These Boys Like to Get Letters

Here are the addresses of Allegheny men in service. They are the names of your former classmates and fraternity brothers.

Blood Donors Must Obtain Parental Consent

All students under the age of 21 who wish to give blood should first get their parents' permission by having them sign a special slip. The slips have come through Mr. Ogilvie and have been distributed among the dormitories and fraternity houses.

The mobile unit of the Buffalo blood bank will come to Allegheny near the end of the month so the slips must be signed and returned by November 21.

Larry Larson is at the head of a committee for the distribution and collection of these slips.

Recent pledges for the donation of blood are: Jean Flanagan, Max Rosenberg, George Pulakos, Patty Pratt, and Joe Mull.

New Naval Contingent Arrives

Thirty are Elementary Students

The first contingent of 50 new naval cadets arrived at Allegheny on Tuesday for the initiation of the third wartime U. S. Naval Cadet training program on this campus.

According to announcement made by Dr. Dale E. Thomas, college coordinator of the student pilots' activities, thirty of the new Flying Gators are elementary students and twenty, secondary fliers. Of the latter group, half are U. S. Army cadets in training for service as non-combat pilots. Presumably their duties will eventually consist of transport flying and general behind-the-lines work.

Cadets will again occupy an entire wing of the Odd Fellows home, in addition to the third floor of a section in Caffisch hall—the combined secondary student group being housed in the latter.

Ground school classes and military training were to begin yesterday for the Flying Gators, with flying activity scheduled to get under way at Port Mead airport as soon as weather conditions permitted.

The Flying Gators are henceforth to be garbed in special spruce-green uniforms furnished by the Civil Aeronautics authority. The only thing differentiating the Army fliers from the Naval men will be a special shoulder insignia on the uniform.

Transferred here from primary training bases at other colleges in this area, the ten Army students are the first such to come to Allegheny.

The new Flying Gator contingent is scheduled to remain on the campus until about the 15th of January, when their training here will be concluded. They are scheduled to receive a four-day vacation Christmas time.

Lavely Appointed Acting Dean

Appointment of Dr. Horace T. Lavely as acting dean of men was made by the executive committee of the board of trustees at a meeting last Saturday.

Dr. Lavely will continue his duties as acting dean as long as Dr. Schultz is filling the position of acting president.

An Allegheny graduate, Dr. Lavely was a missionary in China from 1920-1926. Since then, he has served in the philosophy department of Allegheny.

"Taking care of the army and navy enlistments," according to the acting dean, "is the most important job right now. We want to do what we think is best for the men and the college in the matter of enlistments. The work, we hope, will go along much the same as it has in the past."

Scrap Wool Drive Planned On Campus For Red Cross

Plans for a scrap wool drive to be held on the campus in the near future were announced by Joan Hexter, chairman of the Red Cross activities on Allegheny campus. From this scrap wool the girls in the freshman houses will start their project of knitting squares for afghans.

Also announced at this time was the knitting committee, including Marilyn Braniger, chairman, Eleanor K. Hutchinson, and Jean Merrill. The projects now under way are Navy scarfs and turtle-neck sweaters. All girls interested in knitting are to provide their own needles and report to the knitting headquarters, Brooks 252, for yarn and instructions, on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings.

Due to the drastic shortage of bandages in the Meadville hospitals, plans are being made to form a campus center for rolling bandages, and for sewing. However, Miss Hexter stated that this is not to be confused with surgical dressings for the Red Cross.

Students Present War Bond Show

Admission Price of $18.75 War Bond to Be Charged for Show Downtown Dec. 5

An all-star show, featuring the recent Playshop production, "The Spider," along with several vaudeville acts, will be presented by members of the Allegheny student body before a Meadville audience on Saturday, December 5 in the high school auditorium, with the purpose of promoting the sale of war bonds.

Price of admission to the show will be $18.75, the cost of a $25 war bond. It must be shown that the bond was purchased some time during the week of December 1-7, the dates for Meadville's coming war stamps and bonds sales drive. Bonds also

Block A Dance Tips Lid Off Stamp Sales

A clear total of $64.75 in defense stamps flowed into the Allegheny scholarship fund last Saturday night at the Block A dance.

