Harold Stassen Asserts His Opinions On World Situation By Phone Hookup

by Joe Friedman

Speaking by telephone from Philadelphia to an audience of more than three hundred in Ford Chapel Tuesday evening, Harold C. Stassen expressed his views on many facets of the current international situation. The prominent Republican leader and university president was interviewed by Dr. Paul Giddens. Mr. Stassen's voice was slightly amplified by physics department equipment, but he was not completely audible.

Mr. Stassen was not supplied beforehand with the nineteen questions put to him during the half-hour interview. His answers, while of a general nature, showed a good comprehensive knowledge of conditions abroad. He recently returned from an extensive world tour.

When the subject of Formosa came up, Mr. Stassen made what were regarded as his most controversial remarks. While stressing the importance of the island in our eastern defense perimeter, he warned against over-fortification which would make Red China uneasy. Many statesmen oppose this conciliatory view. In the faculty forum which followed the interview, however, Dr. Giddens pointed out that Formosa is not ours to dispose of in any case; its disposition it to be incorporated in the Japanese Peace Treaty.

In regard to Korea, Mr. Stassen was firm in his conviction that U.N. forces should not withdraw, nor "go forward in such a positive military (Continued on page 6)

Bi-weekly Series Of Current Affairs Talks Begins Next Wednesday

Mr. Joseph Devlin, chairman of the assembly committee, has announced that a series of Wednesday meetings of discussion concerning current affairs will be inaugurated on Wednesday, February 28 from 7 to 8 p.m.

These meetings, which were suggested by Dr. Louis T. Benezet, were titled Friday Forums, and were originally to be held during a special assembly on Fridays.

Dr. Paul Giddens will summarize current events at the initial meeting, while Mr. Devlin will discuss recent happenings at the UN.

The meetings, to be held every other Wednesday, will take place in the Pine Room of Brooks Hall.

Bates Announces Staff Promotions, Additions

Sam Bates, Editor-in-Chief of The Campus, has announced two staff promotions and two appointments. Ann Warner has been promoted to Copy Editor and Bob Park has been named Assistant Make-up Editor.

A sophomore, Miss Warner has been a member of the staff since her freshman year. She is active in Chapel Choir and intramural sports, and is a member of Alpha Chi Omega.

Park has been appointed to replace Jack Barrows, Make-Up Editor, who is currently attending the Washington Semester. A freshman, Park has recently been pledged to Alpha Chi Rho, and is a member of Chapel Choir.

Freshman Ed Davidowitz and Sandy Reitman, both Alpha Chi Rho pledges, have been named to the Copy Desk.

Six Speakers Compete In Wakefield Contest Last Night In Chapel

The Wakefield Oratorical Contest, sponsored by the Philo-Franklin Speech Union, was held last night at 8:15 p.m. in the Chapel. Due to the publication date of The Campus results of the contest were unobtainable.

Ten-minute orations were delivered on the following topics: "The Man Who Should Be Our Next President", a dissertation on Taft's qualifications, by Wilson Boots; "Instruments of Death", a discussion of traffic accidents, by Joan McCafferty; "The Distraught Pessimist", by Dean Titus; "Street Cleaning", dealing with Universal Military Training, by Bob Wurster; "Mechanization of the Arts", by Barbara Bounds; and "Pacifism", by Tyler Hayes.

First, second, and third prizes of $25, $15, and $10 respectively were awarded to the winners: In addition, the highest ranking man and woman will represent Allegheny at the State Tournament to be held in Philadelphia March 8 to 10.

Judges for the event were Dr. Frederick F. Seely, Miss Jean Isherwood, and Dr. Allen B. Edwards. Chairman was Miss Patricia O'Connell.

Playshop To Import Wiseman's Redheads For Repeat In "Life With Father" Antics

An Alleghenian goes to high school and the high school comes to college! This interesting circumstance is explained by the events leading up to the opening of "Life with Father", which begins its run tonight at the Playshop and plays through Saturday.

"Life with Father", a successful show in New York and produced by many professional and amateur groups throughout the country in recent years, was chosen by Meadville High School as its "project" for this year. The play, a difficult one, requires an especially capable director. The Playshop was called in to assist in this matter and Phil Wiseman, an Allegheny senior, gathered his books and started to high school.

