E.R.C. Students Leave For Camp

300 Army Cadets To Arrive Soon

Allegheny One of 281 Colleges Chosen for Pre-flight Program

Some three hundred Army air cadets will arrive on the Allegheny campus "around March 1," said acting president John Richie Schultz, to undergo a five-month period of preliminary training.

The selection of Allegheny as a training school for the Army air corps was announced the first of the week by a committee representing the Army, Navy and Manpower commission, along with the names of 280 other colleges and universities.

The cadets will be under full military discipline, under the command of regular Army officers, and will be given a limited schedule of flying. Most of the time will be devoted to drill and class work, including courses in English, history, mathematics, geography, physics, and physical education.

Inferred from the "strict military discipline," the campus probably will be declared a restricted area, with the cadets permitted to leave only from Saturday afternoon to Sunday evening. They will march to and from classes. For the most part, and depending upon the exact number of men to be stationed here, they will be quartered in Caflisch hall.

Other Western Pennsylvania schools to be selected for this training include Grove City college, Washington and Jefferson college, and the University of Pittsburgh.

Keep It Up, Girls . . .

Women to Resume Red Cross Bandage Rolling on Monday

Joan Hexter, Chairman of Red Cross activities, announced that bandage rolling would be resumed in the dining room alcove Monday night, from 7:00 to 9:00. Freshmen are asked to come immediately after dinner, and upperclass women after sorority meetings.

Last semester the bandaging ses- 6. Local candidates may be chosen dinner, and upperclassTAOINUL sions were well attended, but fell off at the end of the semester. Joan Hexter stated that the girls must turn out well for this if they want to keep it up. "It is little trouble for one to do," she said.

It was also announced that due to the shortened semester, no more Red Cross knitting would be assigned. However, anyone having any scrap yarn can knit six-inch squares for afghans. These squares may be turned in to Marilyn Braniger or Ruth Ann Alexander.

Recognition For Scholastic Rating Given Service Men

Certificates of recognition have been awarded students in good standing with the college who are leaving college for the armed forces. First to receive the certificates were the eligible members of the army Enlisted Reserve Corps. They will also be sent to all who have left for the services and to those leaving in the future.

The certificate states that the student has left Allegheny in good standing and gives his college class and the branch of service called for.

Dr. Schultz revealed that Halver W. Getchell, ex-'45, was the first Allegheny man to leave school for the armed forces, enlisting in the army shortly after Pearl Harbor.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The schedule for taking of Kaldron group pictures will be published in next week's Campus.

All E.R.C. members are asked to meet in front of Caflisch hall tomorrow morning to have a group picture taken.

Plans For Religious Week Completed

Plans for Religious Emphasis Week, beginning Monday, February 22 and continuing through the 26th, have been completed and were announced early this week by Harry J. Conroy, '45, president of the Allegheny Christian Council.

The program includes talks by Dr. Case, folk dance, and the Allegheny Singers.

Dr. Tolley Expresses Thanks For Picture

In a letter received by the Allegheny Undergraduate Council, Dr. W. P. Tolley, recent president of the college, thanked the students for the portrait of Bentley hall sent him last month.

The picture, a full front view of Bentley and the south campus, was given to Dr. Tolley by the A.U.C. in behalf of the entire student body, in appreciation for his work while president of Allegheny.

Dr. Tolley said the portrait now adorns his desk, and expressed his appreciation to the student body and to the A.U.C.

Campus Loses Editor . . .

Winkler For Gardner; Staff Altered by Army

Reshuffling of the Campus staff was completed this week with Warren C. Winkler succeeding J. Henry Gardner, called to active service with the army Enlisted Reserve Corps, as editor, it was announced after a conference between Gardner and Mr. F. F. Seely, faculty advisor to the publication.

Winkler has worked on the staff for the past three years as assistant news editor, defense editor, and, most recently, assistant to the editor. He has served on the M.U.C. and is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Other organizational shifts include the promotion of Peggy Laley, '43, to the position of assistant editor; Raymond Carper, '44, business manager; and Charlotte Snell, '44, as news editor.

Prior to attaining the editorship of the Campus, Gardner edited the Athletic News and was a member of the Allegheny Christian Council. This year he held a seat on the Allegheny Undergraduate Council. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Laley has been on the staff for the past three years, handling special assignments and as news editor. Currently she is a reporter for the Meadville Tribune. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Snell has been a staff member for two years, and is moving up from the assistant news editor post. She is a Cwen and a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Carper has been assistant to the business manager, working in that department two years. He is president of the junior class and a member of Phi Gamma Delta.

Other staff positions remain unchanged, with Peggy Williams, '43, assistant editor; Lewis Dundon, '44, sports editor; Burton Neiner, '43, technical editor; Virginia Bennett, '44, copy editor; Jeanette Pyle, '45, typing editor; and Robert Leech, '45, circulation manager.