In addition to the stamps which were turned over to the fund, which is designed to aid Allegheny men who have entered service before the completion of their education to finish their college careers here, $22 dollars worth of stamps were purchased by students for themselves, making a total of $86.75 credited to Allegheny, as a start toward her $1500 bond and stamp sale quota for the semester. Catherine Cavelti and Bill Robertson head the stamp and bond committee.

Besides aiding in the defense stamp drive, the Block A dance also featured the coronation of Kay Reed, junior cheerleader, as football queen. Miss Reed was selected by the football team to reign as queen over their dance, an annual affair which celebrates the culmination of the football season.

Music for the dance was provided by the Music Makers. The chaperones included Mr. Alfred Werner, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garbark, and Mr. David Roberts and Miss Katherine Sanford.

W.A.C. Headquarters Set Up In Bentley

A central office of the War Activities committee will be set up in Dr. Long's outer office on the second floor of Bentley hall beginning next week. The office will be open in the afternoons, but hours have not yet been determined.

The office will serve as headquarters for all activities relating to the War Activities committee, which is coordinating all student war activities on the campus. It will serve chiefly as an information center.

George Hill and Larry Larson, who are in charge of the office, have put in a request for volunteer office workers.

Pan-Hell Dance To Be Held Friday

Annual freshman Pan-Hellenic dance will be held tomorrow night from 9:00 till 12:00 in Cochran hall to the music of the Music Makers.

Tickets for the dance will be on sale at $1.50 a couple in Brooks hall, tonight, before and after dinner, and also tomorrow noon. Dance programs also will be given out then.

Marjorie Miller is general chairman of the dance. Helping her as committee chairmen are Esther Lee, decorations; Ann Thoburn, programs; Joan Bliss, chaperons; and Emily Jane Gould, arrangements.

Announcements

Representatives of the U. S. Marine corps will be on the campus November 24 to examine and enlist students. Applications may be secured at the Dean's office.

All men interested should report to the Dean's office at once.

may be purchased at the door. All patrons will then be admitted free upon proof of purchase of a bond according to the prescribed method.

Arrangements are also being made for a professional actress of note to appear on the stage during the program and sell bonds to the audience.

The idea of the show has met with wide approval among the leading citizens of Meadville. Mr. Bates and Mr. Murphy, editor and advertising manager, respectively, of the Tribune-Republican, have volunteered their aid. Mr. Bainer, head of the Meadville bond drive, Mr. Miller, head of the bond drive for Crawford county, Dr. Hawkey, president of the board of education, Mr. Truran, president of the chamber of commerce, and Mayor Whipple have already indicated their endorsement of the program.

Members of local civic groups will be approached this week to ask their support of the program, and if present indications mean anything, the response should be tremendous.

It is expected that somewhere around $25,000 worth of war bonds will be sold at the door and within the auditorium. This amount will be considered part of Allegheny's quota of bond sales.

"We can promise a big show, but we can succeed only with the help of the entire student body. The auditorium seats 1000 people and we intend to fill it." So spoke Joe Sorce, originator of the idea of the show and head of the student committee in charge, along with Janet Anne Smith, last week.

Committees for publicity, tickets, auditorium, typists, and stage assistants will be necessary for presentation of the show. Allegheny students are urged to sign up for the committee in which each can serve best.

A committee for publicity for the show was set up at a meeting of those interested in the project last Monday. Harold Newson and James Valone were named co-chairmen. Others on the committee are Joan Bristow, Ruth Brace, Peggy Laley, Nancy Sutton, B. J. Weyman, Joe Backus, and Alfred Cohen.

Students interested in writing advertising copy are especially needed now to work at the office of the Tribune-Republican, which expects to open the campaign immediately.

All students may sign up for work on the show at the central office of the War Activities committee, which is located in Dr. Long's outer office in Bentley hall.

Those interested in trying out for parts in the show should see Mr. John Hulburt, Playshop director, at once.

Army Takes Three Alleghenians

James Pysher, '45, Bob Ende, '46, and Walter Stanton, '43, left school this week to don the khaki uniforms of the United States army.

Pysher, a transfer student from Youngstown College, Ohio, left for his home in Youngstown last Sunday and enters the armed forces the latter part of this week. He played first string guard on the Gator football team. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta.

Ende, a freshman, left Tuesday for the Army air corps. He was an outstanding member of this year's football squad, sparking the team from his backfield position. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta.

