Phi Beta Kappa Elects New Members; History Made By Six Eligible Seniors

For the first time in the history of Phi Beta Kappa here at Allegheny College, six seniors have been elected "Junior Phi Betes". Those elected were Sue Dougall, Sam Hellman, John Roach, Carol Smith, Barbara Walck, and Chuck Wells. In order to be eligible for election to this national honorary society the student must have an average of 90 over a three year period.

Those elected to membership at the end of three and one-half years must have an 87 average. Eta chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was organized here in 1902. Dr. Knights is the current president of the local chapter.

Sue Dougall is a former member of Freshman cabinet and AUC academic committee, and has served as president of Cwens, 2nd Vice-President of AWS, and student counselor. This year she is 1st Vice-President of AWS, member of Phi Gamma Mu, honorary social studies fraternity, Alpha Gamma Delta, and Orchesis.

Sam Hellman is president of Phi Kappa Psi, was vice president of IFC his junior year, and a member of Phi Beta Phi, honorary biology fraternity.

Carol Smith has been active in Allegheny Singers and Sinfonietta. John Roach, member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, also belongs to Phi Beta Phi.

Barbara Walck has been active on the Campus staff. She was a member of the copy desk her freshman year, copy editor her junior year and now serves as feature editor.

Chuck Wells, member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, was a member of Freshman cabinet and was awarded the Porter prize for the highest freshman average. He served as SAE president his junior year, has been very active in debate and interfraternity sports and is a member of Phi Beta Phi national biology honorary fraternity, and Delta Sigma Rho national honorary speech fraternity.

Informal Dance Held For Benefit Of KDE

The annual Kappa Delta Epsilon, dance held to raise money for scholarship awards will be held Saturday evening October 2 in the College Union. Theme for the drag-stag affair this year is "It's Positively Pink."

The informal dance will start at 8:30 p.m. and continue until 11:30 p.m. Admission charge is 15 cents. Co-chairmen for the dance are Virginia Rogers and Nancy Beere.

Professors Support Policy Toward China

"Is Communist China in the fourth stage of an old revolution? Would the likelihood of a split between China and Russia be increased by our recognition of her Communist government? Should China retain a seat on the Security Council of the United Nations?" These and other questions were discussed during the third meeting of the Allegheny Debate and Discussion Group last Tuesday. The topic, "Should the United States extend diplomatic recognition to the Chinese Communist Government?" was discussed by Dr. Eckles, head of the economic department, and Dr. Knights and Dr. Driggs, professors of history.

Dr. Knights and Dr. Driggs suggested the thought that perhaps China is still in the throes of the revolution which began in 1912 by the overthrow of the dynasty, and was followed by the dictatorship which ended by Sun-Jet-sen's rise to power and the establishment of a Liberal Republic, this in turn was replaced by Chiang Kai Shek's nationalist government, and now the Communist rule is the fourth stage.

The established policy of the United States toward the recognition of foreign government has been 'de facto, de jure' since the time of Jefferson or as Dr. Knights explained it—a government in power is legally constituted. Two important exemptions previous to our present refusal to recognize Communist China were Wilson's denial of recognition to the Mexican government and the later refusal to the Bolshevik government of Russia.

When asked, "Would Russia like the United States to recognize Communist China?" One panel member laughed and said, "Definitely, the Soviet Union would love to see us recognize Communist China!"

The general attitude of the professors, however, is indicated by the chairman, Dr. Driggs' remark that "I pity the negative in this debate."

The economic phase of the topic was only lightly touched, for in the words of Dr. Eckles, "The question is mainly political with few economic complications."

G8 Department Lists Lecture Schedule For Third Year Of Falk Foundation

With the funds provided by the Falk Foundation Citizenship Program, the lecture series held in conjunction with the General Education Course, "Problems in the Modern World", will be given for the third year.

The G-8 committee, headed by Mr. Wayne R. Merrick, has planned to have speakers this year who will speak on topics not only of interest to those students enrolled in the course but also to all the members of the college community.