Seven weeks of rehearsal, an excellent cast—and the show was on for a one-night stand played for a capacity crowd. On hand that evening were several members of the Allegheny Drama Department, who deemed the show a success and worthy of another run. The cast was invited, and they accepted the unprecedented invitation to play on the Playshop stage.

Francis Kirkpatrick will be seen as Clarence Day, the bellowing, domineering father who admits to his family's dismay that "I have never been baptized." In this bel- (Continued on page 3)

Second Chamber Music Concert Will Be Given In Chapel, 8:15 Tonight

The second of a series of chamber music concerts, featuring students, faculty members, and guest artists, will be presented tonight at 8:15 p.m. in Ford Memorial Chapel. The opening number will be a Trio for piano, flute, and cello by Carl Maria von Weber. The composition will be performed by guest pianist, Evelyn Welch; flutist, Roy L. Phillips, of Meadville, and cellist, Lilly Neurath.

Second on the program will be "Four Bagatelles" for piano, two violins, and cello by Antonin Dvorak. Clifford Skinner, pianist, Ardath Chandler and Herbert Neurath, violinists, and Lilly Neurath, cellist, will perform in this number.

FREE!

A free subscription to The Campus for the remainder of the semester will be sent to any undergraduate Alleghenian who has entered the Armed Services since September.

Interested GI's or their friends are urged to notify The Campus of the addresses of servicemen.

The following number, "Two English Folk Songs," is arranged for voice and violin by Ralph Vaughan Williams. Diane Luvaas, mezzo-soprano, will be featured as soloist in this selection.

The program will close with a presentation of the "Horn Trio" by Brahms, a work written for piano, French horn and violin. This composition will be played by Mrs. Welch, Donald Ward, leading French horn player of the Erie Philharmonic Orchestra and a former Allegheny student, and Herbert Neurath.

No admission will be charged for the concert.

CAR REGISTRATION

Kent Allison, chairman of the parking regulations committee, has announced that each student, faculty, and administration automobile owner will be required to register his car and purchase a license plate. This action is being taken, said chairman Allison, because the sticker system established last year has proven inadequate.

Registration will take place on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, February 26, 27, and 28, at the Registrar's window in Bentley Hall between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

A charge of twenty-five cents will be made to defray the cost of the license plate.

There will be a five-dollar fine assessed against any car owner who fails to register his vehicle and purchase a plate.

Virgie Lou Oehmler Elected May Queen; Bunny Griffiths Chosen Maid of Honor

Virgie Lou Oehmler

Virgie Lou Oehmler was chosen as 1951 May Queen as a result of the elections held last Thursday and Friday, February 15 and 16. Bunny Griffiths will be Maid of Honor, and Jo Anderson, Elie Miller, Julie Phythyon, and Jean Vines will serve on the Court. Dee Cunningham, Suzy Reid, and Jerry MacGregor were elected Junior, Sophomore, and Freshman Charm Queens, respectively.

"Listen My Children" Title Of Skit Night; Will Be Given March 8

This year's all-college skit night, established last year with "Show Down", will be titled "Listen My Children", and will be produced Thursday, March 8, at 8:15 p.m. at the Meadville High School Auditorium.

Last year's entertainment was organized on a fraternity-sorority basis, and the choice of thematic material was left to the discretion of the individual organizations. "Listen My Children" will consist of four skits produced by the four classes, and nursery rhymes, chosen by the class committees in charge of production, will be the themes.

The freshman class has chosen Old King Cole; the sophomore class, Simple Simon; the junior class, Three Blind Mice; the senior class has not as yet chosen a rhyme.

Co-chairmen in charge of the entire production are Jane Keffer and Bill McClung. Judy Smith is publicity chairman, and B. J. Coulston is script and skit co-ordinator.

Co-chairmen in charge of the freshman skit are Jim Smith and Harriet McCafferty; chairman of the sophomore skit, Harry Stewart; the junior skit, Bill Allison; and the senior skit, Jane Hassel.

There will be an admission charge of thirty-five cents. Proceeds of "Listen My Children" will go to the World Students Service Fund committee.