Stanton, a senior, is a native of Frewsburg, N.Y. He was active in all intra-mural sports and a member of last year's basketball squad. Last year, he served as president of his fraternity, Theta Chi.

The Long View

Nearly a year has passed since the attack on Pearl Harbor and in that year we at Allegheny have gone through many emotions, made pledges, broken pledges, yelled at each other to get war conscious, refused to give a damn for the yelling, enlisting in the navy, marines and anywhere else we could, rolled bandages, loafed and had a good time. When we think our "war efforts" are beginning to roll and lose moss the Tribune Republican shakes our hand while kicking our shins. At times it is rather confusing.

What have Allegheny and its students done to aid the country at war?

1. Heading the list must be the college's efforts to produce officer material for the services. On the educational side new courses have been added, such as navigation, while enlarged intramural and gym programs are to aid us physically.

2. Sale of bonds and stamps. The War Activities committee opened the drive at the Block A dance and elaborate plans have been made for the future, climaxed by the variety show to be given down town, the price of admission of which will be an $18.75 war bond. We hope to sell $25,000 worth for Uncle Sammy right there.

3. Bandage rolling and knitting are projects being worked upon by the Allegheny co-eds.

4. College blood-givers now number over a hundred volunteers.

5. Many students are donating their services to the O.P.A., and will help register Meadville citizens for gas and tire rationing when called on.

6. Last but not least on this incomplete list is the college's housing and training of naval air cadets, fifty at a time. And our hats are off to Don Murray.

This past record is good, not perfect but good. The record of the nation in this year has not been the best possible but it has been good. The nation's record for the next year is expected to be better. This expectation and challenge is held by the highest Washington officials down to the average American and the Allegheny student body. We are only one small part of the American people but as such we have set our own challenge before us, and as such it is up to us to also live up to what we expect of the rest of the American people. We can buy and help sell a lot of stamps and bonds to help those guys in northern Africa, some of whom may be Alleghenians. If you have any idea for the variety show make sure Janet Ann Smith or some others in charge know about it. Buy a couple stamps yourself out of your next allowance. Sign up for one of the War Activity committees—donate blood or services. Get your fraternity to dig out that scrap in the cellar and buy a bond. The nation will make many more sacrifices this coming year than in the past and they rightfully expect all groups, such as Allegheny, to do their part.

Save Our Grass

Problem—To protect Allegheny's buildings and grounds from general rough treatment by students.

Background—Scarcity of both labor and materials make it necessary to take care of present equipment. The beauty of Allegheny's campus is state-wide in fame and we students should do our part in conserving it. A muddy gash through the middle of a broad green lawn does not add to its beauty, although it apparently may shorten the time required to get from the classroom to the grill.

Suggested solutions:

1. Cement the entire campus and paint it green.
2. Put wire fences along the walks.
3. Plant hedges along the walks.
4. Plant poison ivy along the walks.
5. Rely on students who consider themselves adult enough to have unchaperoned open-houses to exercise the same mature judgment and use the walks provided for that purpose.

MUC Modifies 'Open House' Plan

The question of "open house" for fraternities has been shelved again, closing an unsuccessful campaign for unchaperoned Sunday afternoon dates in fraternity houses, according to Ted Sampson, chairman of the Men's Undergraduate council open house committee.

The decision of the faculty on this matter was that, as in the past, fraternities may continue to have chaperoned Sunday afternoon open houses. According to Sampson, a petition is now being planned to be presented to the faculty, that the chaperoned open houses may be had without their counting among the fraternities' limited number of weekly parties.

There will be an important meeting of the freshman class in chapel tomorrow noon. All students are expected to be present.

Musical Comedy Plans Getting Underway

With the script nearing completion, and with scores of students, among them 49 freshman women, signed up for various phases of assistance, Allegheny college's talent show, under the chairmanship of Janet Anne Smith, is rapidly gaining momentum, and will be ready for presentation by the end of February.

This musical comedy, which is being planned for the benefit of Red Cross relief, is completely distinct from the all-star show which will aid the bond sales and will be shown December 5.

Using as a basic plot a short story written by George Robinette, a group of students, Ellis McKay, Robinette, Nancy Sutton, Janet Anne Smith, and Hack Hoffenberg, are writing dialogues and molding the plot into a suitable script for a musical comedy. Roger Albright is in charge of having original songs written for the production.

