One of the more humorous, at first, aspects of the steel settlement was the union's problem of what to do with 200,000 buttons. Each one of these buttons said NO, and were to be worn after the striking steel workers had supposedly voted against the proposals put forth to them by the steel industry.

When asked what the union intended to do with 200,000 NO buttons a union official in Pittsburgh replied, "We'll save them. They will probably come in handy in two and a half years." (The new contract extends for 30 months.)

This statement came out as management once again gave in to labor with a 40-cent wage increase and a decision to set up a "joint study" of the controversial work rules.

It came after six months of strike which, without going into the gory figures, hurt the American economy.

The facts and figures of the strike and its effects on the economy and allied industries such as aluminum have been reported extensively. This is not an attempt to analyze its implications on the economic level.

But how in the world can an intelligent, lasting solution be reached when an attitude like that voiced above by a high ranking union official is stated? A two year old baby is a savage. He holds out his grubby paw for a piece of candy and cries because no more is forthcoming. Is the attitude of the United Steel Workers Union any more mature?

U.S. Foreign Policy Strives For Peace; How Can We Best Attain Goal?

by Buck Hemphill

ED NOTE

Thanksgiving is over, Christmas is over, and the New Year has begun. It has begun, as have so many others, in a world of many problems. Though the Campus realizes that many students care little to hear about world problems this close to the personal problem of "finals", it is believed that we have many conscious and "big" students who may both benefit and help others to benefit from the continuation of our experiment. Our experiment, as you may recall, will consist of an article in this week's Campus on America's Goals to be followed the next two weeks by faculty articles (one pro and one con article each week on the practicability and value of a possible U.S. unilateral disarmament) and then to conclude with a student-faculty coffee hour discussion. This week's article, it is hoped, will provide the "ends" toward which our foreign policy is directed so that we may then go on to debate the best means for carrying out this policy.

America's foreign policy has as its final goal "world peace". Not only has this been stated by many of our illustrious policy makers, but it is certain that not one of them would publicly disagree, yet world peace is not standing at the end of a four lane highway which the United States may point out to the rest of the world. Nor, should it once be found, will it then have perpetual motion. It will need help from all the potters' hands. And now, what have I said? I have said America is for peace. I have further said we do not know exactly where to look for it, and that if we should find it, it will take the cooperation of most of the countries here on this earth to maintain it. Thus it might be more practical to look at how we are conducting the search. Self-interest has been the guiding light ever since the first Indian made a deal with the second. This has been the sign post used by Americans in dealing with one another; this has been the lighthouse beam for directing our foreign policy since the day it came into being. Sometimes we have followed international law; at other times, we have forgotten it as in the Mexican and Spanish-American Wars.

We are called an imperialistic nation by many of the world's peoples today. This often upsets us, for have we not given our colonies (called territories by the United States) independence or the opportunity for such at their desire? Have we not given our allies aid during and following the world wars which we did not expect to have returned—because they were fighting for the "right"? And finally—for this paper—have we not been giving huge chunks of aid to many of the underdeveloped countries because of our moral duty? We think of these questions and many others and ridicule those who call us imperialists. But had these name-calling folk only referred to our actions as being to our believed self-interest, they should have had a good argument. But this they do not do, for they too are following the same guiding light. They too have been imperialistic at times, when they had the opportunity and thought that imperialism would be to their self-interest.

Some Americans have expressed the opinion that we can have world peace only if we rule the world and maintain law and order. There is only one difficulty with this idea, that being that many of the countries of the world would have their own names substituted for that of the United States as "The Leader".

We should not, however, despair over the fact that our foreign policy seems directed toward the be-

Letters to The Campus...

The following is a letter received by President Pelletier and is of general interest to the campus.

Dear Dr. Pelletier:

This letter is being written for the benefit of your students who may graduate in February 1960.

As you perhaps know, many of your students, other than ROTC, will immediately become eligible to be inducted for 2 years of active duty in the Armed Forces of the United States followed by the mandatory reserve duty.

The Department of the Army has a 6 month active duty training program followed by reserve training which relieves a young man from being subject to the draft.

Recently the Department of the Army has opened its quota to permit people up to 25 years of age to enter this 6 month training program.

