WESTMINSTER APPEARS ON LOCAL FIELD SATURDAY

ARCH RIVALS ARE OUT TO MAKE GOOD SHOWING.

With the Tech game out of the way, Coach McCracken is drilling his men hard for the Westminster contest next Saturday. That this will be no easy victory is evidenced by the fact that Westminster held the Blue and Gold to a scoreless tie in 1920, and last year their failure to boot the ball between the cross bar after scoring a touchdown, alone kept them from knotting the count at 7 all.

This season Westminster under the tutelage of Park McQuiston has been rounding into form slowly but steadily. Last Saturday, with four of their best men out, including Francis and Wright, the United Presbyterians held the Thiel eleven to a 19-6 score. The previous week the New Wilmington aggregation journeyed to New York and held the strong Fordham College outfit to twelve points in a gruelling contest.

Westminster is an old arch rival of the Blue and Gold and numbers among its valuable trophies to be seen in the splendid new and up-to-date gymnasium a football won from this institution ten years ago. In fact, it occupies a place of pre-eminence along with another oval won from Washington and Jefferson in 1910.

To make a favorable showing against Allegheny next Saturday will be the aim and ambition of every opposing player who makes the trip to Meadville. For this reason the local footballers cannot take them too lightly, as it would mean a recovery of their prestige should the Presbyterians hold the Blue and Gold eleven to a tie score. This is the one big game of the season for the Mercer county collegians, and needless to say they will bend every effort to win from McCracken's proteges.

Turning to some of the local luminaries for a moment, Miller will not be able to enter the fray because of several torn ligaments in his shoulder received in the Tech game. Parnell may not start, as he pulled some muscles in his back last Saturday. Otherwise the team came through last Saturday's surprise in good shape and ought to continue the good work against Westminster unless deterred by over-confidence or some other negative influence.

STUDENTS ORGANIZE BOOSTERS' SOCIETY

ALLEGHENIANS FROM PITTSBURGH DISTRICT PLAN TO REPRESENT COLLEGE AT HIGH SCHOOLS

To boost Allegheny among friends in high school is the main purpose of the organization which was formed last Thursday afternoon by the students from the Pittsburgh district.

About forty students from Allegheny, Westmoreland, Washington, and Butler counties gathered in Ford Memorial Chapel immediately after the Freshman Guidance lecture, and with Dr. Ross as chairman, organized a society partly for the purpose of acquainting students in their respective high schools with the advantages of Allegheny, and partly for social activity here.

John Voeghtly, whose home is in Pittsburgh, was chosen President, with Mary Louise Murphy, of Bellevue, as Vice President. Miss Edith Briggs is to be secretary and Mr. S. M. Sparks will hold the purse strings in the office of treasurer.

Membership is limited to students from the Pittsburgh district, but there is no reason why other similar organizations could not be formed by students from other districts for the same worthy purposes.

INTER-FRATERNITY PARTY HELD AT PHI KAPPA PSI HOUSE

A sophomore inter-fraternity party was held at the Phi Kappa Psi house Thursday, Nov. 2, 1922. The chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Lee. Arrangements for the party were in charge of T.O. McQuiston, Irwin Kent, William McGill, Homer Bliss, Alex Graham, and Frank Reed, chairman. and Frank Reed, chairman.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB SELECTS PERSONNEL

MISS MUSSLER IS ELECTED TO LEAD ORGANIZATION

Following the try-outs held in the oratory of the Chapel last Wednesday afternoon, thirty-two women were chosen to represent the Girls' Glee Club for the coming season. A total of fifty-five women attended the trials, and from the talent chosen, a first class musical organization is assured.

The club this year is led by Miss Dorothy Mussler. Miss Mussler has had the benefit of four years' experience in connection with the club and will, no doubt, maintain the same high standard of organization as in previous years. Miss Ruby Rishell fills the capacity of manager and Miss Sylvia Barnes that of assistant manager.

As yet, no tentative engagements have been secured, but it is definite that the club will give at least one local concert shortly after the holidays.

Those who were selected to positions on the Girls' Glee Club for the ensuing year are:

Soprano: Dorothy Mussler, Mary Whitfield, Josephine Carr, Marion Whieldon, Josephine Perkins, Harriet Humphrey, Elizabeth Arnold, and Dorothy Davids. Contralto: Ruby Rishell, Sylvia Barnes, Virginia Berry, Elizabeth Charlton, La Roux Rosel, Marion Blake, Charlotte Spangle, and Isabel Gilmore. Mezzo-Soprano: Marion Minch, Marion Carlson, Dorothy Doolittle, Mary Dorworth, Ruth Bryce, Mary Rankin, Agnes Miller, and Iris Schriener. Alto: Lenore Berlin, Elinor Van Scoten, Naomi Reisacher, Flora Trenouth, Mary Peebles, Alice Graham, Blanche Joyce, and Mary Louise Murphy.

