williams' A Murder Has Been Arranged, presented Wednesday and Thursday evenings, and Saturday afternoon.

Superb rating goes to the excellent acting and perfect lighting. Edgar Wood, '40, adds another success to his lengthy list as Maurice Mullins.

Elizabeth Gotschall, '39, imbued all the style possible into her character of Miss Groze.

Orchids to Georgetta Weltner, '39, for her splendid portrayal of the cockney Mrs. Wraggs. Miss Spaulding stated, "We're sorry we're losing Georgetta. She's such a versatile actress."

Perfectly suited to her talents, Phyllis Freeland, '39, performed the role of Mrs. Arthur with finesse.

John Megahan, '40, played a thoroughly different role in that he was a character of his own age, that of James North.

Richard Miller, '41, in the role of Sir Charles Jasper, made an excellent ghost and fitted the role of Sir Charles perfectly.

Martha Keefe, '39, ends her Playshop career as the ingenue wife of Sir Charles, Lady Beatrice Jasper.

Robert Appleyard, '40, in his debut as the orchestra leader, Cavendish, drew many laughs for his excellent timing of music.

June Sieberg, '39, as the dumb woman, horrified the audience upon her entrance and kept her audience in a (continued on page 4)

1940 KALDRON PLANS UNDER WAY

"The 1940 Kaldron will be a bigger and better yearbook, replete with novel features and new departments," were the prophetic words of incoming editor, Leroy Schneck, '41. Mr. Schneck emphasized that tradition will be dispersed with to make way for a more interesting book.

Although all plans are still in the embryonic stage, it was announced that the theme of the Kaldron will carry out the Allegheny anniversary motif. Next year being the 125th year since Martin Ruter came to Meadville to establish the college, the emphasis in the book will be on Allegheny history and tradition.

It was also announced that the make-up of the Kaldron would be changed to care for a nine inch by twelve inch page which will replace the former eight by ten size.

No staff has been appointed to assist Mr. Schneck and positions on the staff will be vacant until next year.

NEW A.U.C. OFFICERS HOLD FIRST MEETING

MILLER APPOINTS NEW COMMITTEES AT FIRST MEETING

In the first meeting of the new A.U.C. with President Charles Miller, '40, in the chair, the body filled a busy session with the appointments of various advisory committees. In a previous gathering the members elected Edgar Wood, '40, vice-president, Barbara Johnston, '40, secretary, and James Gettamy, '41, treasurer.

After the constitution and by-laws of the body had been read for the edification of the new members, the council proceeded to the important business of naming the standing committees which will concern themselves with finances, chapel programs, and social events.

The finance committee was instructed to draw up a tentative budget for the approval of the council. It was also stipulated that the members would see Treasurer Dana B. Reid and ascertain the amount of money available for next year's activities. Those comprising the finance committee are James Gettamy, '41, Katherine Gelbach, '40, and William Mohnney, '40.

Walter Maloney, '40, Miriam Fay, '40, and Ruth Allen Blake, '41, are to consult Dr. Irwin Ross Beller and Forrest Foster, '39, as to chapel arrangements for the remainder of the year. A.U.C. is responsible for all Friday chapel programs.

Edgar Wood, '40, George Evert, '41, and Margery Wible, '41, constitute the social calendar committee, and Art Gratz, '40, Betty Spring, '40, and Barbara Johnston, '40, make up the social committee. The functions of the two groups will be to supervise and arrange the scheduling and disbursement of funds for all social activities within their jurisdiction.

RUSHING PLAN REJECTED BY MEN'S BODY

Proposed Changes for Next Year Defeated at Tuesday Meeting by Unanimous Vote

Proposed rushing rules for the coming year were presented to the Men's Undergraduate council yesterday, and were unanimously rejected by vote of the body.

Harry McCurdy, '40, was chairman of the committee which drew them up. Other members were Charles Miller, '40, and Richard Taylor, '41.

Two major changes would have been effected by this plan, the first designed to eliminate the confusion which exists in front of Cadfish hall on the noon that rushing starts. The change permits no more than five men from each fraternity, one for each section of the dormitory to enter Cadfish between the hours of twelve and one o'clock of the first Sunday. These men are considered sufficient to escort the rushees to the various fraternities.

CARES, GIDDENS LATIN SPEAKERS

Dr. William R. Tongue, Instructor in Classics, today released the list of supplementary lectures which will be given in connection with Latin 5, a course in Roman historians.