It is requested that you and members of your faculty call this opportunity to the attention of your February graduates. Sufficient additional copies are provided for distribution to your deans. Any other information you desire may be obtained from me or from my representative, Lieutenant Colonel H. E. Richards, USAR Center, 373 Davis Street, Meadville, Pennsylvania, telephone 5-0655.

Sincerely yours,

Ralph C. Cooper
Major General, USA

Allegheny Offers Science Institute For High School Teachers

Sixty teachers of science in high and preparatory schools will have an opportunity to up-date data and laboratory techniques under the program of Allegheny College's fourth annual Summer Science Institute, according to an announcement by Dr. Robert E. Bugbee, chairman of the college's biology department and director of the Institute.

Allegheny is offering graduate level courses in astronomy, biology, chemistry, geology, physics, and mathematics, with participants permitted to do work in two of the six fields. Qualified participants may undertake independent study projects. The Institute runs for seven weeks from June 29 through August 12.

Each course carries three hours credit for both teacher certification and a master of education degree.

Teachers selected for the Institute will receive a stipend of $525 for the seven weeks work, plus $105 for each dependent up to four, and a single round trip travel allowance not to exceed $80, according to a bulletin outlining the program. Teachers may be accompanied by their families, with housing in a college dormitory and meals at a college dining hall for a minimal cost.

The Allegheny Summer Science program is designed to improve the quality of science teaching in secondary schools and is operated under a grant from the National Science Foundation. Last year 59 teachers from 16 states attended.

Instruction is by members of Allegheny's science faculty, supplemented by visiting lecturers and experts. In addition to Dr. Bugbee the staff includes Dr. Richard L. Brown, astronomy; Dr. William E. Curtis, biology; Dr. Harold M. State, chemistry; Professor William H. Parsons, geology; Dr. Frederick H. Steen, mathematics; and Professor William H. Michener, physics.

Applications must be received at the college by February 15. Accepted applicants will be notified by March 15, the bulletin material notes. Application blanks and bulletin outlines may be obtained by writing Dr. Bugbee at the college.

Attention Mr. Arthur:

On behalf of myself and several friends, I would like to express my appreciation for your excellent review of the Playshop production, "The Matchmaker". Your article was so fine it was almost unnecessary for anyone to go and see the play. There was only one thing lacking in your column, the lines of dialogue. You have proved to the entire college community your great skill in recording the complex plots and characters of this classic.

It is extremely gratifying to see a man who "Thinks for Himself", flying in the face of tradition, and writing a review which contains:

1. An evacuation of only one of the seven items which many critics feel make up an intelligent critique;
2. A list of 75% of the large cast, with one or two adjectives stuck in front of them (obviously an attempt to save space);
3. Reveals the entire plot.

If you have the time, why don't you read Robin Biggs' review of the preceding show, "Witness for the Prosecution". Although she shows what might be an ignorance of terminology, she is familiar with theater analysis in its basic form. But, more important than her minor faults, is the fact that not once does she reveal more of the plot than is necessary to make her point, or stimulate the reader's interest. While review is a shorter word than synopsis, its importance far overpowers that of the latter in this situation.

Steve Frankel

Madam:

One must excuse the scholar's caution in ascribing greatness or genius to writers of one's own time. One needs to guard against literary fads (including those of the learned professors), press-agency, best seller lists, etc. Still, there is genius in our time. The fact that my life has happened to coincide with those of Faulkner, Frank Lloyd Wright, Picasso, Malraux, Hemingway, Einstein, and Albert Camus (plus many others in diverse fields) is a source of excitement and even satisfaction.

Now, Camus is dead at forty-six. History will judge him as a Writer. As a man who wrote, however, Camus had great courage. Talent isn't so rare as we sometimes suggest, but courage is. An early success, the darling of French literature, Camus could have basked in the praise (and over-praise) others were so anxious to bestow upon him, but he refused to do so. From his own active participation in the French Resistance to the writing and publication of his books to his recent work in the French theatre, Camus showed his willingness to run risks, to lay it on the line. Keep in mind that critical esteem is harder for a writer to manage than financial success (or failure).

Camus was a busy writer but not prodical. He would have continued to inform our lives and times. We are diminished by his death. If you are among those who care about such things, you might read (or read again) a book which he wrote. Reis Library has a good selection of his work.

