FREDERICK BAER APPEARS NEXT ON LECTURE SERIES

The College-Community Lecture-Concert Course will offer as its fourth program, a concert on Friday evening by Frederick Baer, the successful young baritone who has won much renown as a singer in New York City.

Mr. Baer will be assisted in the evening by the Allegheny Singers, who will sing an accompanying score to two solos. The Singers will perform under the direction of Morten J. Luvaas, College Director of Music. The numbers in which Mr. Luvaas will direct his group will be "The Turtle Dove", and "Built on a Rock".

Baer was fitted from early boyhood for a musical career, being a son of a large family, every member of which was familiar with music in some form. The artist's first work was done upon the violin, but that instrument was later dropped, when it became evident that he had a voice of outstanding quality.

Faced upon leaving school with the necessity for deciding upon a career, Baer fitted himself for auditing, and finally secured a place with a New York firm of Certified Public Accountants.

Executive ability, coupled with close application to his chosen field, resulted in success for the rising young accountant. Promotions came, and still he continued to devote his evenings to his art. Concerts were bringing him recognization of his extraordinary artistic and musical talents.

A growing feeling that his field lay in music resulted in his resigning his position and becoming a professional artist. He made his debut at Aeolian Hall, New York, enjoying a signal success.

During the next two or three seasons his work in oratorio, concert opera, and concert recitals won him universal reconition. It was at this time that he was engaged as a baritone soloist at a Brooklyn church at one of the highest salaries ever paid for a church soloist in Greater New York.

Baer's appearance here will recall his success in this city about eight years ago. His recital on Friday will be a part of the planned series of the college-community music-lecture series, and as such will be open only to those who present cards signifying subscription. Mr. Baer's program is as follows:

I.

a. Tre Giorni .....Pergolisi
b. Gia il sole dal Gange.....Scarlatti
c. In My Little Room.....Moussorgsky
d. Song of the Flea.....Moussorgsky

II.

ALLEGHENY DEBATERS VERY ACTIVE DURING MONTH OF FEBRUARY

Ohio Wesleyan and Oberlin Met by Affirmative Team in Ohio Tour.

ONE DEBATE POSTPONED

Informal, No-Decision Debates Now Used Exclusively by the Debaters.

An intercollegiate schedule of debates was begun on February 10 and, since then, it has progressed rapidly, taking Allegheny representatives to neighboring colleges of Pennsylvania, Ohio, and West Virginia.

Fom Wednesday, March 2, to Friday, March 4, Harmon Gilbert, Sturges Cary, and Harry Thompson traveled in Ohio, upholding the affirmative side side of the question "Resolved that Capitalism as a system of economic organization is unsound in principle." These men met with Ohio Wesleyan University on Wednesday and Oberlin College on Thursday. The debate with Western Reserve University on Friday was postponed at the last minute. A unique feature of the debate with Ohio Wesleyan University is the fact that the briefs of both teams were exchanged two weeks before the debate so that each team might prepare an intelligent attack upon the other.

Arthur Crawford, William Olson, and Paul Cares have also been doing their share of debating by upholding the negative side of the question aaginst Westminster College on Wednesday, February 24, and against Grove City College on Monday, March 7.

On Friday, March 4, Sanford Corcoran, Louis Haberman, and Paul Cares discussed the negative side of the question with Wooster at the Y. M. C. A. College at Youngstown. The debating teams of Youngstown High School were invited to this debate. Next Monday night, March 14, these same men will again uphold the negative in opposing the University of West Virginia, and on Friday, March 11, Cecil Bartholomew, Kenneth Johnson, and William Boetcker will defend the negative in a debate with Geneva College.

Allegheny College debate honors have not all gone to the men, however, for on Thursday, February 25, representatives of the English Language 4B cass successfully debated Ohio Wesleyan University. These women were Mary Glass, Genevra Hazen, and Ruth Birkner.

Debaters representing Allegheny College are chosen from the two classes in argumentation and debate, English Language 4A, for men, and 4B, for women. They have debated but one question, "Resolved that Capitalism as a system of economic organization is unsound in principle," and all debates have been of the informal, no-decision type. Under this system, it is possible to face the facts squarely without trying to coolr them to appeal to the opinion of the judges or audience.

ALLEGHENY PROMINENT IN KANSAS U. HISTORY ACCORDING TO MAGAZINE

New York Times Quotes from Article on the Ancestry of University.

THANKS OLD ALLEGHENY

Allegheny Alumni Have Contributed Greatly to Kansas History.

In an article on the ancestry of Kansas University the New York Times quotes The Graduate Magazine of the University in part as follows:

"A glance over the records shows that Allegheny College, at Meadville Pa., furnished Kansas her third chancellor, second dean of the College of Liberal Arts, first dean of engineering and the first dean of the school of business. The persons referred to are: James Marvin, Ephraim Miller, Frank O. Marvin and Frank T. Stockton. Dr. James Marvin was graduated from Allegheny in 1851. He resigned a professorship at Allegheny in 1874 to take the chancellorship at Kansas He was the fourth alumnus of his alma mater to become a college president. His service at Kansas ran from 1874 to 1883. Dr. Ephraim Miller took his bachelor's degree in 1855, became Superintendent of Schools at Youngstown and Findlay, Ohio, and Lawrence, Kan., and was elected Professor of Mathematics and Astronomy at the University in 1874. He succeeded Professor D. H. Robinson as Dean of Arts in 1895, holding that position in addition to the professorship until 1903. He continued teaching until 1910.