SIGS PLEDGE 100%

The Victory Book Campaign, far from its goal of 1000 copies or dollars, will run until March 5th. To date only 300 copies have been received at the library, with Sigma Alpha Epsilon setting a torrid 100% subscription pace. "A book or a buck for a Yank!"—send them in and "Keep 'em reading."

Travel To Camp Meade In Body

Classes Called Off for Students to Witness Departure of 51 Men; Gift Kits Presented to Reservists

The Allegheny contingent of the army Enlisted Reserve Corps, fifty-one strong, entrain tomorrow morning for Fort Meade, Maryland, and active army training. All ten and eleven o'clock classes have been called off, according to acting president John Richie Schultz, to enable the student body to be at the station.

The group will leave on the 10:25 Erie and are scheduled to arrive in camp early Saturday morning. They will immediately begin their active training at Fort Meade.

At the request of the departing students, there will be no march or demonstration accompanying them to the train, but Dr. Schultz expressed the hope that the students would be at the station to see the group off.

Those leaving are:

Seniors:
Osborne S. Belt
Ellis H. McKay
Henry Gardner

Two of the called students, Donold C. Longanecker, '46, and David L. Wedekind, '44, will not be able to make the trip with the rest of the group due to illness but will leave as soon as possible.

Musicians Play Tonight; Favor Swing Cantos

That swing has its place in the philosophy of music characterizes the beliefs of Gregory Tucker, pianist, and Robert McBride, artist of woodwind instruments, who are guests on campus this weekend. Highlight of their visit will be a concert in the chapel tonight at 8:15, after which the musicians will be honored at a reception in Brooks hall.

The guests will also be honored at a formal dinner tonight given by the Allegheny Women Students.

Former instructors at Bennington college, Vermont, Mr. Tucker and Mr. McBride are both noted as soloists and composers. Some of Mr. McBride's compositions have been performed by such leading orchestras as the New York and Philadelphia symphonies.

Students interested in meeting the musicians may do so in Brooks hall tomorrow afternoon at 3:30. Saturday morning at 9:00 they will present another program for the drama, music, and art students.

The program for tonight's concert is as follows:

Concerto in G Minor (Oboe)_____
_____ Handel
Grave—Allegro—Largo—Allegro
Leyenda _____Albeniz
Nocturne, C Minor _____Chopin
Ad Lib _____Tucker
Mr. Tucker

Norman Thomas Presents Challenge—Advocates Proclamation of Policy by the United Nations

"The United States is drifting toward its third world war," Norman Thomas, four times socialistic candidate for the United States presidency, challenged his audience in his opening sentence when he spoke on "Averting the Next War Now" to over six hundred college students, faculty members and townspeople.

Mr. Thomas' main contention and the one upon which he based his hope for a lasting peace to follow an Allied victory is that that peace must be a peace without vengeance—that it must be agreed upon by the Chinese, the Russians, Great Britain, and the United States and it must be formulated in such a way the Germans, the Japanese and the Italians can enjoy the peace if they are willing to live peacefully and without aggression.

William Robertson, president of the Philo-Franklin Union, introduced the socialist leader, whose visit to the campus was sponsored by the Philo-Franklin. The line of students awaiting the opening of the doors Monday night was, according to one student's comment, as long as the lunch line at Brooks.

Thomas' comment that the United States is drifting toward a third world war was prompted not by a fear that the Allies would lose this war; for he said that with the preponderance of resources in this country, with the loss of morale in Italy, and with the decline of power in Germany, it is almost inevitable that the Allies win. But what Mr. Thomas considered alarming was the fact that there are no definite peace plans being formulated now, and that "public attitude is making a lasting peace impossible."

"Democracy cannot survive another war," he continued, "for dictatorships are a natural accompaniment to war, and if we can give no definite assurance that there will be no third world war, we must resign ourselves to a dictatorship. Nations must be free from war to give any thought to progressive democracy. We can't extend literacy if we have to think about war."

"Many voices," Thomas went on, "want to exterminate the whole German and Russian people. They say, 'look at the history of German aggression. Doesn't it show that they're a bad lot?' Well, aren't we all. Look at the history of England—her aggression, her imperialism; look at the history of the United States—treaty breaking with the Indians, slavery. All nations have moments in history that can be looked upon only with shame, but does that mean there can be no peace without exterminating them?"

Thomas pointed out that Pearl Buck believes that all the seeds for a third world war are already planted in China. According to her interpretation, by the end of this war, China won't have any affection for "these white peoples" who continually insult her by their unilateral Asiatic exclusion.