A.C.C. Starts Service Fund

The Allegheny Christian council held a picnic and a meeting last Sunday at Bousson camp at which they discussed plans for the campaign for the World Student Service fund. There were about twenty-five at the meeting.

The campaign for the World Student Service fund will probably be carried on the week following Thanksgiving vacation. Proceeds from this are used to assist students and faculty of educational institutions whose normal activity has been disrupted by the war. One-half of the funds will be used in the Chinese area while the other half will be used in the European field. The campaign will be campus wide.

The next meeting of the Allegheny Christian council will be held on November 22.

A. W. S. Formal Dinner Thursday

Sponsored by the Allegheny Women students, a formal dinner will be held in Brooks hall next Thursday evening, November 19, at 6 o'clock.

Nancy Lawrence is acting as chairman for the dinner, and she is assisted by a committee composed of Marianne Kocher, Barbara Lumpkin, Marjorie Jenkins, Kay Reed, and Ruth Wright.

THE MOST USEFUL TABLE IN THE WORLD

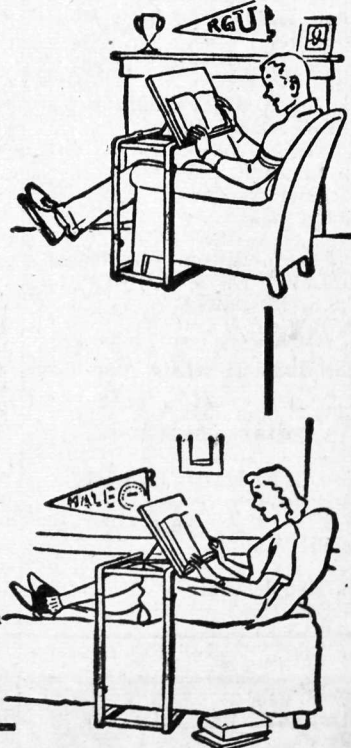

TILT TOP TILLIE TABLE

In this modern day there is a definite need for functional furniture. Pieces with only decorative value must take second place with pieces which deliver a real service to the home.

A FINE PIECE OF FURNITURE WITH MANY USES

While this type of table has been offered in cheap grades this is the first of its kind that can take its place in a well furnished house. Consider its many uses. A bed table, a reading table, a study table, a typewriter table or writing table, and it will deliver all these services while seated in your favorite easy chair or reclining in bed.

JOHN J. SHRYOCK CO.

Last Friday afternoon the Phi Gams derailed the hitherto unbeaten Phi Deltas, 18 to 12, in what proved to be the deciding game for the league championship. A crowd of nearly 200 spectators watched Donaldson snag a long pass from McKay a few minutes after the opening kick-off to give the Fijis the lead which they never relinquished. Midway through the first half the Fijis scored again as McKay flipped a short pass to Dundon to climax a 40-yard march. In the second half the Phi Deltas got going early. About five minutes after the half opened Peterson rounded his own right end and passed to Dunbar for the score. The Phi Gams retaliated quickly by intercepting one of Peterson's flings and running it back to the Phi Delt 10-yard line. From here they pushed it across in three plays, McKay shooting a short bullet pass to Petre for the touchdown. The Phi Deltas gamely refused to accept defeat. They scored again on a beautiful pass play that went from Peterson to Schaefer to Dunbar to Strome and covered almost the entire length of the field. With only four minutes of playing time remaining, the Phi Deltas fought to a first down on the Phi Gam three-yard line. Here the Fijis braced and held tenaciously to their six-point lead; they took the ball over on downs and the Phi Deltas never got possession of it again.

The Phi Psis fell behind the Phi Gams in the league race when they were able to get no better than a tie with the Sigs in a game which was played on Sunday morning. The Phi Gams took advantage of this break and clinched the championship with a 12-0 verdict over the Sigs. The game was played on Tuesday in a cold drizzle and on a field which no words can describe. The first half was scoreless, but in the second half McKay uncorked two touchdown passes to Dundon and Petre respectively to provide the Phi Gam margin of victory. A couple of Fiji seniors playing their last game managed to stand out in spite of the mud and rain. They were John Petre and Ellis McKay. It was appropriate that the Phi Gams scored their last touchdown on the famed "Petre special," a short flip over the line from McKay to Petre. The Sigs had their star too. The standout backfield play, both defensively and offensively, of Pat Sherman kept the Sigs in the running all the way.