The opening program in this year's series will take place next Friday afternoon, October 8, in Ford Chapel. The speaker will be State Senator George H. Leader, the democratic candidate for the office of governor of the state of Pennsylvania. This will be Senator Leader's first speaking appearance in Crawford County during this campaign. However, this is not the first time that Senator Leader has appeared here at Allegheny. Last year he participated in a program with Republican majority leader Senator Mahaney of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Driggs mentioned the little known fact that Chiang Kai Shek imported Russians for his cabinet and was influenced by the communists and later succeeded in becoming independent of them. The conclusion was left unsaid.

Agreement was reached that recognition should not be granted to Communist China today. Dr. Eckles suggested postponement of the decision until it could be used as a tool of diplomacy to drive a wedge between Communist China and the Soviet Union, and Dr. Knights suggested the alternative of using recognition.

Communion Day Observance Scheduled at Ford Chapel

Sunday, October 3, World Wide Communion will be observed at Ford Memorial Chapel at 11 a.m.

Because of the presence of so many foreign students at Allegheny, Dr. Herbert Picht, chaplain, feels a truly world wide spirit will prevail at this service. Four Allegheny students will serve as communion stewards. These are: Arthur Hewitt, Denton Mann, Nancy Vincent, and Barbara Hagan. Those serving as ushers will be John Clendein, Arthur Hewitt, Dave Hochenbrocht, Bill Regan, Don Kimmelman and Phil Lang.

Wednesday morning chapel on October 6 will have as its theme "A Sense of Christian Community." Alma Alt will give a solo rendition of "Come Unto Him" by Handel, and Robert Lynn will serve as organist.

The second lecture scheduled in the series will also deal with the first unit, "Citizen in Politics", of the G-8 course. State Senator John Walker, currently a member of the team speaking throughout the state for Lloyd Wood, the Republican candidate for the gubernatorial post will be the second speaker of the series. Walker's speech has been scheduled to take place in mid October.

The other unit covered in the first semester of the year-long General Education course is "Minority Problems in American Society". During the second semester the course covers "Economic Problems in American Society" and "Great Issues in the World Today".

Mr. Merrick, the program coordinator has stated that he hopes to have a total of eight lectures this year; with the final one of the series to parallel the "Symposium on Russia" held here last Spring. The proposed topic for this year's symposium is the United Nations. The Charter of the U.N. will be up for revision in 1955. And in view of the extensive commentary and criticism of the international organization since its inception at San Francisco in 1945, this program should certainly prove informative.

Concerning this lecture series, Mr. Merrick said, it is planned with the intent to interest the whole of college community. The people who are invited to speak and the subjects discussed are chosen with this goal in mind; to further the awareness of all the spheres which are so often referred to as socially significant issues.

New Campus Car Tags Distributed Next Week

AUC campus auto registration plates will be handed out Monday and Tuesday, October 4 and 5, from 1 to 4 p.m. in the AUC office, second floor Cochran.

The AUC Traffic Committee has emphasized the fact that student and faculty cars not possessing these required plates will be subject to a $10 fine.

Only those who have cars on the campus for the first time and, therefore have no plates from previous years, are required to purchase AUC tags this next week.

In Victory or Defeat

If our team is at all important then we must get out and support them. For over a month-and-a-half the football team has practiced each afternoon during the week. They have sustained the anguish of constant and tortuous physical exercise. Not just the annoying gesture some of us have to go through in the Physical Education course, but the rushing, twisting, violent action of the football field. Some have had broken bones, others have been removed because of the hardship. And even in the games to come new injuries will be sustained.

Now we as students have a responsibility to these men. We are responsible to show our appreciation for the afternoons of adversity that they have had and will continue to have. We have a responsibility to show that all this work has not been idle and empty play. We also have the opportunity to display a new unity among ourselves, to respond as a group, as Alleghenians. We have the opportunity to evidence a faith and enthusiasm in these eleven men as well as in the school they represent.

This Saturday, when the seats are filled with the rows and rows of students, when the roar of excited expectation rises from stands, many of us will know for the first time a distinctly collegiate experience. This is certainly an important part of college life. The chance to join in a united gesture, to encourage, to cajole, to excite is ours.

So in victory or defeat, in the moments of excitement or despair we will have expressed a marvelous unity. We will have shown an appreciation for the fight and spirit of a fine team and the coach that trained them.