From Old Allegheny

"Frank O. Marvin of the Allegheny class of 1871, saw active service as an engineer and then took a position in 1875 as an assistant in mathematics and physics at Kansas. He received the formal title of Professor of Engineering in 1883 and was, in reality, the faculty of the department of engineering. In 1891 the school of engineering was created and he was made dean. He served in that capacity unti 1913.

"Frank T. Stocton took his A. B. at Allegheny in 1907, Ph. D. Johns Hopkins 1911 and in 1928 was granted an honorary L. H. D. He taught at Rochester, Indiana, and Michigan Universities and was Professor of Economics and dean of the college at South Dakota before coming to Kansas in 1924 to take over the deanship of the new school of business.

"Still another college that has made its impression on the progress of the University of Kansas is Williams at Willimstown, Mass. That institution furnished the Jayhawkers a chancellor a dean of law and two outstanding professors. Francis H. Snow, James Woods Green and James H. Canfield all came from Williams.

"Dr. Snow served from 1866 to 1908 as professor, chancellor and then professor. James H. Canfield was a professor of History, English, and then political science in the period 1877 to 1891. His cousin Arthur G. Canfield served as a Professor of French from 1883 to 1890. James W. Green was head of the law department and later the Law School from 1878 to 1920.

"These two colleges furnished strong and colorful figures who left mighty imprints on the lives of the Kansas youth with whom they came in contact. Send us more good men, Allegheny and Williams."

NOTED EUROPEAN ACTOR IN DRAMATIC READINGS

In connection with the international observance of the centennial of the death of Goethe, famous German poet, Max Montor appeared here yesterday in two renditions of "Faust".

Montor, who has given readings here in the past with considerable success, spoke during chapel exercises, giving a reading in English from the great play, "Faust". Then at 7:30 in the evening he read further from the drama, this time in the German, before an audience including classes from the German Department of the College. This centennial of Goethe's death will be observed in many parts of the world during the next month, particularly by educational institutions.

Mr. Montor visited the college about a year ago at which time he read the Act Three of Ibsen's "An Enemy of the People." That evening in the Playshop Theatre, Mr. Montor read, in German, Lessing's "Nathan the Wise." Both of Mr. Montor's readings were received enthusiastically by all who heard him. At that time, Mr. Montor was acting in the stage production of "Street Scene" at Pittsburgh.

Max Montor was born in Vienna, and it was there that he received his early training and made his first appearance upon the stage. Later he visited the stages of many prominent cities in Germany and Austria, and for twenty years he was connected with the Municipal Theatre of Hamburg. During these years he took the leading roles in widely different plays, such as the classical, romantic, and modern German drama of Goethe, Schiller, Kleist, Lessing, and Hebbel.

When Mr. Montor came to America eight years ago he could not speak one word of English. With characteristic energy, he set to work to acquire the language and it was not long before he made his first appearance on Broadway as Captain Edgar in Strindberg's "Dance of Death," and also as Ibsen's Rosmer. Mr. Montor then played with outstanding success in celebrated productions of Issen's "Master Builder" and "Hamlet."

This year, Mr. Montor is traveling all over the country, visiting different universities and collegs in connection with the Goethe celebration. He is now at Cornell, and from there he will go to the University of Minnesota. Mr. Montor's next stop is at Allegheny College, and from here he intends to go to the University of Michigan.

Tal Henry Will Furnish Music for the Junior Prom

With the definite engagement of Tal Henry and His North Carolinians to furnish the music, arrangements for the Annual Junior Prom are now practically complete.

According to Chairman Carl Borg, the dance will be held on Founders' Day, April 23, in the gymnasium. Dancing will be in vogue until midnight and will be informal. Admission will be $2.50 per couple.

The committee plans to decorate the gym with profuse lighting effects. This form of decoration is seldom used, and, if executed properly should lend considerably to the success of the affair. As the Prom is to be the only social event on the Founders' Day program a large turn-out is expected by the committee in charge.

"DUTCH" KRESS TO PLAY FOR PAN-HELLENIC

Preparations are in full swing for the annual Pan-Hellenic Ball, to be held this year in Cochran Hall on March 19. The committee in charge, under the direction of Helen Hopkins, is formulating plans to decorate the spacious halls of that building in the simplicity of the Greek style.

"Dutch" Kress and his Olympians have been secured to play this formal, to which all college women have full invitational privileges. The dance is not restricted to sorority women.

This dance marks the climax of the pre-spring activity for women's social functions, and as such should be heavily attended. The size of the group expected to attend, together with the formal atmosphere, should do much to make this an outstanding affair of the winter.

The young women working under Miss Hopkins' direction are: Betty Cappe—orchestra, Martha Fell—decoration, Kathryn Earnest—refreshments, Margaret Evans—program, Lucille Antico—chaperones.