Having finished the study of Roman historians until the fall of the empire, these lectures will briefly summarize historical writers to the present time. These talks are offered every Thursday at 3:15 in the Classics Office. Dr. Tongue stated, "All students interested in the lectures, whether enrolled in Latin 5 or not, are urged to attend."

The first of the series will be presented tomorrow afternoon when Mr. Paul B. Carens, Instructor in History, will discuss Medieval Historians. Thursday, May 18, Mr. Carens will present a lecture on Renaissance Historians. The course will be terminated on May 25 when Professor Paul H. Giddens will speak on American Historians.

NOTICE TO SENIORS

All seniors who have not yet turned in the address of their parents, to whom the college will send an invitation to be its guest for Commencement, are requested to do so immediately on a 3 x 5 card, to be given to Professor Phillip M. Benjamin, chairman of the committee on the entertainment of parents.

MANY VISIT ALLEGHENY ON GUEST DAY

SCHOLARSHIP TESTS TAKEN BY PROSPECTIVE FRESHMAN STUDENTS

Good weather added to the festive spirit of High School day Saturday when over five hundred high school students, teachers, and friends spent the day viewing the college, its activities, and its students.

Over three hundred students competed for the $6,800 worth of prizes, a larger number than have ever taken the tests before in Guest day history. The crowd was so great that an overflow of some seventy-five prospective freshmen were shunted to Carnegie Hall for the competitions.

After a buffet luncheon in Cochran, the visitors had the opportunity of hearing Miss Ida M. Tarbell, famous biographer and writer, in a special appearance in chapel.

President William P. Tolley preceded Miss Tarbell and in a welcoming speech emphasized the importance of inquiring about and institution's equipment and platforms before making a choice, pointing out the advisability of acquainting one's self with such vital aids as the library and the laboratory.

In a statement of Allegheny's educational viewpoint, Dr. Tolley stated, "Allegheny is a residential college and its curriculum is not limited to the teaching of organized courses. We admit responsibility for the whole student." The president also invited the visitors to attend the Education clinic and to take the placement examinations on June 16 and 17 so that a more careful analysis may be made of the deficiencies and capabilities.

LAST EDITION OF "LIT MAG" TO APPEAR MAY 26

Dr. Akers and Arentzen Special Contributors to the Commencement Issue

The annual commencement issue of the Allegheny Literary Magazine, together with a pictorial supplement showing the work of the art department, will make its appearance May 26th, announced Editor Robert Bruce Wright, '40, last week.

As now planned, this issue, the final one of the year, will contain several features in addition to the illustrated section. There will also be a short commentary on the activities of the art department. Dr. Oscar P. Akers and Rolf Arentzen, '42, are to be special contributors.

A request for new contributors was voiced by the editor. "We should especially like to receive some writings from seniors. A bit of reminiscence about college days or an article on any interesting subject will be welcomed," remarked Mr. Wright. The editor also requests a summary of the Outing Club's activities and an original play for this final edition.

All contributions must be turned in before the magazine's deadline, May 15th.

PUBLICATIONS DISPLAYED IN LIB

Reis library is displaying this week an exhibit of Allegheny college publications. Included in this display are various editions of the Campus, the Kaldron, the Alleghenian, and the Allegheny Literary Magazine.

Other college publications shown are Allegheny College Bulletin, Songs of Allegheny, and Smith's Allegheny, a Century of Education.

After College, What? A display of vocational guidance books may also be viewed in the Octagon this week. The subject of this exhibit is, "After college, what?"

Some of the books which are being shown are Hockenbury's Make Yourself a Job, Platt's The Book of Opportunities, Tunis' Was College Worthwhile and Angell's The Campus.

Wilkins' College and Society, Crawford and Clement's Choice of an Occupation, Kitson's How to Find the Right Occupation, and Williamson's Students and Occupations.

Statistics collected by the U. S. Department of Interior and published in a booklet entitled Economic Status of College Alumni, as well as vocational guidance pamphlets are being exhibited.

'42 ELECTIONS TOMORROW

The election of officers for the class of 1942 will be held Thursday noon in chapel.

MISS TARBELL READS EXCERPTS AT ANNIVERSARY

ALLEGHENY'S LARGEST CLASS GRADUATES

Senior Class of '39 is Approximately 140; Record Is 125 Graduates to Date

Events will be scheduled this week for the largest class ever to graduate from Allegheny College. On June 10 approximately 140 students will participate in the academic procession. Until this year the largest departing senior group included 125 students.

The final events for Commencement week beginning Friday, June 9, until the following Monday are still in the planning process, the faculty-student committee announced today.