Faculty Profile

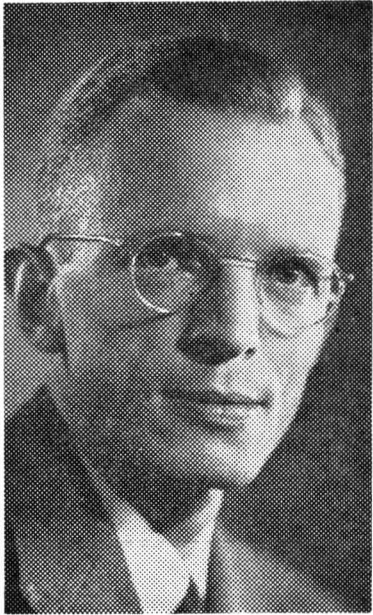

Since Dr. Julian Ross, dean of instruction and professor of English, has been on Allegheny's campus longer than any other professor, we felt that it was time to introduce him in this column.

Graduating from Allegheny in 1923, he received his master's and doctor's degrees from Harvard University and immediately returned to Allegheny in 1927 for his first teaching assignment. As Dr. Ross expressed it, "Harvard was excellent for graduate work, but I've always wanted to teach in a small college and have never regretted my many years at Allegheny."

"We still have the same type of college and student body as we had when I first came here; only the surface customs and physical plant have changed. For instance, there was no Brooks Hall or driveway, Arter, Caffisch, music building, Bousson, Quigley, Baldwin, or field house when I first saw the campus." Dr. Ross held his first English class in Wilcox, and being the youngest member of the faculty, was often taken for a freshman.

As examples of the changing customs at Allegheny, he mentioned the separate drama groups for boys and girls which existed for many years and the more informal atmosphere on the campus now which he considers something good.

In regard to his position as dean of instruction which he has held since 1949, Dr. Ross said, "I would never be happy in a straight administration job as I enjoy teaching, but the combined job gives me more and varied contacts with the students. I think that anyone working on curriculum planning should teach at least part of the time." (At Allegheny six do.)

Dr. Ross admits that his main hobby is teaching, but he also likes to play chess. In 1949 he wrote a book entitled, "Philosophy in Literature" after six years of research. He and his wife have two sons. Looking back, he remarked, "I have served under five presidents and two acting ones at Allegheny and have taught twelve different courses although it seems like a lot more."

Just in Passing

by Floyd Addison

It has often been stated that along with gaining a formal education, during the four years the student spends at college, he should attain a degree of awareness of the world about him. In this writer's opinion, this awareness should go beyond the scope of merely what is happening within the hallowed halls of college. It should go beyond the scope of classes, dances, parties, and athletic contests. It is to this end, that this writer sallies forth on the printed page. There will be no subject so sacred as not to be touched, if it is worthy of comment. Any discussion will be handled as free from prejudice as possible, with no ends being served other than those of good journalism.

The Summer in Retrospect . . .

As we return to the routine demanded of the student, after spending the summer in any one of the devious ways which students discover to idle away their time, it might be advantageous to take a glance at what has happened since the Lake and finals were our major concern.

Senator McCarthy was on T.V. for six weeks after we left Meadville, with his star studded cast. And now, he has received his just rewards from the censure committed headed by Senator Watkins.

The country lapsed into an economic recession. This affected many students. Jobs were scarce. Things were getting tight.

And the name Oppenheimer made headlines. After much deliberation the AEC decision was announced. "Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer is hereby denied access to restricted data." One discenting vote was cast, by Henry De Wolf Smyth, of the five men on the committee. The furor raised by the scientists of America and in fact by people all over the world was great. But, Dr. Oppenheimer was out of a job. However, he was not alone. Dr. Linnaeus Pauling, who spoke last year here at Allegheny lost his forty thousand dollar grant from the federal gov- (Continued on page 3)

Pins 'n Sins

Engaged this week was Mike Glenn to Mary Ann Pocock (Stevens Jr. College). Congratulations from Pins 'n Sins.

Our apologies for overlooking the following couples pinned this summer: Julie Caulkins and Bruce Kirk (Cornell), Barbara Ford and John Hopkins (W & J), and Bob Smith and Marlene Saylor (Presbyterian Hospital, Pittsburgh). Sorry kids, and best of luck.

