

President Talks

President Crawford Spoke at Assembly Yesterday Concerning Endowment.

At the assembly chapel yesterday morning, President Crawford told, at the request of the student body, the history of the raising of the additional endowment which has been the main topic of conversation about Meadville for the past week. His story in brief is as follows:

"About two years ago the Board of Trustees decided to enter upon a campaign for additional endowment for the college providing we could secure a substantial gift from the General Educational Board. At the request of the Board of Trustees I had an interview with Mr. Buttrick, the secretary of that board but I secured but little encouragement, he saying that there were already 46 colleges ahead of us. However, at a second interview he promised to send a man to look over the ground, and later he himself made the inspection. Within two weeks after his visit, in which every part of the work and equipment was looked over, he reported that the board had given us $100,000 providing a sum of $400,000 would be raised by April 24, 1912. This was reported to the Board or Trustees at their meeting a year ago last June and at the same time Mrs. Cochran announced that she would give the second $100,000. Within three weeks after that time, Mrs. Mary Newton gave $40,000, which was to be used for the endowment of the chair of Physics and Astronomy, and $5,000 for the endowment of the Astronomy laboratory. This, with another $5,000 given at the same time, raised half the amount, but for some time after things moved very slowly.

"I confess to you now, that there have been times within the past two months when the outlook has been most discouraging, but I have tried not to show it in my face. I was disappointed in a number of able people from whom I had hoped to receive a large sum. The uprising of the citizens of Meadville was the thing that helped us most in Western Pennsylvania and the action of the students did more than any other one thing. This gift of Meadville, together with an additional gift of $10,000 from T. D. Collins of Nebraska, Pa., and one of $12,500 from the Chambers estate have been three beautiful things. Mr. Collins had already given $24,000 but when I explained to him last Monday the seriousness of our position, he gave me at once $10,000 more. This with $6,000 given before is to endow a new chair, that of Philosophy and Education.

"It has not been definitely decided as to how the money will be used but my expectation is that it will mean three new assistant professorships; at least five or six new instructors two general lecture foundations to bring famous men from the outside to address you, and at least a fund of $10,000 for the purchase of new books for the Library. However, this will be decided in June. Fortunately the money will not come in for four years as the greater part of it was paid on five year payment plan and this will give us time to work out our plans.

"There are three things that will ever remain in my memory from this campaign: First, the great gift of Mrs. Cochran. She has given liberally of her money but the greatest thing she has given has been herself. Second, what Meadville did for the fund, and third, what you did.

"The spirit of the people I have met has been fine and I am sure that Allegheny holds the highest place in the hearts of every one who has come to know her. What that additional endowment did for Dartmouth in giving it its high place among the colleges and what it has done for other schools, I hope and am confident that it will do for Allegheny. I expect that we shall secure at least an extra quarter of a million from other friends before Bentley's bell sounds the beginning of the centennial celebration."

President Crawford then read the list of amounts raised by the student body, stating that the banner had been given to the Senior class and that it would be ordered at once.

Allegheny College entered upon a new era of her life on Wednesday night when President Crawford announced that the requirements of the Education Board had been met and that the college would have $500,000 to add to its present endowment of the same amount. Enthusiasm was at its highest pitch all day Wednesday on account of the size of the amount still to be raised and this spirit continued the greater part of the night. It was confidently felt that the amount would be raised in time and cheers for President Crawford were heard on all sides throughout the day.

President William H. Crawford, who has done more than any one else to get the new endowment.

ford were heard on all sides throughout the day.

On Monday morning the sum of $24,000 remained to be accounted for and President Crawford stated then that there would be no question as to the outcome although the raising of that amount in three days was no small job. Monday saw the amount reduced to $24,000 and on the arrival of Founder's Day $19,000 was still lacking. By noon on Wednesday subscriptions were received reducing the amount of $14,000 and at six o'clock the fund was still $10,000 short of the goal. The sum was reduced little by little, until at ten o'clock the announcement from the telephone office down town showed $3,500. About 10:30 news came from the president that only $83 remained. Several members of the Senior class at once went to work and in a short time reported to President Crawford that their class had placed $95 at his command. This money was pledged by Thomas, Moore, Piersol, Baum, Abbott and Maxwell. This completed the half million and the president had achieved one of the greatest things that has ever been accomplished for the college.