Y. M. C. A. DECIDES UPON DISSOLUTION

The members of the Allegheny College Y.M.C.A. met with their faculty advisor, Professor I. R. Beiler on Thursday, March 3, and decided to dissolve the organization. Conditions existing on the campus and attitudes toward the Y.M.C.A., manifesting itself in a lack of interest, caused the drastic action of the members. A resolution reads as follows:

"Due to the conditions existing on the campus and attitudes toward the Y.M.C.A. manifesting itself in a lack of interest, it was formally moved, seconded, and carried that on March the third, 1932, the Allegheny College Y.M.C.A. is hereby disbanded. We recommend that all social functions that we have performed in the past be taken care of by a committee appointed by the Student Senate. And further, we recommend that a committee consisting of Dr. I. R. Beiler, chairman, and Dr. J. R. Schultz be empowered to reorganize a Y. M. C. A. whenever deemed advisable."

Eddie Cantor, interviewed by a reporter of the Temple University News, likes college boys—when they're sober. He remarked, "They're great guys, swell audience, but when they're a little bit under the weather they're the nearest thing to the seven year itch that I know of."

New Health Service Explained Adequately to Enlighten Students

All students of Allegheny College by this time realize that a health service was established here last September and that Dr. C. W. Skinner is the director of health, but few students realize the real significance of such a service.

Each student is charged an annual health fee of five dollars, for which he receives yearly a thorough physical examination, and in addition he may avail himself of the services of the college physician, for consultation or treatment, at the regular office hours, without additional charge. Surgical supplies, vaccines and expensive medicines are charged to the student, through the treasurer's office, at barely above cost. Records are kept of all examinations and treatments so that cases may be followed up whenever necessary.

An effort is being made to serve four outstanding purposes in the administration of the health service. First, a yearly check-up on each student's health will be made; second, medical care will be made readily available; thirdly, many students will see a college physician for minor troubles, which. if neglected, might progress to something more serious; lastly, each student will get into the habit of having a yearly physical examination.

Ample supplies and equipment have been purchased by the college to meet all ordinary needs for medical and minor surgical treatment. These may be taken advantage of by visiting Dr. Skinner at his quarters, consisting of a waiting room, office, and laboratory, on the second floor of Alden Hall. His office hours for women are from 8:30 A.M. to 9:00 A.M., except Sunday, and from 2:30 P.M. to 3:00 P.M., except Saturday and Sunday. Office hours for men are from 9:30 A.M. to 10:00 A.M., except Sunday, and from 3:30 P.M. to 4:00 P.M., except Saturday and Sunday.

PLAYERS GUILD ELECTS MEMBERS

At a tea held at the Venango Inn last Sunday evening the members of the Allegheny Players Guild elected the following new members: Fred Harper, Hugh Elliot, Charles Shaw, Donald Clarke, Georgia Buckham, Ruth Staples, Marjorie Ashe.

Following the election of the new members plans for future functions of the Guild were dicussed informally.

The Players Guild was founded two years ago to recognize the special interest in the art of the spoken word among students of the college. Membership is by election only, based upon the interest which the candidate has shown towards dramatics.

KAPPA PHI KAPPA INITIATION TONIGHT

Initiation of new members into Kappa Phi Kappa, professional educational fraternity, will occur tonight at Ruter Hall.

Three graduates and several undergraduates will be initiated at tonight's ceremonies. The names of the undergraduate initiates are not available for publication, but it is definitely known that the following graduates will be received into membership: F. L. Stewart, of Cochranton, Pa., William Kofoed, Fredonia, N. Y., and Gale Stroup, McKeesport, Pa.

Official Explains Briefly the Workings of New Curriculum

The following brief article is the first of a series of six articles written by representatives of the Curriculum Committee. These comments will appear in The Campus within the next six weeks in order to enable the students to become thoroughly acquainted with the new curriculum.

The purpose of the new curriculum is not to make a college course that is easier, nor one that is more difficult, but one that is better adapted to the student. It has been called semi-humorously a "tailor-made course". The course is intended to be so elastic that after a careful study by the Adviser of the student's record, his capabilities as shown by various tests and reports, and his proposed career, a curriculum can be mapped out which will fit the student individually and may not be like that of any other student. For example, a student who is concentrating in the Division of Natural Science—we no longer say "majoring in Biology: and is looking forward to medicine, will have a wholly different course of study from the teacher of science, the laboratory technician, the graduate student in Biology, or the bacteriologist. In a sense, therefore, "every student will be a special student".

A second aim of the curriculum is by survey courses in Natural Science, Social Science, Fine Arts, Religion, and World Literature to give a more inclusive background of correlated knowledge than has been given here to fore.

When the new curriculum is thoroughly studied and thought through it will be welcomed as a very wholesome advance in the direction of meeting with the real needs of the student.

"DON'T TREAD ON ME," SAYS $10,000.00 RUG

A $10,000 rug has been willed to Wilson College. The rug is to be kept in a glass case and if any student walks upon it or if it is sold for less than its original price, the bequest is void."

In the near future the University of Wisconsin and the University of Minnesota will meet on the field of battle. A milking contest will take place between the fair co-eds of these two institutions, the winning team to be awarded with an engraved milk can.

Columbia University Will Concentrate on Pedagogic Training

To create an entirely new type of teacher for our civilization, to make in short the pedagogue more of a person, seems to be the major aim of the new undergraduate teacher training institution recently announced for next year by the Teachers College of Columbia University. The purpose of this plan is to train promising young college students to become superteachers in the face of the present oversupply of mediocre teachers.

Those who qualify, fulfill the high requirements of this new institution, will be given an extraordinary training in life experience as well as in the classroom. The chosen students will spend part of their time in the shop, the factory, will go to the opera, to an outdoor camp, will be provided with parties, daily contact with philosophers. They will also study for a year abroad and do social work in the homes of the poor. Credit and course hours will be eliminated, while emphasis will be placed on the seminars and directed reading.

