Dear Miss Tarbell:

Miss Lane has asked me to write you about your article, The Poor Ye Always Have With You. I am sorry to have to tell you we have decided against it for the Companion. Miss Lane would have written you but she was leaving for Florida in some haste and so turned your letter over to me.

We rather like your idea about Industry's Contribution to the Woman's Emancipation but we have in the past published a little something on this subject so perhaps we should not go into it again.

With best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Willa Roberts
