

FAMOUS WRITER AND POET TO GIVE LECTURE HERE

TED ROBINSON, NEWSPAPER
COLUMNIST, TO APPEAR
HERE FEBRUARY 15

Mr. Edwin Meade Robinson, better known as "Ted" Robinson, one of the outstanding newspaper men of today, will speak before the students and faculty on Tuesday evening, February 15, at Ford Memorial Chapel.

Mr. Robinson at present holds the position of columnist and literary editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, being a very noted lecturer, novelist, poet, and humorist. He was born in Lima, Indiana, in 1878. Upon graduation from Wabash College in 1900, he taught school for a year and then entered the newspaper field. His first position was with the Indianapolis Sentinel as a reporter and later as an editorial writer. He also held a similar position on the Indianapolis Journal as well. In 1905 Mr. Robinson went to the Cleveland Leader as a columnist. In 1910 he transferred to the Cleveland Plain Dealer and has been with that paper since that time.

His lecture will consist of comments on various contemporary authors and also readings from some of his own work. He is especially noted for his poetry, of which "Mere Melodies" and "Piping and Panning" have received wide recognition.

Mr. Robinson is coming to Allegheny under the auspices of the College Quill Club. Anyone who is interested in newspaper work or in any form of literature will find his talk of particular interest. Tickets will be on sale by the members of the Quill Club immediately following the examinations.

Allegheny To Meet Thiel Floormen At Greenville Tonight

Allegheny's basketball team will play their last game of this school term tonight at Greenville when they meet the basketeers of Thiel College. This game was originally scheduled for Saturday evening, February 5, but due to a request from Thiel officials, the game has been moved up to tonight.

Inasmuch as examinations begin tomorrow the playing of the game this evening will work some inconvenience on the Blue and Gold squad, but the College officials have been unable to prevent this. The Allegheny players should not, however, find it necessary to extend themselves to the limit, as early season indications show that the Thiel team is none too strong. Several teams that the Blue and Gold passers have already conquered have found Thiel rather easy prey. Geneva, who fell to Allegheny 38-30, had no trouble in defeating the Lutherans by the decisive score of 47-17. Grove City also experienced little difficulty in securing a victory over the Greenville outfit, winning 42-13. These scores would indicate that Thiel's basketball team this year is rather weak.

COLLEGE BAND TO GIVE CONCERTS NEXT SEMESTER

MUSICIANS TO PLAY LOCAL CONCERTS AND TO TRAVEL
OUT OF TOWN

Immediately following the mid-year examinations the Allegheny College Band will begin regular rehearsals for a series of local concerts during the months of February and March, and also an extended concert trip before the Spring recess.

Dates for appearance at Cambridge Springs and Cochranton have already been tentatively arranged for February 23 and March 1 or 8 respectively. Plans for two other nearby appearances to be held during these two months are nearing completion.

The concert trip contemplated before the spring vacation is hoped to include three of the following cities: Warren, Dunkirk, North East, Westfield, Fredonia, Buffalo and Corry.

The concerts will contain a variety of numbers including entertainment other than band numbers by various members of the organization. A new and varied program is promised.

It is hoped that the College students may be given a concert during the chapel period sometime in the future. Rehearsals will be held each Monday and Thursday afternoon at 4:30 P. M. until further notice.

DR. CHURCH TO DEPART FOR EUROPE JANUARY 27

PLANS TO ENTER UNIVERSITY OF PARIS AFTER COMPLETION OF CRUISE

Leaving Meadville on January 27, and sailing from New York on January 29, Dr. H. W. Church will enter upon his extensive Mediterranean Tour which he is taking during his sabbatical leave of absence from his duties as head of the Romance Language Department. At the conclusion of the tour, Doctor Church will go to the University of Paris to spend the remainder of his leave in study. Doctor Church's family, his mother and cousin, Miss Harriet Beckett of Hollywood, Cal., will accompany him on the trip.

The cruise, which will be made on the new specially chartered Cunard liner Transylvania, of which Doctor Church will act as assistant conductor, begins at New York on January 29. The first stop will be at Madeira, and from there the ship will sail to Lisbon and then on to Gibraltar. The next stop is Algiers and immediately following stops will be made at Tunis and Carthage.

The voyage then continues on to classic Athens and Constantinople. Crossing over into Palestine, the passengers proceed by rail to Jerusalem, the Holy City. Bethlehem, Bethany, the Mount of Olives, and Gethsemane are included by motor or by carriage.