McCRACKEN COMPARES FOOTBALL WITH LIFE

Y. M. C. A. HEARS PRACTICAL MESSAGE FROM FOOTBALL COACH

"Football and Life" was the subject which Coach McCracken discussed at the Y. M. C. A. meeting on Wednesday evening. His remarks were clean-cut, snappy, and energetic, but contained impressive and significant thoughts. After a few words concerning the Y. M. C. A. and its work, he turned to the subject which, as he said, "occupies my mind nine out of every ten minutes during the day and almost as much during the night."

The first way in which football may be compared with life is in relation to the "field," continued the speaker. In football the field is marked off by definite boundaries. As long as the player who is carrying the ball remains within these boundaries, he gains the distance he covers. But as soon as he steps out of bounds, no matter how he may run, he gains nothing. This is also true in life, for we advance only as long as we keep on the right track with the right company.

The next point in which the Coach made a comparison was "rules." In football each play and each move is governed by a set of rules. In life the book of rules is the Bible. Few of us refer to it enough, nor do we fully realize the value of the application of these "rules of life."

The third point of similarity between these two games is the "coach." In football a coach is necessary to direct the action of the team. Without him there could be very little united action. He is the one who takes the blame and receives part of the credit. The coach in life is Jesus Christ. He is the one to whom we should go in time of trouble. He is the One who will direct us. He is the One who will show us the right path.

The fourth point of comparison was the "referee." In athletics the referee watches and penalizes the mistakes or fouls made by the players. The referee of life is God. But He does not stand off to criticise our mistakes. Instead, He leads us and helps us to avoid wrong-doing, as well as commends us for our good deeds.

The fifth comparison drawn dealt with the "offense." A team must have an attack to withstand. In life the of-

Blue and Gold Eleven Holds Tech 7-0 Score

ALLEGHENY OUTPLAYS TARTAN TEAM

Ball Carried Over Tech Goal Line—Score Is Not Allowed

Although Allegheny was defeated by Carnegie Tech by a 7-0 score at Pittsburgh last Saturday, the Blue and Gold eleven covered itself with glory by outfighting and outplaying its opponents in a contest that will never be forgotten.

It proved to the mighty Tartan that Allegheny is a foe that is in the future to be looked upon as it was in years gone by and not in the insignificant way that the Plaid has looked upon the Methodists in the past two years. Saturday's game also went to show just what the Allegheny eleven had in it.

Fighting, swoshing up the Tech line, 60-yard forward passing, brilliant broken field running, long distance punts, were all parts of the Blue and Gold's play against the highly tooted Pittsburgh eleven.

The spirit was on the field to win—and win it did—it was a victory that will always be remembered by the alumni and students that witnessed the conflict. Even though Dan Daugherty did call the ball back to its starting place in the final quarter after Weaver had scored a touchdown and then paraded down the field for 15 yards, a penalty on the Allegheny team for some one holding, the team did not quit, but fought harder to regain lost territory and the "called-back" touchdown.

Allegheny took the field with its colors flying high and left the scene of the conflict in the same manner. The same, however, can not be said of Tech, for although the Tartan warriors entered the contest confident of walloping the visitors, they were disheartened and broken when the final whistle blew. And it was indeed a sad game for the Plaid team for the Allegheny eleven, fighting as it never had before this season, took out two of their opponents' best men in the first few minutes of play and another in the second period. Let us pause in sorrow over the circumstance which befell these gridders. Comfort the Plaid's tower of strength at left-guard was removed with an injured knee-cap and Godden, Tech's best end had to be carried off the field with a broken leg. Zelt, the Pittsburgh team's left tackle was taken out with minor injuries. With two of their best men on the hospital list, future for Tech looks dark.

Never has such passing as was done by Parnell, Allegheny's left-tackle been witnessed in any game. He handled his job at tackle exceedingly well and was responsible for blocking many of the Plaid's plays and holding or throwing players for losses, and when he was called back to pass the entire team was seen to fall away into the background for after the first attempt it saw what was forthcoming. Passes of 40, 50 and 60-yards were common. On one attempt it was only Anderson's, the Tech captain's, effort that prevented one of Parnell's passes to Loomis from being completed and resulting probably in a touchdown.