Virgie Lou is an art major, and serves as Art Editor of the Literary Magazine. A former member of Terrapin and a Junior Adviser, she is also a member of Chapel Choir and Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Bunny Griffiths, also an art major, was recently named to "Who's Who". This year she is President of the Pan-Hellenic Council, in which she has for two years represented her sorority, Kappa Alpha Theta.

Jo Anderson, a former Cwen and Junior Adviser, is an English major and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Senior Court and the Student Affairs Committee claim Elie Miller as a member. An English major, Elie was music chairman of A.W.S. in her junior year. She has served her sorority, Kappa Alpha Theta, in the capacities of Scholarship Chairman and Corresponding Secretary. She is another student honored by "Who's Who".

An art major, Julie Phythyon is active in intramural sports, and worked on the Kaldron Advertising Committee.

Jean Vines, a biology major, served as a Cwen in her sophomore year. She has been active in the Sailing Club, and is a member of Phi Beta Phi.

Junior Charm Queen Dee Cunningham is an elementary education major. A member of Kappa Alpha Theta, she is manager of the Allegheny Advertising Agency.

Suzy Reid, Sophomore Charm Queen, is an active participant in intramural sports. Her major field is elementary education.

Jerry MacGregor, representing the freshman class, is an elementary education major. She is interested in intramural basketball and volleyball.

CAMPUS CAPERS

By SAL & SPEED

"Tea for Two" was our theme last Sunday afternoon as we got all spruced up and wended our way down to the Commons Club. A real friendly greeting was accorded us as we entered, and these two kids liked it very much! The warm atmosphere prevailed throughout, and how we did enjoy our cake and tea. Next we meandered (the weather was sensational, yes?) to the Phi Gam abode to find a happy gathering seated within the lush confines of Fiji-land. We were escorted through the house so that we could see the newly-decorated rooms. We especially liked Bill Oehmler's and Larry Oxley's quarters, which were mighty sharp. It was a fine open-house!

On Saturday night last, Mr. Neil Charles and his fine band were on hand to play for our dancing pleasure. The event was our Valentine's dance—adeptly called "Cupid's Capers." And boy, everyone was there, too! It was a nice dance—we liked it.

The BIG STEP, this week, was taken by Jack Sapper, who pinned Pat Eberly; and Tom Snodgrass (SAE-Pitt) and Ida Smythe.

Back-yard Banter: "A Penny A Kiss", done by Eddy Howard and his Orch., is the current juke box favorite, according to our faithful poller, Martha Oram . . . Beware of Bob Siemons' plaid tie—it has proven to be a jinx for both him and Skip Zehring . . . Congratulations to those who will participate in the May Day Fete . . . The Phi Gams sure made a hit with the girls in Brooks with their gift of two record albums for Valentine's Day . . . And has the flu arrived or has it arrived!! Those with the highest fevers get priority down at the infirmary—it isn't SO crowded . . . Don't forget to get a new license plate for your flivver next week . . . Don't ask Janie Walker if she's had any trouble with water in the gasoline of her Dodge . . . Upon spotting Jerry Watson poring over some books in Reis Library, Mr. Benjamin presented him with a cigar and said, "We give one to every newcomer." . . . Have you seen those matches the "2nd Mid Gals" are sporting? . . . Say, if the draft age drops any lower, they'll have to outfit them in Hopalong Cassidy suits.

Speaking of the draft, that well-worn word (oh look, Dr. Seely, alliteration!), we have just received a communique from Lamont Cranston—better known as the Boy Draftee. It seems he has vanished to a snug hideaway in the Okifnoke Swamps (we wonder why) despite the efforts of the F.B.I. to track him down. Will he exist on his meager rations? Will the F.B.I. find him? Is he bound for the army? Do you really care? Heck, we don't!

Prof. of the Week: Pat Tanton, for reasons best known to ourselves.

And so we come to the end of another rhubarb, designed just for you, of course. May we add that the Defense Department is showing no leniency toward athletes with regard to the selective service. In Brooklyn they're afraid that they'll draft the Dodgers! Oops.

There's a big, big weekend comin' up now with lots of social activity. We'll have our hands full next week. 'Til then—

Amen.

Awareness!

A former president of Harvard University once quipped, "It is no wonder that Harvard is a storehouse of knowledge; every entering freshman brings with him into the University a bit of knowledge, and the seniors, when they leave, take none with them." We may smile at that. But the remark becomes less smile-worthy when we reflect that to a greater extent than we wish to admit, it applies equally to Allegheny, our own "Harvard of the West."

