

Sally Hopkins and Georgette Smith rehearse for the weekend production of "The Importance of Being Earnest" by Oscar Wilde.

"The Importance of Being Earnest"

by J. W. Romm, News Editor

After seeing it everybody should realize "The Importance of Being Earnest". It is an exceedingly well done show and accomplishes something wonderful, it makes you laugh. It is not only the witty lines of Oscar Wilde that induce this reaction but also some very excellent acting and directing.

The Oscar Wilde comedy of manners was directed by Prof. Jack Tillingham, whose understanding and appreciation of Wilde and Earnest is evident in his directing. Wilde has incorporated into his play some exceedingly long and wordy speeches. However, one is not aware of this, but remains always interested. This can only be attributed to the direction and hard work of the actors. In connection with this point plaudits must be awarded Miss Susan Treadwell who portrays the role of Lady Bracknell.

Miss Treadwell as the matriarchal Lady Bracknell is almost wholly responsible for the success and liveliness of some of those long speeches. Her triumph, aside from the third act, occurs during the interview scene between herself and the problematic Earnest, excellently acted by David Bray. The role of Earnest provides a specific problem of a different nature. These difficulties are presented by the lines and character of Earnest for unlike the other roles Earnest is the most serious and his lines contain the fewest laughs. However, Mr. Bray once again turns in a well developed and controlled performance.

Other major roles include Derry Bird as Algernon. This is one of Mr. Bird's best performances for he has captured the personality and idiosyncracies of the "ostentatiously eligible" bachelor.

Sally Hopkins' as Cecily Cardew and Norma Flinchbaugh as Gwendolyn Fairfax, who play the romantic leads opposite Mr. Bird and Mr. Bray respectively, turn in very good character interpretations. This can also be attributed to the casting for Miss Hopkins, as in Thieve's Car- (Continued on Page 6)

ASG Committies Report on Past, Future Events

The Educational Affairs Committee at the AUC meeting Tuesday night gave reports of recent activities.

The Academic committee has met with Dean Ross to discuss possible programs for the coming year. Suggested programs range from an inquiry into the state of the intellectual atmosphere of the campus through an evaluation of the G-program and possible institution of an honors program.

For the time being, the Human Relations Committee is working with Dr. Ketcham and Mr. Julius on the idea of a Panel of Americans. To further aid them in this, Jane Parker, HRC Chairman, has written to the National Panel of Americans for information.

Having just finished Religion-in-Life Week, the Religious Affairs Committee has evaluated the program and found that at least one significant problem will have to be dealt with by future committees. This is the problem of enticing greater attendance and participation in the bull sessions that are part of the week's programming. Possible future programs include a spring convocation designed to better acquaint local Methodist ministers with the goals and programs of the college.

Frosh Seminar

In giving the report on the Freshman Seminar Program, Wilma Harmon, the program coordinator, pointed out that the bulk of her work was done during the summer. At the moment, the program is running quite smoothly with twenty discussion leaders and approximately fifty freshmen participating.

Allegheny Represented On "College Panorama"

Allegheny College last Sunday was the first of some twenty educational institutions in Western Pennsylvania to be featured on the new KDKA-TV "College Panorama". Eight students, as well as Dr. Allen Edwards, college treasurer, and Mr. William Parsons, chairman of the geology department, appeared on the program.

Dr. Edwards spoke on "The Closing Door at College", emphasizing the increasing rise in enrollments. Mr. Parsons asserted Allegheny's quality in the field of science. He discussed the importance of the mastodon discovery at Conneaut Lake, as well as the National Science Foundation grants to Allegheny professors, one of which he received, enabling him to study at the Grant Institute in Edinburgh, Scotland. He said that the number of these grants which have been awarded to other members of the science department is indicative of the quality of scientific work done at Allegheny.

