My dear Miss Tarbell:

The other day I saw your remarks about machines and tools in the newspaper and they seemed to me to lead directly to this museum. You would probably have as much fun in inspecting our exhibits as you could have in several months anywhere else. An easy way, perhaps, to bring you here would be for you to lunch with Mrs. Richards and me at 145 East 35th Street and then come to the Museum afterwards.

I have hardly seen you since the day you dined with me at the corner of Eleventh Street and Second Avenue in the old Stuyvesant house.

Mrs. Richards joins very warmly in this invitation.

Sincerely yours,

C R Richards