The ship then proceeds on to Egypt, arriving at Alexandria, and then going on to Cairo where ten days will be spent. During this interval Doctor Church will conduct a tour up the Nile, where many interesting places will be visited, including the tomb of King "Tut." Leaving Cairo, the ship turns back to Naples and then on to Rome. Leaving Rome the party proceeds to Villefranche, from which place Doctor Church will journey overland to Paris so that he may begin his studies in the University of Paris at the beginning of the second semester. He will remain in Paris until August 27, going from there at once to Cherbourg in order to sail home on the steamer Mauretania. Doctor Church's address while he is in Paris will be, Bankers Trust Company, 3 and 5 Place Vendome, Paris, France.

During Doctor Church's absence, Miss Chevreton will be acting head of the department and will assume charge of his classes in French V and VII, while Professor Mezzotero will teach the classes in French III.

WESTMINSTER WINS OVER BLUE AND GOLD PASSERS

NEW WILMINGTON QUINTET
BREAKS TIE IN CLOSING
SECONDS OF GAME

The upset of the season, as far as local basketball circles are concerned, occurred last Wednesday evening, January 19, when the strong Allegheny five invaded Westminster and were forced to return home on the short end of a 19-17 score. Westminster's team of six-footers, overconfidence, and a decidedly poor night for Allegheny's scoring aces, succeeded in turning a supposedly easy victory into a defeat for the Blue and Gold. Allegheny's team, although admittedly the stronger of the two, appeared to be baffled by the size of the Westminster team and was unable to get its offense into working order and trailed the United Presbyterians throughout the fray. At one point, with one minute of play remaining before the final whistle, the score was tied at 17-all after Cibula had caged a pretty shot, but Gamble, the tall Blue and White center broke through to score the winning basket just 13 seconds before the final whistle ended the game.

The Westminster quintet, by getting the tip-off and passing over the heads of Baker's men, succeeded in running the score up to 8-2 in the first few minutes of the game. Allegheny took time out but were unable to get settled down and continued their wild passing. At half time the count stood 11 to 9 against the Blue and Gold.

The second half showed a repetition of the poor play of the first, and although the Allegheny five were able to keep within a point or two of the Blue and White, they lacked the punch to take the lead and towards the close of the period both teams plainly showed the effect of the gruelling battle. As the last minute was being ticked off, a long pass, Rhodes to Cibula resulted in a score for Allegheny and the count was knotted at 17-all.

ALLEGHENY TROUNCES CRIMSON 40-23 IN EXCITING CONTEST

Grove City Defeated For First Time In Several Years—
Baker's Men Prove Superior Throughout

Allegheny's strong basketball quintet had little difficulty in defeating the Grove City five last Friday night, 40-23. It was Allegheny's first victory over Grove City on the court in several years, and also was one of the most decisive defeats a Grove City team has ever suffered at the hands of the Blue and Gold. The teamwork of Coach Baker's charges left little that could be desired, the Grovers being outplayed completely and, after the first quarter, never having a chance to gain the lead.

Allegheny was supreme during the entire game and after the first quarter left Grove City far in the rear. Just before the end of the first period the score was deadlocked at 8 all, but after that Allegheny demonstrated its superiority in all branches of the sport, out-passing, out-shooting, and out-guarding their rivals consistently.

The victory was a great triumph for Allegheny, coming as it did when the spirit of the school was at its lowest ebb and marking the return of Baker's combination to its true form and to the calibre of basketball of which it is really capable. It has been many a moon since an Allegheny team has fought to such a glorious victory on the court and no Allegheny five has ever shown more fighting spirit than the team that fought and played Grove City's much vaunted team off its feet last Friday night.

It would be impossible to pick out any individual star in the Blue and Gold lineup. The entire team played with the zest and inspiration that characterizes a championship team. A five-man team represented Allegheny and its teamwork was well-nigh perfect. Bill McClurg and Al Cibula were the high point scorers for the Blue and Gold. McClurg garnered six field goals and five out of six foul tries for a total of seventeen points, while Cibula scored four from the field and three out of three from the foul line, and contributed fine defensive playing which greatly aided in holding the Grovers in check. It was Cibula's first field goal, just before the end of the first period that put Allegheny into the lead, never to be headed. These two players scored a total of 28 points, five more than the entire Grove City team was able to register.