Two freshmen, Robert Salzman and Rees Flannery, both potential science majors, spoke on why they had chosen Allegheny. June Bedell and Becky Summersgill also spoke. John Arcuri, William McCandless, Jim Linaberger and Wayne Glenn sang as members of the Phi Gamma Delta quartet.

Last minute pre-emption by CBS of the originally announced 3:30 time forced the program to go on a half-hour earlier than had been scheduled. A kinescope of the program will be available in a few days.

The series was conceived by Calvin Jones, KDKA program director, and John Roberts, producer of the series, and will attempt to show viewers the quality of work being done, and some of the problems faced by area schools.

Frosh Class Elections Scheduled For Monday

Monday evening, between 10:00 and 11:15 p.m., freshman elections for class officers will be held in the dormitories. The elections are being supervised by a committee composed of Norm Nickerson, Julian Krainin, Earl Speirs, Barbara St. Lawrence, Lynn Carrington and Barbara Sweeney. They are in charge of counting petitions, placing the ballot boxes in the dormitories and counting the votes.

On the ballot will be: for president, Marty Goldberg, Ben Greer, Dick Dean, Dean McFall and Mike McCullough; vice president, Don Riley, Steven Frankel, Jim Corboy, Bill Wallisch, Herb Friedman and Hayes Stover; secretary, Beth Burnside, Sue Johnson, Cydni Crawford and Pete Schneider; and treasurer, Frank Kinkel, John Urbaitis, Douglas Mitchell, Bing Ewalt and Andy Sheffler.

Runoffs will be held Wednesday, November 12, also between 10 and 11:15 p.m.

Bishop Oxnam Speaks To Convocation Crowd

Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam told an enthusiastic Honors Day Convocation audience Wednesday morning that the world today needs "The Artificer in Ideas" to help solve its pressing problems.

Bishop Oxnam defined the "artificer in ideas" as a "worker in ideas". He is not the ivory-tower scholar, nor the specialist, nor the technologist.

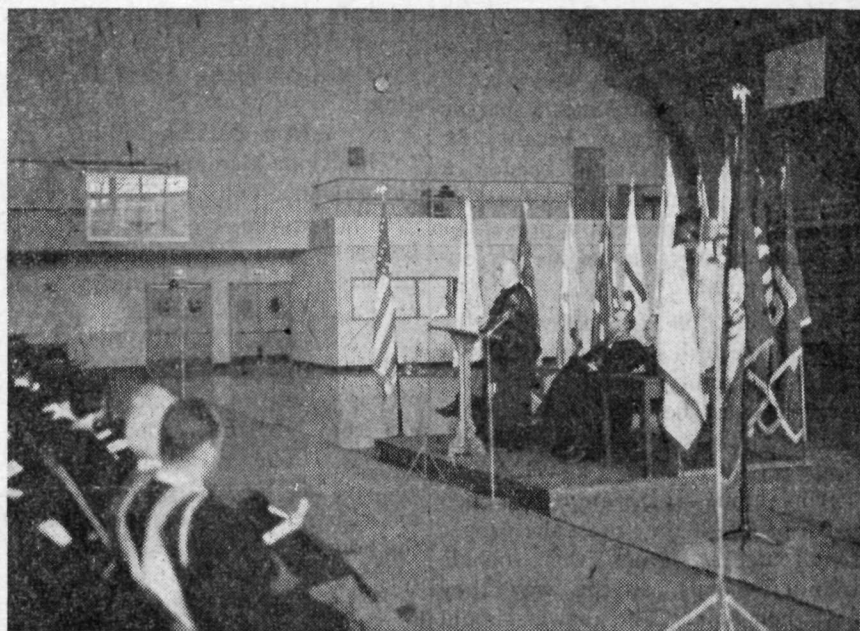

The artificer in ideas, the Bishop said, is like the British coal miners during World War II who in response to the threat of invasion went "down in the blackest of pits."

