THE CAMPUS

OF ALLEGHENY COLLEGE

1919

VOLUME NO. XXXVIII. NO. 1. MEADVILLE, PA., JUNE 4, 1919. PRICE FIVE CENTS

SIXTY-SIX MEMBERS IN GRADUATING CLASS

The First Post War Graduating Class One of the Most Notable in History of the College

Again Commencement time is at hand when a graduating class of sixty-six members leave college. This is one of the largest classes that has left the institution, and without a doubt will be missed greatly next year. This is especially true because the active part taken in different activities by many of the members. Athletics will be at a loss because of the loss of such men as J. S. Baldwin and J. P. Volk. "Joe" took a notable interest in football, and is largely responsible for the success in many of the games. "Junts" Volk put the "pep" into basket ball that "Joe" Baldwin put in football. "Junts" is another man which Allegheny will miss as he was one of the best forwards that Allegheny had in her history. Athletics is however, one of the few activities in which the Seniors took an active part. They were also in evidence in publications, debating, oratory, etc.

This class entered college under difficulties as they entered college just when the war began. Many of the members entered the army at the beginning of the war. The Lakeside Hospital Unit was well represented with members from the class of 1919. From this time on members of the class left continuously to enter various divisions of the army. However, at the beginning of the past semester many of the old members returned to continue their college career. Thus during the past year members have entered the class and some left college during this time.

At the beginning of their Freshman year the class was composed of 131 members, 77 men and 54 women. In 1916, 113 returned, 66 men and 47 women. In 1917 the effects of the war were much more noticeable as only one-half of the men who had been here the year before were present. The class in 1917 was composed of 75 members, 33 men and 42 women. In their Senior year the class was composed of 66 men, 31 men and 35 women.

Four of the members of the class died during the past year. Two of these met their death in the service of their country. Grant S. Norton, who was in the 77th Division, was killed on October 7, 1918, by an exploding shell. He was with Major Whittlesey's famous lost battalion when he met his death. Wells McDermott Clother met his death on the 18th of May, 1918, when the Oakdale plant of the Aetna Chemical Company was destroyed by explosion.

Ruth Mumaw died at her home in Scottdale early last fall. She had not returned to college as she left for her home early last year on account of illness.

Rodney Smith McCroskey died at his home in Meadville on Sunday April 13th. He was buried from the Ford Memorial Chapel on April 16th. These four persons were held in high esteem by every one, and came as a severe blown not only to their own class, but to the whole college.

Without doubt all of the graduates of 1919 will be successful as they enter other institutions or as they pursue the duties of life. Every one bids them God speed.

The following is a list of the graduates and the degrees which they received:

Bachelor of Arts.

Rain Greatly Hampered the Program But Neverless a Success.

Although the rain conflicted considerably with the program of the Moving Up Day exercises, every one announced it a success.

This was the first event of this kind since 1915 so that the present Senior class was the only class that had ever participated in the Moving Up Day exercises.

The chapel exercises were moved up to nine-thirty so that it would be possible to hold the parade in the morning. All the floats had been arranged for, but the rain then made it necessary to postpone the parade.

Although it was not possible to have floats, the characters impersonated were very amusing.

The chapel exercises were held, however, as had been arranged for. After all of the three remaining classes were seated in chapel when Seniors, with their caps and gowns marched into the chapel exercises for the last time. Miss Jenkins, '20, first petitioned the Seniors for permission to occpy the seats which the present Senior class vacated when they marched to the balcony as alumni. Glenn Barr, '19, then made some very interesting remarks as the speaker representing his class. He mentioned the playfulness the Juniors possessed during the past year, and of the great dignity and poise that had to be in evidence when any one occupied the Senior section. Since the Junior section was now vacated Helen Gold, of the class of '21, told how the Sophomores were more worthy to occupy the Junior section. George Meredith, '20, then cast an altogether different light on the matter, and make mores. W. J. Carney, '21, then made the replying speech as a representative of the Sophomore class. He said although they thought they were very qualified they had to put away many of their "frosh" ideas.

NEW MEN'S SENATE INSTALLED.