Allegheny outfought, outplayed and outshone the much tooted Carnegie eleven. The line-up always netted ground, the passes worked on many occasions, the end runs by Miller rarely failed to give less than 10 yards, and Weaver, the little back who was substituted for Hanlon even dared to cross the Tech goal line only to be called back by Dan Daugherty—the touchdown did not count—some one was holding, was it Dan Daugherty?

And because the point victory went to Carnegie Tech the credit must be given to Robertson for his gains through the line, and to Anderson for his end runs. Brumbaugh and Lamb were also accountable for Tech gains on several occasions.

The first downs were about equally divided; Tech had nine to Allegheny's eight, but on the other hand the penalties all went to Allegheny and the sore spot of the game is that last penalty for 15 yards which came immediately after that "called-back touchdown."

Never was the Allegheny goal in danger after the first, last and only touchdown that Tech put over in the first quarter. Allegheny kept the ball in the Plaid territory during the entire second period and at one time was on the Tech four yard line, and at another on the 10-yard line. On both occasions the Blue and Gold could have lifted the oval over the goal posts for the three points for a field goal. Field goals, however, were not on the Allegheny schedule. Allegheny wanted a touchdown and lost trying to get it.

The whole story is a glorious tribute to the Blue and Gold warriors. It was a real football classic—it fur-

Bishop F. J. McConnell Delivers Address of Vesper Service

Bishop Francis J. McConnell delivered the address at the vesper service in Ford Memorial Chapel Sunday afternoon. He spoke in a pleasing, conversational manner, concerning the value of an appreciative and constructive criticism.

Saying the Christ that we today are most acquainted with is a Christ that denounced the social leaders of his time and that overthrew the social customs that were extant, Bishop McConnell immediately drew a picture of the Christ who saw the excellencies both in men and in social schemes. Christ was one who saw, not the faults, but the good in every man and in every social conditon.

The Scripture that the Bishop used around which to build his address was the little episode in the tenth chapter of St. Luke concerning the lawyer, who, in tempting Christ had asked how he might inherit eternal life. Christ in turn asked the lawyer a question and to his answer Christ then said, "Thou hast answered right." Bishop McConnell emphasized the fact that before Christ went any further he stopped to give the man credit for speaking correctly. This shows that Christ was always looking first for the good things in others. This was true even in the parable of the Good Samaritan itself, in that Jesus picked for the subject of his story a type of people that was not commonly considered to be of the best social standing at that time. Christ looked for good where others would not have looked. The best criticsm is the positive criticism.

Bishop McConnell referred to the picture of the Judgment. He said that the fact that Jesus is to be the judge of men is not in itself a terrible thing, because Christ always picked out the good things first. The Master dealing with the wicked is placed in the Judgement scene as an afterthought, while the stress is laid upon those who are to receive the reward. "The main element in the judgment scene is the lifting-up of the good" stated the speaker. Christ is one who is anxious to help and to lift up the good.

Speaking of the modern critic, Bishop McConnell said that many thought of him as a man to pick out weaknesses, but that the good critic is one who can see the excellencies that are present. He claimed that the good teachers are those who pick out the little points of value in their pupils, little points that can later on

DEBATING CONTESTS WILL BE HELD SOON

QUESTION TO BE DEBATED AT CONTESTS IS ANNOUNCED

Some twenty-five men signified their intention to enter the trials for the Varsity Debating team, at a brief meeting held in the Chapel last Friday afternoon. The general practice in previous years has been to eliminate approximately one-half of the men entering the try-outs after the first trial. This year the trials for the Varsity Team will be held on November 23 and 28.

The historic debate between the freshmen and sophomore classes will be held in the Chapel on January 12. The winning class has the privilege of placing their numerals upon the banner which hangs in the Library. The contest of last year was won by the class of '25.

The question for debate at the trials, Freshmen-Sophomore debate, and the Varsity contest is, "Resolved: That the power of the Federal supreme court to declare legislation unconstitutional should be restricted."

March 9 will be held the inter-collegiate debate between Washington and Jefferson, Wooster and Allegheny Colleges.

ALPHA CHI SIGMA PLEDGES SIX MEN

FRATERNITY IS A VALUABLBE ASSET TO CHEMISTRY DEPARTMENT

Six men majoring in the department of Chemistry were pledged to Alpha Chi Sigma on Wednesday, November 1. This is the first pledging of the year and includes the junior and senior men. The pledges have been in search of the traditional "philosopher's stone" along the drive through the campus during the past few days.

The men pledged are: Cecil Schumaker, '23, Ralph Clark, Paul Wineman, Chase Gage, Charles Tefft, and William Leffingwell, all of the class of '24. These men were deemed worthy by the local chapter of this honorary chemical fraternity to be taken into the membership. They have proved themselves good students in the field of chemistry and have demonstrated unusual achievement in the courses that they have taken.

