WORLD NEWS

By Jeanette Pyle

Trouble in Greece

The most serious development in the war today seems to be the civil war in Greece. Here the E.A.M., consisting of the guerrilla troops who fought against the Germans and the Italians, and primarily a Leftist organization, refused a British order to disarm. As a result, fighting of quite a severe character, has broken out. The British are pushing the matter and refuse to let Premier Papandreou resign. The United States is maintaining a hands-off attitude.

The European Battlefronts

About the only spectacular gains have been made by the Russians in Hungary. They have broken across the Danube river south of Budapest and reached Lake Balaton, only 40 miles from Austria. Another Russian drive is coming in north of Budapest. These new Russian moves could either be aimed at encircling Budapest or at driving straight for Austria.

In Italy, Ravenna has been captured, but this does not represent any great gain.

Along the French-German border, the Allied troops are being held all along the edge of the Cologne plain. Further south, small advances are being made in the Saar Basin and in Alsace.

Third Anniversary of Pearl Harbor

American forces in the Philippines celebrated Pearl Harbor Day by bombing Tokyo and, more important, by coming in from the rear of the Japanese forces on Leyte Island, bombarding them from Ormoc Bay, and then landing. On Monday, Ormoc, a good deep-water port, was captured. This gives the Americans a good foothold behind the Japanese lines. Also on December 7 there was a severe earthquake and tidal wave in central Japan.

A. W. S. Senate Chooses New Proctors For Second Quarter

Quiet proctors, chosen by the A. W. S. Senate for the following quarter, were announced last week.

That Senate members are to aid proctors in their sections was also decided at the last meeting. Quiet hours after 12 midnight will be strictly enforced.

Proctors chosen for freshman houses are: Mary Welty, Janet Ansley, Beebe house; Nancy McCandless, Dorothy Marsh, Joan Matthews, Tarbell; Gloria Shaul, Joan Graeber, Cochran; Doris Hickling, Filis Baldwin, Elizabeth Hinman, Caffisch, section 1; Jean Sayres, Beverley McKennett, Helen Clay, Caffisch, section 2; Janet Molvie, Mary Lee Smith, Caffisch, section 3; Virginia Anderson, Vera Stunder, Marion Hyde, Caffisch, section 4; Nancy Fulton, Betty Borgh, Marjorie Fox, Caffisch, section 5. These proctors are also expected to help freshman Senate members in checking the sign-out books.

Proctors for Brooks hall are: Mary Burhans, '45, Gloria Keller, '46, Elizabeth McDougal, '45, Jane Adams, '45, Elizabeth Crawford, '45, Sara Axelson, '45, Walker; Ruth Hykes, '46, Janet Bland, '45, Sheila Malton, '47, new Brooks; Dorothy Powers, '46, first Brooks; Elizabeth Dewitt, '47, second front; Corinne Irwin, '47, third front; Portiaa Gott, '47, Priscilla Greer, '46, second mid; Joan Zook, '47, Betty Crabbs, '47, third mid; Jean Montgomery, '47, second back; Winifred Sutter, '47, third back; Evelyn Schweitzer, '48, fourth front, and Shirley Rouse, '47, fourth back.

MRS. CLARK SNOWBOUND

Mrs. Mark Clark, who was scheduled to lecture in the chapel last night, was snowbound in Erie. College officials could not meet her by automobile, and bus service between Erie and Meadville was discontinued because of the storm.

However, President J. Richie Schultz stated, "We hope it will be just a postponement. Mrs. Clark said that all she had heard about Allegheny had made her want to come."

Allegheny Women Win Debate Trophy

Allegheny women debaters won first place in the Ohio Women's Intercollegiate Debate Conference tournament which was held at Capital university, Columbus, Ohio, December 8 and 9. The silver cup trophy awarded to the team will be displayed this year in the speech library in Arter hall. Twelve colleges participated in the event.

Sophie Morrow, '47, first affirmative speaker, and Mildred Ann Ditty, '46, second affirmative speaker, won all six of their debates. Yolanda Trucco, '47, was the second speaker in the six negative debates, while Georgia Kohl, '45, debating the even rounds, and Sallie Lou Connor, '47, debating the odd rounds, alternated as the first negative speaker, each participating in three contests.

Mr. Theodore F. Nelson, assistant professor of speech at Allegheny, is coach of the debate teams.

The proposition for debate in the tournament was the intercollegiate debate topic for 1944: Resolved: That the Federal Government should enact legislation requiring compulsory arbitration of all labor disputes when voluntary efforts have failed.

The tournament is an annual event, and the cup awarded each year will go into final possession of the college which first wins it three times.

The affirmative team in successive rounds defeated Earlham college, Wooster college, Ohio university, Ohio Wesleyan Toledo university and Kent State university. The Allegheny negative teams lost their first two rounds of debate to Bowling Green university and Wittenberg college. They won the next two from Denison university and Capital university. The team lost to Muskingum college in the fifth round and defeated Kent State university in the last.

Allegheny placed first in the tournament with a total of nine debates won and three lost. Bowling Green and Ohio State university tied for second place, each winning eight and losing four. Third place was taken by Muskingum college with seven debates won and five lost.

The Allegheny debaters left for Columbus early Thursday morning, December 7, and returned the following Sunday morning.