Allegheny's growth since the arrival of President Crawford has been nothing short of phenomenal. The endowment of the institution nineteen years ago was $140,000. Today the endowment reaches the figure of $1,025,000 which gives the college the place of fifteenth in point of endowment among the colleges of the country. From the statements made at different times it is assured that a larger centennial offering will be made at the time of that celebration and the place will be further raised. Some figures regarding the endowment follow:

The biggest feature in connection with the securing of the additional endowment was the student demonstration which took place Wednesday evening and Thursday morning. At nine o'clock practically every man in college was at the Gymnasium and soon after this time the parade proceeded down the hill to the Crawford County Trust Co. building where President Crawford was working. The crowd stopped there and sang, and yelled a number of songs and yells composed on the moment for the occasion. All the professors who could be found near the place were brought forward and forced to give a speech to the crowd. The cry of "There'll be no school tomorrow" was adopted as the slogan and this too was taken up even by the professors. The songs sung were many and varied. "We've Got a Half a Million" was one favorite, sung to the tune of "To Drive Dull Care Away." "Has Anybody Here Seen Prexy, the Man With the Financial Smile" was fitted appropriately to the Kelly tune. There were other songs and many yells. But the yell which was heard the most was "Hip

Interstate Contest

Representatives of Five States to be Here for Big Oratorical Contest.

The annual Intercollegiate Peace Association oratorical contest will be held in Ford Memorial Chapel on next Friday evening at eight o'clock. The winners of the state contests in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Indiana, North Carolina and New York will be the contestants for two prizes, one of $100 and another of $75.

collegiate Peace Association. Orations were submitted in the various states and six men were chosen in each state for the value of their orations in thought and composition. These then delivered their orations and contested for the state prize. The winners in these states are now to meet to determine the championship for the intercollegiate association. A request was sent to have the Pennsylvania contest at Allegheny but the offer of the University of Pittsburgh had come first, so that it was not accepted. However, Secretary Weston of Yellow Springs, O., wrote later and offered to bring the interstate contest here providing that arrangements could be made to care for the judges and the contestants. The offer was accepted. The men will be entertained at Cochran Hall and the fraternity houses.

Th judges here will be Professor S. S. Swartley, Professor Diehl of Erie, and Rev. R. E. Brown of Franklin.

It was about eleven o'clock that "Allegheny's greatest, father" came out of the building and immediately the students broke loose for their celebration. President Crawford was placed in a small "buck-board" appropriately decorated in the gold and blue and after making a short speech the men of the college proceeded to haul him up the hill. At Hulings Hall, the women joined the procession and marched to the new athletic field where the energetic Freshmen had built a bonfire for the occasion. Following out a request made several days ago in Chapel, Professor Dutton was allowed to touch off the fire and it was not long until the flames were high above any of the surrounding buildings.

After the fire was lighted, President Crawford was again called upon for a speech and this time he announced that if the students did not want to come to school on Thursday they could do as they pleased in the matter. The members of the faculty were carried to the middle of the crowd where each gave a short speech. Then the whole company joined hands about the fire. The men and women and the faculty all joined in the largest and most complete demonstration of the kind ever held here. The circling crowd reached to all corners of the athletic field. After a somewhat strenuous parade lasting for some time the company "wound up" and sang the Allegheny medley after which the men again gave a final snake dance around the fire. About one o'clock the procession led to Hulings Hall where the girls of the college were serenaded.

Throughout the whole evening Allegheny spirit was at its highest pitch. Mayor Graff gave over the city to the students to do as they pleased and from the time of the completion of the fund until the end of the demonstration, pistols were shot and red fire burned. The Freshmen saw to it that Bentley's bell was rung for several hours in honor of the greatest of college victories.