The Phi Chapter of Alpha Chi Sigma was established at Allegheny College in 1913 and since that time has diligently striven to make the Chemistry department the exceptional one that it is. Alpha Chi Sigma has been a very potent element in building up the enviable reputation which the Chemistry department at Allegheny now enjoys among American colleges and universities.

At present the chapter has but six student members on its roll. Two men of the class of 1923 left Allegheny to attend other institutions in order to pursue courses of their intended professions. These men are R. D. Bacon and J. H. Tate. The active members now in college are: George Chapin, G. B. Hafer, T. E. G. Greenlund, Charles Kinney, C. Howard Wills, and Charles R. Wimmer. There are several members who are back in college doing graduate work, and the head of the department and the instructors are also members.

The membership of this club is limited to thirty including the instructors. It is composed of students majoring in the French department, or those who are especially interested in French literature or art.

THOMAS CURTIN WILL LECTURE HERE NOV. 16

NOTED WAR CORRESPONDENT APPEARS AT COLLEGE UNDER AUSPICES OF STURTEVANT FOUNDATION

D. Thomas Curtin, well known newspaper man and war correspondent is to appear at Ford Memorial Chapel, on Wednesday evening, November 15, as a lecturer on the Sturtevent Foundation.

Mr. Curtin is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1910, and since that time he has been continually in newspaper service. During the war he was correspondent for the London Times. He was a great favorite of the late Lord Northcliffe who has made statements highly complimentary to Mr. Curtin. In fact, Curtin is said to have been more closely associated with Northcliffe during the war than any other newspaper man.

After the war Mr. Curtin was sent to central Europe to investigate conditions, and he has spent most of the time to date traveling in Germany, Austria, and some of the new countries created after the war. He was in Europe all last winter and spring, and with his knowledge of recent events in Europe he will have much of interest to say to Allegheny students.

His articles on European conditions have appeared in Boston and Philadelphia papers, and are no doubt familiar to many.

Curtin writes in a most interesting way, and is a pleasant speaker as well. Speaking in a rapid-fire journalistic style, he holds his audience throughout the address.

Two of Mr. Curtin's books are doubtless familiar to the student body, "The Land of Deepening Shadows," and "On the Edge of the Quicksands," both dealing with events in the central empires. During the winter, his first novel will be published by Little, Brown & Co.

This is an opportunity for Allegheny students and students of Meadville to hear a man talk on world affairs who knows his ground thoroughly and can tell his story well. There will be two lectures, one on Wednesday evening, the other at chapel Thursday morning. There will be no admission charge.

The Sturtevant Foundation, on which Mr. Curtin is brought to the college, is a fund of $5000 given by Mr. Paul Sturtevant, class of 1899 and a member of the board of trustees, and Mr. W. P. Sturtevant, '06, in memory of their father, Hon. John Sturtevant, and is used to bring to the College eminent men for lectures on topics of general interest.

ORATORICAL CONTEST GIVEN FOR STUDENTS

DECLAMATIONS AND EXTEMPORANEOUS SPEECHES WILL FEATURE MEETING OF NOVEMBER 17

Contests in declamation and extemporaneous speaking will be held in the chapel on the evening of November 17 under the auspices of the Oratorical Association.

The competition in extemporaneous speaking will be limited to the two upper classes and that in declamation to the two lower classes. The freshmen and sophomores are permitted to give from memory any declamation which they think suitable. The juniors and seniors are to speak on some phase of the subject of strike prevention. One hour before the contest in extemporaneous speaking specific topics from the general subject will be assigned to the different competitors. All men who desire to be contestants should give their names either to Mr. Larson or to Mr. Hummer.

Coach Wally Steffen, of the Carnegie Tech team, was completely surprised by the brand of football displayed by the Allegheny machine. His statement in regard to the game was given out on Monday afternoon in which he highly praises the Blue and Gold men and Coach McCracken. "I make no alibis for Saturday's showing," said Coach Steffen, "my team did not play its game. We were lucky to have scored that touchdown in the first quarter, otherwise we would have been beaten. I want to give Coach McCracken at Allegheny College all the credit in the world. They have a fine football team. I cannot figure out how they were beaten by Grove City. They played us off our feet during the second half."