This forward step is significant of a new trend in education that has been gaining ground in America. More and more are colleges realizing that to provide an adequate training, a student must have a well-rounded, well-balanced education. The valne of such a comprehensive training is inestimable.

CLASSICAL CLUB HEARS PAPER BY MISS SHERMAN

Roman Marriage Customs was the subject of a paper written by Miss Dorothy Sherman and read before the Classical Club, which convened on March 2, at the Classical Club Room in the Library. The reading consisted mostly of mentioning some of the old Roman marriage customs which were in vogue when the Roman Empire was at its height. It was pointed out that many of these customs have been handed down and are still in existence at the present time. A discussion followed the reading of the paper.

Plans are now under way for the celebration of the thirty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the club. begin preparations for the events A committee has been apppointed to which are to be staged during the celebration.

Marian Sleeman and Katharine Milhoff will have charge of the next meeting of the club which will be held in the club room on March 15. "Greek and Roman Mythology as Illustrated In Sculpturing" will be the subject of the next meeting.

PAUPERS BURLESQUE MINNESOTA DANCE

While the owners of tuxedos at the U. of Minnesota were dancing at the 39th annual Junior Ball, the other students were dancing at the "Commun Peepuls Ball". The "breadline" at the commoners party was substituted for the grand march at the Junior Ball. The tax for the more elite affair was $9.00.

According to the Deputy State Health Commisioner of New York, unless football rules are changed the game will go the way of bull fights and gladitorial contests.

FINAL PRESENTATION OF "THE MOLLUSC" TONIGHT

At 8:20 this evening, the final presentation of Hubert H. Davies' play, "The Mollusc," will be given at the Allegheny Playshop in Arter Hall.

Only mederately well received thus far despite good work on the part of the players, the piece goes into its final opening with the producer's confidence that this will be the best of the four performances.

This evening's cast will be made up of players from the double cast, a feature inaugurated at Allegheny by this play. The players:

Tom Kemp—Karl Klicka: Charles Shaw.

Mr. Baxter—Robert Brakeman, Donald Murray.

Mrs. Baxter—Margaret Herr: Jean Holman.

Miss Robert — Charlotte Merwin: Winifred Ober.

This three-act comedy, recently produced at the Cleveland Play House, is popular with university and college audiences throughout the country. It is of particular interest that George Arliss, considered by many the dean of American actors, created the role of Mr. Baxter.

The play is being staged under the direction of Miss Alice Spalding and Mr. Hulburt, assisted by Miss Georgia Buckham. The personnel of the Production Staff includes:

Producing Manager—Ted Harper.

Properties — Ruth Staples: Don Clarke.

Lights—Rosanna Riordan.

Scene Design—Don Clarke.

The business end of the production is in the hands of Donald Williams, assisted by John Werle in advertising, with Bramer Carlson acting as House Manager.

With the closing of "The Mollusc", work will begin on the next Play Shop project, "The Jealous Wife," a play which has never been presented on American boards. To Allegheny College will come the distinction of being the scene of the first presentation in this country of a play which was once a vehicle for David Garrick, an eminent eighteenth century actor.

THE TUTORIAL PLAN.

Within the last two years a movement towards the improvement of scholarship among fraternity men has been making itself more and more conspicuous. The plan was first employed by a chapter of a national fraternity at the University of Oklahoma, and since its inauguration has been the subject of much discussion among leaders in the field of collegiate education.

This plan provides for the residence in the chapter house of a graduate student, a member of the national fraternity. His duties would consist of encouraging study, tutoring, raising the quality of conversation to a higher level, and many other minor functions which would make themselves obvious to him, all with the end in view of improving the scholarship of the chapter. The man selected must necessarily be of outstanding scholarship, excellent character, and, above all, of attractive and pleasing personality.

The financial arrangements would be simple. The chapter would provide board and room for the advisor, some organizations even providing a small salary. The college could furnish the tuition of the advisor, which is done in the case of fraternities at Lafayette.

The practicability of such a plan being worked out at Allegheny would be a matter for conjecture. At present Allegheny does not offer sufficient opportunities for graduate study to make it expedient for an alumnus to accept such an offer. However, with the new curriculum in operation such a tutorial system would be possible. There can be no doubt as to its advantages. If a competent advisor were selected, one possessing the above mentioned attributes, the plan would prove itself. We offer this for consideration and discussion.

A MODERNIZED RELATIONSHIP.

As a sequel to Allegheny's new curriculum plan should come a complete and modernized revision in the relationship between the teacher and the student.

In any modern institution, the teacher is no longer a veritable master of his subject. With this viewpoint in mind, the professor should not consider himself, in relation to his students, on a higher, supra-intellectual level.

The success of the modernized relationship between teacher and student is apparent in the newly modernized Rollins College. The teachers of this institution have not, according to traditions, adjusted themselves to a supra-intellectual level, but to the same level as that of the student. Under the latter circumstances, a teacher is more than a mere pedagogical mechanism.

Dr. William Osler, a prominent figure in the medical and educational worlds ten years ago, has written many valuable essays on the student. These essays, which are somewhat revolutionary in nature, were recently compiled in book form under the title of "The Student Life". An excerpt from this book shows the significant relationship which should exist between the teacher and the student.