He laid out his concepts for a lasting peace by insisting that "The principal allies should proclaim to the world that peace will not be a revenge against whole people—even Japs and Germans. We must make assurance that this will not be a peace of vengeance; that this peace will not merely follow imperialistic motives for restoring England to her pre-war setup; and that this peace will be a cooperation among nations."

Referring to the problem of feeding starving Europe, Thomas said that very little has been done along that line during this war.

In concluding, Thomas said through a lasting peace, "Man is capable of marching on to the only utopia that exists—the fellowship of free men, not for the destruction of the enemy but for the destruction of poverty and preventable diseases."

Kits Prepared For Army E. R. C.

The Allegheny student members of the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps who leave the campus tomorrow for Camp Meade will be presented with lunchboxes and kits, needed before they receive their full army equipment. These kits and box lunches were purchased with funds appropriated by the Allegheny Undergraduate Council and assembled through the cooperation of the Victory Volunteers. In addition, the reservists will be given cookies by the faculty wives, under the direction of Mrs. John R. Schultz.

Joan Hexter, '45, said the Cwens will aid in the assembly of kits Thursday and will assist the faculty wives if needed.

Last Editorial

Allegheny, one of the leading colleges in the country in its contribution to the war effort, makes an even greater contribution tomorrow when some 50 of its students board a train for Fort Meade in answer to the Army's call for enlisted reservists.

Although the summons had been expected to arrive at any time, it still came as a shock to most of the men concerned, the first to leave Allegheny in a body. Although some were downhearted at not being able to graduate, all felt relieved at knowing something definite at last, and they sent up a cheer as the names of those leaving were read.

Speaking as a member of the departing group, I can say that we're ready to go and glad to get into it. I feel sorry for the men who are staying behind because I know that the majority of them would like to leave now, too. Their job this semester will be much harder for that reason, but I hope that they will stick at it. We're all part of one great team, and the coach thinks they'll play better when the time comes if they get some more training. So keep plugging, fellows; we'll need what you'll have when you leave Allegheny.

It's a hard job to say goodbye to people you've liked and to a place that's meant so much to you. In our campaigns, I've tried to correct some situations which I felt were bad, but this does not mean that everything about Allegheny is bad, by any means. Allegheny is a wonderful school, and I'm sure I'm speaking for the fellows leaving when I say that I hope it remains as it is. One hundred twenty-five years is a pretty good test of an institution's policies and fundamental beliefs.

I should like to show my appreciation to the staff of the Campus who were hard-working and loyal throughout our entire regime. I realize this paper has its faults, but I honestly believe we've made it the best Allegheny newspaper in several years. I am fully confident that the staff that takes over now will be able to keep up to these standards.

I should like to show my appreciation to the faculty and administration of the college for the cooperation they have always given us, and although we did not always see eye-to-eye, they were always willing to talk the situation over and always gave us the opportunity to express our viewpoint. The Campus is highly privileged as a college newspaper in having no censorship at all.

I hope the incoming staff will receive the same support as I have received. They are taking over in a trying situation and will do their best, I am sure.

In gratitude for the past and in hope for the future, I now say "30".

Hank Gardner.

Extermination and Hate

Controversy over Norman Thomas' speech of last Monday has not been lacking, but one point in particular stood out, the statement by Mr. Thomas, "Many voices want to exterminate the whole German and Russian people." That and other theories along similar lines have been honestly and fervently advocated by many people, including not a few Allegheny students.

Coupled with the proposal for peace via extermination is the theme, preached by many, of hate as a means to quicken victory, though there may be less violent final objectives than peace through extermination.

Now is the time for all of us to be thinking, and thinking seriously, of the peace that we desire. To begin such thoughts on the day of victory will be too late for public opinion to jell to a point where the leaders of our nation can sit at a peace table and work out the terms with the confidence that the nation is behind them. Wilson had plans and dreams, but the American people would have none of them.

Some Alleghenians believe in peace through extermination, others in the theme of hate, while others vision a utopia with no

Prominent Campus Leaders in E.R.C. Leave Many Gaps

Included in the group of men that leave here with the Allegheny contingent of the army Enlisted Reserve Corps on Friday, February 12, are many prominent and familiar campus figures. Students that take an active part in almost all of the college activities will be among this group. Many organizations will have to seek new leaders and refill ranks as these and others are taken by the armed services.

Among those leaving is Alfred Cohen, '45, president of the Logos, Allegheny literary club. He also was prominent in work on the Campus until he was employed by the Meadville Tribune last fall.

Melvin Gerseny, '45, was an outstanding member of the playshop and his performances will be long remembered by many Alleghenians and patrons of the playshop.

Henry Gardner, '43, was well known as editor of the Campus and a very active member of the War Activities committee.