Some one came into our office one day last week and gave us the wise tip that Allegheny was going to be badly beaten at Tech Field on Saturday. In fact the statement was made during the confab by this same gloom spreader that the Allegheny game would be the right sort of a "practice" game for the Tartans before the contest with the Nittany Lions. Well—somebody surely had the wrong "dope"—for it was with the taste of defeat and their spirit broken that the Tartan squad left the gridiron last Saturday—and the badly battered team is a sorry looking sight to face the State eleven next Saturday. The score was 7-0 in favor of the Tartans but never mind the score. It doesn't mean a thing. For in the broader and deeper sense the brilliant playing of the Blue and Gold through four thrilling quarters achieved a greater victory than the recorded winner. For Allegheny completely outfought and outplayed the Pittsburgh men in one of the best exhibitions of football seen on Western Pennsylvania soil.

Arriving at Tech Field last Saturday we found the Tech team struggling against one of the hardest propositions that they have faced in many a day. Dashing and smashing around the Tartan stronghold the Allegheny men were playing the game of their lives. The ball was in possession of McCracken's men nearly all of the second half and they were doing wonders with it. Tech was forced to fight—and fight hard—not to win the game but to defend their goal line and stave off a bitter defeat. Even so the pigskin was carried over the Tartan line by the Blue and Gold warriors only to have it taken back by the referee—the reason—well, we don't know as yet. In fact the result of the contest was uncertain in the minds of those in the stands until the final whistle sounded—but it looked like Allegheny all the way through.

Too much cannot be said concerning the game and too much credit and praise cannot be heaped upon Coach Herb McCracken and his band of football heroes, for the supreme accomplishment of last Saturday. It completely surprised the football world—it will long be remembered.

CURRENT TOPICS

DO YOU KNOW WHAT IS HAPPENING?

U. S. warships are ready to start for the Far East in order to protect Americans, in that region, from massacre, according to an official statement given out yesterday.

Bonar Law, Prime Minister of England, succeeding Lloyd George, proclaimed a policy of stability and peace in his speech given in the Drury Lane Theater last Thursday afternoon. The foreign policy, especially as regards France, the Near East question, and the home policy, concerning military issues, largely with emphasis on naval power, were the points he considered.

Lloyd George says, "My sword is in my hand." This sounds a little like Roosevelt's similar statement, "My hat is in the ring." The meaning, undoubtedly, is somewhat the same.

Great Britain refuses to comply with Secretary of State Hughes's request for an extension of the three-mile limit of our territorial waters, saying that "an undesirable precedent would be established."

The fact that news of a disturbing nature is constantly coming from the Near East and the Balkans would indicate that there is still danger of war. The Turks were allowed 8,000 gendarmes in eastern Thrace, and have already raised a force of nearly 30,000. The French have great cause for worry!

"The Near Eastern situation never seems to be so bad that it can't grow worse."—Weston Leader.

That the Ottoman empire has come to an end in the dethroning of the Sultan, was announced by the French foreign office Friday afternoon. It is considered that, following this action, a republic will be formed in Turkey.

The "wet" and "dry" issue seemed to be the great issue in the fall elections yesterday.

According to the Literary Digest the "wets" admit that they have no expectation of winning the elections.

Will Mr. Gompers succeed in forming a triumvirate of the American Legion, Labor, and the Farmer? is still a moot question.

Already relations have been established between three Legion posts in Atlanta, Georgia, and the federated union organizations in that city. Many papers, both Republican and Democratic, are much opposed to any such alliance.

The New York Staters are at the present time wondering whether it will be Smith or Miller for Governor. Politicians consider that the New York state election if of national interest inasmuch as the results will make or unmake an important presidential contender. If Miller wins it is believed that, next to President Harding, he will be the greatest political figure in the country.

It is conceded that a more spectacular person of presidential proportions will be Gifford Pinchot, if he is elected governor of Pennsylvania. This is true because of his astonishing victory over the Republican machine.

A SNAPPY STORY

DID IT STRIKE YOU LIKE THIS?

Of course you've read the headline of the Pittsburgh Post and Gazette and the Meadville Tribune—and possibly heard radio and seen Ellison's window—but there's a few things left out, and I'll prove it.

Who said anything about the time that ball turned a double flip-flop out of Robinson's arms and the Alleghenites grinned from ear to ear? And the time Comfort was knocked out—'twas a pity but Oh! what a Comfort!

And girls—did the boys tell you of the "best bib and tucker" and the girl hanging on their arm with a yeller chrysanthemum and a couple of ribbons—proudly designating ownership? Yes, girls, they all had their old girls from home. Remember that.

And, say—who said your father was a serious digger after gold—or a druggist—or perhaps a preacher? I don't believe it! They made more noise than freshmen at the Washington banquet, and looked young enuf to be in school cuttin' classes with yourselves.