Pinning season has finally started officially. The award for the first pinning of the academic year goes to Janie Parsons and Bill Regan. Congratulations.

Further congratulations to all the sororities on a successful rush week.

We hear that Cap Kidd got pinched for nudging the speed limit a bit last week on his way to a meeting of Democratic party leaders. And guess what! The cop was a Republican! Better give that Buick back to Charlie Wilson, Cap.

Question of the Week: Is Joe Raab really fixing the clock in the Grill? And if not, what is he fixing in the Grill?

We are sorry to hear that Dr. Wharton is ill with pneumonia in Meadville City Hospital. We're sure he would appreciate hearing from any of the students.

S'pose you've all heard this, but just in case you have a freshman girl "swooned" in Jack Burns' arms at the Freshman Traditions Meeting last week. Well, anyway, that's his story. Better stock up on the smelling salts, girls, you ain't heard nothin' yet!

And have you seen the ACA poster in Brooks lobby: "I like ACA retreats because the marshmallows are good." Save your sticks for Religion-in-Life Week, kids!!

The social season opened with a burp on Sunday afternoon in the following manner: Chi Rho (tea), Phi Gam (tea), Phi Psi (tea), Phi Delt (tea), and SAE (tea). Overheard in the dorm: "Teas, schmees, B for Burns!"

Seems there was a freshman namecard-burning party Tuesday night on Caffisch lawn. When asked WHY, one freshman mumbled, "Cause we ain't gonna wear 'em, we wanna rebel, we don't like the sophomores, an' we don't like namecards, see!" Chief Justice of the Soph Supreme Court, John Pinkett, took a dim view of the affair: "We'll summon every freshman before the court if necessary. We have many resources as yet untapped to enforce the law including the football team!" Freshmen of the world, unite; you have nothing to lose but your dinks! Go tough!

Freshman Quote: "Gee, I didn't know President Benezet was a Yankee fan!"

Kalfayan Book Fund Established In Reis

The Modern Language Department recently announced that a sum totaling $178.00 has been collected for the Armen Kalfayan Book Fund.

In honor of Professor Kalfayan this fund was established last Spring by the Language Department for the purpose of purchasing books concerning France and the Far East. Because Professor Kalfayan was especially interested in both those areas it seemed that books about them would provide a fitting memorial to him. An exhibit of the books purchased will be held in Reis Library after which they will be put into use.

It was also announced that additional contributions may be made to the fund by giving the money to Mr. Benjamin.

Four Twenties

The seventh season of Four Twenties, daily half hours of recorded music in the Craig Room of Reis Library, will begin Monday afternoon, October 4th, with the Boston Pops Orchestra playing Offenbach's Gaité Parisienne.

In the past six seasons more than 6,000 students have attended the Four Twenties and other scheduled concerts in the Craig Room. It has been customary to begin these programs in November running daily Monday through Friday until Easter vacation.

This year the programs will be prepared by Fred Quinn '57, an English major who has transferred to Allegheny from Dickinson this fall. His plans for winter programs include, so Quinn reports, "representative music from all schools, ranging from chorales and symphonies through show tunes, operas and progressive jazz." Seasonal and special programs will mark the series which Quinn aptly calls "MUSIC IN THE AFTER-NOON."

The schedule for the opening week will be as follows:

- Monday, October 4
Offenbach: Gaité Parisienne
Boston Pops Orchestra
Arthur Fiedler, Conductor
Tuesday, October 5
Haydn: Symphony No. 94 in G ("Surprise")

NBC Symphony Orchestra
Arturo Toscanini, Conductor

Wednesday, October 6

Indo China and Mendes-France became synonymous. In less than two months, this new Prime Minister succeeded in making Indo China a peaceful nation after years of war.

The Supreme Court of the United States met a challenge. Two small men, Governors Burns and Talmadge, shouted, "No." The winner of this battle has not yet been decided.

The eighty-fourth congress adjourned. "... Batting .830 ... good in any league." They developed a new tax law and implemented the Saint Lawrence Seaway—to mention just two of their accomplishments.

