Dear Mr. Conant:

I have received your "batch of fodder" on courses offered for industrial and technical schools. It is a fine lot of stuff and sufficient for my purpose. I have already visited some of the industrial schools, such as Goodyear's - probably the most extensive.

I am going this week to Rochester to spend Monday in the plant there and talk over their whole program on security and education. They do a well-rounded piece of work.

I note what you say about the length for the rest of the series and will keep within the two thousand words. Number IV ran over - if you wish me to cut it let me know. I can of course do it in the proofs.

Thanking you for your efficient co-operation, believe me

Very sincerely yours
