FEDERAL MEN JOIN HUNT FOR GULESIAN

N.Y. SUN, FEB. 21, 1935.

Inquiry Fails to Yield Clew in Boston Case.

NEWTON, Mass., Feb. 21 (A. P.).

Moses H. Gulesian, seventy-one-year-old former Boston real estate operator, was still missing today under mysterious circumstances.

The Department of Justice joined in a search for the former Armenian immigrant boy who frequently had been threatened, but investigation failed to produce a single clew.

Gulesian dropped out of sight Tuesday night after attending a dinner at the University Club of Boston by the Sons of the American Revolution, of which he was an honorary member. His parked automobile was found near by.

At his Chestnut Hill home, where he recently was reported to be living on less than $10 a week, his wife, the former Grace Warner, concert pianist and composer, suggested that recent worries, caused by financial reverses which followed the collapse of his fortune, gained as a real estate dealer, had brought on amnesia.

As an alternative theory she thought he might have gone to New York to view a motion picture to see whether the plot of a play they once wrote, "Made in America," had been plagiarized.

Mrs. Gulesian scouted the possibility that Gulesian could have committed suicide or been kidnaped. She expressed the belief he would return "in a few days," but did not disclose the basis of her belief.

Dear Madam:

If this distinguished and venerable Isrealite (ø) can have a membership in such an exclusive (f) organization as SONS OF AMERICAN REVOLUTION, and at the same time admittedly born in Armenia of ancestors who probably never heard of the American Revolution; then as a precedent why shouldn't any other Isrealite - some such resident of New York City, for example, claim the same thing as a right?

But, it is most astonishing how many New Yorkers read this press dispatch yesterday without finding any significance in it whatever. It was just another lost millionaire - who had "made it in America" to them.

Just to see what kind of a registration it would make, I showed this to five young men - college graduates hand picked for real Americans - today. Their replies were uniformly: "well - what about this" or "I do not see anything unusual about that which you have marked in red."

Where are the thinkers today - do you know?

Respectfully,

(ø) The Armenians are one of the 12 tribes of Isreal.