January Eighth Is Deadline For Clothing Collection

Ruth Fenn, '45, chairman of the clothing collection sponsored by the Associated Women Students for the liberated peoples of Europe, announced that contributions have been generous. Many coats, sweaters, shirts, socks and other articles of clothing have been turned in.

A box for the collection has been placed in the women's gymnasium in Brooks, where articles may be contributed.

Those who have helped with the publicity for the drive are Margaret Auty, '47, Nancy Briggs, '48, Frances Root, '48, Mary Louise Fulton, '48, Pauline Cole, '48, and Rene Binder, '48.

A mending committee will be set up after Christmas. The deadline for the collection is January 8.

Jane Adams And Phyllis Campbell Win Tournament

Jane Adams, '45, and Phyllis Campbell, '45, Alpha Gamma Delta, won first prize in the Panhellenic bridge tournament held last Friday evening in the Kappa Kappa Gamma and Kappa Alpha Theta sorority rooms. Four representatives from each sorority participated in the contest.

Martha Tawney, Alpha Xi Delta, was chairman of the event. Boxes of stationery were awarded to the winners and miniature book shelves containing small desk gadgets were given to the losers. Cokes and potato chips were served.

Walt Disney Art To Be Exhibited In Reis Library

Presented by the art department in the Reis library this month is a display of Walt Disney originals. These drawings exhibit a range from first drafts through to the final product and have been chosen by the Disney Studios for exhibition and sale. Included are originals from the motion pictures Bambi, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Dumbo, The Practical Pig, Pinocchio, Fantasia, Ferdinand the Bull, and the Reluctant Dragon.

The Disney animated cartoons are an authentic expression of our times. They illustrate the fusion of types of art forms with music artfully woven together and synchronized in perfect timing with the action. They are made possible only by the use of modern science, machinery and materials. The cellulose acetate upon which the characters are painted, the synchronization of sound, the multiplane camera, technicolor and many other types of equipment are all recent inventions. This is an art which could have existed in no other age but our own.

Springing from a humble but typically American interest, the comic strip, Walt Disney and his workers pioneered on uncharted paths to develop an art which reached far beyond the world's expectations. By doing just a little better than the best thought possible, this Kansas city boy, possessed with great imagination and skill, has given us what has come to be recognized as America's first true contribution to the art of the world. One of the outstanding qualities of the animated cartoon is that it reaches more people than any other art, bringing enjoyment to millions and at the same time making available the beauty of line, form, color and rhythm displayed in the rendering.

Walt Disney was born in Chicago on September 5, 1901, where he grew up and attended the public schools, and later attended the Art Institute of Chicago. Just before the United States entered World War I his family moved to Kansas city, and at the age of 17, Disney joined the Red Cross and drove an ambulance on the battle fields of France. When he returned to America he journeyed about the country as a first-class newsreel cameraman. Later he worked for a time in the advertising business, drawing contented cows and well-fed chickens for the farm periodicals. Drawing became associated with photography in Disney's mind and the idea for animated drawings for motion pictures took form.

The exhibit will be in the library though the month of December. Beginning December 18 the library will be open only from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and will be closed from December 23 to December 26, and December 29 to January 2.

Allegheny Students Help Erie Railroad To Resume Operations

Twenty-five Allegheny men students helped to keep the railroads rolling during the week's 20-inch snowfall by answering an appeal made by the Erie railroad to Dean Horace T. Lavelly. Volunteers who would help clear the yards and dig out switches were called for on Tuesday, and the Allegheny group went to work. A number of them also went down again yesterday, because of the acute situation.

On campus a hand snow plow was operated constantly for two days and still it was almost impossible to keep the walks clear. Even sports enthusiasts were overwhelmed as the snow kept falling.

Many professors were unable to get to their eight and nine o'clock classes but they did arrive in time to give scheduled tests.

Announcements at the milk counter yesterday revealed that milk delivery was also delayed, for students were informed, "Only one glass of milk, please. The cow got cold."

Playshop Presents "Janie"

Casting Faculty Members In College Play Is Successful, Ticket Sell-Out Reveals

Mrs. Reith Of American Friends Addresses A. C. C.

Mrs. Patricia Reith, traveling secretary for the American Friends' Service committee, visited campus last week-end. She spoke on Saturday to the Allegheny Christian Council cabinet on "Reconstruction in Europe" and on Sunday in the organization's regular monthly meeting on social problems.

In her talk to the council, Mrs. Keith spoke of hunger-desperate children in Greece who have banded together to commit violent acts for food. Only a small percentage of Europe's children will remain unimpaired physically because of the malnutrition, she stated. Her plea was for action. Conferences with students interested in summer projects were held after the meeting.

Projects discussed by Mrs. Reith are mainly of two kinds, educational and building construction or work projects. The first type are called "caravans," and students participating in them establish facilities of instruction and recreation for children and adults who are not reached by local churches. An example of the other sort is the industrial project in which students live together, work in a factory and attend evening classes in which the problems of that industry are analyzed.

A graduate of the university of Iowa and Yale Divinity school, Mrs. Reith has had varied personal experiences. As a delegate of the American Friends' Service committee, she worked with people and teachers in Mexico, teaching American culture and learning Mexican customs and mores. After the outbreak of the war, she helped teach refugees of various European nations who had landed in Cuba the various skills and knowledges which were required of them in order to enter the United States and other countries.

The secretary's working area includes the Middle Atlantic states.