In New York City there was a crime wave. In the Mid-West there was a drought. In Guatemala, a revolution was fought and it became one place where Communism didn't win. And in Formosa, we nearly found ourselves in another war.

It was a summer of surprises. Dr. John surprised the Germans and the rest of the world. The Senate and a newspaper editor named Gore surprised the junior Senator from Wisconsin. The United States was surprised by the optimism expressed by President Eisenhower in the face of the many disappointments on the national and international scenes. The Yankees were surprised by the Indians, and the Dodgers by the Giants.

This was the summer of 1954 in capsule form. This was what happened in the world of which we are a part. This is what happened in our world. I thought that I would mention it, just in passing ...

Art Exhibit Scheduled In Library And CU

This year as in the past, a number of art exhibits are scheduled to appear on the Allegheny campus.

An exhibit of Four American Graphic Designers will be shown in Reis Library, October 4-25. It will consist of the work of Leo Lionni, Noel Martin, Herbert Matter, and Ben Shahn, four graphic designers whose work in posters, pamphlets, book jackets, advertising, etc. show four individual and vigorous approaches to the use of word and image in the field of communication. This is a field for design of which many people are not aware. The printed page however is a subject for artistic concern and more experimental work is being done in this field than ever before. Eighty-five examples of work for industry and institutions, employing creative use of typography and photography, symbols, individual interpretations of abstractions and contemporary reality, will be mounted on twenty-eight display panels. This exhibit is made available by the Museum of Modern Art whose skill in arranging exhibits has made possible many outstanding exhibits at Allegheny in past years. It will be sponsored by the Art Department and according to Mr. Heeschen must be seen to be fully appreciated.

An exhibit of the work of Walter C. Neithamer will be displayed in the library, October 24-November 6. Walter C. Neithamer of Erie, Pa., has been an amateur photographer for 25 years. He is a member of the Y.M.C.A. Camera Guild in Erie and the Photographic Society of America. Particularly interested in color photography, Neithamer makes his color prints by the Kodac dye transfer process, enlarging his 35mm prints up to 16x20 inches. He is listed in Who's Who in Color Photography and associated with General Electric Company, Erie. Neithamer is also the father of two sons who attended Allegheny College, Calvin D., '47 and Richard, '52.

The College Union will hold an exhibit of color prints of famous paintings, November 7-13. This will be of special interest to students and

The cast for "Kiss Me Kate," the musical production scheduled for November 8 through 13, has been announced. Alma Alt will star in the title role, with Betty Oliver as Bianca, W. S. Wright North as Petruchio, and Tom Quiggle, Harrison Howell, Pete Baker, Ray Leuenberger, and Ernie Schwartz in supporting roles.

For the first time the College Union is sponsoring a major art exhibit. This exhibit is entitled "The Sculptor Explores" and is scheduled for November 20-December 10 in the Union. Many sculptors today employ a painter's brush as freely as they do their sculpture tools. They have utilized media such as oil or watercolor or gouache with the same experimental vigor which also characterizes their sculptural work. Like painters, sculptors have explored the media for their suggestive qualities, and in many instances have contributed to the graphic arts. This exhibit is unique in that it is not an exhibit of sculpture, but an exhibit of the sculptor's work in graphics and drawings. Each one will be an original work.

Allegheny Loses Opener To Wooster; Inexperince Hampers Gator Eleven

The Gators of Allegheny College went down to their twelfth straight defeat in their opening game last Saturday at Wooster by the score of 31-0 before some 2,500 fans.

Allegheny traveled to Wooster, Ohio last weekend to engage the Wooster Scots in the opening game of the season. This Gator team of 1954 seemed to have the best potential of any recent Allegheny football team but they went down before a strong, experienced and confident Wooster team, 31-0. Coach Red Moore was disappointed by the game, but he is definitely not giving up, since the score does not indicate the true picture of the game.

Scots Are Experienced

The Wooster Scots fielded a team of over 50 men, 21 of which were lettermen. Every man in the starting lineup won his letter last year. Allegheny took 30 men to Wooster with only eight lettermen making the trek. Five of the starting eleven were making their first appearance in a Gator uniform, and all were playing for the first time under Red Moore's new system.

