Miss. Ida M. Tarbell

Madam.

I have read in the June Delineator your very interesting article "Troubled thought about Prohibition" a very good view of the situation. Less than three months after the Volstead act was passed. The Press. daily and other papers. printed receipts for making all Kinds of Liquor. The greatest Propaganda. Ever put out. The Drys just sit still never saying a (word) The Drys knew that there must be a fight (to win.) If the young people and our Loved Country is to be saved We must see that all men in Offices are Dry. at home and abroad. and (use) every means to prove that it is not manly to Drink Liquor at home or in parties. If the Press would use its mighty Influence as much against the Curse of Rum as it has for it. then Public wounder see the sales of the Liquor was Stoped Public sentiment against the use of Liquor. It would stop and all the talk about hard times. and the Poor farms Who is the one who the Great master has in some Sinful place that will Lead this people out.

Pardon my sending this. but we must save this people and America

Yours hoping to see the time when money is not all to live for

Yours T L Conant
