Dear Atlantic: March 31 1920

Ask Ida M.Tarbell to answer your correspondent's letter given on p.575, in the Contributor's Column ---- not Mr.Clutton-Brock.

Is Miss Tarbell alive, I hope so.

I remember a short article of hers, dealing with just this problem, and dealing with it as only a successful woman would be permitted to deal. She told ---- she a woman who had attained to success and distinction, how she had, also, failed to attain to complete happiness, to that which evolution, or God, as you please, had designed. One can not turn ones back on the strongest instinct in the world, the maternal, and remain happy ---- unless, abnormal.

Yours sincerely,

Charles Plain
