New York, February 9, 1920.

Mrs. Janet M. Blair, Secy.,
152 East 19th Street,
New York, N. Y.

My dear Mrs. Blair:

Your letter dated February 2nd did not reach me until this morning---the delay being undoubtedly due to the storm and the removal of my offices from 39th Street.

I quite agree with you that it will be necessary for us to have a personal conference in relation to Miss Tarbell's work, and if you will telephone me when you are ready for it I shall take pleasure in making an appointment.

Meanwhile, let me suggest that as a preliminary you invite Miss Elsie Finch to call upon you, so that you may get some definite idea of how it might be possible to employ and train her as an assistant in Miss Tarbell's work. If that can be accomplished I shall be greatly pleased to bring it about; but of course I must be guided entirely by your knowledge of Miss Tarbell's requirements and wishes, because I want her to be the soul of that essentially constructive piece of lasting and invaluable technical literature.

Awaiting your advices, I am

Very truly yours,

John R Dunlap

I didn't say it would be necessary to-day - I said if he wanted to see me I would be pleased to call