A few games remain to be played, notably the Phi Psi-Phi Delt game, which will determine the runner-up for the title; however, the standings are pretty well settled as follows:

	W	L	T	Pts.
Phi Gamma Delta	6	0	1	100
Phi Delta Theta	5	1	0	80
Phi Kappa Psi	4	0	2	80
Sigma Alpha Epsilon	4	2	1	80
Theta Chi	2	4	0	50
Alpha Chi Rho	2	4	0	50
Alden Men	1	5	0	40
Delta Tau Delta	0	6	0	30

This year, in order to avoid the almost inevitable criticism, we decided to put the choice of an all-star team up to a board of experts instead of picking it ourselves. The following men were chosen to pick the team: Ray Dundon, Bud McElrath, Lew Peterson, Floyd Ferguson, Burt Hartman, Burt Neiner, Bill Lavelly, and Max Rosenberg.

No matter what collar style you prefer, you'll find it among our selection of Arrow Whites! All are Sanforized-labelled (shrinkage less than 1%), and cut to the famous "Mitoga" figure-fit.

Come in today and select your Arrow white shirts in your favorite collar styles!

Mighty popular with college men is the Arrow Gordon, in white oxford with a soft collar attached.

Gators Practice With Y. M. C. A.

Allegheny college basketball fans will get a preview of the 1942-43 Gators this evening as the Werner-men face off against a Meadville Y.M.C.A. team at Montgomery gym. The practice is set for 7:30. Coach Werner expects to give all the candidates a chance to perform in tonight's practice game. As many of the boys are newcomers, this initial scrimmage will give the Gator mentor his first chance to appraise their abilities. Also, Werner's system will be used for the first time by an Allegheny varsity. This is nothing new to members of last year's freshman squad, but those who toiled on the varsity last season will find it mighty rapid compared with "Bunk" McGeever's slow brand of ball.

With the closing of the football campaign, the cage ranks have been swelled by the addition of several gridders. They are Don Turk, senior letterman; Dick Kahl, Kiski prep star; and Russ Svec, Cleveland Rhodes High athlete.

Drills to date have included mostly conditioning, dribbling, passing, ball handling, and shooting. As the squad rounds into shape offense and defense formations will be stressed in preparation for the opener against Fenn college on December 11.

Intramural soccer, which has been much more successful than expected, is also drawing to a close. The Sigs are completely dominating the five-team league and, with only one game remaining, seem sure to win. The results so far have been as follows:

The Woman's Side

By MILLIE SHURTLEFF

Bring out those moth balls—it is time to pack the hockey sticks and shin guards till next fall. The hockey tournament is finished—the winner: Thetas—the score: 2-1. The runners up—Hulings B team. Both of these teams had in their ranks girls who have played on some of the best hockey teams in the country. Speaking of star hockey teams reminds me our all-star hockey will soon be announced. Those making it will receive 50 extra points.

Perhaps the hardest fought game of the whole tournament was not the final, but the semi-final game—Thetas vs. Independents. Both teams were evenly matched—the Thetas handicapped by injuries and the Independents by lack of players. Soon after the beginning bully the Thetas scored; the Independents retaliating and scoring on the next play. Both teams fought desperately for the points, the Thetas, however, finally winning 4 to 3. There were several casualties incurred during the game by both sides but none were serious. So fellows, if your girl hobbles out and when questioned gives you the old swinging-door excuse don't believe her—it was hockey.

Here's a new angle on the intramural athletic award. This year instead of having a pennant as in previous years a trophy will be awarded to the winning team. The trophy will be passed on from year to year to the winning team and if the same team wins it three years in succession they may keep the trophy permanently.

On Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 18 and 19 the bowling tournament will begin. Team captains will receive printed instructions on this next Monday. There will be both independent and team winners. Watch for the rules on the bulletin board in the girls' gym.

Last Thursday Betty North was elected president of the dance club which meets at 4:10 Tuesday and Thursday. All those who have ever taken modern dance are invited to join.

Reminder: Volleyball begins soon. Watch for the notice.

Oberlin Loss Ends Current Season

Gator Pigskin Record Includes 1 Win, 5 Defeats

Last Saturday afternoon's pigskin debacle rolled down the curtain on one of the most discouraging and disappointing Allegheny college grid campaigns in recent years. The Blue and Gold was sent down to defeat on five separate occasions and was only able to score its lone victory against a definitely fourth-rate opponent.