Then—"Parnell kicked that ball!" and "Homely, yell 'em out!" mixed in with "Popcorn fritters" and "Say, Red, how about a yell?" kept you guessing which way you were getting your money's worth.

Gee whiz! 7-0 and the first quarter's up. Regular sigh went up and Tech thought the wind was rising. 7-0, oh, boy!

The second quarter starts. That poor girl! Pretty tough when the "Blue and Gold's" girl is a "Plaid one." Funny, when one smiles t'other seems to think it'll rain—then presto-chango! and —— "Who said Hoppy wouldn't show up old Robinson?" Silence! Hanlon, first Allegheny out and Weaver takes exercise. The half is up and gosh, 7-0. Boy—the crowd went wild at Ellisons—I bet.

Band strikes up—time for gossip, cigarettes and "birth, marriage and death records."

relished a 7-0 before — unless never relished a 7 to 0 before—unless 'twas changed t'other way, but it's all in your point of view. They do say "7 come 11"—but it would have to be "7 come 13" and 13's unlucky, so well—"let's hold 'em!"

But, I'm meditating when time's worth $100 a minute—counting bets. Hoppy trys track running and almost succeeds—but the dear old referee believes in conservatism and shows us the middle of the field. Hoppy hit that shoulder again but it's 9 'rahs for Hoppy and a grandstand full of pride. We like him!

Third quarter's up and the grand and glorious feeling, 7-0. Can you see the fellers standing on their heads on Chestnut street and the Techites clutching that money that may soon be spent by the t'other side on some of Dr. Crurch's concerts—or the Jr. Prom? 7-0. Hear its music!

Fourth quarter starts with a "Hold 'em," but the tone changes. Dahl makes a run — then Loomis — and Weaver hits the goal—tie, 7-7!! Nothing doing! The referee's too darn conservative. I'd like to swear,—expressing the wishes o fus all—but—we don't have rubber stamps in this here printing press for those kind of words. "We can't beat Tech and the referee both!" "I'd hate to know the referee" were the boquets thrown.

Allegheny and her friends—there were many of 'em—were all on their feet for that touchdown and Tech that we'd heard the Star Spangled Banner. T'was not like it.

But, say—we were a mad old bunch, even if Meadville did think we were "holding 'em!" Our cry was, "Tie 'em," "Slam 'em hard," and "Imagine 7-7." But a miss is as good as a mile. Anyway—the papers say "a moral victory for Allegheny and she's not as green as she looks."

What do you say, boys! Three rousing cheers for Coach McCraken.

FOOTBALL CHATTER

With Hugo Bezdek and Harry Wilson of the Penn State eleven as interested spectators last Saturday, Wally Steffen, perhaps had intended to keep his best inside stuff hidden, but Allegheny showed so much unexpected resistance that the Plaid was compelled to use everything in its repertoire to stave off the vicious attack of the McCracken squad.

W. and J. take notice. Otherwise the erratic Warner coached eleven may turn in one of the biggest surprises of the year, second only to the Allegheny-Tech clash of last week.

Colgate amassed a total of 35 points as against 6 for Lehigh. Too bad Allegheny could not have secured a later date on the Maroon schedule.

Bucknell continued the good work and disposed of the strong Muhlenburg squad by a 33-6 score.

Thiel finally managed to win a game; Westminster being the victim by a 19-6 score.

REGISTRATION REPORT

According to the reports from the Registrar's office the class of '26 will have more than its share of Aristotles and Solomons. Of the 182 men and women already registered 25 will receive school schclarships, and 3 are candidates for state scholarships. As usual the men greatly out-number the women, there being 105 men and 77 women on the roll.

Students are being urged by the Registrar to turn in the names of any members of the senior class from their high school whom they think would be interested in Allegheny College. This should be done at the earliest possible time, as the roll is being rapidly completed.

BISHOP F. J. McCONNELL

be the determining characteristics of great artists. It was in this mammner that Christ regarded the disciples.

"This," said Bishop McConnell, "means an entire re-thinking on social questions. You cannot expect a man filled with the spirit of Capitalism to say anything worth while on the labor question. The same thing is true with the other side." The scientific spirit gives the church a valuable spirit of quiet and judgment in thinking of the great church problems. Christ himself was always calm, except on rare occasions when he hurled invectives at some of the outstanding crimes of that era. What we need is "a discernment that sees not only the excellencies of our own nation and our own customs, but can also see the good things on the other side." The missionaries in foreign fields, in order to do an effective work, are compelled to look at other nations, considering their human excellencies.

Bishop McConnell then cited the story of the German missionary, Sweitzer, who did such great work among the black people. Sweitzer went to pitying them in their condition, but when he was about to leave the place of his work he had come to respect the black men for their excellencies.