The celebration was continued at ten o'clock on Thursday morning and at this time the homes of the professors were visited and all were called on for speeches. The girls were present at the houses although they did not march in line. The true Allegheny spirit pervaded the whole celebration and every student realized that the greatest privilege that could come to him was in having a part in the celebration of "Allegheny's Greatest Day."

Much has been said during the past few days in praise of President Crawford for the work he has done in raising the endowment of Allegheny College to over one million dollars. But too much cannot be said for him. His achievement in this respect is one that will mark an epoch, not only in his own life but also in the life of the college. By this thing which President Crawford has brought to pass, Allegheny College is now ranked among the first fifteen colleges of the United States, so far as endowment is concerned; and it is estimated that by the time of the Centennial celebration in 1915, the endowment will be sufficiently increased to place Allegheny still higher in the list. All this would have been impossible without the self sacrificing work of President Crawford. Then, there are others who have helped a great deal in the project and who deserve praise: Mrs. Sarah B. Cochran, the lady elect of Allegheny who has not only given Allegheny College almost two hundred thousand dollars, but has given what is more valuable, her love and devotion; the General Education Board; President Frank A. Arter, of the Board of Trustees; Col. J. J. Carter of Titusville; Mrs. Mary Newton, and others too numerous to mention. All are to be thanked and respected for their generous gifts that have opened up a glorious prospect for a higher and better Allegheny.

That the plan of having all the men of the college get together on one evening each week in the Cochran Hall will be successful and productive of better college spirit was demonstrated at the first gathering of that kind which was held on last Wednesday evening. A genuine spirit of good fellowship and real interest in the betterment and welfare of Allegheny pervaded the atmosphere. It was the sort of spirit, which if continued long enough will cause men to place Allegheny first, as they should, above all fraternities and clubs. The man who would place his fraternity before his college isn't much of a man.

The one unpleasant feature of the affair was the unwillingness of some of the Freshmen to wait table. The gathering brings so many more to Cochran than are usually boarded there that the usual number of waiters can not possibly handle the crowd. The college administration is making a considerable sacrifice and going to some expense to hold this weekly dinner. The only way in which the plan can be carried out is for the men of the college to provide the waiters for the additional boarders. Now there is probably not an upperclassman in college who would be unwilling to wait on table; but it is not the place of the upperclassmen to do it. It is the duty of the Freshmen. The Freshmen must not get the idea that they have the same rights and privileges as upperclassmen. The principal trouble is the old trouble of fraternities and factional spirit. The Freshmen say they would not object to waiting on their own bunch, but do not like the idea of waiting on everybody and anybody in college.

That is just the idea they ought to get as far from as possible. The spirit of the get-together is the spirit of forgetting fraternity and thinking only of Allegheny. When Freshmen forget that they are serving members of certain fraternities and remember that they are serving men of Allegheny College, for the betterment of the spirit at Allegheny College, there will be less dissatisfaction and better spirit generally.

The only objectionable feature of the Pan-Hellenic demonstration and banquet, held on last Tuesday, was the conspicuous wearing of the red and black Pan-Hellenic colors by the fraternity men throughout the day. It is unusual as well as gratifying, that there was only this objection, for in past banquets of this sort there have been much worse features. But in the affair of last Tuesday this conspicuous wearing of colors seemed to be the only objectionable feature. It is all right for the fraternity men to get together in a banquet if they wish; but why must they flaunt in the faces of other college men the fact that they are fraternity men, while the others are not? All the work toward a democratic Allegheny will be of little avail, so long as we persist in maintaining such customs as this one. Let them wear all the colors they wish in the evening when they are alone, but not out on the campus before the rest of the college. It simply makes a sharper line of demarcation between the factions, the very thing we are all working to do away with.

First Weekly Supper

Get-together Supper in Cochran Hall was Great Success.

The first of the weekly get-together suppers was held in Cochran Hall on last Wednesday evening. Over 125 men were present, men of every fraternity, non-fraternity and Faculty.

