Now, My dear old Lady
Sit down and consider.
What is to hinder you
from giving me a lecture next February on my public course. Lunch the whole business of your Women of the To. Rev. and give us a chatty evening with them. Or own the entire world over and and tell us of women — taking a women's of statesmanship — a posters, a journalist an any thing.
Or take a male subject.
Or tell (my) women how to to become journalists, or any subject under the sun that occurred to stitched on to the words of literature even though the traces be very long. Now do this. It will be a good thing for you.

Bring your father over to visit Ohio and both of you come here. I am sure I can sleep you and if at the time I cannot "eat you." (or have no girl) you can easily be accommodated with meals. Come over and let me persuade you. Answer me very soon as my time is short.
I sail the 25th. and my proof must be in printer's hand before I go.
Faithfully, M. F. Price