Last week the new members of the Men's Senate were installed in office by the president of the retiring Senate, G. A. Stetson, '19. Following the installation, officers were elected for the next year resulting as follows:

President—G. F. Meredith, '20.
Vice President—J. F. Preston, '20.
Secretary—W. J. Carney, '21.
Treasurer—E. L. McMurren, '20.

The old Senate was largely responsible for bringing Allegheny back to normal conditions, previous to the introduction of the S. A. T. C. The reconstruction following the S. A. T. C. was largely the effort of both Senates. The difficulties arising from the innovation of early physical training periods, fraternity and faculty relations, enforcement of the honor system, the Washington Birthday Banquet and Moving Up Day celebrations were some of the numerous problems of the Student Senates.

As it is customary for the Treasurer of the Student Senate to publish a statement in the Campus, the following is herein appended:

Received from Freshman Caps.		$ 7.00
Received from Class Assessments		41.75
Total		$48.75

First Junior Prom Held in Gym May 17

SENIORS GUESTS OF JUNIORS AT COLLEGE DANCE.

On Saturday night, May 17, under the management of the Junior class our first college dance was held in the gymnasium. About fifty couples attended which just filled the floor for dancing while a local orchestra supplied music almost worthy of the title "jazz."

The gymnasium was appropriately decorated with the college colors while the Stars and Stripes still occupied the position of honor. During the intermission all adjourned to Cochran Hall where dainty and tasty refreshments were served. Over all reigned the unmistakable air of a college function, an air not to be felt at any other place.

The committee in charge of the Promenade consisted of J. Y. Piper, chairman; W. B. Gordon, J. F. Preston, E. P. Booth, and T. B. McCafferty. The success of the Promenade was due to their efforts while the whole college owes a debt of gratitude to the trustees of Allegheny for it was through them that the dance was made possible. This function inaugurates a new era in Allegheny social life and the students who expect to return another year are looking forward with the hope and expectation of seeing their Alma Mater become an up to date college socially as well as in other phases of college life. It can be seen from the attitude of the Board of Trustees that they at least understood that social experience is one of the valuable assets that a man or woman ought to acquire in college.

Allegheny Wins Final Debate

W. & J. VANQUISHED ON BOTH SIDES OF RAILROAD QUESTION BY ALLEGHENY DEBATERS.

"Resolved, That the United States Should Adopt a Policy of Government Ownership and Operation of Railroads in Interstate Commerce."

On this question Allegheny's two debating teams triumphed over Washington and Jefferson College in a dual debate Friday, May 16. The negative team, consisting of W. J. Carney, '21; Gilbert Benson, '20; C. K. McClelland, '20, with D. B. Brown, '20, acting as alternate, which journeyed to Washington, won 2 to 1 decision from the judges.

The affirmative team, consisting of G. F. Meredith, '20; F. W. McCluer, '21; Raymond L. Hart, '20; with Abe Glassman, '21, acting as alternate, debated with W. & J. in Ford Memorial Chapel, Friday evening and won a unanimous decision. W. & J.'s negative team included Wylie Pate, John Breeden and C. R. Young.

Allegheny opened the debate with Meredith, who showed the inability of the privately owned railroads to provide efficient and adequate service to the public, and the failure of government regulation. The affirmative contended throughout the debate that private ownership and operation of railroads had failed at the crucial period when good service was needed to transport food and army supplies, and that the Government remedied the situation when it took control of them. The meddling of the

BACCALAUREATE SERMON OPENS COMMENCEMENT

President Crawford Addresses Graduating Class—Ambassador Sharp Delivers Commencement Address—Exercises of the Week

In the presence of a large and appreciative audience, Dr. W. H. Crawford, president of Allegheny, formally opened the 104th annual commencement programme in the First M. E. Church on Sunday morning with the delivery of the baccalaureate sermon. President Crawford's sermon this year was a companion sermon to his baccalaureate of a year ago, when his theme was "The Challenge of War." This year the subject was "The Challenge of Peace," in which he depicted graphically the terrific price the world paid for victory; the awful desolation of war; the supreme sacrifice our boys made over there to bring peace to the world; and the imperative need of the people to face the challenge of today—Peace!