Allegheny scored first when McClurg dropped in two from the foul line. Angelo converted a foul try into Grove City's first point and a moment later McClurg took a pass from Rhodes and scored the first field goal of the game, sending Allegheny into a 4-1 lead. Field goals by Rankin and Stevens and a foul by Stevens gave Grove City the lead 6-4, but McClurg again scored a pretty goal for Allegheny and the score was deadlocked at 6 all. Grove City tallied next on a long thriller by Angelo, who shot from the center of the floor, but Rhodes made good on a double foul shot and the score was again deadlocked. Grove City took time out, and just after play was resumed Cibula looped one in from under the basket sending Allegheny into the lead which was held throughout the remainder of the game. The period ended with the score 10-8 in Allegheny's favor. Both teams were playing whirlwind ball. Grove City had difficulty in getting close to Allegheny's goal and most of her shots were from back of the foul circle.

At the opening of the second period, Cibula scored two field goals giving Allegheny a commanding lead. Grove City scored from the foul mark and, after Rhodes counted from the field, again called time out. Immediately after the rest, McClurg registered a field goal. He was fouled by a Grove City man as he shot and made good on the two foul shots which were awarded him. A field goal by Moon and a foul shot by Cibula ran Allegheny's total to 23. Grove City scored next. Two field goals and a foul by Rose, who had been substituted a few moments before, added five points to the Grover's score. Rose was the same big guard who has given Allegheny so much trouble in the past, and at this time he seemed to be headed for another big night at the expense of the Blue and Gold. Although he broke loose for the moment, Allegheny's guards soon had him under control and he was not able to get going effectively again, scoring only one point during the remainder of the game. McClurg's basket ended the scoring for the first half and Allegheny went into the third period on the long end of a 25-14 score.

The intermission seemed to do Allegheny a world of good, for the team came back on the floor and went at the Crimson in a way that sent the spectators wild. Never has an Allegheny team outplayed a Grove City quintet more completely than did Coach Baker's men in that third period. Grove City couldn't get close to the basket. Her only point of the period came when Rose registered from the foul line. The Crimson team was desperate, making wild passes and impossible shots at the basket, but the perfect teamwork of the Blue and Gold quintet functioned smoothly and ran roughshod over the frantic opposition. Allegheny's well-executed attack netted three field goals and four foul points. The period ended with Allegheny far in the lead on the long end of a 35-15 score.

The last quarter was the only period in which the Grovers succeeded in out-scoring Allegheny. Two baskets in quick succession, one by Gillium and the other by Stevens, gave the Crimson the advantage, but Allegheny quickly snapped back to the offensive and held matters safely in their own hands until the end of the game. The scoring feature of this period was a long dribble and a goal by Rhodes. In the last few minutes of play Allegheny gave a pretty exhibition of

Floor Squad To Play Three Games Here Week After Exams

The week following the examination period will see the resumption of the court schedule and local fans will be treated to three games on the home floor. On Tuesday, February 8, the Westminster five will appear here, Thursday, February 10, Thiel sends her representatives and on Saturday, February 12, the strong W. and J. team comes to Meadville.

All of these games are return matches and Coach Baker's squad will be out to annex all of them. Particularly in the first and last games of this group, a win is desired to prove to the fans that the Blue and Gold quintet is in no way inferior to the rival teams, although the first matches were lost to both teams.

Westminster's team of six-footers will come here prepared to answer the inquiry of local fans to show how they did the trick at New Wilmington and aided by the confidence in themselves through their knowledge of having defeated Baker's five at an earlier date. But local fans who witnessed this game are confident that the Blue and White are due for a surprise when

Student Delegates Present Report On National Conference

A report of the National Student Conference held in Milwaukee, Wis., during the first week of January was presented to the students and faculty at the regular Chapel services on Friday, January 21, by the three students who represented Allegheny at the conference, Miss Mina French, Mr. Donald Rowlingson and Miss Helen Taggart.

Miss French told of the nature of the conference and of its purpose. She began by saying that the two "Y" organizations at Allegheny are members of a great national organization. "Practically all other colleges in the country," Miss French declared, "have similar organizations, hence the whole nation was divided into several districts. Although district conferences have been held for several years, this was the first national conference of student "Y" organizations." The general theme of the conference was, "What Resources Has Jesus for Our Modern Life?" Out of this main topic grew the great questions of race, industry, international relations, and war.

ATHLETIC BOARD HOLDS AN IMPORTANT MEETING

AWARD SIXTEEN FOOTBALL
LETTERS—ELECT ASSISTANT MANAGERS

Several important changes in the Allegheny athletic policy were consummated at the meeting of the Athletic Board last week. One change concerns future student managers of football teams. The Board came to the decision that in the future it would be more satisfactory to appoint two student managers of football instead of one as has been the case heretofore. There will be only one manager for the 1927 season, but beginning in 1928 the two manager system will be inaugurated. Each of these men will have equal authority and equal responsibility. The basis on which this is to be done has not yet been decided. The Board also appointed the two assistant managers of football for the 1927 season. These two men are Philip S. Corbin and George Anderson. Thomas G. Leffingwell, the only assistant manager of the past season, will be the manager next year.