Bishop Oxnam called upon the scholar, the intellectual, the man of ideas, to work in the "face of the coal", to make a practical application of ideas in order to erase the poverty, disease, and injustice of the world.

The man of ideas, the Bishop said, was a man of culture. But, he pointed out, culture is not encyclopaedic knowledge, not specialization; it is "what is left after you've forgotten everything."

"What carries over", he said, "is understanding, refinement of taste, delicacy of feeling, breadth of outlook, a critical habit of mind, and symbolism."

The speaker illustrated the need for "knowledge in action" by citing the Orozco mural at Dartmouth in (Continued on Page 6)

83 Sudents Recognized For High Achievement

by Ellen McKee

Eighty-three Alden Scholars were honored at the Honors Day Convocation Wednesday morning in the David Mead Fieldhouse. In addition other scholastic awards were announced.

The Reverend G. Bromley Oxnam, bishop of the Washington area Methodist Church, gave the principal address on "The Artificer in Ideas." President Pelletier presented certificates to the Alden Scholars, named after Timothy Alden, first president of Allegheny College, for achieving an academic average of 85 or better for the year 1957-58.

3 Students Elected To Phi Beta Kappa

The election of junior members Yvonne Reed, Donald Robbins, and Adelaide Vieth to Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary fraternity, was announced at Honors Day Convocation, Wednesday morning.

The requirements for election to Phi Beta Kappa are a 90 average for the first six semesters of work and an average of at least 87 at the time of election. The three aims of the fraternity are friendship, morality, and literature; therefore good moral character and citizenship are prerequisites for membership. Not more than ten percent of those eligible may be elected to the chapter.

Keys of membership will be presented to the inductees in the library on December 5 after the annual chapter dinner.

Yvonne Reed, a graduate of Dunbar High School in Washington, D.C., is a political science major. Miss Reed has served on the AUC foreign students committee, the NSA committee, class cabinet and IRC besides belonging to the Cwens, French Club and Pi Gamma Mu. The Pi Gamma Mu Award for a senior majoring in History, (Continued on page 6)

Alden Scholars with an average of 90 or better, received, in addition, an autographed volume of Loren Eiseley's book, The Immense Journey, 1957. In the books were bookplates designed by Prof. Carl Heischen, of the art department.

President Pelletier also presented the following awards: the William Edgar Porter Prize to Neil Abramson, the student achieving the highest scholastic average in the junior year; the James Bennet Porter Prize to Joan Reiber, the student achieving the highest scholastic average in the freshman class; the Phi Beta Kappa Prize to David McKay, the freshman man achieving the highest scholastic average; and the Pi Gamma Mu Award to Yvonne Reed, a senior majoring in Political Science who has maintained a three-year scholastic average of 87 or better in the Social Sciences.

DISCRIMINATION

Discrimination in its broadest sense can and does include several aspects of society. It is not just because of race or creed that we discriminate but because of personalities, friends and groups.

Is it fair to eliminate a person from an organization because he does not have the right friends or because he is a member of a certain group? How can a person be tabulated other than as his personality permits?

Everyone has friends which he likes to see in his organizations, but what of ability, personality, etc? Are these to be forgotten because someone wants to keep an organization "in the family?"

All campus organizations are open to all people if they meet the proper requirements. Does this include friends, groups, or the way they part their hair? The answer should be no, yet there are some incidents where this would have a definite yes.

How can students who supposedly are adult and wise enough to make an objective decision be so narrow minded as to overlook quality and ability?

Dinner Dress

Since co-educational dining was instituted last year, there has been controversy over the fact that the men are required to wear jackets and ties to the dinner meal while the women can wear what they have had on all day.

There have been complaints, mostly on the part of the men that changing their dress for dinner is a bother and that it is not fair that the women can wear sneakers with sweaters and skirts.