President Crawford said in part:

"The challenge one year ago today when we were assembled in this place was the challenge of war. All the energies of all the great nations and of many of the smaller nations were bent on war. Our own country with strong and united purpose was gathering all her resources of men and money with one purpose. That purpose was war. One year ago long lines of trenches reached from the region of Ostend on the north to the Swiss Border on the south. On one side were the armies of the central powers, and on the other side the forces of the allied nations.

Our thinking centered in the words 'mobilization, training, fighting.' The challenge was war. But today! The challenge today is the challenge of peace.

"The message I bring this morning from the greatest apostle of the Christian faith who ever set foot on European soil has in it a meaning and an implication of great significance. There are three sorts of peace: First, peace between nation and nation. No war or plan for war. A state of quiet. A relation of good will. Second, peace within a nation itself. No warring factions or disturbance between classes. Freedom from civil quiet and civil war. Third, peace between man and man. Making possible quiet and tranquility in home and community. Each man being a real neighbor to every other man.

"Paul's appeal and challenge have to do with this third type of peace. In this are the things that make for peace in a nation and between nation and nation. The awful desolation of this war through which we have passed is in itself a challenge to give attention to the things which make for peace. The frightful burdens assumed and put upon the nations are such a challenge. The dead, whose blood cries to us from Flanders field, from Picardy, and the Argonne is a challenge. The millions of broken homes are a challenge.

In addressing the senior class, Dr. Crawford said: "I bring you the message this morning because of the unusual and peculiar conditions you will face as you go out from college. A year ago the challenge was to battle. Today the challenge is to peace. The challenge to battle warms the blood and sets passion on fire. The challenge to peace is an appeal to reason and the higher emotions. The challenge to peace is a challenge to you and to the generation which will come after you, and to the generations after that, and then to other generations. Your response to the challenge will be fine and noble in proportion as you hold fast to the homely virtues which make for character and for high achievements in home and community life.

"I do not covet for any of you an easy task, but I do covet for all of you abounding strength for whatever task you may be called upon to undertake. Widely scattered you will be, but in whatever quarter of the earth you may find yourselves do not forget that the little mother on the hill has an interest in you and will always follow you with pride and confidence."

Eight Elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

The Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity, an honorary scholarship fraternity of the United States, whose honors are coveted by every college student, has elected the following graduates of the 1919 class to membership in its society: Miss Mary E. Hamilton, Akron, Ohio; Miss Zella M. York, Corry, Pa.; Miss Virginia Lewis, Moundsville, W. Virginia; Miss Meredyth Neal, Union City, Pa.; C. L. Jones, Pittsburgh; R. L. Faulkner, Wattsburg, Pa.; Gordon Derby Patterson, Meadville, and W. S. Zehrung, Meadville.

The officers of the Eta chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa in Allegheny College are: W. H. Crawford, president; Hon. John J. Henderson, vice president; Dr. W. A. Elliott, secretary.

Christian Associations.

"The True Estimate of Man" was the interesting and eloquent sermon which Dr. H. W. Benedict, of Pittsburgh, who has spent 18 months in France with the Y. M. C. A., delivered before the Christian Associations in the First M. E. Church Sunday evening. Frederick B. Shipp, general secretary of the Pittsburgh Y. M. C. A., who was scheduled to deliver the annual sermon before these associations, was not able to be present on account of pressing engagements in New York City.

The members of the Allegheny College Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. were present. E. P. Booth, president of the Allegheny Y. M. C. A., was in charge of the service.

The speaker used the text of Metthew 16:24, "If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow Me."

Mr. Benedict emphasized the fact that the true estimate of man was altruism. In this so-called age of materialism, he said, we give so much of our time to business and pleasure and so little to the higher things of life.

Mr. Benedict painted a graphic picture of war as he saw it during his 18 months in France, and pointed out that the sacrifice of the Allies was for the purposes of civilization.

Vesper Service.

A vesper service was held Sunday at 5 o'clock on the campus under the leadership of Prof. C. F. Ross. Music was furnished by the Allegheny choir.