Another important decision which the Board came to is that of discontinuing tennis as an inter-collegiate sport. Quite a little difficulty has been experienced in recent years in developing a tennis team. Unfavorable weather in the spring made it practically an impossibility to put the courts in suitable shape, and the team was handicapped in this way by being unable to get a sufficient amount of spring practice. The matches on the whole were so poorly attended and so little interest was manifest that the Board thought it best to discontinue the sport. Inter-class or inter-fraternity matches will probably take the place of the inter-collegiate contests.

Track and swimming were also considered by the Board. George J. Biel was appointed assistant manager of the track team for 1927. J. Hicks Baldwin is manager. An appropriation of $25 was voted to the swimming team.

Letters were awarded to the following men: Captain Kinnunen, Hughes, Slavin, Beach, D. White, Billings, Gibson, Cober, D. Behrhorst, Waleski, E. Davis, Gillis, Hudson, Moon, Brendel, and Student Manager Helmstadter. These men will also be awarded either a sweater or a gold football, as they choose.

LOCAL MINISTER SPEAKS BEFORE STUDENT BODY

REV. MR. LANCASTER GIVES TALK ON "THE SPIRITUAL LIFE" AT CHAPEL

Discussing a very important problem of today, "What is the Spiritual Life?" the Rev. Mr. Lancaster of the local Congregational Church gave a very interesting talk before the students and faculty at the chapel services last Wednesday, January 12. Using as his text the sixth chapter of Hosea, he first asked the group whether they have ever tried to define the spiritual life. He stated that most people are ill-informed upon the matter and have a misconception concerning it.

The first conception of the spiritual life is developed through observing others who are seemingly religious and have the ability to stir one's emotions. Rev. Mr. Lancaster stated that the spiritual life is a progressive adaptation to the spirit, the same as the physical development is a progressive adaptation to the body. The spiritual life has had a beginning and a development and no one knows when it will end.

Rev. Mr. Lancaster enumerated the phases of the spiritual life, the first being the ritual phase or the custom and desire to do certain things together. The second phase is the emotion or sensation of doing things together proving that the spiritual life does exist; and finally, belief, an indication of individualism.

"Today the spiritual life is discarded by many," declared the speaker, "nevertheless many attractions are decidedly spiritual whether they have any direct connection with religion or not. The youth movement of today is the result of critical thinking by individuals of the past and this new trend should not be feared."

In closing, Rev. Mr. Lancaster uttered a plea to trust in the present means of spiritual uplift, until we receive a better vision. In the end it will bring the proper relation with God.

NEW COLLEGE BULLETIN PUBLISHED FOR ALUMNI

SECOND ISSUE OF THE YEAR
CONTAINS UP-TO-DATE
NEWS AND NOTES

The Alumni number of the College Bulletin was printed last week and has been mailed out to the alumni.

As its name would indicate, the Alumni Number contains news that is primarily of interest to alumni. The Bulletin opens with a detailed account of the inaugural exercises of President James A. Beebe, reproducing the address of Dr. Albert C. Knudson entitled "The Function of the Church College," "The Induction of the President" by Mr. John J. Henderson '62, and the address of President Beebe, "Some Reflections on the Present Status of College Education in America." Then follows the happenings on the campus, beginning with September when the freshmen first appeared and touching on all the important events since that time. Attention is called to what the faculty did during the summer, and a full and accurate account of Home Coming Day. Reference is made on the Editorial page by Miss Edith Rowley '05, editor of the Bulletin, to the Alumni Mutual Fund.

The major part of the Bulletin is taken up with personals about Allegheny Alumni, the births, deaths, and marriages as well as an account of what some of the more prominent alumni have been doing.

Any one who does not receive his bulletin may have his address put on the list by sending the request to the secretary or the Registrar's office.

Lecture and Natural Color Pictures Please Audience

Greeted by a small but nevertheless pleased audience, Mr. Fred Payne Clatworthy gave a very interesting lecture on the Hawaiian Islands at Ford Memorial Chapel last Wednesday evening, January 12. Mr. Clatworthy is an official artist for the National Geographic Magazine, and his autochromes of American and Hawaiian scenery which he showed in connection with his talk were those which he had personally taken for that magazine.

