My dear Miss Tarbell:—

I see "The Rising of the Tide" was published in 1919, but I have but just had the privilege of reading it. Since the "Life of Lincoln" you so ably accomplished I have read many of your works, I hardly know why, for I haunt the Library every few days—

This work "The Rising of the Tide" has inspired me more than any other story of the World war. It seems to me real and so "chummy" with the dramatic personal.

I wish to give this testimony, of a teacher, to your great work.

Cordially
Elizabeth Ingraham Hubbard