Dr. W. A. Elliott told of the fine altruistic motives which led Timothy Alden to found Allegheny College. Bishop M. C. Harris, who is visiting relatives in Meadville, greeted all Alleghenians, as well as bringing a message of good will from the people of the East. Bishop Harris stated that the people of Japan, China and Korea were friendly disposed to the United States, and would give their friendship as long as this country keeps good faith with them.

Class day exercises, the annual meeting of the Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity and the commencement play, "Believe Me, Xantippe," were some of the features that marked the second

ALLEGHENY CLOSES TRACK SEASON WITH VICTORIES

Geneva and Tech Teams Fall Before Allegheny Athletes —Fourteen Letters Earned During Season

Geneva Meet.

The Allegheny track team upheld the athletic prowess of our Alma Mater on Monday, May 19th, when it literally overwhelmed the track team of Geneva College at Beaver Falls. It was the first competition with other schools in which the track team had a chance to show its ability. The results of this dual meet were the first manifestation of the efforts which Coach George E. Koegan and the members of the team had expended to produce a worthy representation for Allegheny College in track and field events for the present year. How well may easily be seen from the score and number of places taken in each event. The score in points was Allegheny 92, Geneva 39. There were fourteen events and Allegheny took twelve firsts.

Manager R. F. Rowley took Coach George E. Koegan and seventeen men with him to Beaver Falls.

EDITORIAL.

Readers of the Campus will note that this, the final issue for the year, is in charge of the newly appointed editorial staff. Before closing the files for the year, mention might be made of the work of the old staff. When school opened in October, the S. A. T. C. made it impossible for the Campus to be published, and it was due solely to the energy and initiative of the editor-in-chief, Patterson, '19, that the publication was made a possibility later. Entire cooperation between the editor and the members of the staff aided in no small degree to the success of the Campus.

With the aid of the students the new staff will endeavor to maintain the high standard of this student publication. The Campus is a student publication and should receive more attention than it has been accorded in the past.

The editorial staff is appointed by a committee of the faculty, the basis of selection being entirely competitive. Hence, the success or failure of the Campus rests entirely with the students; if interest is shown and the competition is close the quality of the paper will be of a high standard, otherwise it will be unable to survive. In view of this evident fact, the new staff seeks the interest and cooperation of the entire student body.

Honor System in Danger.

One of the most dangerous evidences of the disorganizing influence of the break in our college life caused by the S. A. T. C. is the laxity with which the students have regarded the honor system during the spring examinations. While it seems that only a few men broke their pledge it also has been seen that, unbelievable as it may seem, these men have been supported in such an action by part of the student body in that the Men's Senate has been censured for taking action to prevent cribbing. It has been said that it is not according to the honor system for the Senate to attempt to apprehend the culprits. How then is cribbing to be stopped? The honor system really means student control in examinations. As has been inferred above this breaking over may be the fault of the S. A. T. C. In former years too all Freshmen have been made familiar with the purpose and workings of the honor system at the first of the year by the Student Senate. This was not done this year. In the future the Student Senate must resume its duties and make sure that every student that enters the college fully understands the significance of this system. Then, if there are any infringements let the honor court act quickly and severely. There is no place in Allegheny for the man or woman who willfully breaks his or her pledge.

day of commencement week at Allegheny College.

Monday afternoon hundreds of visitors were present to attend the class day exercises on the campus and, despite the heat, the programme was enjoyed. The exercises held by the graduating class of 1919 had for its purpose the reviewing of the achievements of the class during the four years spent in college, and bidding farewell to their alma mater. The speakers were Miss Virginia Lewis, salutatorian, who greeted all Alleghenians; Miss Marie Louise Francis, class pact, who told in verse the achievements of the class; Miss Ruth P. Miller, of Meadville, class historian, who narrated very humorously the "ups and downs" of the 1919 class; Miss Ida Lucile Richard, class prophet; C. L. Jones, to the junior class, and E. P. Booth, who responded for the junior class.

Hon. William Graves Sharp, ex-Ambassador to France, who is to deliver the address at the commencement exercises of Allegheny College in Ford Chapel this morning, arrived in Meadville on Erie train 6 Tuesday evening.