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity is sponsoring a fund drive project from November 10, to November 21. The members will sell chances at twenty-five cents each for a spaghetti dinner to be held at the house. Drawings will be held at (Continued on page 5)

On our part we agree that this does not seem fair. Although one of the expressed purposes of the co-educational dining and required dressing system was to insure better manners for the men, it can be brought to light that possible the women could benefit just as much from the system of dressing for the dinner meal.

If such aversion would be felt by the women concerning their dressing for the dinner meal, we can only suggest that the men be allowed to dress informally.

Those women who complain that their activities and studies do not allow time for them to change should take cognizance of the fact that the men have the same problem, especially those on the football and soccer teams who sometimes have an average of five minutes to change.

Plays In New York Attract French Club

Eight members of the French Club embarked for New York last Friday for a week-end of viewing French plays and meals in French restaurants.

The club on Saturday afternoon saw a matinee presentation of Le Cid by Corneille. In the evening, the participants saw Don Juan by Moliere. Both plays were presented by Le Theatre National Populaire under the direction of Jean Vilar.

After the performance, the group met Gerald Phillips, the actor playing in the title role in Le Cid, and Jean Vilar, who played Don Juan.

During the day, the group tasted some true French cuisine at Potiniere, La Petite Marmite, Le Cafe Brittany, notable French restaurants.

Those participating were: Judy Braun, Bettye Meyer, Judy Baum, Adelaide Vieth, Yvonne Reed, Joan Reiber, Yoon Bai Kim and Joe Peroski. Miss Blair Hanson and Mr. John Robinson accompanied the members and acted as guides.

Knights And Garvey Attend Convention

Mrs. Ruth W. Knights, associate dean of students at Allegheny College, and Miss Reba Garvey, assistant professor of education and assistant to Mrs. Knights, attended the 38th annual convention of the Pennsylvania Association of Women Deans and Counselors, October 31 and November 1, at Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa.

The theme for the convention was "An Evaluation of Counseling Services: Prelude to the Future." Among the outstanding speakers were Dr. Helen C. Bailey, associate superintendent, Philadelphia Public Schools; Dr. Harry D. Gideonse, president, Brooklyn College; and Dr. Ruth E. Smalley, dean of the University of Pennsylvania School of Social Work.

Dean Knights participated in the Friday afternoon panel discussion of "Criteria for Success in Counseling." Dr. Gertrude Peabody, dean of women at Temple University, acted as chairman of this session.

Pretzel King, Queen Elected At Rally

Jim Brumage and Sue Graham were elected Pretzel King and Queen at the Young Republican pep rally held in the CU on November 3. They were elected by ballot by those who attended the rally.

Mr. Ray Shafer, Republican candidate for the Senate, spoke to the students present at the rally. In his speech, he urged the youth on campus to participate in politics no matter to which party they belonged.

Bridge Problem

Summer Work In Europe Offered To Students

Last week's problem was a very easy one, and should not have stumped anyone. All that South has to do after taking this opening lead is play 3 rounds of trumps, then Ace of Clubs, and throw West in with a club or diamond. West can make one more trick, but must then lead clubs or diamonds. South can now slough a heart on one side, and trump on the other. He still has a losing heart which he can concede to East, but he makes ten tricks and his contract.

Your reporter, while kibitzing around the campus, sees many interesting hands. Each week as many of these as possible will be published. This week's lineup is North-Bob Hopkins, East-Brian Waters, South-Phil Truxel and West-Barbara Meddock.

The bidding is interesting. Bob, with the galaxy of cards before him, wisely bids only a forcing two. Brian, smelling a vulnerable slam for the opposition, throws in a preemptive four clubs. Incidentally, at 4 clubs, East-West would have sacrificed a maximum of 500 points — small sacrifice to prevent the inevitable slam. However, Phil co-operated by showing his only trick, and Barbara's 5 clubs could not stop the slam being bid. Actually, Bob made 7 hearts, by trumping two spades in dummy. The grand slam could have been stopped by a trump lead, so the hand was bid just right. Congratulations, Bob, on a well bid, well played game.

