

New York, November 26, 1919

Dear Mr. Bridges:

I had taken a solemn vow not to do a single lecture outside of the period that I had given Mr. Alber, but your letter of November 20th is too pathetic to resist. I see no way but to come back from the Coast by the Southern route, and put in your week on my way to New York. I don't know where I am to be left on April 3rd, but Ellison White can tell you. I should think I could get to your first date probably by the 9th or 10th. As I understand it you will have five or six engagements for me. I should like to get back to New York not later than the 16th or 17th.

As soon as you have worked it out with you let me know, as I am obliged to make my plans for the spring.

Sincerely yours,

Mr. S. R. Bridges,
Atlanta, Ga.