The address by Ambassador Sharp to the graduating class of Allegheny College this morning will be his first public address on America's part in the war delivered before the student obdy of any college, and will be most interesting to his hearers.

Trustees Meeting.

There was a large and representative number of trustees present at the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of Allegheny College Tuesday, and the meeting was one of unusual interest, many important matters being disposed of.

The following detailed report of the proceedings of the meeting is kindly furnished in an interview with President Thompson, of the board:

The treasuer's report showed the college to be in unusually good financial condition for this time of the year, with all bills paid and a surplus of about $10,000.

By action of the Trustees, the tuition fee was increased to $150 per year. All of this increase will be used for laboratories, library and maintenance, an dinstructors and assistants of the departments.

It was voted that an annex to Hulings Hall be immediately erected, at a cost of approximately $50,000. The Executive Committee of the Board was made the building committee for this project.

Dr. Harry Ward Church, who has for the past six years been professor in Monmouth College, was elected head of the Department of Romance Languages and Literature. Dr. Church is now abroad, and will return for the Fall term.

A new office was created in the Faculty, being the election of Dr. Clarence F. Ross as Dean of Men. Professor Ross will assume his new duties at the opening of the Fall term.

A review of the general programme of activities of the college for the past years was presented by the President of the college, Dr. Crawford, and a unanimous vote of confidence was passed by the Trustees in the President and an increase in his salary was voted.

Lawn Fete.

A large gathering witnessed the novel lawn fete on the campus, held under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. The chief attraction was the pretty aesthetic dances, personifying the beauties of nature, which were interpreted by the college girls of Miss Pittman's classes.

The Allegheny College Band rendered a concert of attractive numbers. Refreshments were sold by the Y. W. C. A.

Organ Recital.

In the afternoon an enjoyable organ recital was given in Ford Chapel by Charles Heinroth, of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, and a large audience was present also for this feature.

Charles Heinroth was a wizard at the organ and rendered some beautiful classic selections from Bach, Haydn and Tchaikowsky.

The Senior Farewells.

The senior class, in accordance with Allegheny customs, said farewell to the different college buildings in the presence of large audiences. Miss L. A. Root gave the farewell address to Ford Chapel; John Volk bade farewell to the gymnasium; Miss Helen Abrams said good-bye to the library; Miss N. K. Reniers to Bentley Hall; and George Stetson paid his tribute to Hulings Hall.

Phi Beta Kappa Address.

Dr. Paul Elmer More, distinguished scholar, writer and former editor of The Nation, speaking under the auspices of the Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity, defended vigorously on Tuesday night in Ford Chapel the classics and the humanities.

"We are fighting for humanity and the humanities," declared Dr. More. By humanities, the speaker explained, is simply meant that ancient Latin tradition which for 2000 years has been the bulwark against the invasion of barbarism.

railroads into politics; the controlling by them of the legislatures; and the general political disentigration caused by railroad corruption were some of the strong points with which Allegheny attacked her opponents.

The affirmative were strong on three points: (1) the case against private ownership and the failure of regulation; (2) advantages of government ownership; (3) economic waste of private ownership of railroads, and the solution of the railroad problem by adopting government ownership and operation.

McCluer hit the W. & J. opponents by pointing out the fact that government ownership of railroads was not any more a theory but a fact, since out of 78 nations only nine do not own their railroads. "Mac" emphasized the fact that government ownership met with the approval of the people, for there was no case on record where any country that once adopted government ownership should return to private ownership.

Hart took up the economic side of the question, showing the waste of competition and the remedy of those evils by government operation of the railroads. The use of many terminals, unnecessary roads, depots, etc., would be eliminated by the government.

W. & J. maintained throughout the debate that government ownership was unnecessary; (2) that government ownership would have a perverting and corruptive influence on politics; (3) that certain faults of the present system could be eliminated by granting more power to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The negative tried to show that government ownership failed in Australia, New Zealand and Canada, but Allegheny attacked that point in their constructive argument and rebuttal.

W. & J. proved herself inferior in rebuttal in comparison with Allegheny which refuted most of their strongest arguments.