Similar to last year, the week-end program will include both student and alumni functions. Activities will be opened officially on Friday evening at 8:30 with the President's reception at Cochran hall.

Saturday's calendar marks the fraternity-sorority dinners and the annual meeting of Phi Beta Kappa. This year an address will be given by Professor Irwin Edman from the Psychology department of Columbia University.

John Jones, '39, with committeemen Al Hoaglund, '39, and Elizabeth Osbourne, '39, will announce completed plans for class day exercises next Wednesday. The senior farewell to buildings is being discussed now by chairman Elmer Swanson, '39, with Jeanette Rose, Margaret Watt, and Mike Vereke, all of '39.

Preceding the academic procession on Sunday will be the Baccalaureate service at Stone Church where President Tolley will speak. Commencement speaker is Bishop Adna Wright (continued on page 4)

SPEAKERS HONOR ED FRATERNITIES

Addresses by two nationally known personages, Miss Ida M. Tarbell and Dr. Marion R. Trabue, featured the founder's day banquet of Kappa Delta Epsilon and Kappa Phi Kappa, women's and men's honorary educational fraternities.

Miss Tarbell, famed author, is an Allegheny graduate, and Dr. Trabue is dean of education at Pennsylvania State college.

Toastmaster Clifford W. Skinner, a member of Kappa Phi Kappa, introduced Miss Tarbell who traced briefly the striking differences between the education of Lincoln and the present day methods.

Centering his remarks about the educational difficulties arising from more our present economics system, Dean Trabue discussed "Some Current Educational Frontiers."

Library Attendance Shows Steady Increase Since Dedication

Recent Autobiography Tells of Past Experiences As College Co-ed

The John Scott Craig Room's first anniversary was celebrated last Sunday afternoon as Miss Ida Tarbell read excerpts from her recently published autobiography, All in a Day's Work. The browsing room was dedicated May 5th, 1938, and presented as its initial offering, Robert Frost reading some of his poetry.

Allegheny Experiences. Miss Tarbell, famous writer, prominent alumna, at present a guest lecturer here, confined herself for the most part to the reading of material which dealt with her experiences at Allegheny.

One anecdote in particular which delighted the gathering concerned Miss Tarbell's adventures abroad. She was in Paris, and finding her money running low, decided to pawn a coat that she might obtain a little money. The coat was of fine fur and the proprietor of the three-balled emporium was afraid that it might have been stolen. Miss Tarbell explained and argued trying to prove her identity, but the man remained adamant. Suddenly a thought occurred to the writer and she delved down into her bag to produce her high school diploma. This solved the problem and Miss Tarbell remarks in her book that that was the first time she ever realized the worth of a high school education.

Mr. Phillip M. Benjamin of the English department, introduced Miss Tarbell (continued on page 4)

ONE-ACTS WILL FINISH SEASON NEXT WEEK

Two one-act play programs, rounding out the Playshop's activities for the year, will be presented Monday under the direction of students of the directing class.

Eyes That Cannot See, directed by Georgetta Weltner, '39, is a drama by a foreign author. Virginia Lee Crowthers, '41, Doris Judge, '41, Anna May Sunnergren, '42, Joseph Relgger, '42, and Fred Zimmer, '42, make up the cast.

John Jones, '39, has chosen the comedy, The Girls, which has an all-male cast. Fred Lichtenfels, '41, Robert Miller, '42, and Rolf Arentzen, '42, are the principals.

Michael Enserro, '40, will be stage manager and Jean Megahan, '39, will be in charge of lighting for those presentations.

On Wednesday, May 17, another group of one-acts will be presented. Both these plays are under the direction of Joseph Macedo. Mr. Macedo has worked on numerous one-act plays (continued on page 4)

Fewer White Collar Jobs Says General Motors President

By RACHEL MUMBULO
Probably the stock question asked of any college youth when he sets foot on the soil of the non-collegian world in periods of vacation from academic pursuits is "What are you going to do when you graduate?"

Rather glibly some noble sounding avocation is prone to be our response—anything which expresses the rather hazy but pleasant picture, which we have stored away in some corner of our mind's eye, of the position which we presently expect to hold.

Too often, as our campus "dream world" comes to an end after four years of play-interspersed work, we find ourselves turned loose in a stream-lined, ultra-real world where our indistinct ideals are worth little, even when backed up by a shining sheepskin.

Thus each June hundreds of average, decent, intelligent young Americans turn helplessly to their elders asking, "What would you do in my place?" Too often the answer received is prosaic "old stuff," noble sounding but of little practical value.