Mr. Clatworthy began his lecture by explaining the process of taking natural color pictures by the autochrome method. The original plates are covered entirely with fine starch grains to a depth of one inch, the grains being colored in the four primary colors, yellow, red, green and blue. Exposures sixty to a hundred times longer than ordinary must be allowed, and the plates must be developed by a special process and a special developer. Great patience must be taken with them, and often the desired effect is not secured until many plates have been developed.

The first views shown were those of American scenery in the Rocky

EPIDEMICS AND "EPIDEMICS"

Of late, our campus has been afflicted with two epidemics. One of these is quite real, and its harmful results are plainly evident. The other "epidemic" has also reared its head in our midst and wrought harm; but since its victims were few, its course somewhat short lived and its injurious consequences rather veiled, it is our guess that unless the students have taken the trouble to analyze the case and view it in the light of the welfare of the college, the tendency will be to pass it by lightly as a thing of no consequence. However, the truth of the matter is that it will bear some comment on our part and no little thought upon yours. Before proceeding further, we wish to state that we have no malicious intentions, but only a desire to consider the "epidemic" as being out of place in this little world of ours and indirectly suggest that we should all disapprove of it and see to it that it does not appear again. Perhaps it has already died out—but then perhaps it hasn't—and with an eye to the future and while this real epidemic is with us, we are tempted to compare this obvious one, whose harmful results are easily discernible with that former "epidemic" whose results are not quite as obvious but which are none the less real and harmful for all that.

In considering these epidemics, similarities and dissimilarities present themselves. In the first place, Pandora was probably the motivator of the present epidemic, while we can probably blame Hymen for starting the other one. The one is brought about by the activity of minute microbes, the other as the result of the pricks of tiny arrows invested with magical powers. The steps taken in treating the victims in the first mentioned case are well known and uniform, while the procedure to be employed in the second case is baffling and varied. A physician has charge of the victims of one of the epidemics, the Dean of the others. Both of these authorities are limited in the extent of their prescriptions by the individuality of the case. The spread of one of the epidemics can be observed, the progress of the other can not. Both of them, presumably, entail the running of a slight fever and restlessness. Both of them certainly impair the scholastic work of the victims and weaken the school.

One of these epidemics is countenanced in collegiate circles because it cannot be prevented—the other is entirely out of its sphere, has nothing in common with the collegiate world, and is actively worked against by the powers that be.

The victims of one epidemic are attended with sympathy, the "victims" of the other with disdain. Perhaps we might except a very few who do a little half-hearted "back-patting," but usually these few are either blindly sentimental or more probably just ignorant of the importunities of succumbing to the "epidemic." We trust that the great majority of college students have sufficiently developed perception to enable them to see clearly the unfortunate, so far as college goes, results of falling prey to the second "epidemic," and while we do not feel that they would go to the extent of expressing their disapproval by actual "snubbing," they certainly would withhold any praise.

The news of these epidemics travels rapidly. There is considerable discourse as to the victims. Views are expressed, but the common consensus of opinion seems to be that epidemics and "epidemics" are harmful to the college as well as to the victims themselves—so take care of your health!

THINK THROUGH TODAY

The youth of today like the youth of past generations is in for a due share of criticism. Many a subject for lecture, newspaper article, debate, sermon and the everyday conversation of men and women the world over is suggested by the actions of college students. Their standards have been condemned as deplorable, the minutest details of their dress have been held up for ridicule, and the publicity given to broadcasting their mistakes amounts to thousands of column inches. On the other hand, they have been heralded by lecturers as the "hope of the world," "the citizens of tomorrow," and speakers have announced with much gusto that the day after tomorrow militant youth is going to engage in mighty battle with every iniquity that stains the face of the earth. How then are we to know whether we are eternally condemned or sitting pretty as the deliverers of civilization? If we flounder about in a be-muddled world it can hardly be questioned why. Here at Allegheny, a state educational institution training teachers for the public schools, we are confronted primarily with educational problems. We, as part of a great educational system are called upon to make our individual standards of living a harmonious part of one mammoth scheme of affairs. Therefore, if we, as prospective teachers, are going to guide the thinking of tomorrow, we must as students of today, begin, today to intelligently discuss and judge facts. Once in a while some speaker like Dr. Henry Noble McCracken does give us a ray of light that clears up some of the bewilderment that at times almost overwhelms us.

In explaining the reason for the organization of a National Student Confederation, Doctor McCracken in his recent address on "The Student's Part in Education" states that its program is based upon the hypothesis that college students from eighteen to twenty-one are for the most part responsible human beings. He says: "In this generation young men are considered by their parents to be old enough to command squads and companies of other men in the crucial moments of war."