The Scots received the opening kickoff and, after failing to make a first down, punted. This punt was the Gators first bad break. The ball took a crazy hop on the 3-yard line and went out of bounds on the one-foot line. After the Gators punted, Ted Hole passed to Jerry Smith for 25 yards and a touch-down. Ned Martin's try for the extra point failed.

Late in the first quarter the Scots scored their second touchdown as Dick Jacobs circled right end for eleven yards to paydirt. This time Hummel's kick was good and the Scots led 13-0.

Gator Misses TD Pass

The Gators battled the Scots to a standstill throughout the entire second stanza. The Gator defensive line was particularly impressive in this quarter as they threw back play after play. Late in the quarter they stopped a scoring threat inside their 30-yard line. It was in this quarter that the Gators saw their best scoring opportunity go by the boards. Captain quarterback Fritz Reed threw a perfect pass to half-back Roger Donodeo from the Allegheny 35 to the Wooster 28. Donodeo, who was five steps past the last Wooster defender, held the ball for a split second and then dropped it. It was a heartbreaking moment for Roger and for the entire Allegheny team. At halftime, the Gators left the field trailing 13-0.

When the second half commenced, the Blue and Gold seemed to have lost something. They didn't lose their spirit, but they just couldn't get rolling. The Gator defensive line remained strong but the pass defense was not so effective. During this half Ted Hole hit Dawkins, Kardos, and Smith for his second, third, and fourth touchdown passes of the day. It was the second touchdown for Smith. All three extra points were missed and the final score stood at 31-0.

Poor Pass Defense

There were many errors of inexperience and over-anxiousness committed by the Gators. Fritz Reed and his understudy, Ron Radcliffe, passed very well all afternoon, but their receivers just couldn't hold on. On three of the Wooster touchdown passes the passer was hit in the backfield only to get away and toss the pass. The secondary weakened a little too often in its pass defense. These are

Booters Workout; Goldsmith Injured

Conditioning and fundamentals were the two main points stressed last week, as the Gator booters rounded out their first week of practice. The squad went through some strenuous running exercises and calisthenics, under Captain Bob Ozmun, to loosen up muscles. Fundamentals were stressed during the first week, to give the freshmen a chance to get acquainted with the sport, since most of them are new to the game.

The first real workout for the Gators came at the end of their first week of practice. The squad scrimmaged against each other so that Coach Hanson could get a look at his new crop. Considering that it is early in the season, the team looked good.

Injuries Plague Squad

The booters suffered a setback last Thursday when starter Ronny Goldsmith, a full back, was injured during a workout session. Ronny suffered an injury to his brain tissue and will be lost to the squad for at least two weeks. Filling Ronny's shoes will be a problem for Coach Hanson. John Dobson, Marty Reichle, Bob Banham, and Bill Regan also suffered minor mishaps during practice sessions, but have returned since. Both Reichle and Dobson complained of a "Charlie Horse," while Banham suffered a foot injury and Regan a sprained ankle.

Several players were shaping up during the first week's workouts, however. Bob Seimens, just out of the service, put in an impressive performance for Coach Hanson at full back during the week. Jay Rudolph, a sophomore, and Dave Williams, a senior, are battling it out for goalie. Bob Ozmun, John Dobson, and Marty Reichle have been getting competition for half back positions from Carter White, Bob Eighme, Tom Levenhagen and Ralph D'Onofrio. Bill Regan, Frank Brand, Bill Dean and Tom Butz all are contending for the wing positions, vacated by George Culberson and Dane Hannum who were lost through graduation. Al Monstrum, Bob Banham and Jim Lauffer have been working the ball nicely at the center positions.

It the team continues to show the same spirit and determination it has shown thus far, this should be another banner season for Coach Hanson's booters.

Bob Ozmun

Captaining this year's booters is a 21 year old, 5' 11", 170 pound, man of muscle, senior Bob Ozmun. "Ozzie," who's well known among the college cuties, returns to the Gator lineup as one of three returning starters.

Oz, who hails from Rochester, New York, lettered for his home town high, Ben Franklin, in soccer. He came to Allegheny in the fall of 1951, and joined Coach Hanson's squad. Here he lettered twice with Allegheny in his sophomore and junior years, and says he'll "hope to make it three."