A new answer to this old question is given in the American Magazine for June by William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors. Writing on the subject "If I Were Twenty-One," Mr. Knudsen answers in one sentence youth's query by saying, "I would try to get some work with my hands."

Going on to interpret this advice, Mr. Knudsen explains that by this he means he would try to get some creative work. The idea that the most noble place to start a career is at a desk equipped with numerous gadgets which do one's work at a touch is a false one, and there is something the matter with a social system where we are afraid to get work with our hands. "A person educated through books is only half educated," explains the author. He contends that we may have gone too far in our reverence for book learning, that perchance in our concentration on that we have forgotten other things which are just as important, that is, the knowledge of how to work with practical skill.

Youth today is all dressed up with theoretical knowledge, and consequently must use several of the finest productive years of his life fitting himself for a working world.

"The pioneer's legitimate aspiration for learning has decayed into a kind of snobbery which considers it more honorable to handle a telephone than a wrench; more socially desirable to dictate to a stenographer than to direct a crew of trained workmen," is Mr. Knudsen's criticism of the present system. ## DEBUT

With the strains of the retiring staff's swan song still ringing in our ears, we send our first issue to press with fond hopes for the future. And in the manner so characteristic of all new administrations, we approach our new commission with fervor and enthusiasm.

First, we congratulate Mr. William Hummel on a job well done. Few editors are able to maintain as consistently high standards on a college newspaper as he did, nor are there many who could face "the slings and arrows" of outraged collegians and manage to retain their equilibrium and a sense of humor. The association with him as editor was one for which we are grateful and from which we have gained valuable newspaper experience.

As usual, letters to the editor will be ever welcome. We shall endeavor to print as many of them as possible because we feel that such letters are definite proof that the student body is not lapsing into a state of coma, but is alive to the problems of campus life, and to those world problems which will ultimately affect collegians.

Let some of our more conservative readers have thrown up their hands in despair, let it be known now that ours is to be no lavender and old lace publication; "The Campus" is to remain an organ of student thought and opinion. Plans for next year include the inauguration of new departments and novel features.

And so to work, with a deadline to meet and the standard set by our predecessors to uphold!

CONFUSING THE ISSUE?

We note with some degree of alarm the nature of the response to the questionnaires recently distributed by the Allegheny Christian Council. The number of students who answered the questions was gratifying, and the general results displayed a more or less consistent logic. However, we should like to point out that there were several rather serious discrepancies on individual replies.

These inconsistencies were especially apparent in several cases where the collegians favored contradictory policies. For instance, one rather confused Alleghenian said that he would fight "to defend the interests of the United States in the Pacific," yet he was not in favor of "the rearmament plan, compulsory military training, assistance of our ideological allies, or the application of the Monroe Doctrine."

Certainly, it is of more vital importance to protect interests in our immediate sphere, rather than those in the Pacific. And we would be interested to know how such a defense would be possible without rearmament or military training.

A questionnaire which concerns vital problems is worthy of more than a hasty consideration. Without an intelligent, logical, and careful analysis of such questions, confusion of issues is bound to result.

A. U. C.

Commendations are due the retiring Allegheny Undergraduate council for their plan of cooperation with the new council. We believe that this "carry-over" of duties will enable the new body and all subsequent councils to attain increased efficiency.

With both councils working together, the usual difficulties of adjustment which arise will be alleviated considerably and the burden of government will not fall too heavily or too suddenly upon the shoulders of the incoming council. We are heartily in accord with this cooperative plan as a definite step toward an informed governing body.

THEY MUST HAVE BEEN IMPRESSED

If our guests of High School Day were in search of a college devoted to the education of the whole man, they should not have been disappointed in Allegheny. Tests really indicative of intelligence and ability were proof of the scholastic rating; the presence of such a distinguished personage as Miss Ida M. Tarbell gave testimony to cultural advantages; and the excellent Playshop performance, the ever popular Singers' concert, and athletic events proved that opportunity for display of individual talents is available. They must have been impressed!

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

PRE-REGISTRATION

Students are to make appointments at once with their advisers for conferences as to next year's schedule. These conferences must be completed by May 27 and Work Cards deposited in the Registrar's Office by June 1. Office hours of professors will be posted at their offices. Work Cards must have signatures for elective courses and advisers.

CHAPELS

FRI.—Trustees' chapel.
MON.—Dr. Darling.
WED.—Dr. Charles S. Applegate, Minister First M. E. Church at Indiana.