Chairman of the War Activities committee was George Hill, '43, well-known to freshman men, who met him in his capacity of assistant to instructors in physical education.

Haskel Hoffenberg, '43, was a prominent member of the Philo-Franklin Union, which sponsored the appearance of Norman Thomas in Chapel last Monday evening. He is quite well known through his position as editor of the Gay Gator.

Ellis McKay, '43, was active in work on the Campus and the Gay Gator, as well as being an outstanding member of the Logos.

Jesse Present's reign as president of the M.U.C. has been cut off after a very short term, as he was elected shortly before Christmas vacation.

Another well known campus figure is Bill Present, '45, star of the basketball floor.

Each member of the "51" is well known by the student body; it is a sure bet that they will all be missed by those of us who remain behind.

'Our Town' Featured At Playshop Sunday

Our Town, starring Martha Scott, will be the playshop film presentation this Sunday night at 7:30.

Translating Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer prize play from stage to screen was no easy chore. On stage it had no scenery and little story. Its ending was supernatural and, to many, obscure. Its chief character was a narrator who, lolling against the prosecenium arch, punctuated scenes with comments of his own.

The film version, however, retains all of Our Town's strangeness, charm, and supernaturalism. Chief screen differences are its happy ending and the completely appointed settings. Martha Scott, who has the feminine lead in the film, has been cited both on Broadway and in Hollywood for rare talent in the role of Emily Webb.

HART TELLS HOW JAPS AVERTED WAR

Cambridge, Mass.—(ACP)—How a "pay-off" of 50,000 yen was made by the Japanese government to the Nipponese "underworld" in the early part of the century to prevent altercations with American visitors that might have led to war then was related recently by Albert Bushnell Hart, professor emeritus of history at Harvard.

"I got the story from an attache of the American embassy in Japan soon after the incident occurred, and I don't believe it ever has been told," said the 88-year-old, white-haired professor.

"I was in Japan at the time the 'good-will fleet' sponsored by President Theodore Roosevelt stopped at Yokohama.

"Shortly before the fleet landed, a representative of the undercrust of Japan—the underworld gang—went to officials of the government and said in substance: 'There will be hundreds of Americans coming off those ships and circulating about in this area. What's it worth to keep us from starting trouble?'

"My information was that the Japanese official said it was worth 50,000 yen to them to prevent any outbreaks that might possibly lead to an 'incident' with the United States . . . They weren't ready then.

"The 50,000 yen was paid over to the gang leader, and there was no trouble when the fleet landed.

"Subsequently, I went to the American embassy and asked someone there if the story I had heard was sound, and he informed me there was 'something to it.'"

"It was mighty cheap for the Japanese government to get off that way," said Hart. "And it's not impossible the gang which was 'paid-off' had something to do with events that led up to Pearl Harbor."

The Social Whirl

By PEGGY OWENS

Alpha Chi Omega announces the recent initiation of Ruth Dahl and Margaret Sullivan, both '45, and the pledging of Peggy Owens, '45.

Piny Reaghart and Nancy Martin were weekend guests of Kappa Alpha Theta.

New initiates of Theta Upsilon are Eileen Graham, Betty Lee Keane, and Jacqueline Ragner, all of '45.

Peggy Hickey was a recent guest of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Student Sergeant Wilson W. Strong, ex-'45, stationed at Sheppard Field, Texas, recently announced his marriage to Miss Kathryn Louise Moffit of Wichita Falls, Texas. They were married January 16.

Joseph Mull and Thomas Patterson are recent initiates of Alpha Chi Rho.

Included among Phi Delta Theta's initiates are: freshmen Sam Kinney, Donald Blythe, Kenneth O'Hare, Russell Svec, Robert Shryock, Richard Schaefer, Gene Smoot, Robert Taylor, James McVey, Bernard Frick, Daniel Anderson, and William Gottshall, '44.

Initiated to Phi Gamma Delta recently are George Back, Ted Blakely, Ralph Davis, Lee Donaldson, Jim Johnson, Parker Long, Calvin Schaffner, Robert Stanton, Wilson Thoburn and Robert Wells. John Petre was a weekend guest of the Phi Gams.

Phi Kappa Psi announces its annual barrel roll for tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon initiates are Joe Backus, Alex House, Dick Kahl, Jim Jenkins, Thomas Johnson, Roland Levine, Brad Broughton, William Hill, Oakland Bailey. Don Grayden is a new pledge. The annual Sig winter carnival will be held Saturday night.

The Theta Chi's enjoyed a smoker held Friday night for pledges and new freshmen. Mrs. R. B. Bossler and Mrs. R. Stormer entertained the members at tea in the fraternity house Sunday afternoon. Weekend guests of Theta Chi included Mrs. Bossler and son, David, Mrs. Stormer, and son Allen, and Mr. James Lewis, past national vice-president of Theta Chi.