A lot of gripes have been kicked around the campus since September. Dissatisfaction with the athletic teams, now, especially, the basketball team, is common. Hard feelings have sprung up over this past rush week. Protests of too little school spirit are heard more and more frequently now, when solidarity is especially needed. Students complain incessantly about poor scheduling of the social calendar, and faculty members are appalled at lack of student interest in "vital affairs."

Gripping has its legitimate place on any campus. Yet, with the exception of the last one mentioned, these gripes are obviously superficial. There is something wrong that lies deeper, something that does not lie on the surface, like the grease puddles on Grille coffee. This "something wrong" is admittedly intangible, and we do not now hope to define it precisely. However we would like to help identify it. Only if we are aware of its existence can we hope to correct it.

Awareness! Perhaps the word has been overworked in this column; its significance however, is undeniable. A recent New York Times poll indicated that only 36% of the American population were aware that Dean Acheson is the United States Secretary of State. Incredible, yes, but scarcely more incredible than the fact that a scant 10% of the Allegheny student population was fully enough aware of Andrew Cordier's talk here to take advantage of the opportunity of hearing him. In a college, potentially a seedbed of new thinking, we see ourselves content to con the dried facts of our textbooks. We would rather drill our minds than think with them. Last week's Life quotes one of Robert Hutchins' wisecracks on American learning: "The regular cycle . . . from the bottom to the top, is to take a course, memorize it, take a test on it, pass it, forget it." Granting that there can be no ideas without familiarity with facts, we must realize that thinking does not stop with memorization of facts, but that after amassing them, must go beyond. Ultimate knowledge lies neither in the facts in textbooks, the statements of professors, nor the examples and ideologies of parents.

There is no real lack of stimulation at Allegheny. A faculty-student panel discussion can raise as profound questions as the Chicago Roundtable. But the panel cannot stimulate an empty hall. The Sinfonietta may not interpret Mendelssohn as niftily as the Trieste Trio, but even the perfectionist can find in its programs applaudable passages. He cannot applaud or criticize unless he is there, however. We are not advocating intellectual bigotry, but broadness of mind. One may clink nickels into the jukebox without prostituting his taste.

We agree that most of us have had an easy time of it. There is always reluctance to strike off into new tangents of thought when the old patterns have been comfortable. But our world has become one of imminent decisions, and the old patterns of thought will not always make them. There must be fresh views and new attacks. These have never oozed from stagnant minds. Somehow we must hammer into our consciousness the realization that the happy truism is true—the people now in college are the ones who will make, and even who ought to be making right now, those decisions of whether or not to touch off the A-bomb, the H-bomb, or the X-bomb. It is not sufficient that we hoard the fact of Dean Acheson's being Secretary of State. We must also know his political theory, and decide whether or not we approve of it. We must decide who to take to the Spring Formal, but we must also decide who to put in the presidency. We must read the "Campus Capers," but we must also read Steinbeck's latest novel, and decide whether we will have more like it.

We cannot make any one of these decisions until we have become aware of the necessity of their being made!

Reporter Enlightened After Interview With Air Force Colonel Last Saturday

by Bert Katz

Last Saturday a member of The Campus brass told me to go out and interview an Air Force Colonel, who happened to be moseying around the campus at the time. This delighted me no end, because there is nothing I like more than interviewing militarists. They are such a lovable bunch of people. I immediately sat down and planned my attack; I was going to knock him off his feet with flattery; I was going to make this tenderfoot feel like General MacArthur himself. Right after I got my questions assembled, I wandered out on campus, and began my search. Naturally I had little trouble finding him, the campus being so small. He was standing on the steps of Bentley taking in a little fresh air.

Approaching him in my own inimitable, confident way, I said, "General, (already I'm flattering him) I realize that you are a very busy man, but I wonder if I may have a few minutes of your time? I represent The Campus? Allegheny's own weekly newspaper? I'd like to ask you a few questions."

"What are you doing, taking a poll, son?"

Immediately after hearing this, I reached the decision that this boy had little in the way of gray matter. However, I overlooked it; if he were smart, he wouldn't be an enlisted man. "No sir, but I knew that you were the man to see about the R.O. T.C., air corps, and all that stuff."