After the men were all gathered together, Professor Lockwood pronounced the blessing. The dinner was excellent. Praise and commendation were heard on all sides and in the yells the cooks and chef were not forgotten. Between courses and during courses songs were sung, particularly anticipating the celebration of the evening.

The suppers are to be held weekly at a cost of only twenty-five cents.

SENIORS CELEBRATE AT TEA.

About seventy persons, including Seniors in their caps and gowns, and a large representation of the Faculty, including President Crawford, were present at the Senior Tea last Thursday. Each person received as a souvenir of the occasion a tin dollar, while R. W. Thomas, as president of the senior class, presented to President Crawford a bank on behalf of the class. As well as celebrating in this way the completion of the endowment fund, the Seniors celebrated the completion of their orations and theses. Miss Margaret Megitt was chosen to burn "the oration," and R. W. Thomas delivered the funeral sermon. Miss Ernestine Coburn sang a number of times. Miss Louise Jordan and Miss Wilhelmina Anderson were the hostesses, while Miss Mary Sowash and Miss Helene Peck poured tea and cocoa.

Y. W. C. A. CABINET INSTALLED.

On last Sunday evening, at an impressive service, the cabinet of the Y. W. C. A. for 1912-13 was installed. Miss Mary Sowash, '12, as retiring president of the association, installed the following as members of the new cabinet: President, Miss Dorothy Sansom, '13; vice-president, Miss Elizabeth Lord, '13; secretary, Miss Janet Ellis, '15; treasurer Miss Ethel Bayard, '13; chairman of devotional committee, Miss Edna Yost, '13; chairman of Bible study, Miss Eva McKinney, '13; chairman of social committee, Miss Ruth Dodd, '14; chairman of missionary committee, Miss Frances Norton, '13; chairman of intercollegiate committee, Miss Lottie Smith, '13; chairman of nominating committee, Miss Vera Foster, '13; chairman of social service, Miss Margaret Seitz, '14; chairman of music, Miss Gertrude Hammond, '14; cabinet reporter, Miss Jeanette Robinson, '14.

Miss Jane Lockwood, '12, sang a very pleasing solo during the service.

Concert by Girls

Girls' Glee Club to Give Concert at Stone Church Next Tuesday Evening.

On next Tuesday evening the Girls' Glee Club of Allegheny College will make its opening bow at the First Methodist Episcopal Church. The members of the club have been under the direction of Miss Anna Rosalie Bork, the leader of the choir at the Stone Church. The concert is being given under the auspices of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the local Methodist church which is raising money to help an orphan in Japan and a nurse in the hospital at Baroda. Although there have been a few slight changes the personnel of the club will be practically the same as the list published in The Campus earlier in the year. The club is nearly twice as large as the men's organization, being composed of about sixty singers.

J. G. LANE TO REPRESENT ALLEGHENY IN CONTEST AT WOOSTER.

James G. Lane, '14, the winner of the Wakefield oratorical contest held in February, will represent Allegheny on next Friday night in the annual Intercollegiate contest at Wooster, Ohio. He will deliver the oration, "America's Second Emancipation," which won first place for him in the Wakefield contest.

The Intercollegiate contest is the most important oratorical event with which Allegheny is associated. The membership includes University of Wooster, University of Pittsburgh, Ohio Wesleyan, Colgate and Allegheny. Colgate will be represented for the first time as they were admitted to the league only recently. All the colleges which hold membership have strong oratorical departments and the contest is always close. Last year Ohio Wesleyan took first place with C. E. Vogel of Allegheny second, and two years ago the medal was awarded to the representative of the University of Pittsburgh in the contest here. Lane's ability as an orator was shown in the Wakefield contest when he made a powerful presentation of the saloon question, and the students are expecting to see the gold medal, which is awarded the winner, come to Allegheny.

Lane will deliver his oration in Chapel before the student body before Friday of next week.

DEATH OF PROMINENT TRUSTEE.