Annual Formal Christmas Dinner Takes Place Tonight

Ruth Hykes, '46, chairman of A. W. S. dinners, has announced that the annual formal Christmas dinner will be held Thursday evening, December 14, in Brooks dining hall.

President and Mrs. John Richie Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. Horace T. Lavelly, and Mr. and Mrs. Julian L. Ross and son, Peter, will be guests of the student body for the evening.

Members of the dinner committee are Elizabeth Brown, '46, Helen Cavanaugh, '47, and Jean Hollingshead, '47. Colette Brosky, '48, is chairman of the decoration committee.

Trapp Family Scheduled For Next CMA Concert

"As fascinating to hear a second or third time as the first . . . the year's most refreshing entertainment", was the comment that the Boston Herald made of the Trapp Family Singers, who will give a concert for the Civic Music Association on January 11 at Meadville High School.

Eight members of the Trapp family will present the concert. Dr. Franz Warner is their director. The Trapp Family Singers' concert will include old church music of Palestrina and Mozart, songs of Schubert and Brahms, folk-songs of many lands, yodels and mountain calls.

The music will be both instrumental and vocal.

"Janie" can be well labeled a hit in any man's language. Scheduled tonight and tomorrow night at 8:15 p.m., through two hours and a half of the best laughs that have hit Allegheny college Playshop in many a day, "Janie," whose first two performances were enthusiastically received by an audience who left the theatre quoting Elsbeth Colburn's lines, or commenting on "Dean-Pan" Hackett's dead-pan.

Acting for the first time on Allegheny's stage, Joan Peters, '48, together with James Weber, '47, who has had experience in Allegheny productions, gave "Janie's" leads all the life and vim necessary for a good show.

Director John Hulburt's first attempt to use faculty members and wives in a college production was a complete success. Mr. John Cavelli's portrayal of Janie's troubled father was excellent.

Paul Younger's dry humor and Mrs. F. F. Seely's enticing southern accent heightened their parts of bachelor and widow. Mrs. Colburn, a sane level-headed mother, was tops, as played by Mrs. Charles S. Miller, and everyone was glad to see President J. Richie Schultz arrive as Uncle Poodgie to straighten out the whole mess.

One of the most loveable and best-acted roles was Mary Seely's portrayal of Elsbeth, Janie's seven-year-old sister who "will always go for a dime." "Dead-Pan" Hackett provides side-splitting humor for both the second and third act.

"Orchids" too, to a good supporting cast of Gloria Shaul, '48, as Bernadine, and Dorothy Dittmer, '48, as Paula, and to Guy Lawhead, '48, as Rodney and Barbara Dietterich, '47, as Tina, and to the soldiers and remaining cast for a fine performance.

No production, however, would be a success or even a fair evening's entertainment without the hard precision work of the crew and associates.

Miss Mary Jane Chiles was in charge of lighting, while Mrs. Lee Mitchell headed the costumes committee.

"Christmas In Song" Presented By Singers

The Allegheny Singers presented their annual Christmas concert in Ford Memorial chapel, December 10, 1944. The concert, "Christmas in Song," also introduced the Girls' Choir which has been newly formed this year under the direction of Mr. Morten J. Luvaas.

Iona Caldwell, '46, Jay Luvaas, '48, and Diane Luvaas, Richard Hishman and Mrs. Margrethe Hokenson opened the program with flute, oboe, cello, violin and piano, playing the Pastoral Symphony from Handel's Messiah. Also featured during the program was a trumpet solo by Harold Knappenberger, '47.

The impressive silence held by the audience throughout the program paid tribute to the Singers and Mr. Luvaas for the beauty of their songs.

Cwens, dressed in white gowns, ushered and performed the candle-lighting ceremony. The lighting effects were under the direction of John Cremer, '47. The chapel was decorated with Christmas pines by the Singers.

SKIERS: ATTENTION!

Sveinn Olafsson, '48, from Iceland, will teach skiing to both men and women students on twenty-four hours' notice. No credit will be given to students for this, as it is not a regular physical education course. A notice will be posted on Brooks' bulletin board on the day before an instruction period is planned, and the first twenty students to sign up will receive instruction. Those participating will be allowed to ski at any location within reasonable distance of the college.

ISOLATION

That snow-bound feeling of isolation which we are experiencing this week has given us something new to worry about—are we going to get home for Christmas vacation? Will the busses be running by Saturday? Will the roads be clear? Will the trains be on time?

Besides our physical isolation, we have become, although we seldom realize it, isolated mentally. We know and care little about the outside world. It is so easy to become completely centered in our own little college world, and to see no further into the world around us.

Had Mrs. Mark Clark arrived last evening to give her lecture, it is very likely that only one-half to two-thirds of the chapel would have been filled. Mrs. Morgan's lectures, too, were only partially attended. It is this indifference toward outside ideas that is our danger. It is all right if we disagree, and perhaps we are right in some cases, but to keep an open mind is of the highest importance. We hope that Mrs. Clark's lecture is only temporarily postponed, and that we shall be given an opportunity to hear her—and that the chapel will be filled to overflowing.

The concert series of the Civic Music Association are another striking example of our snow-bound attitude. Seventy-five students attended the first concert (this was considered a remarkable college attendance), while at the Berini concert there was only a handful of students. Yet the guest artists secured by the C.M.A. are of national and international repute and well-worth an evening of anyone's time. Furthermore, through a grant by A.U.C. from your own funds to the C.M.A., you are able to attend these concerts by merely presenting your college activities ticket. No where else could you have that opportunity at so small a price.