And the informal reception—don't forget, it's to be held this evening at Brooks hall for the two guest musicans that played today in chapel—Gregory Tucker and Robert McBride.

Raggedy Ann Play Presented Friday

"The Camel with the Wrinkled Knees," a play of the Raggedy Ann series by Johnny Gruelle, will be presented by the playshop Friday and Saturday, February 19 and 20, as a part of their children's play series. Friday's performance will be given for college students and adults at 7:30 p.m. Admission is 28 cents, including tax. Meadville school children will see the Saturday performance at 2:00 p.m.

The cast is as follows: Raggedy Ann, Mary Lou Sailor; Raggedy Andy, Bradford Broughton; Babette, a French doll, Betty Shakespeare; the camel, Joseph Caccus; the fairy, Mary Lois Campbell; tired old horse, David Hodge; Jenny, Abigail Euwer; Jan, Elizabeth North; King of the Loonies, Richard Benson; Loony Guard, David Schriver; Loony Knight, James Simm; Winnie the Witch, Caroline Strulson; pirates, Dorothy Edwards; Elinor Slutz, Jean Flanagan, and Eilanna Bent.

A number of special effects in costumes and lighting are being worked out in an effort to make the play more novel in keeping with its plot, according to Miss Bernice Prisk.

Anesthesia . . .

By RAY BIEBER
MITCH DANIELS

This week there is only one item of news: The first bunch of Allegheny men are trading in textbooks for Garands and, later on, brass buttons and stripes. Although no loud, mass march to the station is in order, neither are long faces and vinegar pusses; we're as proud of them as they are of their new address. Naturally, tho', everyone will turn up at the railroad station Friday morning.

Speaking of long faces, last Monday morning only one student marched briskly out of the graduate record exams smiling confidently at one and all--Gil Michel. From where we were sitting we could see his flying pencil race through the physics and chemistry exams, and even run precisely over the fine arts section while the rest of us doodled aimlessly on the margin of the test booklet, wondering what master of mental torture had invented questions like:

Multiple Choice

1. What was Confucious's fourth word on finding himself just born?
   (a) Goo
   (b) Ga
   (c) Da

2. What type of tissue forms the underarm of an amoeba, if an amoeba had an underarm?
   (a) pronephiccyslpnt
   (b) oolontogicsalorphic
   (c) ampigarvimapplff

Since the faculty has been hounding us poor students on class cuts, it is about time we pinned something on them. Directly from the FACULTY HANDBOOK comes this choice bit of prose: "Faculty members are required to attend chapel at least every other time." So-o-o-o-o-o-o-o.

The most interesting and printable comment on the Errol Flynn Case was one we heard in a local barbershop. The speaker, a tall, rangy farmer, shifted his quit when a news commentator mentioned the case over the radio, and said, "We-lll, I don't rightly know nawthin' 'bout the case, but 't seems t'me that Pres-i-dent Roos-velt's goin' perty far when he 'points a man like that there now Erroll Flynn t'be an ambassador t' Australia."

Last Sunday evening a mouse dropped over to Brooks for a meal. Of course all the screaming frightened him away and nothing has been seen of him since. Nevertheless, Monday's stew tasted just like — well, you would have sworn. . . . .

Montgomery Musings

by JIM JENKINS

Well, the pressure of war affects us all and this writer is no exception. Mr. Donaldson is one of the 51 men who will leave us on Friday. As a result, I return to muse over sports topics for the remainder of the year. As for Wes, it is rumored that he will be commissioned to investigate and expose cruelties in the physical fitness program of the U. S. Army. Good luck, Wes.

Intramural Basketball

The big news right now concerns the intramural basketball scene. Although the season is young the field has narrowed down to the teams of Phi Kappa Psi and Phi Gamma Delta. The Phi Delts and Sigs have taken it on the chin from the leaders, the former very unexpectedly.

The feature of the week saw the Phi Psis swamp the Phi Delts, 28 to 11. In short, the Phi Delts were beaten at their own game. They were out-roughed and out-mauled. The Phi Psis lost no time in gaining a comfortable lead which they never relinquished. Don Weller played his best intramural game to date. He was a giant on defense, completely controlling the backboard.

The boys got in a little practice for intramural boxing and wrestling too. Buck Newson and Dick Anderson squared off briefly in the first half. The rugged Newson also twirled "Tiger" Pierce in a neat flying mare shortly after his flurry with Anderson.

Bud Stride, the Phi Psi center, did a creditable job of rebounding on both boards. With a little more experience, Stride will be the top pivotman of the league.