Notice that with partner's Ace of Diamonds, only an atrocious break in both Spades and Hearts could have prevented the slam.

Your reporter would be very grateful to the various bridge addicts who are bound to come up against similar monsters as the above, if they would hand in these deals to the campus office.

For next week we have a problem which should keep you thinking for sometime.

Summer Work In Europe Offered To Students

The American Student Information Service, located in Limburg/Lahn, Germany, has announced that it will again have jobs to offer to American college students who wish to work in Europe next summer. The jobs available are on farms, in factories, on construction projects, at resorts, with the forestry service and in various technical industries.

Farm, construction, and forestry jobs, available to anyone who desires to broaden his European travel experience, provide free room and board and a small amount of pocket money, while the technical jobs, available only to qualified students, pay approximately 100 dollars a month. The wages and conditions of all the jobs are the same as those of the people with whom the students will be working. The farm jobs are for the most part located on large, long-established manors, giving the student the opportunity to meet and associate with many people as well as to see at first hand the farming methods of Europe.

The American Student Information Service, founded last year as an experiment, is a non-profit organization designed to promote closer relations and understanding between the future leaders of Europe and America. By allowing the student to enter into and become a part of a European community, he is better able to appreciate its advantages and disadvantages, its products and its needs, as compared with his own.

A limited number of places are available aboard the less-expensive liners for students who wish to travel by ship. Round-trip tickets cost from $350-400, and a 10% deposit is required to hold the space. Charter flights are being arranged for students and will cost approximately $400 round trip. A $50 deposit is required.

NSA News

The United States National Student Association has sent messages to President Eisenhower, Attorney General Gogers, Virginia's Governor F. Lindsey Almond, and Arkansas Governor Orval Faubus calling for leadership in the school de-segregation crisis.

Speaking for one million students USNSA President Robert R. Kiley sent telegrams to the political and judicial leaders condemning efforts to avoid Supreme Court integration rulings through abolition of public education in Southern communities.

"USNSA condemns all efforts to evade the clear meaning of the law and decision of the Supreme Court through the abolition of public schools and the diversion of public funds to supposedly private institutions," Kiley said in telegrams to Faubus and Almond. "We decry with equal vigor any destruction of the system of universal, free public schools which is essential to the preservation of our free society, our economic progress, and attainments and our national defense."

Kiley's messages to the President and the Attorney General called upon them to provide "the moral leadership vital to the peaceful and speedy dissolution of education practices contrary to the law and to act with speed and resolution to frustrate those who by violating the law would deny the rights and opportunities to their brothers."

Kiley, 23, a graduate of Notre Dame, is the executive officer of the USNSA. USNSA policy, determined by delegates from member schools at the annual National Student Congress, expresses vigorous opposition to "all actions, legislative or otherwise, which in effect frustrate and prevent the right and obligation of local communities to progress toward compliance with the decision of the Supreme Court."

In a statement referring to his telegrams, Kiley pointed out that the threatened abolition of public education has become a terrible reality in Little Rock, Front Royal, American Student Information Service at a cost of $12. In addition to the membership fee, the organization must have the student's name, college address, age, sex, course of study, previous work experience and the date the student wishes to begin working. The mailing address of American Student Information Service is Josef-Ludwig-Str.4a, Limburg/Lahn, Germany.

Separation Of Church And Art Pointed Out to ACF By Dr. Pickering

by Jackie Kouacevic

"There has been, in recent times, a cleft between the church and art." Thus spoke Dr. Douglas Pickering of the Allegheny Art Department, as he spoke to a group of the Allegheny Christian Fellowship members in Ruter Hall on Sunday evening.

Dr. Pickering began his talk on "Religion and Art" by playing a tape recording of some gospel type music entitled "Back of the Clouds." He then played a recording of Handel's "Behold the Lamb of God."