Allegheny's negative team at Washington also demonstrated its superiority over Washington and Jefferson. Allegheny argued at Washington that (1) private system did not break down and that government control was a failure; (2) that the government could not financially afford to take over the railroads, as the purchase would increase our big national debt by $20,000,000,000; (3) that government ownership was undemocratic since it did not take in consideration the large number of stockholders, the owners, and the public.

In rebuttal, Allegheny's negative team was very strong and was able to attack W. & J.'s affirmative side on all important points. "Irish" certainly turned the tables on his opponents with his usual eloquence. Benson and McClelland were also strong men for Allegheny's debating team.

The two victories in debate this year will place Allegheny on a better prestige in the field of intercollegiate debating than the institution has been for some time. For the last number of years, Allegheny has been rather unlucky in intercollegiate debating and lost many debates in the triangular group. It is hoped that next year a triangular debate will be arranged by the Oratorical Association.

1919 KALDRON APPEARS.

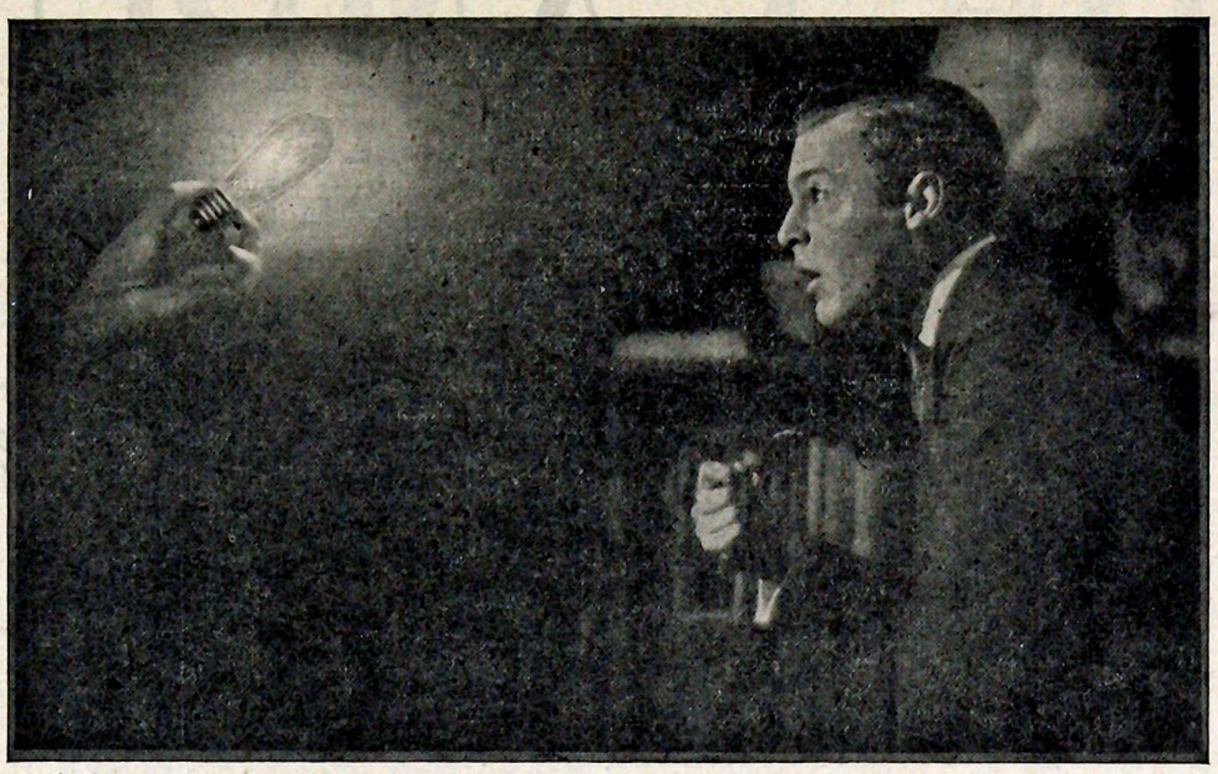

Everything that a college year book should contain and a few things that it should not are to be found in the 1919 Kaldron of Allegheny College. In binding and general make-up the book is neat and artistic. The excellent and clear cuts are one of its chief qualifications. Hampered as our college publications have been by war conditions they have all come back strong and the Kaldron is no exception.