Perhaps it is a little far to walk down town, perhaps even a little too far to the chapel, but certainly we talk on the telephone at least once a day. A copy of the Pittsburgh Post Gazette is provided daily by the A.W.S. for each section in a central spot, the telephone stand. Yet we know little or nothing of world, national or even local news. The national election momentarily stirred us from this apathy, but, as soon as the returns were in and we knew who had won, we again withdrew into our college world.

In fact, there was so little student interest in the world outside, that the Consolidated Relief Chest was not able to attain even half its goal of $2,500.

Just as we hope that everyone will be able to get home for vacation in spite of the snow, so do we hope even more that we shall realize our mental isolation and use our common sense and will power as snow shovels to clear the way for broader interests.

The staff of the Campus extends its heartiest wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to faculty, students, administration, and especially to our Alleghenians in the service!

ARSENIC

Dear Santa Claus,

I'm writing a Christmas letter to you for all my friends 'cause they can't spell or write like me. First of all I better tell you what I want, and then if there's anything left over you can share it with the rest. I believe that's called Christmas spirit, isn't it?

I'd like a two-hour snap course at eleven o'clock on the first floor of Arter . . . and as many dates as the freshman girls have and as much time to spend in the grill as Georgia Lee, Barbara Johnson and Scotty have . . . snowshoes, one dozen assorted sick excuses from class, a private telephone to call Miss Skinner when I'm in trouble, and a small fortune.

Mr. Benjamin wants three months without a happy birthday song at dinner, a gross of argyle socks, and a typewriter—so he'll have something to do while the girls are knitting at dinner. Miss Skinner wants a volunteer to take the weighty problems off her shoulders. Doc Ogilvie requests three Indian princesses, preferably not sway-back, four Katherine Cornells, and more specials from Grand Central Station.

Martie Mitchell, Pat Karnosh and Benny would like a column worth the space it uses. Buzzie Butt has asked for 600 1945 Kaldrons sealed, signed and delivered by Christmas Eve. Jimmy Weber (you've heard about him, haven't you?) wants that his name should be mentioned three times in a way not too subtle for everyone to know who it is. Jimmy Weber, Jimmy Weber. We can't mention any names, but there are a number of girls who request a pixie to keep the doors of the fire escape open. Franny Wallace wants something of the male variety positively not under six feet. We all want something to do on New Year's Eve and Christmas Eve or any eve. Give us a sense of humor to carry us through exams, or a pony. Lynn Uhlinger wants a visitor at the infirmary. Mary Seely needs a piggy bank for the money she collected this week. Axelson, Tommy, Ruth Dahl, Weasel and Keppie would like more letters in the alphabet to give them more scope for nicknames, and fewer quiet hours, please. Weasel also needs more than four lines on sirois of the liver. And Sara Griffiths wants to know how to discuss the Civil War in more than a hundred and fifty words. Phy Campbell could use a strong box for her fraternity pins. Give Dr. Cares more characters like Henry VIII for his history classes. And before I forget it, this is a must: Georgia Kohl cannot get along another day without a special alarm clock that first rings and then reaches over and yanks a person out of bed. Speedo was such a

You Can't Win At Allegheny

By Sarah Jenkins, '46

Beyond a doubt—you can't win. I've tried and tried. It's just like killing flies—you kill one hundred, but there are at least another hundred in your room! You take all the easy courses so you won't have much homework; then the professor changes the courses! You make your schedule out without eight o'clocks; then they change the hour! You take up smoking, then there's a shortage of cigarettes. You make your bed in the morning, then your mother arrives to take home the dirty sheets—the ones on the bed! You meet the freshmen and try to be friendly, so everyone accuses you of dirty rushing! Your alarm clock doesn't go off; you miss your classes. You buy a magazine, and after you have read one story somebody borrows it. You buy food, but everyone knows it—it disappears so soon! You take a shower, and the minute you step out you start getting dirty all over again. You buy a second-hand book, then find out that the teacher isn't using that one this year—you can't win! You borrow somebody's typewriter, and before you get around to using it, somebody has borrowed it from you. You try to fill in your extra-curricular time playing bridge, and what lousy hands you get! Or else you spend it sitting in the Grille on a day that everybody else has decided to study or else not cut class. You go down to Brooks for meals and meals, and they are terrible; so you eat in the Grille and miss something good at Brooks—you can't win! You decide "This is my night to howl," so you go to a show and some teacher springs a quiz next day—the show wasn't even good! You try to catch up on your mail, but the letters are answered right away! You go to the library to study, and you miss the S. A. E. house fight. You go to bed early; so you miss the serenade.

Beyond a doubt you can't win at Allegheny—believe me, I've tried!

The Social Whirl

by
By Tawney and Paggy

Christmas festivities began early this year and promise to continue until the last student leaves on Saturday for a white, white Christmas at home, sweet home.

Sunday morning the senior Alpha Chis served their traditional Christmas breakfast to the other members. The new actives were given lapel spoons with the sorority crest from their big sisters. The members of Theta Upsilon were entertained by the Alpha Chis on Monday night. Mr. Paul Giddens and Mr. Paul Cares gave a joint dissertation on "The Tense Situation." After their talk they led an informal discussion which ended with punch, brownies and ice cream. Mrs. Paul Giddens was a special guest. A Christmas party is being planned for Friday night.