"Nothing should be further from the attitude of the teacher than that much that is meant in that word, used though it be in another sense, particularly by our French brethren in a most delightful way, signifying a bond of intellectual filiation. A fraternal attitude is not easy to cultivate—the chasm beween the chair and the bench is difficult to bridge. Two things have helped to put up a cantilever across the gulf. The successful teacher is no longer on a height, pumping knowledge at high pressure into passive receptacles. The new methods have changed all this. He is no longer "Sir Oracle," perhaps unconsicously by his very manner antagonizing minds to whose level he cannot possibly descend, but he is a senior student anxious to help his juniors. When a simple, earnest spirit animates a college, there is no appreciable interval between the teacher and the taught—both are in the same class, the one a little more advanced than the other. So animated, the student feels that he has joined a family whose honour is his honour, whose welfare is his own, and whose interests should be his first consideration."

With such a valuable viewpoint in mind, it would be highly beneficial to our institution that it possess the resulting co-operation and the derived amiability between the teacher and the student. Thus, it would be worthwhile for the college authorities to influence such a movement—in the hopes of creating an Allegheny which is modern in every sense of the word.

CAMPUS QUESTIONS

Alumnus Comments on Artistic Utility.

Dear Editor — Several weeks ago, you asked me to write something for The Campus. I rather hesitate at sending you anything for fear it may indicate how far the paths of commerce may lead an "old grad" from the very definite and lofty lines of thought and literary expression laid down by the "profs" who instructed me. They did and are doing a good job at instructing. They pour in well. How much is retained is problematical. Withal, I want them to keep on pouring.

Some weeks ago I saw an article selling us on the idea of being artists rather than artisans. I am for that, but I want to be careful in my definition of an artist. I am sure a real artist is very practical. Isn't God our Great Artist? And isn't He the most practical being one can imagine?

As science continues to unfold his mysteries, do we not find these so-called mysteries are really great practical truths—great truths of service?

I hear about scholarship for scholarship's sake. What good is a scholar if he doesn't do something useful with it? Of what value is knowledge unless it is applied? Of what use is culture unless it is displayed in a useful way?

The true artist is one who creates something useful. Our greatest artists are those who have created the things most useful or the greatest quantity of things useful. That program is in exact conformity with God's will as expressed in our world. An iceberg may be beautiful but it isn't a wholesome place to live. A cliff is beautiful but I'd rather have my house on a few acres of good black dirt. The men who scratched the pictures of bison and dogs on the cave walls may have left artistic records, but the squaw who raised the most and best maize in the valley for her man and babies made the greater contribution to human welfare.

In choosing courses in college, why shouldn't our students be advised as to what they'll be able to earn equipped with this or that course? What is its practical value? What will humanity pay for a man equipped with knowledge in a certain line?

By the same token, why not shape our courses so they will have a practical money making value? Let us determine how much each contributes to "The Art of Living" or the art of making a living.

The great problems of life are the economic problems. Morality is basically the economic good. Sin is sin because of its economic uselessness or waste. Reforms come from economic pressure. Righteousness versus sin is utility versus waste.

Since we are going to make living an art, we find we can make a living easily as our utility is apparent. The artisan does what others do as others do it. The real measure of excellence is "How much is it worth and to how many?".

Possibly some valuable competitive theses could be written in the Department of Economics on "The Relative Practical Value of Courses Offered at Allegheny in 1932."

This might instigate a competition among department heads to make their courses stand at a higher value. But, why not?

RESERVES SHOW FORM TO CONQUER CARROLL

Against the weakest opposition encountered this season, the Allegheny Cagemen, composed mostly of second string players, rolled up a count of 52-23 against John Carrol at Mongomery Gym last Friday night. Mills, Massing, and Brown were in the starting line-up, and both Mills and Massing played the entire game. No attempt was made to run up the score as high as possible, for at no time was the Allegheny team made up of all the varsity men.

Mills and Dennison shared the scoring honors with seven goals and a foul point apiece, while Massing gets full credit for directing the 'Gator attack for all but a very few minutes and at the same time being the third highest point-getter for his team with a total of six.

From the opening whistle it was decidedly evident that the Blue and Gold were marked down for an easy assignment and all through both periods John Carroll's passers offered nothing to disturb the serenity and confidence of the home cagers, who had more scoring oportunities than they could make use of .

Mills opened the scoring with a goal from each side of the court, and Dennison lifted in one from under the basket. The Clevelanders talked things over for a few minutes, but Brown dropped in a two-pointer before Kelly could could register a goal from beneath the loop. An out-of-bounds pass to Garbark netted another goal, but Arezone countered with one from the side. Mills rang up one from an under-the-basket melee to raise the count to 13-4.

Arezone sank a free chance, but Dennison offset it with another lift shot. Burk and Massing traded goals, and Dennison and Arezone traded one-pointers, then the 'Gator showed his teeth by dropping in five buckets in succession, of which Dennison came in for three, Mills one, and Conn the other. He took Brown's place at the pivot. Arezone found the net with a long try to close the counting for the period, with the locals riding on top of the pile, 28-10.

During the second period the 'Gators continued to run up their total, with the whole team taking their turns at the loop, while the Clevelanders managed to secure a few more points than in the first half, and in general played a slightly better game. The Allegheny landslide stopped with the advantage at 52-23 as the game ended.