Sincerely,
Alfred Kern

Pins and Sins

Well, several Alleghenians really welcomed in the New Year in a "ring"-ing fashion. For every month in this new year, we have an engagement to announce, plus one, for the lucky total of 13.

Betsy Anderson became engaged to Pete Peterson, who is doing graduate work at Harvard; Mary Curtain became engaged to Dave Rist; Betsy Diffendafer, to John Arcurie, a recent graduate here; Ruth Fox, to Bob Johnson, also an Allegheny alum; Audrey Hallberg, to Carl Bundy; and Ann Hoover, to Howard Wisz, a student at Penn State University.

Sandy Horsman became engaged to Pete Elias; Judi Oswald, to Ssaba Dosa, a former Alleghenian; Marlo Pease, to Bill Bussman; Maity Shirer, to Tom Schreckengos, a graduate of Slippery Rock; Marilyn Wilson, to Paul Beebe, a student at Penn State; Wendy Wood, to John Hillman; and Carol Wright, a Westminster student, to Ted Lynn.

Nor did we lack pinnings. Gwen Jones received the Phi Gamma Delta pin of Monty Montsour and Libby Talliak, that of Dave Adams. Both pinnings occurred over the holidays.

Prior to the holidays, Betty Grove became pinned to Phi Gam Earl Smith and Sally Hopkins, to Kirk Platt. In addition, Hilary Kay is pinned to Bix Bixler and Tina Miller, to "Duke" Wuerthele. Both men are Phi Psis.

Things certainly did happen since our last issue, didn't they? Perhaps everyone is trying to beat the January 11 "deadline"!

It certainly is a sin that students even get themselves into predicaments over the holidays, isn't it, Jeannie Bullion? It seems as though Jeannie and her twin sister have twin luggage. So identical is it that Jeannie brought her sister's back to school instead of her own! No, Jeannie, you weren't seeing double when you opened what you through was your own suitcase — just a case of trouble!

If you happened to be traveling the Pennsylvania turnpike coming back to school, you may have noticed a station wagon loaded with eight Allegheny students. So many people did, that the kids put up a sign for passing cars which said — "So what". In case a car happened to pass them a second time they had another sign — "There's only eight!" (Such grammar).

Well, that's about it. Have fun taking finals!

'Loyalty Oath' Issue Discussed by ASG

Allegheny students receiving federal loans under the National Defense Education Act of 1958 may be affected by the discussion of this program in ASG. According to Section 1001F of the NDE act, a student applying for a federal loan must file an affidavit that he does not support any subversive organization, and must take an oath of allegiance to the United States.

The following policy statement was presented by Eli Silverman:

We, the students of Allegheny College, wish to voice our opposition in principle to Section 1001F of the National Defense Education Act of 1958 which makes mandatory a disclaimer affidavit and an oath of allegiance as prerequisites for student eligibility for a loan or payment under the act.

We feel the provision is ambiguous and ineffective and implies a lack of confidence in the student in his search for truth.

Some reasons for this objection may be found in statements of Arthur S. Flemming and Senator John F. Kennedy. Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Arthur S. Flemming, has depicted the provision as unnecessary, ineffective, and discriminatory, for a subversive has "no scruples about signing such an affidavit and taking such an oath..." (It) singles out educators and students for special treatment without making a contribution to national security."

"But," as Senator John F. Kennedy has pointed out, while keeping out "no genuine communists . . . it does keep out those who resent such a requirement, those who are apprehensive in their interpretation, those who are conscientiously opposed to test oaths and those who consider the disclaimer affidavit a bridle upon freedom of thought. To submit to this condition is to accept an insupportable invasion of educational autonomy, which has grave implications for the integrity of our educational system."

The faculty at their last meeting voted in favor of having Allegheny withdraw from the loan program. Eli stated that several students here receive aid under this act. Several colleges have already withdrawn from the program, objecting to the loyalty oath and affidavit.

ASG will vote on the proposed policy statement next week. Groups are expected to hold discussions this week. Congressmen of this area will be informed of Allegheny's action, as Senators Clark and Kennedy have proposed that the oath and affidavit clause be removed from the Act.