The final examination in Contemporary affairs will be in Arter 21 at 1:15 promptly on Thursday, May 25.

Mr. Philip M. Benjamin will speak on the topic of Current books in the Contemporary affairs class Thursday.

The program in the oratory this evening will be the playing of request recordings.

The four-thirty program Friday of this week will include the following recordings:

1. The Sorcerer's Apprentice ...Dukas
New York Philharmonic Orchestra
2. La Cathedrale Engloute ...Debussy
George Copeland, pianist
3. Grand Canyon Suite ...Grove
Overture, 1912 ...Tchaikovsky
Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra

In next week's Monday evening hour featuring Wagner, the entire hour will be devoted to the playing of Act II of Tristan Und Isolde.

Note: In commenting on the performance of Act II of Tristan Und Isolde by Kirsten Flagstad and the Philharmonic Orchestra of New York, April 14, 1939, Mr. Olin Downes of the New York Times maintained that the ideal performance of this magnificent love music should be one of the perfect blending of voices and orchestra with no distracting action to watch. Such is the attempt of this listening hour.

IN MEMORIAM

HELEN FRANCINE LAYDEN
Class of 1942

A.W.S. '39-'40 SENATE ELECTED

Six girls were named to the Women's senate for next year by the Associated Women Students in a recent election. Jean Boyd, '40, and Elinor Kistler, '40, will represent Cochran, Jane Wisenall, '40, and Virginia Lee Crowthers, '41, Hulings hall front, and Helen Shaffer, '42, and Ruth Godley, '42, Hulings hall back.

According to the new constitution, "the duties of the Senate shall be to act as a governing body of the Associated Women students. In this capacity, they shall deal with any problems concerning the A.W.S.; they shall formulate rules subject to the approval of the A.W.S. and enforce these rules."

The new officers will take office May 15.

NEW CWENS ELECT OFFICERS

Helen Shaffer, '42, has been elected president of Cwens for 1939-40, it was announced yesterday. The election was held at a recent joint meeting of both old and new Cwens. Other officers chosen were Dorothy Jane Konstanzer, '42, vice-president; Phyllis Black, '42, secretary; and Muriel Matson, '42, treasurer.

Retiring officers include president Ruth Ellen Blake, vice-president Jane Hartman, secretary Margery Wible, and treasurer Winifred Nippe, all of '41.

COLLEGE PROFS MEET MONDAY

Allegheny chapter of the American association of University Professors banqueted Monday evening at the Hotel Kepler.

Speaker of the evening was Professor Guy E. Buckingham, whose subject was An Attempt at Evaluating Higher Education in America.

Dr. Buckingham's talk was a digest of his study at the Advanced School of Education of Columbia university last semester. Reference was made to the results of conferences with twenty leading educators who criticized Professor Buckingham's research in this field of education. Specific attention was devoted to Allegheny's educational problems.

Generally Speaking . . .

Keeping things rolling at a good pace, "Sharlie" Allen followed the example ably set these last few weeks when she sported a Delt pin for High School Day. Questioned, his brothers admit the fact that they didn't suspect Hays had it in him.

One wondered at the sudden and competitive popularity the Phi Delt house had with the freshmen during Leap Week. Could have been the walk down, and could have been the tall men they brag of. Results this week, we hear from Ginny Viets, seem to have been most favorable. Falloon is silent.

Speaking of High School Day reminds us that the annual shock of seeing the B.M.O.C. in coats, ties, and pins (what pins are left) is some day going to be too much for us. The weather must have been a disappointment to the Block "A" boys. Scarp remarked on the similarity to conditions he can only surmise.

They do say, to coin a phrase, that the Alpha Gams had a roaring good time Saturday night. They ended up playing Bingo at the Armory.

The two radio parties generously put on Saturday night ought to prove something. What, we haven't the vaguest idea. Even our best representatives from the respective fraternities forsook them for the Viennese Gardens and left the houses to the mercies of the much-impressed guests. There were at least two Allegheny cots at the Phi Delt hangout, and a few more at the Phi Psi.

Word came to our ear last week of a Leap Week piece of ingenuity that deserves to be passed on. A nameless group of Tarbell House inmates called the Phi Psi's, and after having subtly noted the fact that it was Leap Week, remarked that the sporting thing for them to do was to give a serenade. They even went further and invited them to do so. Nothing came of it, and all the girls will say is that the age of chivalry has definitely passed.

Those phoning "829" the other day were somewhat taken aback to hear the unfamiliar jargon of the far east as one brother screamed into the phone "Phi Delt Laundry." Oh, well, boys will be boys.