"Young women are, at eighteen, legally responsible for their own activities as guardians of the future of the race. If they are old enough to be consulted upon the social conditions of the environment in which they pursue their studies, if they are old enough to be asked to write criticism of the works of Dante and Shakespeare, then they are old enough to be respected when they criticize classroom methods in their college."

INTER-CLASS BASKETBALL COMPLETES SECOND ROUND

SOPHOMORES BEAT SENIORS
19-14, JUNIORS LOSE TO
FRESHMEN, 31-27

Two interesting and very spirited inter-class basketball games were played on the Allegheny gym floor last Saturday afternoon. In the first game, the Sophomores won out over the Seniors, 19-14, while the second contest ended in a victory for the Freshmen over their rivals, the Juniors, by a 31-27 score.

After trailing the Seniors for over three periods, the Sophomores came to life in the closing moments of the game and snatched away the victory. The Seniors started out well, leading 3-2 at the quarter, and with the aid of some snappy playing brought the score to 10-4 in their favor before the half ended. Most of the points in the first half were scored on fouls, the Seniors only scoring three baskets while they were holding their opponents completely in check, not permitting them to score a single field goal during the first half.

With the start of the second half, the tables were reversed and the Sophs, fighting desperately, took the lead in the offensive, but although they out-scored their opponents 5 to 3 they were still trailing when the final period began. A foul by Hughes, followed closely by a goal by Gillis, who had entered the fray at the half, brought the score to 13-12. At this point of the game, Hughes sank his only field goal of the afternoon, putting his team into the lead. From that point on, the Sophomores were never headed, and completely out-played their opponents, holding them scoreless during the whole last quarter.

The contest was marred somewhat by the numerous fouls which were committed. Very few of the free tosses were converted into scores, however. Salburg, with seven points, led the attack for the Seniors, with Vigrass and Baldwin also contributing to their teams total. For the Sophomores, Hughes and Lewis were the leading players, the latter accounting for eight points.

In the second game the Freshmen started off at a rapid pace and amassed 17 points to the Juniors 1 in the first quarter. Hudson continued his stellar playing of last week, and before the quarter ended he made 5 field goals. In this period, the Freshmen showed excellent teamwork and were working their plays nicely. But with the start of the second period, the situation took a different aspect, and the Frosh were out-played nearly as bad as they had out-played the Juniors in the first quarter. Before the first half ended, the Juniors had scored 10 points while keeping the Freshmen without a score. At the half way mark, however, the Freshmen were still leading 17-11.

The third period was nip and tuck, with the Juniors still holding the upper hand, 10-8. In the final stanza the Freshmen showed themselves able to withstand the desperate attack of the upper-classes. Leffingwell added numerous points to the Junior's total during this period, but the Frosh were not idle themselves, adding two baskets—their margin of victory.

Hudson, with 8 field goals and three fouls, was the leading scorer of the game. His closest rival was Leffingwell, who accounted for 4 field goals and 6 fouls. Gornall and Gillies also played well for the Freshmen, as did Smucker and Berhorst for the Juniors.

PLAY PRODUCTION CLASS IMPROVES ON STAGE

After considerable effort the class in Play Production announces that the "Little Theatre" on the third floor of Bentley Hall is fast becoming a reality which will help Allegheny find a place in the inter-collegiate dramatic world. The new proscenium arch curtain now hangs in graceful lines, and it is that part of the stage which incites the greatest enthusiasm. It is hoped that several one-act plays may be produced soon by the class under the instruction of Miss Spalding. The money derived will be used in more completely furnishing the stage of the theatre.

Mountain National Park, The Grand Canyon, the Colorado River desert, and Southern California. Persons who had seen this same scenery agreed that the natural coloring effect was remarkable for a photograph.

Going to his Hawaiian scenes, the lecturer first showed pictures of the new San Francisco-Honolulu steamer which is to make its maiden voyage next June.

The first native Hawaiian plates shown were of Honolulu and the surrounding beaches, including many interesting pictures of surf-boaters in action.

All soil in Hawaii is either lava or coral, and pictures were shown of the famous black and white sands of the island. Hawaiian flowers were shown in their many brilliant natural colors, and also many beautiful water pictures of the famed island waterfalls, as well as numerous ocean scenes.

The lecture was concluded with the interesting scenes and descriptions of the world's most active volcano, Mt. Kilauea. Vivid views of the hot lava in the pit, one of these being taken at night, were particularly interesting.