(As a policy statement of ASG, the decision would be discussed thoroughly, passed, and sent along to the Trustees, President, and Faculty.)

Harry Smith, Traffic Committee Chairman, presented a bill of $3500 for the new parking lot by Quigley. It was moved that $1500 be paid now, and the balance in yearly in-

NATIONAL TESTING PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

Graduate Record Examination

On Saturday, January 16, we will administer the Graduate Record Examinations in both the National Program and the Institutional Program. Those Departments requiring the GRE under the Institutional Program are: Philosophy, Physics, Speech, Sociology, Biology, Chemistry, English, and Economics. Students taking the GRE under the National Program have signed up individually for their tests. All students taking the GRE should report to the Gym, at 8:30 a.m. on January 16.

Admissions Test for Graduate Study in Business

On Thursday, February 4, we will administer the Graduate Study in Business test. Any students interested in taking this test may pick up application blanks in the Counseling Center and return their completed applications to Princeton by January 21.

National Teachers Examination

On Saturday, February 13, we will administer the National Teachers Examination. Students may pick up applications in the Counseling Center and their completed application must be returned to Princeton by January 29.

Law School Admission Test

On Saturday, February 20, we will administer the Law School test. Students may pick up applications in the Counseling Center and their completed applications must be returned to Princeton by February 6.

College Boards

On Saturday, February 6, we will administer the College Boards in Alden Hall, room 101.

stallments of $350. Annual income of Traffic Committee is between $450 and $500, Smith stated.

All cars must be re-registered for second semester. Students on probation and on advisor's warning will not be permitted to have cars for the next two semesters. This policy was approved by ASG last May. Comments were heard on the panel on discrimination held before vacation. Opinions were generally favorable; one person said more specific points should have been brought out.

Mike Dunay announced that results of the Assembly and Public Events Committee's poll on this year's program shows students generally liked the events. Definite interest in Fred Waring, The Cleveland Symphony, and a jazz band was expressed. Possibly students want fewer, and larger programs, rather than ones with an appeal to a limited group.

Academic committee is taking a poll of on-campus study places, Dave McKay stated. The Publications Board handbook will be ready before next semester.

Betsy Anderson, Freshman Seminar Coordinator, stated that the first real meetings will be held this week and next in faculty homes.

The meeting was adjourned at 10:55.

Arthur Schlesinger, "Foremost Social Thinker", To Speak Wed.

Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., Harvard professor of history ranked by the New York Times as "one of the foremost in the new generation of vigorous social thinkers", is scheduled to deliver the annual Sturtevant Lecture at Allegheny College next Wednesday evening in Ford Memorial Chapel at 8:15.

His title is "America's Domestic Future: Its Perils and Prospects."

The public is invited without charge.

Dr. Schlesinger is the youngest historian ever to receive the Pulitzer Prize. He received the award for his "The Age of Jackson", published in 1946 only eight years after his graduation from Harvard. The author was 28 at the time.

His "The Crisis of the Old Order", published in 1957 as the first volume of a definitive study entitled "The Age of Roosevelt" was a Book of the Month selection.

He is the son of Arthur M. Schlesinger, also a distinguished historian, and was raised in a family that migrated from Ohio State to the University of Iowa to Harvard. The younger Schlesinger's graduation honors essay was later published under the title "Orestes Brown; a Pilgrim's Progress", and was a selection of the Catholic Book Club.

During the war Dr. Schlesinger first served in the office of war information in Washington, later going to London, Paris, and Germany for the office of strategic services.

In Paris, though only an army corporal, he served as deputy chief.

Dr. Schlesinger was a consultant for the Economic Cooperation Administration in 1948, and for the Mutual Security Administration in 1951-52. During the presidential campaigns of 1952 and 1956 he was closely associated with Adlai Stevenson.

The Sturtevant Lectureship which is sponsoring Dr. Schlesinger's appearance was set up some 20 years ago with a gift of $5,000 from the late Paul Sturtevant, a college trustee who graduated in 1899, and his brother Watkin P. Sturtevant, '06, in honor of their father, a longtime resident of Conneautville.