Triple Tie Knots Intramural Basketball Competition

Allegheny's interfraternity basketball tournament nears completion with a three way tie, including Alpha Chi Rho, and Phi Kappa Psi each having lost one game in League A, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon finishing competition in League B. undefeated. The League A tie will be played off shortly when Phi Kappa Psi meets Alpha Chi Rho. Then the winner of this game will contest Sigma Alpha Epsilon for the entire fraternity championship.

The following are the results of the games payed in both leagues:

LEAGUE A—

Beta Upsilon, 9—Non-Fraternity, 29—January 16.
Alpha Chi Rho, 18—Phi Kappa Psi, 10—January 19.
Beta Upsilon, 2—Beta Kappa, 27—February 6.
Phi Kappa Psi, 14—Non-Fraternity, 11—February 8.
Alpha Chi Rho, 21—Non-Fraternity, 22—February 10.
Beta Kappa, 5—Phi Kappa Psi, 18—February 12.
Beta Kappa, 16—Alpha Chi Rho, 25—February 9.
Phi Kappa Psi, 27—Beta Upsilon, 20—February 15.
Beta Kappa, 9—Non-Fraternity, 11—February 18.
Alpha Chi Rho, 45——Beta Upsilon, 21—February 19.
Phi Kappa Psi, 25—Non-Fraternity, 10—March 5.

LEAGUE B—

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 21—Delta Tau Delta, 8—January 16.
Phi Gamma Delta, 20—Phi Delta Theta, 10—January 18.
Delta Tau Delta, 14—Phi Gamma Delta, 36—February 6.
Delta Tau Delta, 8—Phi Delta Theta, 17—February 11.
Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 15—Phi Delta Theta, 9—February 13.
Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 14—Phi Gamma Delta, 8—February 16.

A great deal of interest has been shown in the preceeding games, and due to the fact that the leading teams seem to be very evenly matched, the play-offs promise to be extremely exciting. The winner of the tournament will receive the intramural basket ball plaque which was won last year by Alpha Chi Rho.

"WHY DO PEOPLE BUY IN YOUR STORE"

That South Carolina is being recognized, not only for her athletic prowess, her musical talent, and her scholarship; but also her initiative and practicability, is a fact shown by an article which recently appeared in Retailing, publication of Women's Wear Company, New York.

The article entitled, "Why Do People Buy in Your Store?" is the result of extensive research made by ten seniors. The report was based on facts compiled after the students had interviewed 800 customers and had obtained a total of 37,000 customer reactions through questionnaires and personal observation.

'GATORS SUCCUMB TO GROVER ONSLAUGHT

Poor Passing Results in Slip-Shod Game as Allegheny Loses, Score 31-25.

A rather luckless Allegheny quintet bowed to Grove City's Cagers last Tuesday night on the Crimson floor by a 31-25 margin. It was the superior pass-work of the Grover five that enabled it to avenge the earlier setback at the hands of the Alligators.

Strictly speaking it was the Grover's work from the foul line that spelled Allegheny's downfall. Both teams scored an even dozen field goals. But the seven out of twelve tries that the Crimson made good at the charity mark compared to the Blue and Gold's single point out of a possible seven was enough to give Grove City a six point margin of victory.

After securing possession of the ball on the initial tip-off, the Crimson attempted to penetrate the Alligator defense. For the moment the Grovers were unsuccessful at making any field goals, but they were fouled twice and converted points. Dennison and Minnick balanced goals and Jiles brought the count to 4-4 on an out-of-bounds pass from Berger. Again Jiles found the net, this time on a pass from Dennison, but Koma came right back with a goal for the Crimson to keep things on a tie basis. Then Garbark and Minnick balanced shots. Stavnitsky chalked up a foul point, but Berger tallied a two-pointer from near the foul line to put the Alligators out in front 10-9. Here Coach Thorn's cohorts pulled ahead, however, through the medium

WAYNESBURG HERE FOR FINAL HOME GAME TONIGHT

Ending a successful season on the basketball courts of four states, the Allegheny Alligator will make its final appearance of the year in meeting the passers from Waynesburg at Montgomery Gym tonight.

In spite of the fact that the Waynesburg squad has lost almost all of its important games this season, and holds a place far down in the Tri-state rankings, it has nevertheless shown spurts several times during the year that betoken real basketball ability. While feeling in one of these moods, the team scored a win at the expense of no less than Grove City, and in addition have twice subdued the Thiel cagers.

All this adds up to the fact that the Alligator is probably in for a tough assignment in being up against Waynesburg for the seasons wind-up conflict.

Unless the Bakermen can flash out with a little of the snap and vigor of their early-game brilliance, Allegheny fans may be in for a surprise, and as things stand the 'Gators will no doubt have to go the limit if they expect to pull out in front of the invaders.

The invading squad is not a one-man team. From data secured in the latest games, there are three scoring threats who have consistently run up large individual totals. Janosik, at center, and Avery and Currie at forward positions, are three men who must be closely guarded, while Ufema, and Patsch, veteran guards, have been stopping all opposing forwards of late.

These men are determined to make a tough game out of it, and try to be another district team to hand Allegheny a defeat before the season comes to an end.

Fewer requests for students for half-time than for full-tiem work have been received at St. Louis U. this year.

