April 27, 1927.

My dear Frances Keller;

It is most gratifying to me to know that you see so clearly why I should have written the "Life of Judge Gary." It seems to me that there are a number of things to be learned by those who are sincerely interested in improving the life of the World. I am sure that you meet the same kind of difficulties in your attempt to unite the forces of Arbitration that he found in attempting to carry out his code inside the Steel Corporation. Of course I knew that it would distress a good many of my friends. I think most of them do not see at all what I was at, as yet. However, that is neither here nor there. One must do what he sees to do in the best way he can and let it go at that, I take it.

It is good to hear from you again after so long a time. I am away from New York so much that I seem to miss all of my old friends.

With real appreciation of your letter, believe me,

Very sincerely,

Miss Frances Keller,
3 University Pl.,
New York City.