"Christianity must have the spirit of right discernment," reiterated the speaker. "The great men, the great critics, the great teachers are those who look for the excellencies in others."

"All this rests on an appreciative discernment." said the Bishop, and "without it criticism descends into cynicism." We should have a greater attitude of patience toward ourselves and toward social failures.

Bishop McConnell ended his address with an appeal that all might look for the good things first in the consideration of others.

This is the first time that Bishop McConnell has spoken to the student body in the capacity of preacher. He was one of the speakers at the inauguration of President Fred. W. Hixson on November 11, 1920. He is the resident bishop of Pittsburgh and is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University and the Boston University School of Theology. Bishop McConnell is now a noted figure occupying a position of importance in religious and educational work in the country.

Syracuse turned the invading Nebraska cornhuskers back in a great game at Archbold Stadium. The Salt City crew were a drop kick better than their opponents from the middle west.

HALLOWE'EN SEASON PROVIDES SETTING FOR CHURCH RECEPTION

The Stone Church, decorated in accordance with the prevalent Hallowe'en spirit, held a social on the night of the thirty-first, for the members of the church and the college students. About twenty-five students were present from the college and had a carefree and pleasant evening, participating in the games that were played. Refreshments were served later in the evening.

The First Presbyterian church also held a Hallowe'en party on the same evening, taking all the guests out to the Ellis farm which is about three miles from town. Everyone appeared in costume. Only a small number of college students attended, but all those who were present shared in the pleasures of the evening. Refreshments in the form of pumpkin pie, cider, apples, and doughnuts were served.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

THOBURN CLUB

"Religions in China" was the subject of Dr. Henke's talk before the Thoburn Club at its meeting last Thursday evening in the Library. Dr. Henke has spent a number of years in China and is therefore well informed on the subject. His talk, which dealt with the practical nature of the religions, was both interesting and instructive.

The constitution, which has been revised, was read and discussed, but action upon it was postponed until the next meeting. Mr. Alfred Palmer, of the freshman class, was admitted to the club by a vote of the members.

PHILO-FRANKLIN FORUM

"Resolved, that the power of the supreme court to declare a law unconstitutional should be restricted" was the question debated at the meeting of Philo-Franklin Forum last Friday afternoon.

Although both speakers are recent initiates into the Forum, the manner in which they handled the debate did credit to the organization as well as to themselves. Mr. Fitzpatrick represented the affirmative side, and Mr Rupert upheld the negative.

After the debate had been decided in the favor of the affirmative, the meeting was given over to an informal discussion of the question.

TINGLEY BIOLOGICAL CLUB

Only one member was absent at the meeting of the Tingley Biological Club held Tuesday, October 31, at Alden Hall. Plans for the coming year were discussed and officers were elected as follows: president, Ira O. Fleming; vice president, Alice Roach; secretary and treasurer, Ruth McCafferty.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, November 14, at Alden Hall. This meeting will take the place of the field trip usually held at that time.

Y. W. C. A. MEETING

"The Metaphysic of Leadership" was the topic discussed by Mrs. F. W. Hixson at the first mid-week Y. W. C. A. service of the fall term. In previous years, on Wednesday evenings of the six weeks immediately preceding the Christmas vacation, the Y. W. C. A. has held study classes, at which time the girls have met in small groups to discuss vital problems of student life. This year, the cabinet has chosen as a basis for discussion a book entitled "Leadership," containing six lectures written by Bishop Brent and delivered before the men of Harvard University.

In commenting on the first lecture, "The Metaphysic of Leadership," Mrs. Hixson stated that this discussion might as well be considered an introduction to the five which are to follow. Obviously, Bishop Brent has presented in the beginning those qualities which, in his conception, a man must possess and cultivate if he is to be considered a leader among men. "Moral courage, ambition and manhood, much more than genius," said Mrs. Hixon, "are essentials." To be a leader, a man must live above and apart from the crowd; yet must have the ability to mingle with and to understand the particular problems of the mass of the people. Bishop Brent expresses the belief that in the physical and spiritual life there is always an organized motion toward a definite goal. Mrs. Hixson suggested that the emphasis of the entire lecture is based on one central thought,—the idea that God is the goal, the great leader and center of all things; while, attracted to this center are the various mortal leaders, who have been directing the affairs of the world since the beginning of time.

McCRACKEN COMPARES

fense is our ambition and our desire to forge ahead.

But if the football team had only an offense, the score would be entirely one-sided. A defense is just as necessary, and "defense" is the sixth point of parallelism Coach McCracken made between a game of football and the game of life. In life our defense is our ability to withstand temptation and evil.