Alpha Gams are planning their Christmas party which will be held in the rooms on Friday night. Mildred Anne Wright, '44, was a recent guest of the sorority.

Alpha Xi Delta held its initiation banquet at the Kepler hotel last Thursday night. Monday evening the town alumnae of Alpha Rho chapter gave a Christmas dinner party for the members. Presents were given to the rooms, and group singing brought the gala event to a close.

Kappas had their Christmas party on Monday night with punch and party for the members. Presents were given to the rooms, and members exchanged among themselves. Toby Sells, '41, was a guest. Alice Anne Roberts, Field Secretary, visited the chapter this week.

Theta Upsilon will hold its Christmas party tonight with town alumnae and patronesses as guests. Gifts will be given to the rooms and a buffet lunch served. Marjorie Miller, '43, was a visitor this past weekend.

The Independent women held a Christmas party in their rooms at 10:00 Monday night. The rooms were decorated with a Christmas tree and candles. The girls sang Christmas carols by candlelight, played cards, and had refreshments.

Albert Lammert, '44, Neil Weir, '42, and Richard Anderson, '44, were Phi Delta visitors who came back especially to hear the Christmas concert.

Lt. Eljies McKay, ex '43, was a recent guest of Phi Gamma Delta, and George Stewart, '44, of Phi Kappa Psi.

Miss Mary Jane Chiles, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Seely, and Mr. J. W. Hulburt were guests at the Ross house party last Saturday night. It was a formal dinner dance starting with delicious Crawford County turkey (la Albright) followed by a fireside songfest; next was "The Truth and So What," a quiz led by Prof. Joseph S. Harrison, Ph. D., and finally dancing later in the evening. Decorations were in charge of Gordon W. Elliott, '48.

The Christmas spirit at Crawford house was a little more informal, although the guests, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Cares, were presented with formal dress later in the evening. A huge Christmas tree, red and green lighting and lots of evergreen gave the rooms a holiday look. Cookies

Meet . . . The Faculty

By Helen Houghton, '46

Mrs. Marion R. Young; instructor in music

Whenever Noel Coward starts out to relate his adventures, every sentence invariably contains some front page name. For the bourgeois members of his reading public, he always very kindly includes in parenthesis a biographical account of that person's life, whether the person be Churchill or an insignificant member of the House of Commons. The lack of space for parentheses may make it necessary for some of you to read this with a Who's Who at your elbow.

Emma H. Eames, Demogoot, Mougiore, Saglinac, Madame Marcella Semblich, Coenraad V. Bos, Helen Traubel, Bidu Sayou, and the King and Queen of Siam are only a few of the people Mrs. Marion R. Young, through years of singing both here and abroad, has been able to number among her friends and acquaintances.

Mrs. Young is literally a Pennsylvania Dutchman. Her early youth went along in quite an average fashion: Pennsylvania schools, Leech Junior college and finally, the Pittsburgh Musical Institute. Then one day a friend introduced her to the Eames family. That was the beginning.

Emma Eames, who is now a very gracious lady in her 80s and as then the finest American lyric singer, adopted Mrs. Young as her protegee and tutored her for six years. It wasn't long before the Pennsylvania Dutchman was "the international prima donna of L'Opera, Paris; LaScala, Milan; Covent Garden, London, and the Metropolitan Opera company, New York City. She studied with Madame Sembrich (the renowned coloratura who died ten years ago) for a year, to become the only pupil Madame Sembrich was ever to have, and therefore the only exponent of combined Eames-Sembrich Bel Canto training.

Her marriage to George H. Young of the Mellon Institute was a big event of 1928. In 1940 she re-entered the musical world as the professor of voice at Waynesburg college. One of her first pupils was a very gay, very pretty and very talented freshman, Amelia Lamich. For four years Mrs. Young taught Amelia all she knew about Bel Canto. Her protegee is now being coached by Coenraad V. Bos, the head of the Julliard graduate school, and will sing at the Town Hall in New York within the year. Incidentally, Mrs. Young herself will be singing at Town Hall this year.

Before I left I asked Mrs. Young several minor questions for my own information. The answers, I think, are different enough to pass on to you:

1. "Anyone with a stabilized mentality can learn to sing."
2. "Frank Sinatra is not really a singer, merely a bunch of emotionalism. He appeals to the emotions and not to art."
3. "Bing Crosby is two rungs above"—but the ladder Mrs. Young used is quite a high one.
4. "Nelson Eddy's voice used to be much better, but now he, too, is out solely to appeal to the emotions."

I like Sinatra, I like Crosby and I like Nelson Eddy. I wonder what that makes me?

Alumni Office Issues Bulletin This Week For December, 1944

Featuring an article on the enrichment of the Allegheny fine arts program, the Allegheny College Bulletin, alumni number, December, 1944, was issued this week. During the absence of Donald E. Murray, '36, director of publicity at Allegheny, the bulletin is being written and edited by a faculty committee, consisting of Mr. Charles S. Miller, Mr. Philip M. Benjamin and Mr. Paul H. Giddens, with Mr. Kenneth P. Williams of the Tribune-Republican as advisor.

In the fine arts article, advances at Allegheny in the fields of art, drama, and music are discussed by the respective department heads, Mr. Julius A. Miller, Mr. John W. Hulburt and Mr. Morten J. Luvaas.