Spring spirit evidently has spread to Colgate's campus too—witness the Phi Psi pin which Mary Lou brought back from a week-end there with Doug.

DEAN SCHULTZ ANNOUNCES MUSIC CLUB DRIVE

Dean J. R. Schultz, Allegheny representative to the Meadville Civic Music association, announced that the membership drive for that organization started Monday.

The National Broadcasting company is sponsoring the club, and the local chapter is one of many found from coast to coast. With the money gained from the sale of memberships, first class artists will be obtained to perform in Meadville.

The cost of membership is $5.00 for adults, and $2.50 for students.

"It is hoped that an arrangement can be made whereby the whole student body can take advantage of this opportunity. Perhaps a part of the activities fee can be used for this purpose," remarked Dean Schultz.

DR. BOOTH IS CHAPEL SPEAKER

Dr. Edwin P. Booth, class of 1920, now professor of religious history at Boston university, in an address in Friday's chapel emphasized the fact that the church cannot exist until the laws of bread and blood are subjugated to it.

"The law of bread and blood is the primal law of civilization and governs all nationalistic and individual behavior," Dr. Booth said.

The speaker went on to criticize those people who condemn governments which suppress the church. "In the light of history, the church as an institution has brought on its own downfall in these countries," he said. "The church must be an institution for all groups, and it cannot oppose natural law."

Dr. Ross entered a plea at Wednesday's chapel for all students to cooperate in the activities of high school day. "Please try to make the student's sojourn among us as interesting as possible for him," Dr. Ross said.

A minute of silent prayer was offered by everyone present in memory of Helen Layden.

NEW YORK—The largest of the 35 bronze bells in the carillon being cast in Belgium for the tower of that country's exhibit building at the New York World's Fair 1939, it is announced by Grover A. ## Letters to the Editor

Misses Fay and Kistler
Editors, The Campus
Dear Editors:

I noted with interest your appointment to a responsible position as editors of the Campus. You have been rewarded for your efforts, but it must be realized that yours is no easy task.

To begin with, the students here have been exposed to a male head of the paper for so long that the appointment of women co-editors is certain to arouse resentment. It will be an interesting thing to watch, but you must convince sceptics that under a feminine guidance a newspaper does not necessarily have to degenerate into a conglomeration of women's articles and fashion hints.

Other critics have pointed out that it will be difficult for a woman editor to be well informed on campus politics, in view of the restrictions that will hamper the getting of such information. This criticism must be met with intelligent news coverage.

Still another objection (and this is the last I will raise) is that with two editors the viewpoint taken toward editorial policy will fluctuate with the different writers. This, it seems to me, is the only legitimate criticism that can be made concerning your work. You must convince the cynics to the contrary before you will be able to command the respect due you.

There it is. I earnestly hope I have been talking without justification and that yours will be a successful regime.

Sincerely,
Interested Observer

INITIATION FOR OUTING CLUB HELD

Both the formal and informal initiation of the new Outing club members will take place at Bousson farm Tuesday.

Approximately forty Heelers will be inducted into the club at that time. The number of new members was determined by the number of seniors that will be graduated this year. Admission to the organization was based primarily on the activities this year.

Those chosen will be informed through the mail in several days.

change. This would have meant that during the first six meals of the rushing week, the noon and evening meals on Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday, rushes would rotate. Cochran hall would be closed, and arrangements would be made so that each freshman would visit each house.

Conflicts would be avoided by providing date books for each freshman boy. A fraternity would be permitted one prearranged date with each man during this period, this date constituting the permitted visit to the house.

Following the Tuesday evening meal the rules already in effect would be applied.

All-College Party.

JOYCE SCHAFMEISTER

A haze of perfection, such as Mother Nature seldom weaves, surrounded Allegheny's campus this week-end. A full moon, warm evenings, and mere "blobs" of clouds to mar the perfect clearness made an unexcelled backdrop for the various festivities.

Kappa Alpha Theta.
Kappa Alpha Theta observed Mothers' week-end with a banquet Saturday night at the Venango Inn, with tea roses tied with black ribbons to carry out their colors. Miss Miriam Fay, '40, introduced Miss Grace Miller, '10, Theta graduate of Allegheny, the speaker of the evening. Breakfast was served to the visiting mothers by the Sophomores Sunday morning in the Theta rooms. Arrangements were made by Eleanor Young, '41, social chairman.