The Phi Gams were disappointing in their victory over the Sigs. Forced to come from behind in the final quarter, the Fijis showed little of the vaunted power which their previous victory over the Phi Delts would seem to indicate. Ted Blakely played his usual aggressive game as did Pat Murphy. Lee Donaldson, although shaky on defense, came through with valuable points in the final canto to sew up the victory. The final score was 33 to 18, but the contest was much closer than the score would indicate.

In other games, the Delts downed the Alden Men, 19 to 17; and the Sigs trampled Alpha Chi Rho, 39 to 14.

Obviously, the forthcoming Phi Psi-Phi Gam set-to will be the game of the year and probably will decide the championship. To my mind, the teams are evenly matched, and breaks will decide the contest.

There is little to choose between the guards. Murphy and Weller are the league's best, Newson can take

The Woman's Side

By MILLIE SHURTLEFF

Well, girls, the basketball tournament gets under way next week. And it looks like a hot and exciting battle is going to be on our hands. Here is the schedule for the tournament, and this column's predictions as to the outcomes:

Tuesday, February 16—

Kappa Alpha Theta vs. Alpha Xi Delta.

Two good teams, but we will give the edge to the Thetas.

Cochran vs. Tarbell.

Cochran is the more numerous and therefore will probably win this one.

The winners of these two games will also play Tuesday.

Thursday, February 18—

Kappa Kappa Gamma vs. the Independents.

This will probably be the best game of the day, but we give the verdict to the Kappas after a hard battle.

Beebe-Hammet vs. Alpha Gamma Delta.

Another good game, but not quite so close. Beebe-Hammet will win.

The winners of these two games will play.

Tuesday, February 23—

Hulings Freshmen vs. Alpha Chi Omega.

An easy victory for the freshmen.

Theta Upsilon will play the winner of this game.

Thursday, February 25—

Gator Five Scores Over Saxon Cagers

Wernermen Honor Coach By Seventh Consecutive Laurel

Allegheny's powerful Blue and Gold basketeers invaded lower New York state last weekend, and courageously came from behind to edge out the Alfred University quintet and gain their seventh straight victory, 43-47.

The Gators weren't out to win this one merely to prevent their untarnished victory skein. Their motive was much deeper and more personal. This game was the final appearance of Coach Al Werner, as cake mentor, and his boys performed worthily. The victory was a fine farewell gift to the well-liked Werner. He and Mrs. Werner left immediately following the game for his home in Rochester, from where he proceeded to the Naval Pre-Flight Training Center at Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

This hard-earned triumph also gave Bob Garbark a successful start on his half of the season since he collaborated with Werner to lead the Gators to victory.

Alfred went down to its fifth straight loss, having previously fallen before St. Bonaventure, Colgate and Rochester twice. But their setbacks were all by close margins and the Gators were well prepared for the tough evening that they experienced. The New Yorkers were in the ballgame every minute of the contest and the Blue and Gold had to go "all out" to clinch the win.

Allegheny got off to a flying 6-0 start as Bill Present's one-handed specialty opened the evening's scoring. From this point, however, Alfred started to hit the strings successfully and forged ahead of the Wernermen, 11-9, midway through the first half. The lead hung in the balance for several minutes, but Bob Todd and Present, Allegheny scoring leaders with nine and eight markers respectively, found the range and sparked a twelve-point outburst which pushed the Gators into a 26-18 halftime lead.

The Saxons opened the second half with a rush of four points and continued to make the pace hot till they finally gained the lead at 42-11. There were only three minutes of playing time remaining and the crucial moment was at hand. The entire issue hung by a thread. At this point, however, Todd rose to the occasion and hit the strings for the two-pointer to give the Gators back their slim advantage. Harry Conroy made a successful foul conversion and Russ Svec provided the Blue and Gold with their final 47-43 victory margin as he sunk a miraculous corner shot and followed with a lone foul counter after the final gun had sounded.

The Gators knew they had been in a battle. The Saxons scored a majority of their points on rebounds, and little wonder, since their forwards tipped the beam at 6-foot-4 and 6-foot-3 respectively and the center was no midget with his 6-foot-3-inches. This sky-scraping defense greatly handicapped the Alligators under the backboards and kept their scoring rather evenly distributed among the nine participants.

High point laurels, though, went to Al Cooper and Ludie Johnston of the losers, who hit the cords for seventeen and eleven point totals respectively. For the winners Dick Kahl and Dick Nichols followed Todd and Present with eight and six points each.

Captain Nichols once again rebounded sensationally and played his usual fine defensive game. He was adequately supported by freshman Kahl, who is rapidly learning the tricks of the trade. Forward Harry Conroy also turned in a fine job from his reserve position.