Academic Probation Will Wear on Shoe Leather

by Lewis Fisher

All students who are on academic probation or have adviser warning starting the second semester shall be forbidden to drive a car for the next two semesters, according to a policy adopted in the May 5, 1959 session of the Allegheny Student Government.

The problem of parking space has caused this measure to be adopted. When the problem began to become acute last year, the trustees decided that either all the Sophomores or all probationary and adviser's warning students had to lose their right to drive. ASG thought the latter alternative the best one, and voted that it should go into effect at the beginning of the second semester of the last year, when the new probation lists were out.

Thus for the coming semester there are three parts in Allegheny's car policy:

1. All cars must be re-registered.
2. 1960 car registration must be shown when obtaining the permit, unless student's state has not yet issued them.
3. Students on academic probation or adviser's warning may not have a car at college for the next two semesters. Second semester Seniors will not be affected.

Texaco Company Gives $1500 Grant-in-Aid

Allegheny College has again been selected as one of the privately financed United States colleges and universities to receive unrestricted grants-in-aid under the aid-to-education program of Texaco Inc., it was announced today by President Lawrence Pelletier.

The Allegheny grant is for $1,500 for the academic year 1959-1960, and is without stipulation as to its use.

Allegheny is one of more than 200 colleges and universities included in Texaco's program of educational support. In addition to providing for direct financial assistance to 140 independent institutions, the program includes scholarship and fellowship assistance for approximately 300 young men at more than 80 educational institutions, both private and tax supported.

Beckert has chipped in the most field goals with 31 and Kress the greatest number of foul shots with 24.

Sophomore Beckert leads the team in average points per game with 15 and Johnston is close behind with a 14 ppg.

Wrestlers Continue Winning Ways

December 14 Allegheny wrestlers extended their winning streak to eight meets over a two-year span with a close 14 to 12 victory over the Oberlin Yeomen.

Bruce Olderman, Gator heavyweight, made the victory possible with a quick pin early in the first period. His pin evened the matches at four apiece; and, his being the only pin of the meet, he supplied Allegheny with the victory margin.

The Gators meet Western Reserve this Saturday at home in an attempt to extend this year's record to four wins.

Match results are as follows:

Slippery Rock upset the Gators with a disappointingly close 44-42 score.

Coach Bill Hanson believes that our next meet with Carnegie Tech will be a tough one. Carnegie Tech lost their first three meets but last year they were the only team to beat Allegheny.

Hoopsters Lack Team Play In Last Three Outings

by Bix Bixler

After three December basketball encounters Allegheny still fails to look like anything but five individuals attempting to play a team sport.

The hoopsters fell to Oberlin 93 to 55 and Carnegie Tech 88 to 69 and defeated Fenn by a score of 62 to 45 setting their season record at 2 wins and 3 losses.

Allegheny breezed to a sloppy victory over an inept, winless Fenn squad to open their home schedule. Beckert's 21 points and Johnston and Beckert's fast breaking were the only bright spots in the Fenn victory. Allegheny hit for 11 of 48 shots in the first half and led 26 to 20.

Then Allegheny traveled to Oberlin only to run into a much taller, sharper-shooting team and fell to defeat by 38 points. Freshman Jack Osman seemed to be the only Gator able to hit as he scored 8 field goals to encourage Allegheny fans of his fine potential.

Moving down to Pittsburgh, Allegheny took it on the chin again, but a 43 point second half against a fine Tech team left some hope for better success in the new year. Beckert and Johnston hit for 31 points in this 43 point second half shooting display.

Allegheny goes after their second PAC victory and second home victory in as many starts tonight at the David Mead Fieldhouse against Bethany.

Allegheny box scores of their last three games are as follows:

Macky Honored As Soccer All-Star

Dave Macky, captain of Allegheny's 1959 PAC soccer champs, was named to honorable mention on the all-New Jersey-Pennsylvania-Delaware area soccer team.

Macky, Gator fullback, who was previously named to the all-PAC team was an important cog in the Allegheny team that posted a 3-5 season record, the best in several years.

Macky is a senior and played number one or two man on last year's excellent tennis team.

A brief sample of other schools represented on the team are West Chester, Temple, Slippery Rock, Lafayette, Pittsburgh, Grove City, Penn State, Rutgers, and Pennsylvania.