Then he smiled as though he were playing along with a joke, and replied "Well, anything I can do to 'help'?"

"My first question is, do you think an R.O.T.C. unit at Allegheny would work out well? What would be its advantages? And why?"

"Well son, offhand I couldn't say."

I began to realize that this cooky wasn't so stupid. As a matter of fact, he must be playing it cool. However, I wasn't going to become discouraged, and so I tried again. "What type of training programs does the Air Force offer prospective enlistees?"

REDHEADS

ligerent vein, Father Day leads his wife and their four redheaded sons through three acts of hilarious comedy.

A veteran of Playshop productions will be a member of the cast. Derry Bird, son of Mrs. G. G. Bird, plays one of the sons. He has been seen in the Children's Theater productions of "King Midas", "Shoemaker and the Elves", and "Tom Sawyer". Along with Kirkpatrick and the three other boys who play the Day sons, Derry had to go to a beauty parlor and have his hair bleached red for his role.

About the director: Phil Wiseman has done an excellent job with "Life with Father". An amateur director working with an inexperienced cast has a right to be proud of a show as good as this one. Phil has done many roles at the Playshop and has worked here in Meadville with the Penn Players. This directing job is his senior comprehensive in Drama.

February 25-28 (Park)—Call Me Mister, with Betty Grable and Dan Dailey. A nearly-divorced couple get together in a Technicolor postwar Japan to put on a big musical show for the soldiers. Everything comes out fine at the end.

"A sock filmusical . . . Smooth, easy-to-take screen entertainment . . . Snappy dialog. The two stars are excellent and Danny Thomas scores a solid personal success with his sympathetic type of comedy."

—Variety

"Is but a faint reminder of the original stage review, and is a very frank reminder of the sexiness of Miss G. She is flung in your face . . . in a variety of revealing costumes. Mr. Dailey handles a random role moderately well . . . A ragtag-and-bobtail show."

—New York Times

"Oh, all kinds of types, I guess."

Then I became a little peeved. These soldiers are all alike, I thought. "Now, General, sir, I read somewhere that the Air Force is steadily expanding. What would this expansion mean in reference to requirements? To make my question a little clearer, what would this mean in reference to specialized training, etc.?"

"I imagine it would mean quite a bit."

I didn't know whether to hit him or forget it. I forgot it. "Would you care to make one final statement, in regard to the possibility of an R.O.T.C. unit at Allegheny, the merits of the United States Air Force, your outlook on the current world situation, your impression of the Allegheny campus, the National League pennant race, or anything else of general importance?"

"Not especially."

"Well, Colonel, (I demoted him to his proper rank since I was through with him) you've been of tremendous assistance to us. We thank you."

"That's all right, my boy. Now will you excuse me? I've gotta go downstairs, and pick up a bag."

You know, it's amazing how much these men in their new Air Force uniforms look like mailmen.

Authoress To Speak

Emily Kimbrough, author of the best-seller, "The Innocents From Indiana" and other popular books, will speak here on Thursday, March 15. Miss Kimbrough was co-author with Cornelia Otis Skinner of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay."

Maturity Discussed By Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke In Chapel Last Sunday

Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke, Resident Bishop of the Pittsburgh Area of the Methodist Church, concluded the Religion-in-Life week activities when he spoke in Chapel last Sunday morning on the topic "Let's Grow Up".

Bishop Wicke pointed out that one cannot always remain a child but must go on to maturity, and stressed the fact that this can be done only through God. While a child is a bundle of possibilities, he asserted that a man should be a center of hope.

Many of the difficulties of the world today, according to Bishop Wicke, stem from the fact that its leaders have never developed their possibilities, but have retained their childish egotism in a desire to show their authority.

Bishop Wicke stated that a man must have a wider prospective than that of a child in understanding God's will. A child lives in the realm of fancy, he said, but a man lives in the realm of Christian imagination. Through this realm man can overleap the centuries and identify himself with Christ's contemporaries.

Edinboro Teachers Hand Gator Finmen Second Loss

Thiel Sixth Victim, 37-29, After Tankers Bow To Tutors, 48-27

by Dino Nellas

Allegheny's swimming team received its first defeat at the hands of a district foe last week when Edinboro thumped them 48-27. Two days later they barely eked out a victory over Thiel, 37-29. The even split gave Allegheny a record of 6 wins and 2 losses with two dual meets still remaining. Both meets were away from home.