BOXING AND WRESTLING BOUTS NEXT TUESDAY

"King Sport" will reign over the Allegheny campus on Tuesday evening, March 15th. On that date the first annual Intramural Night will be held. With an encouragingly large number of boxers and wrestlers being whipped into shape, the stage is all set for the heralded tournament. Interest is at a high point and the contestants are impatiently awaiting the word to go into action.

Mr. Daniels has announced that the entries are to be weighed in today. Tomorrow will see the preliminary bouts being staged; then after the finalists in each weight division have been decided everything will be in readiness for the championship contests on Intramural Night.

Practically all of the better athletes of the college are entered in this tournament. For more than a month extensive training has been carried on, and all of the contestants should be in a condition to give their best efforts. Although entry lists from the various fraternity groups are not yet complete, there has been a large number of men who have already given their intentions of participating. So far Phi Kappa Psi is far ahead with regard to the number of men entered. Although the Intramural Night tournament is a new feature on the sports program of the college its success is already assured. Obviously, it will be somewhat of a climax of intramural athletics for the year.

The tournament will prove to be just as important as far as interfraternity competition is concerned. Naturally the results of the bouts will have a lot to do with the fraternity standing toward the coveted intramural plaque. Points will be awarded on a tournament basis. Credit will be given for entrance and the number of entries, so that each group can boost its intramural standing by demonstrating interest alone. The fraternity with the most winners on Intramural Night will receive the tournament championship which, by the way, should be quite an honor.

Intramural Night will be well worth seeing. There will be action throughout, with the cream of Allegheny's athletes demonstrating their boxing and wrestling ability. All of the students should be there in a body as well as the faculty members.

THE RUSTIC BRIDGE CLAD IN A MANTLE OF SNOW.

With Meadville in the grip of the winter's most severe snow storm, the Allegheny College campus has taken on a majectic beauty, hidden underneath a heavy blanket of fine white snow. Snowplows are used to no avail with a brisk wind drifting the snow everywhere to completely hide every trace of pathways.

College buildings and fraternity houses are beautifully trimmed with white, cotton-like snow, their beauty enhanced by long projecting icicles which afford a wierd loveliness to all the structures. Pine trees are no longer green, but are a mixture of their virgin color and pure white. Like gigantic Christmas trees they stand as ghastly sentinels on the border of the campus.

The ravine is completely transformed. Rhododendron bushes shove out their spreading limbs from underneath their white blanket, but with the exception of this all is pure white—the product of King Winter and his mate, Jack Frost.

Icy roads beckon the horse and the sleigh, and eager Alleghenians are anxiously awaiting the first mention of a brisk trot through the country and coffee at a neighboring tavern. Automobiles are left stranded along the curb with the proud horse once again moving to the throne of superiority. All of the twentieth century inventions are subdued by this onslaught of nature, and time rolls backward to the days when the most popular man in college was the one who owned a one-horse carriage and a fine steed.

Meadville has been disappointed for some months with promises of white weather being made in vain. Now that winter has come when all Meadville is expecting spring, everybody is enjoying himself to the greatest degree. The campus—a rhapsody in white—has earned its title of "one of the most beautiful in America."

"STUDENT SELF-SUPPORT" IS TITLE OF NEW BOOK

More than half the students at the University of Minnesota earn all or part of their college expenses, according to a study just completed by James G. Umstattd, assistant professor of education at that university, who will write about the young workers in his book, "Student Self-Support," to be published by the University of Minnesota Press. Dr. Umstattd found a law student cutting hair in a campus barber shop, a miner looking after a paper route, an engineer employed as a soda-jerker, and a "Home Ec" girl as a switchboard operator. Employed students get just as good grades as those who do not work, and they take just as much interest in athletics and campus activities, it has been discovered.

ATTEMPT IS MADE TO BETTER RELATIONS

Columbia University is offering courses for its alumni in an attempt to stimulate intellectual relations between the University and the alumni. This is quite in line with the trend towards adult education which is fast disproving the theory that one's intellectual life must end at graduation. The courses will be given by prominent members of the faculty on such subjects as art, science, and international relations. Two hours of outside preparation are required each week.

Several senior girls at Geneva college, wishing to be obliging, threw buckets of water on freshmen who were praying for rain.

Society

Social functions around the college seem to have taken on new life during the past week after the lull following the close of the first semester. The Chi Rho and B. K. houses were both scenes of lively chapter parties on Saturday evening March 5.

B. K. Party.

Beta Kappa held an informal chapter party on Saturday evening. Many couples danced to the music of Bob Hill and His Music-Makers from Sharon. Dr. and Mrs. Skinner acted as chaperones for the affair. Guests of the chapter were many, including: Mr. and Mrs. Henley of New Castle; Mr. and Mrs. Myer of Aurora; Mr. and Mrs. Williams of Pittsburgh; Mr. and Mrs. Williamson of Jamestown; Miss Olive Kedler of Oil City; Mrs. H. J. Gerow, Miss Beatrice Heberlain of Erie; George Barco of Meadville; Joseph Shaffer of Meadville; Jack Osmer of Franklin; William Snyder of Franklin; and Frank Prunnel of Erie.

Beta Kappa announces the pledging of Rodney DeVore of Meadville.

Chi Rho Party.

Alpha Chi Rho held a chapter party on Saturday evening at the fraternity house. The evening's entertainment was taken up in dancing to the music of Maurice Lord and His Boys. The party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Zemple. Guests of the chapter included: Ronald Gregg, Arthur Balser, Carl Borg, and Charles Hartung.