Although to the casual observer it would hardly appear to be true, the Gators rose out of their lethargy and "played ball" for at least one part of the season, a fact which was very satisfying to those followers who could see slightly deeper than the bare surface. Coach Al Werner's men came back in the second half of the Grove City battle and displayed the old Allegheny

Booters Do Well With Tough Schedule

The 1942 Allegheny soccer team wound up a successful season last Friday when they bowed to the superior Yeomen of Oberlin.

Perhaps the last soccer team that will wear the blue and gold "for the duration," Coach H. P. Way's inexperienced squad compiled a very satisfactory record against strong opposition.

Only four lettermen were on hand at the beginning of the season, and Coach Way had only a few short weeks to fill the many gaps. From the very fine freshman squad of last year, Bob Leach, Dick Anderson, and Al Lammert stepped into starting positions. John Caughey and Chuck Foye, substitutes last year, were promoted to first string berths, while Tom Wigton and Gene Smoot, who were both playing their first year of soccer, completed the lineup. With this comparatively green team the booters compiled three wins, two against Alliance and one against Grove City, while losing to Rochester, Slippery Rock, Carnegie Tech, and Oberlin.

The outstanding player for Allegheny this year has been little Russ Minnick, whose consistently fine play sparked the Gators in every game. Goalie Nichols also deserves praise for his fine work in guarding the Allegheny net. Perhaps the season's greatest thrill was provided by Tommy Wigton, playing his first game, who kicked the lone tally that upset the Crimson eleven of Grove City.

All in all, Coach Way should be very proud of his squad and the type of soccer they have played. The schedule was particularly difficult this year, with Rochester, Slippery Rock, and Oberlin boasting of "powerhouse" elevens.

Friday's game saw the powerful Oberlin eleven whip the Gators, 5 to 0. Held to a single goal for two quarters, the Yeomen got going in the second half and scored four quick points. The Gators lost the services of Russ Minnick early in the game when he collided with an Oberlin player and received a severe head injury.

Seniors Klein, Nichols, Thomas, Winkler, Jones, and Larson will be lost through graduation next year. However, eight lettermen will form a strong nucleus for Coach Way, should soccer be continued in 1943.

"fight" which had been so sorely lacking up to that point. This "peak" carried through the Rochester engagement, in which the Gators played hard, aggressive ball even though they were overwhelmed in the scoring column.

The 1942 gridiron campaign was launched very inauspiciously on October 3, when Haverford college's powerful Mainliners quietly invaded Montgomery Field, went efficiently about the task of pushing the Gators around the field, and journeyed back to Philadelphia sporting a well-deserved 33-0 triumph.

The following Saturday Captain Pierce and his gridders invaded the midwest, where they came, saw, and conquered Earlham college of Richmond, Indiana, 32-0. This startling score delighted the entire student body, and seemed to instill a little more life into the team, but, it is sad to relate, on looking at the season in retrospect, it seems that the Earlham eleven is practically unknown, and has been "crushed" by almost all of its opponents.

On the 17th of October the Gators were once again "on the road," this time meeting Kenyon college's smooth working outfit in Gambier, Ohio. The Allegheny warriors gave them a battle, but the green-clad Ohioans experienced little difficulty in "powerhousing" the Blue and Gold into submission, 20-0.

Before a large and enthusiastic (thanks to the aviation cadets) Homecoming Day crowd, the Werner-men gave battle to their ancient and time honored rivals from Grove City. The Grovers took advantage of two early breaks to assume a 13-0 lead at halftime. A rejuvenated band of Gators returned to the rain-soaked field and gave the old grads what they had come to see, a fighting eleven which didn't give in till the final whistle spelled out a 13-7 defeat.

October 31 found the Blue and Gold gridders definitely "out of their class," but nonetheless they put on their best performance of the season, only to lose to the Rivermen of Rochester university by a 41-0 count. The once beaten Rochester steamroller was held to a 13-0 half-time score, but broke loose for four tallies in the final half.

The final leaf in the 1942 grid book was added last Saturday as Oberlin college's none-too-strong eleven overwhelmed the hapless Gators, 47-0, in a veritable travesty of the game of football. Everything that should never happen to a good pigskin aggregation happened to Allegheny—numerous fumbles, an untimely blocked kick, costly intercepted passes, poor blocking and miserable tackling. Perhaps it is fortunate that there will be no intercollegiate football in 1943, because it seems that the bottom dropped out of the Allegheny pigskin effort on November 7, 1942.