Allegheny got off to a bad start by losing the first three events of the Edinboro meet and just couldn't get on the victory trail. Capt. Bob Zuberbuhler and Chet Hearn captured the only two firsts for Allegheny. Zuby's victory was especially significant because he handily defeated his strongest backstroke competitor in the district and recorded his best official time of the year, 2:30.1. Four other improved performances were also turned in by Allegheny men. Muir and Enselberg swam their best times this year in the 220-yard free style event but were both just touched out in the most exciting race of the meet. Schenck and Case both broke 59 seconds in the 100 yard dash to take a second and third respectively.

In the Thiel meet Allegheny again got off on the wrong foot by losing the initial event, the medley relay. However, with Hearn and Schenck leading the way the Gators bounced right back to win the next two events. Then Muir crawled his way to a second in the 100-yard dash. In the 200-yard backstroke, event Capt. Zuberbuhler set a new pool record of 2:35.

Jaws dropped and eyes popped as Zuberbuhler backstroked the 400-yard freestyle event to gain a second place. At the end of this event the score was 30-29 in favor of Allegheny. In the final event of the meet, the freestyle relay, Edinboro was leading when Allegheny's third man, Muir, dove in, Muir cut the lead down to one body length going into his final turn. He missed touching the wall on this turn and so he had to back paddle to avoid being disqualified. However, Muir made a tremendous spurt and almost caught his man. Chet Hearn then took over and clinched the event and the meet by swimming his 100-yards in the fine time of 55.8 seconds.

Member Of Varsity Cage Squad Tells Of Team's Journey To Buffalo And Rochester

by Don Weaver

Allegheny's varsity basketball team made a two day tour of Northern New York State last weekend, playing games against Buffalo State Friday night at Buffalo and opposing the University of Rochester Saturday night at Rochester.

Travelling by Greyhound, the 12 man squad arrived at Buffalo late Friday afternoon and checked into the Buffalo Athletic club, which was considered by everyone as first rate in regard to accommodations.

The game that night was played at the 74th Regiment Armory, which seemed large enough to house an army. The basketball court is located at one end of the huge drill hall. In addition to the main floor there are six smaller ones with an indoor bicycle track surrounding these. The floor itself proved to be very rough, and this fact coupled with its peculiar location was an important factor in the outcome of the game. Present in the stands at this game were four faithful Gator followers who made the northern trek to give their support.

Saturday morning was spent journeying toward Rochester, where upon arriving at about noon the team checked in at the Hotel Cadillac. The afternoon was free to be spent as each one desired. Some took in a show, others saw the sights of Rochester, while a few, a definite minority to be sure, attempted to study. Rink Kofford and Jack Potter made a very popular move by renting a television set.

The Palestra of the University of Rochester is, in contrast to the site of the previous evening game, one of the finest gyms in which the team has played. The floor is large and in fine condition and the stands seat a spacious crowd. The game that night was exceedingly well played as would be expected on a court of that type and size.

The team remained in Rochester Saturday night and left for Meadville early Sunday morning. The noon meal was partaken enroute at Fredonia and this meal, as all the rest, more than satisfied the appetites of the Hilltop athletes.

The trip was not successful in bettering the season's record, but both nights the Gators were fighting all the way and were very much in the games, which the respective scores fail to show.

Gator Cagers Drop Games To Rochester And Buffalo State

The Allegheny basketball squad completed an unsuccessful two game road trip last weekend that saw them absorb defeats from Buffalo State Teachers College and the University of Rochester by scores of 60-46 and 67-50 respectively.

Against Buffalo last Friday night, the Gators showed some signs of life in the second period, when they poured through 21 points. With Bud McIndoe scoring effectively with his two-handed jump shot, they were able to turn a nine to eight first quarter deficit into a 29-24 half-time bulge, but Buffalo came back strong in the second half. The Allegheny lead was quickly wiped out with ten straight points as the Teachers took command and put the game on ice. They outscored the Gators 36-17 in the final two periods.

Bud McIndoe, as usual, paced the Gator scoring as he tossed in 15 points. Ed Snyder, who garnered ten, was the only other Allegheny shooter to score in double figures.