Delt Banquet.

Professor Horace T. Lavely was the guest of honor at the Delta Tau Delta banquet given by Colonel Lewis Walker in the Lafayette Hotel dining room on Sunday, March 6, 1932. Preceding the banquet the active members and alumni of Alpha Chapter of Delta Tau Delta, forty-five in number, met in a body at the Congregational Church to hear a sermon by Mr. Lavely.

After the church services the group adjourned to the Lafayette Hotel, where they were seated at the banquet board after first participating in the "Choctaw Walk-Around". Songs enlivened the atmosphere throughout the entire banquet.

Colonel Walker, acting as toastmaster, introduced Messrs. Cullum, Baker, Lavely, and Schultz, all of whom rendered brief speeches. Again the "Choctaw Walk-Around" served to end the banquet.

Alumna Wed.

Miss Jean McCrum, '27, was married December 28, 1931, at her home in Bradford, Pennsylvania, to Mr. George Caragonne of Boston, Mass. They are now living at 18 Bellvista Rd., Brookline, Mass.

PHI BETA PHI TO HOLD OPEN HOUSE

Open-house night of Phi Beta Phi will be next Tuesday, March 15. On open-house night the members of the honorary biological fraternity will be prepared to entertain pleasantly all students and faculty members who are interested in the biological sciences.

Alden Hall, the scene of the open-house activities, will have its numerous laboratories thrown open for the occasion. Various phases of the entertainment will be located throughout the building.

Open-house night is a tradition of Phi Beta Phi and is offered approximately once in every college generation, being intended primarily for students who have an interest in biological fields.

PROFESSOR WARNS AGAINST LIVELY CO-EDS

The students at Colgate University were advised by a professor of psychology not to consider for marriage a co-ed or any other girl who was the "life of the party" since her abnormal energy is very likely to burn out.

Campus Lore

One of Allegheny's outstanding traditions is connected with George Washington's first great mission in the service of England and her Colonies. On his historic journey from Virginia to Fort LeBoeuf in December, 1753, Washington came up French Creek to the mouth of the Cussewago, where he camped for a night at an Indian village on the present site of Meadville.

This journey has been commemorated by a bronze tablet set in the "Washington Boulder" on Allegheny's campus near the Library. A portion of the inscription on this tablet tells the story of Washington's visit:

"In December, 1753, George Washington, then a youth of twenty-one, on the historic mission from Governor Dinwiddie of Virginia to the French commandant at Fort LeBoeuf, followed the eastern bank of French Creek and camped over night opposite the mouth of the Cussewago, near the foot of this Campus."

There are a few references to Cussewago in Christopher Gist's journal of the trip, as well as a more indirect allusion in Washington's diary:

"We passed over much good land since we left Venango, and through several extensive and very rich meadows, one of which, I believe, was nearly four miles in length and considerably wide in some places."

Miss Edith Rowley, librarian at Allegheny, has formed an exhibit of a number of old and new books on President Washington, and has placed them in the Octagon. The oldest of these is a volume of letters of Washington published during his presidency. A similar exhibit may be found in the Meadville Public Library, on North Main Street at the Diamond.

Dartmouth and Yale tie for first place in the hearts of Wellesley students. Harvard men rate zero and Cornell, M. I. T. and Princeton were far from the top.

of three goals in rapid succession. Jiles' lift shot was all that Allegheny could do in the meantime, and the half ended with Grove City holding a 15-12 advantage.

After Laycock had started things off again with a goal from under the net, Allegheny stepped up to within a point of the Grovers when Dennison tallied two goals. But immediately the Crimson let loose with a barrage of goals that saw the score sky-rocket to 26-16. Berger lifted the ball upward from under the net for an Allegheny two-pointer, while Conn cut the strings with a shot from mid-court, and Dennison balanced fouls with Fegley. Two more fouls completed the Grover scoring activities for the evening, while Conn again found the range with a mid-court heave for Allegheny's final scoring gesture.

SIX MINUTES IS TIME LIMIT ON LOFTY TALK

It takes an average of just six minutes for the normal bull session to turn to subjects concerning women. That's what the Psychology department at Duke recently discovered.

One of the big social events of the year at Muskingum is the annual "kid party." "London Bridge is falling down" and the "Farmer in the Dell" were played. Animal crackers, orangeade, and lolly-pops were served.

The weekly phonograph concert at Rutgers University had to be called off because someone took the needles. As a result the largest group ever to attend had to be turned away.

"Choosey" People like the way they TASTE . .

IT'S just what you'd expect. People who enjoy the good things of life... are constantly looking for something better to eat and drink...and smoke.

In cigarettes this better taste can come only from finer ingredients. Chesterfields are more satisfying to the cultivated palate. For one thing, there's never any attempt to skimp on Turkish leaf.

These richly flavored Turkish tobaccos are added with a generous hand.

In fact Chesterfield's new way of mingling tobacco flavors and aromas is really the equivalent of an entirely new kind of tobacco . . . one that combines the best qualities of Turkish and fine Domestic leaf.

Perhaps you've noticed too, that the paper in Chesterfields is whiter...purer. It burns without taste or odor.

Smoke Chesterfields whenever you like...They're mild and pure. They'll never tire you as an over-sweetened cigarette might easily do. Light up and see for yourself. They satisfy!