Allegheny's South American student, Graciela Jimenez, and Icelandic student, Sveinn Olafsson, both members of the class of '48, are also featured in the bulletin.

Announcement is made of the promotion of Paul W. Johnston, '14, to the rank of Brigadier-General. A former Campus editor, General Johnston is on the staff of General MacArthur.

Notes on faculty activities during the summer include items of general interest such as Mr. Paul Giddens' broadcast on the C.B.S. "We, The People" program, the guest conducting of Mr. Morten J. Luvaas at the National Music Camp in Interlochen, Michigan, and Mr. Guy E. Buckingham's consulting work

Rehabilitation Program For Veterans Begins With Nine Men

Nine veterans arrived on campus this week for counselling under the new Allegheny veterans' rehabilitation program, it was announced by Mr. Dale E. Thomas.

Special tests, under the direction of Mr. Guy E. Buckingham, are given to the men, and personal interviews are held, after which advice on future educational and occupational training is given by the faculty members participating in the program.

Two of the veterans here this week were recommended for special college training, since they have minor physical and mental handicaps which prevent them from doing a full man's job.

The men, who usually arrive in groups of five, stay on campus approximately 48 hours, and are lodged in Cullum house which has been recently redecorated for the purpose. Two groups arrive each week, on Monday and Wednesday; the next is scheduled for January 1.

The United States Veterans' Administration is backing the program financially, providing for testing, lodging and transportation.

for the American Rolling Mill company and American Viscose corporation.

Also included in the bulletin are stories on the rehabilitation program, changes in faculty, letters from alumni in service, campus highlights, gifts to Reis library, notes on former Alleghenians and numerous other items.

If Bentley's Bell — Could Talk —

By Betty Crabbs, '47

Bentley's Bell may not actually be able to talk, but on the day before Thanksgiving vacation it certainly was making an honest effort to be heard! As a symbol of the Allegheny tradition, maybe the old bell was trying to tell us something in its almost constant ringing. Could it have been reminding us that Allegheny and her traditions are ever-present, that the heritage which is Allegheny's has lived on through many other times or strife such as those of today?

Allegheny's first war was that between the North and South. It was a war which threatened to divide and possibly destroy the student body completely, but the school passed safely through these years to gain greater strength in later times.

In 1861 there were many boys at Allegheny from Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee and Virginia. After the firing on Fort Sumpter, much controversy took place on campus, and many rash words were spoken between the boys of the North and South. Finally the Northern students held an indignation meeting and delivered the ultimatum that the Southern group should retract their statements or leave for their homes within twenty-four hours. In the allotted time, all Southern boys had left Meadville.

After their departure, James E. Stubbs, an undergraduate, bore the Stars and Stripes over the roof of Old Bentley and fixed them on the topmost part of the cupola. The door to the tower was then securely barred, and the flag of the North flew over Allegheny.

Almost immediately a company known as the Allegheny College Volunteers was formed. Seventy-eight students enlisted in it. For during more than a month the Volunteers wore little silk flags in their lapels and spent much time drilling on the campus, occasionally parading on Chestnut Street.

Finally, on June 11, 1861, the company gathered on the campus for a farewell. At the climax of the ceremony, a beautiful flag was presented to them by the ladies of Meadville, and President Loomis spoke the words so often quoted today: "Come back with the flag, boys, or come back wrapped in its folds."

So, for the first time in the history of the college, Allegheny men marched off to battle. Through the efforts of those who loved her, Allegheny survived this blow once, and again, and still again. This is her fourth war, and most of her boys are once more gone from the campus. Maybe the old bell just wanted to remind us that the Allegheny tradition is something pretty fine and permanent, and that it is up to us to keep it that way through her fourth war.

Potpourri . . .

Der Deutsche Verein held a dinner in Miss Mildred Ludwig's apartment in Walker hall last Tuesday evening with sauerkraut featured on the menu. After the dinner the members sang Christmas carols and played German games.

Christmas vacation this year begins on Saturday, December 16. Classes will be resumed on Wednesday, January 3.

Christmas Party For Meadville Children Held By Independent Women

A selected group of 55 town children were entertained by the Independent Women with a Christmas party in Brooks hall last Saturday. The ages of the children ranged from six to eleven and the games were planned accordingly.

Later in the afternoon the group went to the Christmas tree in Brooks lobby and each child received two gifts from Santa Claus after which ice cream and cookies were served.

Mr. Luvaas Will Address Thoburn Club

The Thoburn club held its last meeting of the first semester Monday.

At the business session, a program for the second semester was arranged. For the next meeting, on January 29, Mr. Morten J. Luvaas will discuss "Music In the Church."

At subsequent meetings of the club ministers from Meadville and vicinity, faculty members and students will speak.

Fred Sturm, '47, president, appointed Joseph Harrison, '48, manager of the Gospel Team work, which will begin later in the year.

Gator Game Friday With Pitt

First Game Of Season Is Lost To Gannon College Five

By Jim Weber, '47

The Allegheny Gators opened their court season last Wednesday night by dropping a 59-41 verdict to Gannon college of Erie. The game was played at Montgomery gym before a good-sized crowd of spectators.

The Gannon Knights jumped off to an early lead and steadily increased it through the first half. They kept the Allegheny attack effectively bottled up for the first two periods and at the halftime held a 27-13 margin over their hosts. The third quarter found the local quintet starting to click as they broke through their opponents' defense to chalk up 15 markers, outscoring the Gannon team by 10 points. However, the Erie boys turned on the heat in the final stanza to rack up a total of 27 points and take a 59-41 victory back to the lake shore city.