Tech Edges Out Gators, 49-47

Tie Broken in Final Minute; Present, in Last Game, Paces Gators in Undaunted Struggle

Desperately and courageously striving to keep their all-winning record intact, Allegheny college's Blue and Gold floormen gave a remarkable display of grit and determination, but were edged out by Carnegie Tech's plaid, 49-47, Tuesday night in Pittsburgh.

The Gators, under the new tutelage of Coach Art Garbark, who was making his first solo appearance as Allegheny mentor, gave a glorious display of raw grit and fight. Trailing by eight big points at 43-35 with only a few minutes remaining, the fighting Gators pulled even at 47 all, only to fall before a lucky Carnegie basket in the last bitter minute of battle. The Blue and Gold streak has been ended, but there was nothing but glory in defeat, and perhaps now, with the pressure relieved, the Alligators can go on to win all the rest.

The action got under way before a packed gymnasium as Bob Todd sunk a foul shot, and the action raged throughout the first half, with the lead seesawing continually. Playing a fast, heads-up game on the huge Carnegie court, which is half again as large as Montgomery's floor, the Blue and Gold managed to eke out a 25-24 advantage as the teams left the floor at halftime.

The Faded Plaid quintet must have received the correct halftime medicine, because they returned to the floor and got off to a flying start which rocketed them into a 33-27 lead.

Undaunted, the Gators put on steam of their own and gradually narrowed the Tech advantage till the battle was all even at 35 all. Tech forged ahead again at 39-35 and at this point there were but eight minutes remainng of playing time.

With Captain Nichols playing a masterful defensive game, the Gators held on desperately, but still the Tech five pushed the lead up to 43-45.

Time was running short and everything seemed lost. But the boys never gave up and at this point wrote another brilliant chapter in Allegheny basketball history. This was another game which won't be forgotten.

Bill Present, playing his final game in a Blue and Gold uniform, hooked in a one-hander followed by another sensational shot by Todd. Now the count was 43-39 and as Dick Kahl matched a Tech basket the score was 45-41.

At this crucial point Present and Kahl teamed up os a six-point spurt and the never-say-die Gators were all even at 47 apiece. The crowded gym was in a bedlam as both sides struggled desperately for possession of the ball.

Fortune seemed to be still riding with the Gators as Present was fouled and awarded two foul trys. But both attempts were heart-breakingly close but failed to drop for the vital winning markers. Now, with less than a minute left, Brinn heaved a long low shot from the middle of the floor which plummeted through the strings and sent the Gators down to defeat.

Present was high man for the Blue and Gold with eleven markers, but Marck and Brinn, with fourteen and seventeen points respectively, walked off with the evening's scoring laurels. Nichols and Kahl played sensationally on defense.

THE COFFIN CORNER

For months Allegheny men have waited for that inevitable tomorrow which would grab them from the glazed existence of unorganized academic life and plop them down into a definite scheme of work and discipline as soldiers, or sailors, or marines. For a group of these men, tomorrow has come. Friday, February 12, has finally materialized and fifty-one of us will no longer wait for this tomorrow.

But there are many times fifty-one men remaining behind, still to be haunted by the long arm of tomorrow. And there are many times fifty-one women remaining as well. Until February 5th few of these people had felt the existence of actual war. True, they read an occasional front page, listened to an occasional war broadcast, stared at an occasional chapel speaker for a half an hour of America at War or Future Peace. But few of these people actually went through any sincere emotions concerning this war. Yet many more than few were, and are, too eager to blame this same war for their low grades, high percentage of class cuts, their apathy, the low ebb in school spirit.

Frankly, I think it is all a matter of guts. Unfortunately there are always going to be little, lazy people who will clutch at the intestinal fortitude or the aptitude to do better. They make it unpopular to be proud of your school or to make good grades. Their God is pseudo-sophistication. They do not like the food in Brooks and Caflisch and they gripe. They think football here is lousy and why waste your time going over to watch a mass murder and they gripe. They don't like the new Allegheny and they gripe. It has lost its tradition, they say; yet in the following breath they tear down all traditions. What do they want? Can they ever be satisfied? NO!

In the year, 1943, these selfish, lazy, hypocritical people have recognized in this war that somebody is fighting somewhere, an excellent excuse for their apathy. Since everyone must have a man in the service they weep bitter tears when the bowlegged boy in the next block gets drafted. No matter now that they have ignored him for twenty years; he has suddenly become quite a Lothario. The boys become suddenly aware that in all probabilty they will not graduate before tomorrow comes, so they look upon going to classes as unnecessary, inconvenient, and the business of fools.