The proceeds of this lecture are to be used by the residents of Hulings Hall for the benefit of the Ampico Piano Fund.

Mr. Blaine S. Kincaid '04, prominent attorney of Corry, Pa., who for a number of years has been closely associated with the Corry National Bank, was recently elected president of this institution by unanimous vote of the directors.

Miss Peoples was assisted by the Misses Ruth Hannon and Grace Minch, and Mr. James Meadowcroft. Instead of having the regular three act French Play this year, it was decided that Le Petit Salon would hold an "open house" at which several short plays would be presented. Prof. Richard Mezzotero will have charge of the presentation of these plays. More definite plans will be announced in The Campus after the mid-year examinations.

WOMEN'S INTER-CLASS BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

The women's inter-class basketball tournament began last Tuesday when the Seniors won from the Sophomores by a 26-13 score in the first contest. The game was rather one-sided affair and was distinguished chiefly by the team work of the fourth year girls.

On Wednesday afternoon the Juniors were defeated by the fast Freshmen team with a final count of 21-13. The game was hard fought throughout, but the Juniors failed miserably in their attempts for baskets most of the time, while Squires of the Freshmen team garnered many points by getting several field goals. The team work of Squires and Dixon was one of the outstanding features of the game.

The final contest between the Seniors and Freshmen was closely fought during the first half, but in the third quarter the Seniors took the lead and kept it for the remainder of the game. The score of 13 seemed to be a jinx for the defeated teams during the entire tournament, all three teams losing by that score. This particular game ended with the Seniors on the lucky end of a 25-13 tally.

The following are the line-ups:

PHILO-FRANKLIN FORUM HAS ELECTION OF OFFICERS FOR SECOND SEMESTER

New officers were elected for next semester at the regular meeting of the Philo-Franklin Forum on Friday, January 21. The new men elected at this meeting were Donald Rowlingson, speaker, and James Meadowcroft, speaker pro-tem. These men with J. H. Baldwin and Warren Smucker who had been elected to the offices of secretary and delegate-at-large respectively at a previous meeting will constitute the new cabinet. The retiring officers of the Forum are Robert Corbett, speaker, Joseph Lopushansky, speaker pro-tem, James Meadowcroft, secretary, and Robert Kirkpatrick, delegate-at-large.

The program for the meeting consisted of three speeches on the Nicaragua question. Paul Dreibeis, the first speaker, discussed the situation in general. John L. Brown, the next speaker, attacked the policy of the United States Government toward Nicaragua, while Robert Rutherford defended the United States Government. At the conclusion of these three speeches, Robert Corbett discussed the Mexican situation in connection with the question.

Before the program began, Charles Neff was elected to membership, and Thomas Jones was initiated into the Forum.

STUDENT DELEGATES

Donald Rowlingson, the next speaker, discussed the main speakers and leaders of the conference. According to Mr. Rowlingson, Dr. G. A. Stoddert Kennedy, of London, was easily the outstanding figure of the conference. Doctor Kennedy is Rector of St. Edmund's Church and chaplain to the king. He is also a famous author, having written several books under the name of "Woodbine Willie." Among the other prominent speakers were Kirby Page, Mordecai Johnson, Dr. R. Niebuhr, Dr. H. S. Coffin, and A. Bruce Curry of the Union Theological Seminary.

Miss Helen Taggart, the last delegate to report, told of some of the thoughts and inspirations that were brought out in the conference. Although practically all the subjects for discussion were of a religious nature, yet such questions were exactly what the students were interested in and desired to have discussed. Among these were, "Is Christianity a Failure?" "Is God Accessible to Individuals?" "Hod Does One Experience God?" and "Do We Find Life by Losing It?" According to Miss Taggart, the conference was designed to show the contrast between the state of society of the present day, and the dream of the Master when He founded His Church two thousand years ago. God will not be real to men until men are real to each other. The United States in her position as the leader of all nations must apply the principles of love in her dealings with her neighbors if she expects to hold her leadership.

In conclusion, Miss Taggart said that at this conference all racial lines were abolished, all fraternity differences were laid aside, and everyone joined in the meetings in good fellowship. "When such a condition may be established at Allegheny, certainly a greater Allegheny will then be founded," declared Miss Taggart.

Since the general attitude of the students at Allegheny has been that the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. are dead organizations, cards were given to those present that they might offer any criticism, constructive or destructive, in order that the officers might get some idea of the exact opinion of the student body of these organizations.