William S. Foltz, '73, for the past thirteen years president of the First National Bank of New Castle and a member of the Board of Trustees of Allegheny College, died on Monday at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York, after an illness of a little over a week. Mr. Foltz was one of the prominent Alumni of the college and had always been interested with everything that tends toward its advancement.

Mr. Foltz came from a family that had been prominently identified with the development of New Castle since its early days. His grandfather settled in Butler County soon after his arrival in America from Germany where he had lived until 95 years old. His father was one of the early bankers of New Castle, having been president of the First National Bank of thirty years. At his death, William S. Foltz became president. For the past few years, Mr. Foltz had been residing in New York and spending considerable time in traveling.

FRENCHMEN CONGREGATE.

The regular meeting of Le Petit Salon was held last Monday afternoon in the parlors of Hulings Hall. Miss Beulah Grauel, '13, and Miss Caroline Lauffer, '12, were in charge. Papers were passed to each person on one of which a question was to be written, and on the other an answer, both in French. Much amusement was caused when these were mixed up and read. James Miller, '14, gave a lesson in phonetics which was very comical. Punch and wafers were served as refreshments, after which the club adjourned.

Mme. Cortazzo and her daughter, of Meadville, were guests at the meeting.

News Notes

On next Tuesday, Dr. Lee will speak at the commencement exercises of the East Fallowfield High School.

J. A. Bortz, '11, of Greensburg, Pa., was married on last Wednesday to Miss Nellie Eckert and is now spending a few days at the Saegertown Inn.

An organ recital is to be given at East Greenwich Academy, East Greenwich, R. I., by Mr. Forrest Weaver, who was formerly the college organist, on June 6. Mr. Weaver gave a recital at the same place last year.

Announcements have been received by a number of the college students of the marriage of Robert C. Stockdale, '11, of Prosser, Wash., and Miss Alice M. Strickland, '10, of Cattaraugus, N. Y., which took place in Portland, Oregon, April 8. After the wedding the couple left for Prosser, Wash., where they will reside.

Judging from the reports which have recently been appearing in the Meadville papers, Allegheny will soon have a new educational institution as a near neighbor. It seems that the rumors of a Polish College at the old Hotel Rider at Cambridge Springs are at last confirmed. Those in charge of the alterations in the old building have stated they will be ready to open the college on the first day of September. It is expected that the student body, which will be entirely composed of men and women of Polish descent, will number at least two hundred.

Masterful Address

President Herbert A. Welch of Ohio Wesleyan Talked on "Higher Education" on Founder's Day.

The ninety-seventh anniversary of the arrival of Timothy Alden in Meadville preparatory to the founding of Allegheny was appropriately celebrated on Wednesday when the students and faculty gathered for the annual Founder's Day exercises. The day was especially notable because it was the day set for the completion of the half million dollar endowment campaign. Because of urgent duties in this connection, President Crawford was unable to be present at the exercises held in the Chapel at 11 a. m. The address of the morning was delivered by President Herbert A. Welch, of Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware, O., on "Higher Education." It was one of the best and most popular addresses ever delivered in the Chapel, being at once scholarly and interesting, a rather unusual combination. At the close of President Welch's address he was greeted with prolonged applause from the student body.

The student body met in front of Bentley at half past ten in the morning. Then a procession of the students, who were arranged according to classes, marched from Bentley, past the Library, and into the Chapel. The Seniors and the Faculty were all arrayed in academic garb.

After the regular ritual of the Chapel service, Bishop Thoburn read the Scripture lesson from the nineteenth Psalm and then led in prayer. Professor Dutton then introduced President Welch. He spoke in part as follows:

"This is a great day for Allegheny. At ten o'clock tonight she will enter upon a new period of her existence. In the future this day will be called 'Refounder's Day.' Such a day as this forces us to face the question: 'What does a college stand for? What does Allegheny College stand for?' And the most obvious answer is, 'Higher Education.' It is some of the features of this higher education that I wish to discuss.

"Education means the enlargement of the individual. Incidentally education means greater luxury and power, but the soul power which it gives is far more important than the stomach power. I know of one very rich man who said that he would give half his fortune to be able to share the intellectual wealth of educated men. The scholar should be a serene soul, somewhat lifted above the common distractions of life.