Kappa Kappa Gamma.
Kappa Kappa Gamma celebrated their annual Mother's week-end Saturday and Sunday. A luncheon at the Kepler opened the week-end Saturday. Corsages were presented to each mother. Miss Cora Kraus, '40, president, spoke and later Miss Velma Zwilling sang. Saturday evening there was a gathering in the rooms, and Sunday the guests were served breakfast there. Katherine Gelbach, '40, Marjorie Lewis, '40, and Genevieve Cook, '41, arranged the affair.

Alpha Chi Omega.
The Crystal Ball Room at the Conneaut Hotel and the music of the Towne Club offered background for the Alpha Chi Omega supper dance on Saturday night. Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Akers and Dr. and Mrs. Paul Giddens were chaperons. The committee arranging the affair was made up of Alice David, '41, Jean English, '40, and Louise Hazlett, '41.

The guests were Mary Hendershot, Virginia Boyer, Hazel Hoffman, Martha Schreiner, '37, Eleanor Keefe, '38, Margaret Coullie, '38, Betty Dobbins, '38, Betty Aiken, '38, Aileen Rockenbach Wasser, '38, Ruth Stafford, ex-'39, Betty Kay Matthews, '39, Eleanor Young, '41, Doris Judge, '41, Margaret Feagen, '41, Virginia Lee Crowthers, '41, and Cleo Swanson, '41.

Theta Upsilon.
Frances M. Batchelor, '39, Betty Buchanan, '40, Dorothy Morrison, '39, Mary Ellen Reilly, '40, Mary Jane Stewart, '40, Mary Graf, '40, Margaret Turner, '40, Betty Boltz, '39, and Betty Lou McCurdy, '39, attended the Theta Upsilon province convention in New York City on Friday and Saturday.

Alpha Gamma Delta.
The Bartlett Hotel in Cambridge was the setting Saturday night for the Alpha Gamma Delta spring formal. Archie Cunningham played for the dinner dance and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Irvin were the chaperons. The girls' escorts received crested cigarette cases as favors.

The Kappa Chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta announced that Miss Jeanne Lancaster, '40, president, would be a delegate at the National Convention, to be held at Spring Lake, N. Y., during the week of June 24 to July 1, 1939. Helen Hahn, '39, Jean Bracken, '39, and Nancy Clark, '40, expect to accompany Miss Lancaster.

International Reunion Day for the Alpha Province of Alpha Gamma Delta was held at the Hotel Roosevelt in Pittsburgh on April 22, 1939. Jeanne Lancaster, '40, Nancy Clark, '40, Doris Judge, '41, Betty Schryver, '40, Margaret Richardson, '39, and Jean Heeter, '41, attended.

Phi Kappa Psi.
Saturday evening Phi Kappa Psi entertained at a radio party. Coach and Mrs. Laurence were chaperons. Refreshments were served. Bill Burr, '38, was a week-end guest at the Phi Psi House.

Phi Gamma Delta.

The Phi Gamma Deltas entertained Barney Knapp, '27, and Dr. Beller at alumni luncheon Thursday.

Mrs. P. W. Johnston and daughter Bebe were guests at dinner Friday night.

Jack MacFarland, '38, Fred Nieman, '38, Ronald Ober, '36, Dave Toyal, '36, Harry Milligan, president '36, and Gordon Everett were the week-end guests of Delta Tau Delta.

Phi Delta Theta.

The Phi Delta Theta radio party, held Saturday night, was planned by William Falcoun, '41, Howard Beebe, '42, and Paul Crantz, '42. Mr. and Mrs. Brickley were chaperons at the evening of informal dancing.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Andy Andrews played for the Sigma Alpha Epsilon spring dinner dance at the Riverside Hotel in Cambridge Springs on Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Hurst Anderson were the chaperons.

Mrs. Maloney and Arthur Gratz, '40, were the speakers at the Sig Mothers' Day on Sunday.

Jim Werle, '37, Chester Pardee, '38, Luther Taylor, '38, James MacDowell, '38, Mylan Harvey, '38, Tom Crawford, '38, Dave Shields, '38, Arthur Swanson, '37, Stanley Clark, '37, and Glen Irwin, '37, were week-end guests of S.A.E.

Alpha Chi Rho.

Alpha Chi Rho entertained Roy Robertson, '38, Ozzie Bigby, ex-'33, Jack Myers, Roy Donnon and Morgan Knudson over the week-end.

Viennese Gardens.