One of the unique features of this year's annual are the class histories written in verse, unmistakably evidence that we have a poet in every class in the college. Instead of the usual snapshots which have accompanied the individual Senior photographs in former years each has a baby picture. It is understood that these had to be pictures taken as far back as their Freshman year at least.

Not much originality is permitted in the section devoted to organizations but here again clear pictures add charm. Messrs. Meredith, '20, and Inmann, '22, deserved much credit for the clever cartoon work and illustrating in the Kaldron. They're wonders at cryptic inscriptions. The hammer has been freely used in this year's book but only deservedly unpopular institutions about the school have been knocked and the complaint of favoritism in the popularity contest seems unfounded.

No amount of details can convey the characteristic that makes the 1919 Kaldron the thing that a college year book ought to be. It can only be said that it records the events of our college year that we shall want recalled when we look at it in future years. Because the Kaldron records these things it is evident that the boards understood its duties and the purpose of the book.

The Story of Your Study Lamp

IF you were studying by an old smoky oil lamp and suddenly a modern, sun-like MAZDA lamp were thrust into the room, the contrast would be dazzling. That instant would unfold the result of thirty years' development, research and manufacturing in electric lighting.

EDISON'S FIRST LAMP

And this development commenced with Edison's first lamp—hand-made, when electricity was rare.

The General Electric Company was a pioneer in foreseeing the possibilities of Edison's invention. Electric generators were developed. Extensive experiments led to the design and construction of apparatus which would obtain electric current from far-away waterfalls and deliver it to every city home.

With power lines well distributed over the country, the use of electric lighting extended. Street lighting developed from the flickering arc to the great white way. Electric signs and floodlights made our cities brilliant at night, searchlights turned night into day at sea, and miniature lamps were produced for the miner's headlight and automobile.

While the making of the electrical industry, with its many, many interests, was developing, the General Electric Company's laboratories continued to improve the incandescent lamp, and manufacturing and distributing facilities were provided, so that anyone today can buy a lamp which is three times as efficient as the lamp of a few years ago.

Tech Meet.

Not only in basket ball and football was Allegheny represented with a championship team but also on the cinder path. Allegheny's athletics for the season were brought to a close last Saturday when the Gold and Blue representatives triumphed over Carnegie Tech's track team in a dual meet by the score of 69 to 57.

The meet was closely contested throughout but Allegheny was too strong in the dashes and weights and the hurdles for the Tartans; in the big hurdles, the locals took all three places as well as the first two places in the low hurdles. Croasmun, '22, McCreary, '22, Bittner, '22, Bender, '22, showed up best in the track events, while Welty, '21, and MacGowan, '22, were heavy point winners in the weights.

The tabulated results of the meet follow:

100-yard dash—Croasmun, first; McCreary, second (Allegheny); Davidson (Tech) third. Time 10.4.

120-yard hurdles—Bittner (Allegheny) first; Hall (Allegheny) second; Bender (Allegheny) third. Time 17.

Pole vault—Smith (Tech) first; Smith (Tech) second; Bittner (Allegheny) third. Distance 5 ft. 4 in.

Track Letters.

Following are the names of fourteen track men who have earned their white A's in the two dual track meets this spring:

Nathan Croasmun, '22.
Ralph Dye, '22.
Thomas McCreary, '22.
Guy Bittner, '22.
Al Bender, '22.
Norris Chapin, 22.
Geo. Deichman, '22.
James Russell, '21.
Malcolm Mansfield, '22.
Earl Hall, '19.
Walter Welty, '21.
Leonard MacGowan, '22.
Manager R. Floyd Rowley, '20.

The reflection that there are thirteen letter men this season is a fine tribute to the efforts of Coach Koegan to build up a track team for Allegheny College. It only remains to say that Coach Koegan has developed this team, whatever their former ability, into a team worthy of all merit this college can give it.