He pointed out that this first music had its rhythm and its vitality, which represent, to some extent, the pace of modern life. He then spoke of the first music as a type of elementary school music in comparison to the deeper and richer Handel's Messiah. There is, he said, "An intellectual demand on you to understand Handel while the other is something which you have heard or felt before and you became entranced by it."

"There is a cleft between the artist of yesterday and also between art and the church," claimed Dr. Pickering. "Art and the church do not have the relationship they had before the Reformation."

He showed slides of the various paintings and illustrated the contrasts between religious works of art today and those of Pre-Reformation and other times. He showed two paintings of the "Annunciation." He demonstrated how the older work was more realistic in body form and shape. There were creases in the robes which gave them the appearance of having been worn. The newer painting was idealistic in body form and dress. He also pointed out the same type of contrast in a "Head of Christ" by Rembrandt and Solomon's "Head of Christ."

Dr. Pickering also talked briefly on church architecture. He showed several slides to illustrate his point that much of American church architecture today is imitative and not original.

In closing, he expressed the hope that the church and art would soon come together and that more expressive and realistic religious art would result.

Several members of the Boots and Saddles Club attended the show; Nancy Benton, Sue Graham, Joan Martin, Marglee Bast, Ed Penn and faculty adviser Miss Sue Lussier.

One of the more interesting events was the competition of the International Olympic Jumping Teams. The United States placed first followed by Canada and Germany.

The Gators displayed another too little, too late effort last Saturday as they lost to underdog Dickinson by an 18-12 verdict at Biddle Field in Carlisle, Pa. Dickinson is not a member of the President's Athletic Conference, and therefore the loss did not affect the Gators' two wins and one tie record within the conference.

Hit hard by an ankle injury to fullback Larry Gould on the second play of the game, the Gators were again slow in getting started. The Red Devils scored all three of their touchdowns in the first half. Dickinson scored their first touchdown in the first quarter when their quarterback Dave Wachter threw a 16 yard aerial to his brother Bob. Sub halfback John Quirk tallied the other two six-pointers on runs from the 2 and 3 yard lines.

Dickinson started their first scoring drive from the Gator 35 after the Gators had been forced to punt from deep within their own territory. A Wachter pass to Bob Worthington for ten yards followed by a Worthington 14 yard run off tackle put the Red Devils in scoring position. Four plays later Quirk took a pitchout and looped the right end for the tally. Dave Wachter's pass to Worthington for the extra point was broken up by Ron Steiner.

With the beginning of the second quarter, the Gators were able to move the ball to the Dickinson 33, but lost it there on a fumble by Mann. Later Len Cerrato muffed a Dickinson punt to allow the Demons to take over on Allegheny's 32. Several plays later Wachter hit Campbell with a pass for 27 yards, and Quirk followed with a 3 yard plunge for the Red Devils' second score of the afternoon. Roger Smith's extra point placement attempt went wide.

Later in the second quarter, the host recovered a Larry Gould fumble on the Demons' 3 and marched 70 yards for another 6 pointer. Wachter completed five of nine passes during the drive, and finished it with a 16 yard pass to his brother for the TD.

The Gators received the kickoff to start the second half and moved the ball from their own 35 for their first score. Buerger's passing key-noted the drive as he threw five completed aeri-als, the last of which went 10 yards to Larimer for the tally. Baker's plunge for the extra point fell short.

Allegheny found itself on the Dickinson 8 early in the final period after Buerger hit Jim Johnston with an 18 yard pass. After short gainers by Johnston and Mann, Baker crossed the goal line on an off tackle play from the 2.

Later in the quarter the Gators took over on their own 20 and sent Bill Baker on a 47 yard run to the Dickinson 33. The possible winning drive ended there, however, with Buerger passing incomplete on (Continued on Page 5)

Roughriders Not Most Formidable Foe; Chance For Gators To Show Power

by Bruce Herold, Asst. Sports Editor

The Gators will seek their third Conference win tomorrow when they travel to Cleveland to play Case Tech. This game will be the fifth time that these two teams have met on the field since 1903. Case Tech holds the edge in victories with three wins against Allegheny's one win.