"Education means greater efficiency. The question which many students ask the college now days is, 'Will it cash up at the bank?' The answer is that it will. It is true that many of the founders of great fortunes had no higher education, such as Vanderbilt, Rockefeller and Carnegie and, as one man expressed it, did not know the difference between a Greek root and a tulip bulb. But, out of eighty of the multi-millionaires of this country, thirty had a college education and twenty-one had a high school training. Taking the people of the country, as a whole, only one out of every hundred has such training.

"What does higher education mean to society? One-third of the graduates of the German universities use German. The catalogues of the great universities of England, says Macaulay, contain the names of the great leaders of that nation. The charge has been made that the institutions of learning in our country have not been turning out these great servants of the country. A careful study of our history disproves this. The pen that wrote the Declaration of Independence was held by a college graduate, Thomas Jefferson, and its supporter, John Adams, was likewise a college man. The father of the Constitution, James Madison, and his friend, Alexander Hamilton, had college training. Out of every one hundred men mentioned in 'Who's Who,' seventy are college men.

"Lastly, I will speak of the service of education to faith. It has been said that education is the enemy of the true faith, but history does not confirm this statement. Moses, the great teacher of the Old Testament, was learned in all the teachings of his age. Paul, the great man of the New Testament, who laid the foundation of all modern thought and theology, was a scholar. Intellectual movements have generally preceded great religious and moral uplifts.

"Denominational colleges are sometimes spoken against. But we have no need to be ashamed of our product. Of the seventeen presidents of the United States who had college training, thirteen were from denominational schools. And of the nine justices of the supreme court, this seven who were college trained were all from denominational institutions.

"What we want from higher education is not mere eminence or success, but something which puts the country and nation under obligation to us. You are to have the ability to hold your place in the world and not to be flung aside or squeezed out like a lemon. The world is your field in which you may give yourself for the bigger and better things of this life."

GOOD PAN-HELL BANQUET.

Ninety members of the five national fraternities at Allegheny sat down to a six course dinner at the Steger-town Inn on Tuesday evening for the annual Pan-Hellenic banquet. The party left Meadville on the five-thirty car and returned about one o'clock on a special car, after one of the most successful events of the kind ever held.

A feature of the banquet each year is the forming of clubs with a few men from each fraternity. These contest with each other in their songs and yells. A number of new clubs were organized this year chief among which was that known as the "Wind-jammers," the requisite for membership being to have participated in some oratorical flight while in college. These yells together with several for Allegheny enlivened the evening. Between two courses, a snake dance, which has lately become popular at Allegheny, was led through the halls of the Inn.

The toast list of the evening embraced the main subjects before college men and throughout ran a spirit of hopefulness for the prospects of a birth of the new Allegheny on the following day. Following is the toast list:

Toastmaster.....R. W. Thomas, '12
Hellenics.....K. R. Kightlinger, '13

GOOD CONCERT BY U. S. KERR.

On last Monday evening, Mr. U. S. Kerr of Boston, gave a concert in the Ford Memorial Chapel. Mr. Kerr was accompanied by Mrs. A. V. Leberman of Meadville, who is a musician of unusual ability. Although the audience was not large, because of the many other attractions of the evening, every solo which was rendered by Mr. Kerr was greeted with loud applause. The program was excellently arranged. Everyone was greatly pleased by the manner in which Mrs. Leberman accompanied Mr. Kerr and her piano solo was also much appreciated. As she is a resident of Meadville many of her friends were present to enjoy her part of the program. The concert was given under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. of the college.

BASEBALL BEGUN.

Baseball practice was begun on last week on the Spirella baseball field under the direction of Captain Townsend with an unusually large number of men out for places on the team. With the exception of Meek, Firestone and Grant, all of last year's regulars are on hand, while some fine material is showing up in the Freshman class. The schedule has not been arranged completely as yet, but it is probable that at least ten games will be played.