Individual scoring honors went to Nat Servideo of the victors, who led their attack with eight field goals and four fouls for a total of 20 points. For the Gators, Lee "Speedo" Donaldson, '46, was high with 12 markers, while Frank Fuhrer, '47, and Brooks Hollenback, '48, followed with 11 and 7 counters respectively to account for the bulk of the Gators' scoring. Pat Hughes, '48, despite his lack of great height, was a sparking factor in the Blue and Gold's third quarter spurt and is expected to see a lot of action in the ensuing campaign.

Staff Changes And New Reporters Of Campus Announced

Changes in several staff positions on the Campus, as well as a list of new reporters, were announced this week by the editor, Mildred Ann Ditty, '46.

James Weber, '47, besides holding the position of sports editor, will also serve in the capacity of assistant news editor.

Virginia Black, '46, and Florence Graham, '46, replace Marguerite Kift, '46, as service circulation managers. They are being aided by freshman girls from Cochran hall, headed by Margie Nelson, '48.

New reporters, chosen by the editorial staff, are Jane Bailey, '46, James Beck, '48, Margaret Clement, '47, Sallie Lou Connor, '47, Joan Gold, '48, Shirley Hetherington, '47, Audrey Jean King, '48, Dudley King, '48, Esther McFayden, '48, Sally Miller, '48, Mary Ethel Schell, '47, Clifford Smoot, '47, and Joanne West, '47. Old members retained are Marjorie Haslun, '46, Corinne Irwin, '47, Gloria Keller, '46, Georgia Kohl, '46, Suzanne Lachman, '47, Mary MacNiven, '46, Dorothy Smallman, '47, Marian Stanger, '47, and Joan Young, '47.

Those who tried out for reportorial positions and are not listed will be given additional opportunity if they are still interested.

Garbarkmen Downed In Second Contest By Alliance Last Friday

By Jim Weber, '47

Allegheny's next game, coming up here on campus tomorrow night, is with the University of Pittsburgh, whose squad may figure along with Westminster's for district honors. This game should be interesting, for the Garbarkmen will be out to definitely dispute the word of a certain Pittsburgh sportswriter who predicted easy pickings for Coach Carlson's Smoky City quintet.

Allegheny's courtmen took their second defeat of the season and of the week when Alliance college copped a 42-34 win over them last Friday night at Cambridge Springs.

On the whole the game and the outcome were somewhat of a disappointment. With only two lettermen on each squad and both teams relatively inexperienced, observers looked for a closer contest. Both colleges were downed by Erie's Gannon college by practically the same margin and this too prevented pre-game speculators from giving either side much of an edge.

As in the preceding Wednesday's battle with Gannon, the Allegheny-men lost the game in the first half. A combination of inaccurate shooting and ragged floor play aided the short and inexperienced Alliance team in building up a nine-point lead by halftime and the Gator second half advantage of a point went by the board.

Lee Donaldson, '46, high for the second time in the week for the Gators, took individual honors in the game with a total of 15 points chalked up, by bagging seven baskets and a free toss. From the scoring angle the Garbarkmen put up a rather discouraging showing since out of approximately 100 attempted shots only 14 were successful, and only 5 out of 14 tries from the foul line counted.

Allegheny Is Recipient Of $300,000 Bequest

A bequest of approximately $300,000, largest single gift ever made to Allegheny, has been left to the college, according to the will of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Twining, the former a member of the class of 1887. Mrs. Twining died in October of this year.

Mr. Twining, who died in 1937, was prominent in the engineering field. Following graduation from Allegheny, he continued as an instructor in civil engineering for three years. He was closely associated with the development of public utilities, serving as chief engineer for the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company and later as Director of the Department of City Transit. Mr. Twining was also connected for a number of years with the firm of Ford, Bacon and Davis of New York.

Somewhere in Europe

Hello,
This is a letter that should have been written quite some time ago. I received quite a few copies of the Campus last summer, and they really were a bright spot. A touch of the beautiful pre-war life.
Right now I am hospitalized with a slight case of trench feet. They're rather painful, but nothing serious. Before I was laid up, I had my chance to visit Paris, and I'm sure glad I didn't pass it up. Paris is everything I ever heard about it, plus a little more. They have a permanent carnival spirit that isn't the least bit forced, and the women are without a doubt the most beautiful in the world.
Well, good-bye now, please let me hear from you if it's possible.
Pfc. Bob Brader

To begin with I want to thank you very much for including my name on your mailing list for the Campus. Before I went overseas the first time, I had my roommate, or I should say my ex-roommate, Al Lammert, send me copies. But since I have been back in the states I have lost contact with Al and naturally stopped getting the Campus. I was reading one of the last few copies and noticed the name of one of the boys that I ran around with when we were in Cafisch back in '41. I haven't heard from or seen Carl Roemer for almost three years and I was glad to see his address in your column.
I think I got the first copy of the paper when I was in gunnery school at Yuma, Arizona, and then I stopped getting them, for I graduated soon after that and was then transferred to Lincoln, Nebraska. I only stayed there for 17 days and my mail hasn't caught up with me yet. It takes about a month for it to catch up with me and usually by that time I'm ready to leave again.
This base is an operational training base for combat crews of B-24 bombers. We get our final training here before leaving for the combat zones. We get Bombing practice and gunnery and make cross country flights, just to name a few of the kinds of training we get.
I hope that you are the one who is sending me the paper for I tried to figure it all out from reading through it all and it seemed that you were the logical one. If it turns out that you aren't the one please convey my thanks to the proper person.
Thanking you again, I remain a strong supporter of old Allegheny.