While the Gators were edged out by Dickinson last week, the Roughriders of Case Tech were defeated by Ohio Wesleyan 34-6. The Roughriders this year are about the same size as the Gators. Their offense is led by a hard running fullback, one Rudge. Also in the Roughriders backfield there is the Quarterback Klopspoted who passes with great accuracy for considerable yardage. Klopsotek's main target is the end Dascoll. Dascoll is a great pass receiver and ranks high among the leaders in this department in the President's Conference. So far this year the Roughriders have a 1-3-1 record.

In an interview with Mr. Douglas Mooney, the football coach at Case Tech, a number of questions about the Allegheny team and the game tomorrow were answered. Mr. Mooney felt that the Gators had greatly improved their defence this year. Mr. Mooney then praised the great work of Allegheny's two tackles and said that they were two of the best in the league. He felt that the offense was good and couldn't understand why the Gators hadn't done better against non-conference foes. The Gators seemed to Mr. Mooney to be good on the ground and also through the air.

The race in the Presidents' Conference is still a battle among several teams. Western Reserve, the leader with a perfect 3-0-0 record, is inactive tomorrow. Allegheny follows second in the standings with a 2-0-1 record. Tomorrow they go against Case Tech, who have a 1-2-1 conference record. The only other conference game is between winless Washington & Jefferson and John Carroll with a 3-2-0 record. A win for John Carroll would let them bypass idle Wayne State and move into third place in the standings.

Booters Win First, 4-3 Over Western Reserve; Case Clash Decides PAC Title

Allegheny came back victorious after a close game with Western Reserve at Cleveland last Saturday afternoon, their first PAC win. Western Reserve took a fast lead in the game, scoring early in the first period but Tom Bastian came back with a score for Allegheny tying the score at the end of one period of play. In the second quarter, Western Reserve again took the lead, 2-1, and held this lead until Ernie Gelman retaliated by booting in 2 goals for the Gators in the third period while Allegheny held their opponents to one tally, making the score 3-3 at the end of the third quarter.

Both teams then "buckled down" and the fourth period went scoreless, ending the regulation game in a tie. The first overtime was also scoreless and with only one minute to go in the second, Tom Bastian scored his second goal of the day, giving the Gators a 4-3 victory.

This victory makes the Gator's record 1-1-1 in PAC competition while Case of Cleveland has a 2-1-0 record. This situation makes tomorrow's final PAC game between Allegheny and Case the championship game. The Gators, besides wanting to win the PAC championship, will also be out to revenge a 2-0 loss to Case earlier this season on the home field.

Freshman Moss Holds Hopes For Soccer Title

Blonde, crew-cut, average build and a pleasant personality, describes Al Moss, one of the outstanding freshmen on this year's soccer squad. Al first became interested in soccer during his first years at East Meadow High School in Long Island, and has since received his letter for this sport there as well as being one of the regular Allegheny booters for '58. Soccer, however, isn't Al's only interest in sports; he has also won high school letters in baseball, bowling and golf. Although his interest is now focused primarily on soccer, Al is looking forward to the coming baseball season with hopes of being able to cover the "hot corner" for the Gator nine.

When questioned about the outlook for the remainder of the '58 soccer season, Al was very enthusiastic and said he hoped that next week The Campus would be able to have an article on Allegheny defeating Case for the PAC championship. Looking ahead to next year's team, Al's opinion was optimistic. He expects to see a very good group of soccer players next year as not many players will be lost through graduation and the freshmen on this year's squad will have a year's experience behind them.