THIS AND IN ALLEGHENY ATHLETICS

A Crimson-Letter Day

Yea, verily, and spelled in capitals. Thus will Friday, January 21, 1927, be recorded in the annals of Allegheny College history. For a great Crimson team from Grove City came to Meadville on that day, looking for an easy victory over the quintet which had been humbled by Westminster only two days before, and returned that same night, sadder but wiser, with a small and very lean portion of bacon, representing the short end of a 40-23 score.

And Did We Enjoy It?

Why, it was almost like indulging in delicious helpings of some forbidden fruit, as we sat and watched a formidable, practically unconquerable Grove City team run around the floor in a dazed, helpless manner, absolutely unable to cope with an inspired Rhodes, Cibula, McClurg, Thompson and Moon combination. And then when Mr. Homer Rose, who won last year's Crimson game at Meadville with seven field goals in the final half, entered the game fully prepared to do the same thing again—and was stopped dead in his tracks, Allegheny joy knew no bounds. Some day some inspired pen, far more facile than ours, will write a great classic with that game as a subject.

And By the Way

The records show that Allegheny now has 17 victories to Grove City's 14 (with one tie) in 32 games played between the two rivals. That 40-23 score represents just about the biggest margin of victory for either team since 1907, too, if we remember Johnny's data. At any rate, it is the first Blue and Gold victory since 1924, when Coach Baker's proteges surprised them with a 24-23 victory in the game at Grove City, after having been badly beaten in the first game.

"freezing," keeping the ball in their possession except for one or two very brief instances.

Moon, Thompson, and Rhodes, though not scoring as much as Cibula and McClurg, played exceptional basketball and their stellar floorwork played a very important role in the Allegheny attack. Moon had an especially tough assignment in "Horse" Gillium, the Grover's tall center, but he was equal to it and out-played the Crimson star at all times. Captain Stevens, of Grove City, was the star for the visitors.

they meet the Allegheny five playing the calibre of basketball of which they are capable. There is little doubt that Baker's men will be on their toes to redeem themselves for their first defeat, and this attitude will undoubtedly insure a good game, and fans will be interested in seeing the play of a team, all of whose members reach a height of well over six feet.

It Is Rumored

That two or three of the old men on the Senior quint were so badly battered from the rough battle with several Soph football men that they had to go to an osteopath after the game Saturday and get several kinks straightened out. At any rate, it appears that much good football talent has gone to waste during the past four years, for several Seniors proved themselves unusually adept at the gentler arts, such as clipping, tackling, falling on the ball, etc. We heartily recommend that Allegheny football scouts take in these class basketball games, as a means of uncovering some good material for next fall's grid squad.

And Now—

Who would ever guess that the College gym was the scene, only a few brief days ago, of one of the greatest basketball games in history? Row on row of uncomfortable chairs, each provided with an arm-desk, are gloomy reminders that college students do fight other kinds of battles beside basketball and football. Here, beginning tomorrow, hundreds of students will be face to face with grim reality as far as intellectual pursuits go, fighting that final battle with the grim reapers who draw that mythical line between 50's and 60's, 60's and 70's, etc. Here's hoping that all the participants are in good mental and physical condition for the series of blue-book games.

two games carded for the week, since the Lutherans do not possess a strong outfit this season. However, a better light will be thrown on the prospects of this game after the results of the game this evening are known, but, at any rate the Blue and Gold will not be taking anything for granted after their lesson of last week.

The Red and Black team of W. and J. will oppose Allegheny on Saturday night of the same week and this engagement promises to be a thriller. At present, W. and J. seems to be headed for the championship of this district, having a record, to date, of five wins and no defeats. Both Grove City and Allegheny are listed among the wins of the Washington outfit, the Blue and Gold losing the early season match 28-23 after leading the Presidents until the last three minutes of the game.

ALLEGHENY TO MEET THIEL

and should not offer a great amount of opposition to the fast traveling Allegheny five.

The game, however, may not turn out to be as easy as is anticipated, as the Westminster game of last week will attest. The Lutherans are always at their best when opposing Allegheny, as was shown in the past football season, Thiel playing their best game of the season against the Blue and Gold. Then too, the rivalry between these neighboring schools always tends to bring out the best fighting qualities in both teams. For some time back, Allegheny has proven herself superior on the court, as on the gridiron, to the Lutherans. Last season, Coach Baker's team scored two decisive wins over Thiel, the score of the first game being 32-18, while Allegheny virtually ran away in the second contest, winning 46-12. The year before that, the Blue and Gold also secured two victories over the Greenville team, by 32-10 and 20-20 counts. Barring another upset of the "dope" bucket, Allegheny should continue its winning streak over Thiel tonight.