And the freshmen—such cynical, embittered children of the world are they! From somewhere they have gathered the misinformation that college now is completely unlike college before. Perhaps some of this callous sentiment came with them to Allegheny from parents and friends at home; at any rate, a great deal of it has come from the upperclassmen who apologize to them for Allegheny as it is now and wail and moan for Allegheny as it was their freshman years before the war had changed its behavior and attitudes. But they're all wrong! It has only been their attitudes and behaviors that have changed, or rather, they have used the war as an excuse, a crutch, on which to blame these attitudes.

College is what you make it . . . a present day live institution or an academic Parthenon, a fast rotting memory of a once glorious past. Make it what you will. Be proud of it. It is your school. But don't use the war as a weak excuse to slide through four apologetic years. Make this war, instead, a challenge to get more so that when it comes your time to operate this country you can do more.

Perhaps Allegheny does have one shoulder on the floor because of tomorrow's grabbing hand and our dwindling enrollment. But when you are down is not a time to be out. It is time to be stronger than ever, a time to call on that reserve tank of energy; a time to get your second wind. The strong people are made stronged. It is only the people without guts who go out.

Capital to Campus

WASHINGTON — (ACP) — As colleges and universities lose their young men to the service at an ever increasing rate, more and more attention is being directed at post-war educational opportunities for those who will be veterans of World War II.

After the last war, the government financed the education and vocational training of only those veterans who suffered injury during the war. This time the government's intentions appear to be much broader.

When he recently appointed a committee to study the problem, the president said nothing about wound-stripe pre-requisites for the post-war education of veterans-to-be. He also referred to the educational policy of the last post-war period as "provisional, thus indicating he thought it quite inadequate.

He said that the plan this time should "enable the young men whose education has been interrupted to resume their schooling and afford equal opportunity for the training and education of other young men of ability . . ."

That approach gives many enlightened educators reason to hope that the war's aftermath will bring a revitalized educational system, with selection of students based on ability rather than economic privilege.

At any rate, it gives college students going into the army some hope that there will be a concrete feedom awaiting them at the end of "the road back."

Already, the "President's Committee on Post-War Education of students," as it is officially called, is wrangling about details of the program—which is a good sign. It indicates that there is something in the wind worth arguing about, and that the committee is active.

Points at issue appear to be the question of how the plan shall be financed, how long it shall be under the jurisdiction of the army, and then whether its administration should be under the Veterans Administration, the Office of Education, or some new government agency set up for the purpose.

Girls in universities and colleges who will complete their courses during the current term may enlist in the women's army auxiliary corps with the privilege of remaining inactive until completion of courses.

How about a CAREER on the CIVILIAN FRONT?

As a student, you've doubtless asked yourself many times what you ought to do to help win this war. What can you study that will be of practical assistance?

The Retail Bureau at the University of Pittsburgh is offering a new opportunity to college upperclassmen to be trained for a successful career in retailing while gaining actual working experience at a steady weekly salary. You will receive regular undergraduate credit for your work at the Bureau, you'll earn a weekly income in a Pittsburgh department store, you'll be making a definite contribution to civilian wartime morale—at the same time piling up experience toward a career.

Pitt's Retail Bureau came into being during World War I to help retailers replace executives and junior executives lost to the armed forces and government services. In this war, we're bringing 24 years of successful store service to the problem of training new people. And we believe opportunities in retailing have never been greater than they are right now.

NEW SEMESTERS BEGIN MONDAY, JUNE 28, AND SEPTEMBER 27, 1943

Application blanks will be furnished on request.

care of himself in any situation, and MacMillan, the most clever of the quartet, is an excellent shot maker.

At center, Donaldson has a big edge in experience, but Stride makes up this deficit with aggressiveness.

I would give the Phi Gams a slight edge in the forward department on the strength of Ted Blakely's play. He is averaging eight points per game and doing a bang-up defensive job.

Intramural Handball

The call of the Army Reserve definitely alters the intramural handball situation, Ellis McKay, the only seeded contestant, will be forced to withdraw. This leaves the tournament without a top-heavy favorite although those in "the know" say that the way is now clear for Bob Thomas.

A few of the early results are as follows:

Second round match:

Foultz, P.D.T., defeated Kees, A.X.P., 2-0.

First round matches:

Donaldson, P.G.D., downed Hurst A.X.P., 2-0.

Reider, P.G.D., eliminated Miller, S.A.E., 2-0.

Donner, T.C., swamped Lammert, P.D.T., 2-0.

Gilbert, S.A.E., tripped Beighel, P.G.D., 2-0.

Foye, S.A.E., edged Carper, P.G.D., 2-0.

troubles for any and "plenty for all." We have as many visions of the future and as many ideas on obtaining them as we have students and faculty members in Allegheny. An open discussion in Chapel with students and faculty members participating would get a much better, uncoerced attendance than a majority of chapel programs now get. The way is open for such expression in the Campus for those who desire to take advantage of it.