For a number of years the weakest part of the team has been the pitching staff. Hawk has been forced to pitch the majority of games himself, and this has made it hard both for him and for the team. The best addition of this year is "Red" Robinson, a former Alden Academy star. Max Croasmun, '13, will also be eligible to play this season. Other promising men among the new candidates are Williams, Parks, Gilbert and McWhorter.

Because of the extensive improvements that are being made in the Spirella Park during the past week, it has been impossible for the Allegheny team to hold the regular practices. In addition to the installation of a new and modern drainage system, the men in charge of the work intend to rebuild the grandstand and to increase the seating capacity of the bleachers to two thousand.

REGULAR TRACK PRACTICE BEGUN.

A large number of men turned out to Captain Van Horn's call last week for the track team. The Freshman class seemed especially responsive, and it seems that some good men for the team will be drawn from the new material in the Centennial class. Practices are being held regularly at the Vallonia track.

The work of many of the new candidates looks quite promising. Louis Wells, although disabled quite seriously in the rope tying contest last October, is showing good form in the pole vault. Fahr and Metcalf are working hard to make places in the middle distances, while Greene is trying to better his record in the mile and two-mile runs. Doran and Taylor seem promising in the sprints and hurdles respectively.

Of the old men there are Captain Van Horn, Lavelly, Thomas, Hofelt, Ball, Kulp, Winn and the Dotterrer brothers.

The lineup of candidates who look promising for their respective entries, appears as follows:

Dashes—Thomas, Doran. Hurdles—Taylor. High jump—Wells, Fahr. Pole Vault—Wells. Quarter mile—Van Horn, Lavelly, Fahr, Metcalf. Half-mile—Van Horn, Metcalf. Mile—Hofelt, Cohen, Greene. Broad jump—Thomas, Kulp. Weights—Ball, Kulp, W. Dotterrer. Two-mile—Winn, Hofelt, Greene.

A NEW ALLEGHENY SONG.

The music for a new Allegheny song has recently been written and given to Allegheny by Professor B. W. MacWatters, of the chair of Oratory and Sacred Music in Boston University. The music is thought to have been at least partly inspired by Professor MacWatters' visit to Meadville last year. However, the song was originally written for Boston University and was entitled the "B. U. Flag Song." After its enthusiastic reception in Boston, the professor decided to give it to Allegheny, with the understanding that it is just as much an Allegheny song as a Boston University song. Although Allegheny had not asked for the song, more than a half dozen other institutions had made requests for the privilege of using the music, all of which were refused. The melody is the copyrighted property of Professor MacWatters and he has decided that Boston University and Allegheny shall have the exclusive use of it. The music is perhaps the best that has been added to Allegheny's collection of songs in recent years. It is written for a quartet or mixed voices.

R. B. Callahan, '08, a student at Boston University, has written and submitted a set of words to this tune. The words suggested are as follows:

Come, sing of the days of old,
Sing of the days to be;
Hail to the flag of gold and blue,
Token of victory.

Refrain:

Out with the song, then, and sing it today,
Faithful and true

SMITH SAYS

THAT he wants every student of Allegheny College to come down to the Toggery and study up on CLOTHES. The fellows all seem so busy with their studies up at school that they are badly neglecting their clothes. If you knew the great bargains we are offering on Smith's kind of clothes, you surely would make a rush that would win out in any foot ball game. Wake up, fellows, and come down and get acquainted. All clothing and furnishing reduced. Spring goods ready in a few days.

SMITH'S TOGGERY

Your Kind of a Place

To gold and blue;
Round the world tell
Why we love her so well,
Allegheny! Rah! Allegheny!

Campus and college hall,
Ring with a tribute true;
Raise once again the loyal call,
Loyal to gold and blue.

Bentley of days gone by,
Cochran and Chapel too,
Hullings of tender memory,
Long we'll remember you.

Fairer than campus rare,
Firmer than college hall,
Sons who are strong to do and dare,
Nobly in great and small.

Fling, then, afar her name,
Give to her honor due;
Well may her gold make known her name,
More may her royal blue.