Even though the squad as a whole was sorely lacking in spirit and "will to win," absolutely no credit can be taken away from such men as Andy Kapusta, Bob Ende, Captain Bill Pierce, Jim Pysher, Buck Newson, and Bob Stanton, who gave the game everything they had every minute of the time. It is certainly a sorry plight when the freshmen and sophomores have 90% of the spirit, while the upperclassmen walk around "dead on their feet."

THE COFFIN CORNER

As I predicted in my first column, the COFFIN CORNER is not yet forgotten. It has been the victim of at least two attempts at plagiarism: Sutton's one weak stand, the Corn Corner; and Smith's forthcoming effort in the Gay Gator, entitled the Coughin' Corner. So much to my credit. I feel that the chief fault of this institutional gem, the COFFIN CORNER, lies in the fact that too many issues have been mere statements of facts, not controversial.

People—ordinary ones and Alleghenians—will read English prose if it looks interesting, say "Yes, that's right," and immediately forget what they have read. Unless a writer takes a stand on something and sticks his neck out, his writings are somewhat in vain. Witness the first edition of this column, where the writer knocked sororities to pieces. He played up their faults only, ignoring completely their good points—of these there are many. But by attacking the problem in this way, he got a flood of objections, quite correctly so, culminated by Miss Lee's letter summing up the positive qualities of Allegheny's sororities. All this made worth while the attack.

All of which is a prelude and justification for my stand this week. Anyone who has had the patience to read this far may be interested to know that I think Allegheny is way off the beam. We are behind the times. We are running on a hypocritical basis. We are avoiding issues. We are pacifists and escapists. In short, we don't know what it's all about.

I would like a job, starting next year, telling Dr. Schultz and the authorities how to run this college. I would expect a salary of $10,000 a year; what I would propose to do and its resulting value to Allegheny when put into effect would be well worth that sum. Of course there won't be any such job open to me or anyone else, Allegheny is too deeply entrenched in her ruts to new and better theories of modern education. So I shall have to be content with giving you a few ideas, to think about only, perhaps to wish for.

Brief sketch of an idealistic Allegheny:

1. A general liberalizing of the boy-girl program. After all we're supposed to be being made ready for life. If you can't take care of yourself in an Allegheny fraternity house, Miss Coed, I pity you when you get out in the cruel world. Miss Skinner doesn't agree. I think she's somewhat selfish. She and most of the faculty are afraid of what might happen to them; they think about fond parents' reactions. And they have to. But such restrictions as no fraternity unchaperoned open houses, all girls in at 11, etc., remind me definitely of the days of the Blue Laws. It's along the same lines as prohibition—keep it from them, and they'll find ways to get it. And they'll go farther. Ask Dr. Giddens. He'll tell you it's a law you can't get around. I consider myself as moral and conservative as the next person. But the end does not justify the means: the rule should be open-minded education, not undercover restrictions.

2. A revision of courses offered: cut out those which have little or no practical value. Don't go to the extreme of making Allegheny a technical school, which is what the army will do within a year or so anyhow. But make practical-value courses the rule rather than the exception. Example, a current-events course, following the course of the war and world events. Also, cut down required courses to a minimum. Especially in these days no student will study with enthusiasm a course he is forced to take, in which he has no interest.

3. Cut down activities. Too many weak-minded students lose their sense of perspective and get in over their heads. They need some guidance and restrictions, in order to be able to give the right proportion to the right things.

4. Take the artificiality out of Allegheny. Give the student a dose of the world as it really is. Don't keep him sheltered—not that it can be done effectively anyhow.

5. Summary—let's take ourselves apart, quit taking Allegheny's traditional policies for granted; see why we do as we do; see whether we should be revising our standards; at least attack the problem in a manner open and above board; no punches pulled. Yours for an Allegheny with perspective and insight, for better or for worse.

Service Flag Purchased By A.U.C.

A service flag, to be placed on the chapel platform in honor of all Alleghenians in service, was purchased last week and should arrive soon.

To honor each individual Alleghenian now in the Army, Navy, or Marines, it is planned to erect a bulletin board somewhere on the campus in the near future. The name, year, and branch of service of each student will be listed.