Besides sports, Al has had various other activities both in and out of high school. He was business manager for East Meadow's year book, which is one of the best in the country, and has been a stamp collector for several years, although he finds little time to devote to his collection this year as studies and soccer occupy most of his time. With all his extra-curricular activities, Al has maintained above average grades throughout his high school years and is doing very well so far here at Allegheny. Al is now taking the Pre-Med curriculum and hopes to be able to go to medical school.

scored touchdowns on passes. The Phi Delt's scored on an intercepted pass by Moore and a touchdown by Blair.

The Phi Gams finished the season with a 3-4 record. They won two games this week. Their second win was over the Theta Chis 18-0. In this game Cebula scored two touchdowns on passes from Stoughton and Stoughton scored one touchdown on a pass from Hankins. The Phi Gams won their third game as they defeated the Delt's 30-0. In this game Cebula scored two touchdowns, Finerty and Hankins each one. Stoughton also scored a touchdown on a pass from Hankins.

At the conclusion of the third week of freshman intramural football there are two teams that have yet to be beaten. First Prospect holds first place in the West League with a 2-0 record. Fourth Main leads the East League with a 2-0 record. In the East League Allegheny House forfeited the game to Second Main and Third Main forfeited the game to Allegheny House. In the West League Tarbell House forfeited their game to First Prospect. Second Prospect defeated Tarbell House 18-0. In this game Tom Corcoran and Gary Johnson each ran over the goal line for a touchdown on passes from Glenn Beckert. Gary Johnson also intercepted a Tarbell House pass and ran for a touchdown.

the Council appointed the following people to the Academic Committee: Ann Risher, Pat Kern, Alice Sturgeon, Glen Nellas, Jay Romm and Robin Biggs.

Lou Mancuso then read the text of two telegrams sent by NSA President Bob Kiley to President Eisenhower and Attorney General Rogers and to Governors Faubus and Almond. The telegrams, dealing with the segregation problem in public schools, are summarized elsewhere in the Campus.

The final item of business dealt with by the Council was the procedure to be used in realizing the intent of Article VII, Section I of the By-laws which states: "The Executive Secretary shall be responsible for maintaining a book entitled, 'Policies of the Allegheny Student Government' which will contain all policies of a long-range nature passed by the Allegheny Undergraduate Council until such time as they should be modified or repealed."

The procedure approved by the Council will require fundamental principles of student government, termed Policies, to be ratified by a two-thirds vote of the Council, and directives for action, termed Mandates, to be ratified by a majority vote of the Council.

which "a mother-skeleton is portrayed giving birth to a still-born skeleton, while around the bed stand skeletons robed in academic garb."

"The artificer in ideas," said the Bishop, "has nothing to do with the still-born." The artificer in ideas must "move in" on world problems. The Bishop stated but he will be confronted with the task of reconciling "power and justice".

The man of ideas must exercise power in attempting to solve the world's problems, he said, but power corrupts and the artificer in ideas must always be on guard.

"How do we reconcile the necessities of technology and the necessities of brotherhood?", the bishop asked. The artificer in ideas is confronted with this problem, he said.

The Bishop cited Secretary of State Dulles as an example of the worker in ideas. Dulles, Bishop Oxnam said, is forced everyday with the application of ideas to immediate problems. He criticized the present administration, however, for thinking too much in terms of power, and not enough in terms of justice.

Bishop Oxnam praised Prime Minister Nehru of India as an "artificer in ideas." According to the Bishop, Nehru is attempting to "drive a wedge between the force of Chinese nationalism and the force of Soviet Communism in China," but America's present foreign policy is forcing these together.

"The Importance of Being Earnest" is a different dramatic experience from the Playshop's first performance, "Oklahoma." One must definitely have an appreciation for Oscar Wilde, for his sometimes exaggerated and sometimes tongue-in-cheek humor. In order to fully appreciate the show the viewer must listen carefully to the dialogue for some of the lines are truly literary gems. However, even though "The Importance of Being Earnest" requires concentration on the part of the audience it is still in a light vein.