Dick's thanks should go to Virginia Black, '46, and Flossie Graham, '46, who are in charge of mailing the Campuses to servicemen.
Excerpt from Meadville Tribune-Republican
Capt. Ned D. Mervine of Meadville has been transferred from the school of aviation medicine at Randolph Field, Texas, to the army air forces' recently-activated convalescent hospital at Fort Thomas, Kentucky. He now serves at Fort Thomas staff in preparing for arrivals of A.A.F. convalescents transferred from general or regional hospitals or other cases sent from A.A.F. redistribution stations.
Captain Mervine, who entered the army in October, 1942 is a graduate of Allegheny college and Jefferson Medical college in Philadelphia. Before entering the army, he had established a practice in Meadville and served as school physician for Allegheny college. His wife, Mrs. Ruth Mervine, lives in Meadville.

I have just received my latest copy of The Campus. This makes the third one this year. It certainly is good to pick up the school paper again and read all about Allegheny and its activity.

I haven't seen anyone from school since Bob Wells graduated in August from Ellington Field. While he was there, we spent many evenings together talking over old times.

Now that I have no other contacts with Meadville other than The Campus, I appreciate it and its link with the old crowd more than ever.

Thanks for your "keeping them coming".

P.S.: First Walker has a limited number of drippless-candle-drippers who, with their invited guests, gather gregariously as giddy gigglers always do and each evening readily rejoice that they have burned away another day. Because you are so kind and generous to Allegheny, these clean, keen, clanish kinsmen have asked me to extend an invitation to you for their final ceremony tomorrow night.

PAY BILLS BEFORE EXAMS!

The Treasurer's office has announced that all college bills must be paid before final examinations. Nothing may be charged at the bookstore after the Christmas recess. In order to be admitted to final examinations, every student must secure an examination permit stating that his bills have been paid in full. These permits may be obtained at the Treasurer's office on January 9, 10 and 11.

Phi Beta Phi Holds Christmas Program

Members of Phi Beta Phi, honorary biology fraternity, held a Christmas party in their rooms on Tuesday night, December 12.

The fireplace was decorated with a wreath and ground pine, with the Christmas tree and candle-light adding to the atmosphere of festivity.

A turkey dinner with all the trimmings was served by Leonard Darbee, '48, and Edward Hodgson, '48, who were attired in white waiters' jackets. Mr. A. E. D. Ogilvie made the hard sauce for the plum pudding.

The food committee included Mable Stringer, '45, Margaret Sullivan, '45, and Mary Ann McCurdy, '45.

Geraldine Wallace, '46, Elizabeth Munson, '45, and Mildred Shurtleff, '45, were on the clean-up committee.

Mrs. Chester A. Darling was a guest at the party.

At the last meeting of Phi Beta Phi on Tuesday, December 5, the following new members were initiated: Mary Ann McCurdy, '45, Margaret Sullivan, '45, Ruth Hykes, '46, Irene Mszanowski, '47, Margaret Auty, '47, Helen Loop, '45, Elizabeth Hoffman, '45, Dorcas Burkhardt, '45, Geraldine Wallace, '46, Leonard Darbee, '48, Edward Hodgson, '48, Frank McElree, '46, and Gordon Elliott, '48.

After the initiation in the basement of Alden hall, refreshments were served.

The Social Whirl

and punch climaxed a round of parlor games and dancing.

Gamble house, too, was the scene of a lovely Christmas party. Chuck Elliott, '48, handled the decorations, and the house proved a nice setting for another gay party. Miss Laila Skinner, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Byers, Mr. A. E. D. Ogilvie, Mrs. Lee Mitchell and Mr. P. M. Benjamin were guests. A delicious buffet luncheon was served later in the evening, and dancing provided the chief entertainment.

Mr. Kalfayan Is Guest Of Le Cercle Francais

Members of Le Cercle Francais and several beginning French students attended the French club Christmas program in Arter, Tuesday evening. Mr. Armen Kalfayan was guest for the evening.
Chairman for the event was Jacqueline Ragner, '45.

Final Class Winners Of Bridge Tournament

Helen Thomas, '45, and Jean Miller, '45, won first prize in the run-offs of the A. W. S. bridge tournament. Vivian Uhlinger, '48, and Mary Lou Digel, '48, were second-prize winners.

Playing in the run-offs were the four highest-ranking couples from each of the previous class tournaments.

Barbara Brooker, '46, headed the committee on arrangement, assisted by Betty Limb, '48, while Dorothy Powers, '46, was in charge of the food, aided by Lewessa Kirk, '48, and Nancy Briggs, '48. Helen Loop, '45, provided the favors.

Staff Members Chosen For Literary Magazine

Audrey Grimm, '45, editor of the Allegheny Literary Magazine, has announced several additions to the staff of the magazine.

Sophie Morrow, '47, and Donald Ludwig, '47, are new members of the editorial staff. Judy St. Clair, '47, will serve on the art staff, and Janet Shoff, '48, is newly-appointed to the make-up staff.
