My dear Mr. Barker:

Some little time ago you sent me a copy of the circular letter that you are sending out to the Honorary members of the Lincoln Fellowship of Southern California.

The letter asked that I send a production of my own which could be classed with Lincolniana, along with a portrait and sketch of my life. Of course I appreciate this request, although my silence would seem to argue otherwise. I have been away from my desk a good deal and crowded while here.

I will try to get together something. I suppose a book or two or a copy of one of the early McClure articles, including, too, a list perhaps of books and articles, something not too bulky, would be representative of my modest part in the Lincoln cult. How about this?

Apologizing again for my delay,
believe me

Very sincerely yours