Applications Taken For Editor Of Campus

Because of the dynamic structure of organizations such as the Campus, a change in personnel is both anticipated and necessary. Those associated with such organizations have come to realize that change is inevitable and may at times be desirable.

The Campus is now accepting applications for all editorial positions as well as for other staff personnel. It is necessary that these applications be made before March 1, 1960 so that the coming semester may be used as a training period for next year's Campus staff.

Letters of application should be addressed to Carol First, editor, and left at Brook's desk or the Campus office.

America's Goals

lieved self-interest of the time, for either by accident or by a rough, broad outline in thoughts of those who have directed our foreign policy, we seem to be heading toward a world of law and order. We seem to have in mind some type of federal system of world government. We seem to be heading for a world of law and order, not for any ethical reasons, but rather as Charles Beard pointed out in his "Economic Interpretation of the Constitution", so that the rich can hold onto what they've got. And as many of the rich Americans learned from their graduated income tax and "New Deal" measures that they could not go too far, so apparently has a rich America learned to help the poverty-stricken countries. We now know that a world of law and order cannot exist before certain minimum economic, political, and social statuses have been reached.

To summarize these last few rambling paragraphs and to conclude, I should like to use a ladder, figuratively speaking. The top rung is above the clouds. We cannot see it, but can only hope that it is entitled World Peace. The rung just visible below the clouds reads law and order; the rung beneath this reads World Government; the rung beneath this Minimum Standards of Economic, Political, and Social World Equality; the rungs beneath this can be studied in an American history course. But just as the rungs in a true ladder need to be held together by their frame, so needs our ladder a frame. The framework which we can see leading to this distant cloud is called American Self-Interest.

Student Teachers Banquet Friday

Dr. Catherine Coleman, Director of Teacher Education and Certification of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, will be guest speaker at the annual Cooperating Teacher, Assistant-Teacher Banquet in Cochran Hall at 6 p.m. on Friday, January 15.

Also invited to attend are Mr. William Frye, Superintendent of Meadville Area Schools, Dr. Lawrence Pelletier, Dr. Julian Ross, Dean of Instruction, Dr. C. Miller, head of the education department, our education faculty, the principals and administration of the area schools, cooperating teachers, and those Allegheny students who have completed or are about to begin a semester of practice teaching.

Program and decorations are provided by junior members of Kappa Delta Epsilon, national educational sorority, and are under the direction of Judy Dufur.

After an introduction by host Dr. Miller and a brief greeting from Dr. Pelletier answered by Mr. Frye, Dr. Coleman will speak on the importance of cooperating teachers. These are the faculty members in area schools whose classes are taught by student teachers and under whose guidance practice teachers work. A tentative program of musical entertainment may follow.

In holding this annual banquet the education faculty hopes to show its appreciation to these cooperating teachers and to give recognition to those students about to enter the teaching profession.

Take Note

Independents will discuss the "Loyalty Oath" student loan issue in Conference Room B at 7 p.m., Monday, January 11.

North Presents Song Recital Yesterday

by Sandy Spence

Last night Mr. W. S. Wright North, Assistant Professor of Music, presented a Song Recital at Ford Memorial Chapel. He was accompanied at the piano by Professor Robert Lynn of the Music Department.

Also included were the Michelangelo Lieder of Wolf; Samuel Barber's setting of "Chamber Music" by James Joyce; Hindemith's setting of William Olyds' poem, "On a Fly Drinking Out of His Cup"; and "Pigeons on the Grass, Alas!", by Gertrude Stein and Virgil Thomson.

A graduate of Columbia College of Columbia University, Mr. North studied piano with Frederick Kinsley, organist at Riverside Church, and was one of the soloists at Riverside. He holds the Master's Degree and the Performer's Certificate from the Eastman School of Music. Teacher of Singing and director of the Chapel Choir here for ten years, Mr. North has also a number of concert and oratorio engagements to his credit, ranging from "Kiss Me Kate" at the Allegheny Playshop to Handel's "Messiah" in New York. He has sung the Bach "St. Matthew Passion" at the Wooster Conservatory and the Baldwin-Wallace Conservatory Bach Festivals, and has appeared for several seasons with the Erie Philharmonic Society.