The Viennese Garden, more of a success at its second trial, the setting being enhanced by more moderate weather, the committee headed by Peg Reilly, '41, entertained about 250 guests Saturday evening. Soft drinks, cookies, music and a moonlit campus lent atmosphere to the affair.

Kappa, delivered after-dinner talks. Plans for the banquet were supervised by Professor Frederick G. Henke and officers from both societies, including Mrs. F. G. Henke, Eugene Cease, '39, Evelyn Longwell, '39, Margaret Richardson, '39, Jeannette Rose, '39, Betty Kay Matthews, '39, David Gatrall, '39, and Milo Connick, '39.

Alumni guests included Miss Esther Parker, Miss Mina French, Miss Nancy Peffer, Professor Julian Ross, Professor Guy E. Buckingham and Dr. Benjamin R. Beisel.

Other guests included Professor Hurst R. Anderson, Professor Paul H. Giddens, Professor Dale Thomas, Dean Laila Skinner, Superintendent Warren P. Norton of the Meadville schools and Dr. Charles Miller, president of Slippery Rock College.

Night, Swedish folk song arranged by M. J. Luvaas; Gladstone Radiance, Gretchaninov; Boating Song, arranged by M. J. Luvaas; and Beautiful Saviour.

Miss Tarbell, one of the first women students enrolled here, addressed the chapel gathering telling them "anecdotes and incidents remembered from her college days when the library was housed on the top floor of Ruter hall and the heating system consisted of two stoves in the same building."

The speakers were introduced by bell.

Miss Edith Rowley, librarian, was in charge of the program and spoke briefly about the Craig Room. "Attendance figures kept by the library show a steady increase in the use of the browsing room. Over 1100 persons have visited it since its inception last year," Miss Rowley announced.

It was also stated that 139 had attended the four reading hours presented this year. Other facts mentioned by Miss Rowley show the room to be more popular with men and that its afternoon attendance is larger than that of the evening. Visitors from Africa, Connecticut, New York City, Washington, D. C., and Wisconsin have registered among the hundreds of transients who have stopped.

In the sophomore comprehensive library questionnaire, according to Miss Rowley, 119 of the class admitted use of the Craig Room, while 33 had never used it.

Mrs. Julian Ross, in charge of the $183.10 donated by the reunion classes of '08 and '28, announced through Miss Rowley that 99 new books have been purchased so far and that in this way books have been added to the library almost immediately following publication.

Tea was served downstairs in the library after the readings. Miss Mary Hendershot, assistant librarian, and Mrs. Julian Ross poured.

Dr. C. F. Ross, registrar and dean of the college.

After the program in Ford chapel, the visitors had the choice of seeing the Playshop presentation, A Murder Has Been Arranged, or the witnessing of Allegheny's track and tennis teams triumphing over their opponents.

Later in the afternoon tea was served in Hulings hall by the Associated Women students and in the evening visitors were entertained in the Viennese gardens. The committee under whose auspices the Viennese gardens was managed by Margaret Riley, '41.

Officials announced that they hoped results of the scholarship competitions could be released within several weeks.

White Collar Jobs Scarce Says Knudsen

We are not being true to American tradition in such a stand—refer to the lives and work of Washington, Jefferson, and Lincoln—and at the same time we are depriving America of its most efficient workers by stifling the creative urge of the "educated youth" rather than stressing hand training as an essential part of brain training.

Mr. Knudsen concludes on an optimistic note by proclaiming, "There is nothing wrong with this country which American brains, energy and good will cannot cure. As we readjust and get back into balance there are going to be greater opportunities than ever before."

The graduates of today hope that he is right. However, it might be well if they would consider deeply and thoughtfully the insinuation that lack of positions today is the result of intellectual snobbishness, born out of class distinctions. Mr. Knudsen has made a direct hit at the "false tradition of gentility which prevents many a gifted youngster from following his natural bent." Are we, college students, intellectual snobs afraid to accept certain jobs for fear of ridicule and social reasons?

Youth has received a new answer to the question of "what to do." Along with the answer is a challenge. What is your answer?

state of suspense throughout the scenes.

Miss Alice H. Spaulding and Mr. John W. Hulbert directed the play. It was stated by the Playshop directors that "the students have been wanting a mystery play, so we hope that by this performance their wish will be thoroughly granted. Though the play is not a classic one, it is the type that is amusing enough to draw their attention."

Richard Taylor, '41, as stage manager, Betty Stewart, '40, in charge of property, Mary Ellen Reilly, '40, as costumer, Michael Enserro, '40, and Winetta Robertson, '41, as business managers, were in charge of technicals.