For Buffalo, Milton Garfield, one of the Teachers' reserves, came off the bench to lead his team in scoring with 22 points, most of them coming in the second half. Bob Lang also got 19 for the victors.

Winners of Saturday's Bridge Tourney Listed

Joyce Lowry, chairman of the committee for the National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament, has announced the winners of Saturday's playoffs. First place winners were Hoot Gibson and Ray Cook. Second place was captured by Ben Williamson and Vic Sandberg, while third and fourth were taken by Betts Greenlund and Mary Jane Bates, and Dan Hess and Vladimir Poliakov, respectively.

Sometime this week these people will play eighteen hands of duplicate bridge sent by the National Committee. The results will be sent to committee headquarters where they will be judged on scores and skill.

The sixteen highest colleges in the United States will send their representatives to the finals to be held in Chicago sometime in April. Contestants will have all expenses paid to and from the tournament, and entertainment will include a formal dinner for the sixteen partners.

Ault Named President Of Boots and Saddles

The members of the Boots and Saddles club met last Monday afternoon to elect officers and to plan their activities for the spring. Peggy Ault was elected president, while Jo Allegretti, Ginny Johnson, and Jean Freeman were chosen to serve as vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively.

Definite plans were made for the clearing of the bridle path behind the stable and a horse show in May. Also on the agenda for the club is the showing of the film "Forward Seat Riding", which will be seen on March 21 at 3:30 and 7:00 o'clock.

BASKETBALL

 Against Rochester the following evening, the Gators also had one good period, this time the first. With the Rivermen employing a zone defense, Allegheny took a 14-12 first quarter lead, but as Rochester switched to a man to man, the Gators wilted and were outscored in the 2nd frame 16-7. Rochester went on from there to rack up an easy victory.

Bud McIndoe's inability to hit with his usual consistency contributed to the Gators' downfall. Usually good for 15 to 20 points a game, Bud was held to a mere six, all of them coming in the first period. He was stymied the rest of the way by John Donahue, the Rochester center. Donahue played an excellent defensive as he allowed McIndoe only three unsuccessful shots during the second half.

Ed Snyder who scored 15, and Bill Courtney with 12 played their best games of the season as they tried to keep the Gators in the ball game. Paul Roese with seven, Jack Potter with six, and Don Weaver and Bob Buck with two apiece rounded out the Gator scoring. The high man for Rochester was Donahue with 17 points.

The loss was the eighth in a row for the Gators, who have dropped ten of eleven starts this season. They resume play tonight against Geneva, at Beaver Falls.

STASSEN

 manner as to increase the danger of a third world war." If we attempt to crush Red China, he said, military involvement with Russia is almost certain. He agreed with General MacArthur that the recrossing of the 38th parallel is an "academic question", but felt that we should not, in any case, go far beyond it. He stated that the original North Korean attack was "a calculated, planned action to involve the United States in war."

"The Voice of America broadcasts are being heard abroad to some degree, and with moderate success," said Mr. Stassen in response to another question. He recommended that they be taken out of State Department jurisdiction, as was the Marshall Plan, and handled by a separate administration as "only part of the overall propaganda effort."

In discussing the possibilities of future revolution within the Iron Curtain and Russia itself, Mr. Stassen disagreed with Dr. Knights, who had said earlier that such revolutions were most improbable. Stassen said he had obtained information from people in Europe who "should know about the resentment to the regime within Russia" to the effect that "violent opposition" was flaring up, especially among Russia's racial minorities, restless peasants and army veterans.

When asked if he felt the United Nations was worth preserving, Mr. Stassen said it definitely was. He opposed a reorganization of the U. N. that would exclude Russia and her allies—"we should continue to work along with them." He favored the immediate cessation of "all shipments of war supplies of any kind" to aggressor-branded Red China by the United Nations. "Then wait and see what happens next," he said.

After answering other questions concerning Nehru, United States prestige in Europe, the defense effort in Western Europe, and the selection of shady allies by the U.S., Mr. Stassen concluded with a commendation of Allegheny students for their interest in international affairs, and a statement on the prospect for world peace. "If we remain strong and alert, the Communists will not start a new war," he said, "But we may blunder into it."