Another point made was in regard to the "penalties." Sometimes penalties in football may be imposed for seemingly trivial mistakes. Likewise we find this true in life, for we find some insignificant misdeed in itself causes us much trouble and suffering.

The last point in which football may be compared to life is in "teamwork." Without doubt, this is the most essential element of a successful combination. In both games we must pull together if we wish to enjoy a happy life. Friendship is based on united action and cooperation. Without friends, life would not be worth living.

The hearty spontaneous applause which followed the Coach's most interesting speech clearly demonstrated the manner in which it was received by those present. The meeting was adjourned after Coach McCracken had offered a brief prayer.

SYSTEM

If you would win a girlie's hand
Don't follow her each day;
You'll find it is a better plan,
To go the other way.
Don't ever burn the midnight oil,
For that won't bring success,
Just practice rushing other janes,
And yours will soon say "Yes."

SIDELIGHTS ON THE TECH STRUGGLE

The highly developed aerial attack of the Blue and Gold was the outstanding feature of the game.

Fred Parnell demonstrated his passing prowess before the large crowd and had the Tartan secondary defense worried sick. Fifty yards was the average of his long distance hurling, and it was only the breaks of the game that prevented a score from this method of attack.

Allegheny's forward wall clearly demonstrated the fact that it is one of the best defensive lines in the country. Comfort, Godden and Zelt will testify to this.

Dahl did not permit the much vaunted Tartan to deter him from his purpose. Instead he smacked the Comfort-Godden-Irwin trio for consistent gains.

"Hoppy" Miller's jinx stuck with him, and he is again out of the lineup with a bad shoulder. His old injury was aggravated to such an extent that he will probably be out for two weeks.

Jimmy Hanlon was right there with the goods against Tech last Saturday. The tougher the opposition, the better he likes it.

"Buck" Weaver, understudying for Hanlon, gave a pretty exhibition of field running in the final period when he scampered 18 yards through the whole Tartan Clan for a touchdown.

Dan Daugherty deserves a vote of confidence for his work of last Saturday.

Judging from write-ups of the game appearing in every paper in this section, one would be inclined to think that Allegheny's stock in the football exchange had gone up 100 per cent.

The Tech cheer leaders had a hard time making their rooters "talk it up" during the last three quarters of the game, but the cheers and enthusiasm of the Allegheny supporters were eclipsed only by the fighting spirit of the team.

Jimmy Robertson, the fleet-footed Tartan quarterback, found Allegheny's defense a rather noticeable obstacle to making long runs; nevertheless Jimmy ran the ball twenty times and averaged almost five yards gain for every run.

Captain Loomis seems to take particular delight in picking up fumbles, for "Hersh" was right on deck to grasp the elusive pigskin which slipped from Robertson's hands.

The injury of Godden, Comfort, and "Hoppy" Miller was a regrettable feature of the game.

Any spectator of the Tech-Allegheny game will agree with the sporting editor of the Pittsburgh Gazette Times when he characterizes the contest as "one of the greatest football battles ever staged on Western Pennsylvania soil."

Tech tallied 9 first downs against 8 rung up by the Gold and Blue. The yardage gained by Allegheny was 204 against 144 made by Tech.

VICTORY CELEBRATION IS HELD AT COCHRAN HALL

Last Sunday evening Cochran Hall was the scene of great hilarity when Fred Parnell cut the "Victory Pie." A huge cream custard pie was placed on the table, and Parnell, armed with a "wicked" looking butcher knife, proceeded to carve. With great deliberation he drew the knife through the deep creamy custard and then splashed the table and onlookers with meringue.

Four times he cut and splashed, and the result was eight pieces of pie big enough to surpass the wildest dreams of the most imaginative small boy.

Every one obtained a plate and jostled hungrily around, shouting for a piece of the pie. But, try as he would, Parnell could not get that pie from the pan; when he stuck the knife in and lifted, it came right out again, and the pie slithered off each side, and settled quiveringly back into the sea of custard.

It remained for "Tarzan" Fuller to subdivide the pieces, and solve the problem of serving with pancake turners and spoons. Every one received a generous portion of what was generally agreed to be the best pie ever baked.

The pie was baked by Mrs. Nellie Brawley, affectionately known as "Ma," who is head cook at Cochran Hall. She is an ardent football fan, and was so confident of victory over Tech, that she had prepared the pie before the game to have it ready for the team when they returned.

The culinary masterpiece was twenty inches in diameter, and three inches deep, and contained thirty two eggs and two gallons of milk.