Bob has been active on the campus, as well as on the athletic field. He was activities and social chairman for Delta Tau Delta in his sophomore and junior years. Last year, Ozzie was honored by the AFROTC department, by being admitted into The Arnold Air Society and proceeded to take over the duties as publications officer.

Presently, Ozzie's been kept busy as vice-president and rush chairman of the "Delts."

Ozmun is an Eco Major and is as yet uncertain of his future plans. A big reason why the Gators had such an impressive record last year because of his stellar performance at half back. He hopes to lead the Gators this year toward another victorious season.

Gator Grandstand

Once again the Bentley bell remained silent in its belfry, in anticipation of an Allegheny win. Alas, there was no joy in Mud Meadville, as the Gators of Allegheny dropped game number twelve. It was a tough game psychologically to lose, since a win would have boosted the team's spirit, as well as the student body's. This by no means points to another washout year. Reports have it that the squad suffered a bad case of "stage fright", since they were facing a more experienced opponent. The statistics of the game far exceeded themselves and told only half the story. Donadeo's dropped pass while in the clear, during the second quarter, was by far the biggest drawback of the game. But that's the way the breaks go.

Wooster neglected to mention on the program the 1913 win of Allegheny over Wooster, 116-0. Oh, the good old days!

Hobart comes up this Saturday, so let's see you freshmen, especially, out at the field displaying a little lung power.

Coach Of The Year

While looking over the records of the past year, I noticed that one coach, if any, deserved the honor of Allegheny Coach of the Year. Bill Hanson, who led the soccer, swimming and track teams to winning seasons last year, certainly deserved such an honor.

Bill's four wins with the soccer team last year, was the greatest amount of games won by a Gator squad since he started coaching soccer in 1946. The swimming team took the Tri-State Championships for Bill after completing the season with a 7-2 record. (At the Block "A" dinner last year Bill received a present of a clock radio from the squad as a token of their appreciation.) The track team which started off last season by giving Allegheny its worst track defeat in its history, got back on their feet, and completed the season with a 2-1 dual meet record, and a third in a triangular meet. Our dinks are off to Bill Hanson.

Freshmen Women Roam Thru Fraternities Houses

Armed with cover up make-up and determination for a Sunday night movie date, freshmen women set out last Sunday to conquer Allegheny fraternities and the fraternity men with their vivacious wit and charm, which we hear only a freshman class can have.

We set out to follow a gregarious group of these female frosh to the sacred ground of the fraternity houses. Before our arrival at the Phi Delt house, one poor gal suffered the tragedy of the day when her left rear garter "goofed". A quick repair job was done in the rear seat of a '54 Chevie (this frosh has the right idea).

The Phi Delt house greeted the group with, "Hi, have a cigarette and a man to tour you around the house." Overheard this remark, after climbing to the third floor, "O.K., this is great, but let's take the elevator down." That girl won the popularity contest of the day, and we left.

Next on the carefully planned agenda, after a week of discussion and elimination, was the Chi Rho house. Here Brooklyn's representative in the house escorted us lazily into the living room, and charmed the group with his mastery of English pronunciation. Noted the dim "library" with built-in T.V. set. Finally we departed, after an analysis of our car's carbureator, deciding that it "burped" as a result of the Chi Rho tea.

The "great crusade" travelled across the street to the Sig house, where two of the crowd wondered if the lions depict the typical Sig??? After being told to be sure to try their long labored on sandwiches, and trying them, we decided to pass this on to all gals who can't cook—the Sigs can! Best impression was made by the Goebels sign, the new plastic furniture, and their very gracious house mother, Mrs. Rhodes. We left, with the hope of returning soon.

Progressing up the hill, to the Phi Psi house, we picked up a straggler, remade our make-up, and picked up our nearly lost determination—no date yet. Finding the Phi Psi's especially appreciative of freshmen women, we stayed for tea. To all late comers, and no comers, we found Hernando's Hideaway, but no Hernando. Still no date, some members of the party lamenting their situation.

Reaching the top of the hill and the last house, but not least in "crazy" and unpremeditated quips—take note Donuts—we dug some of the charactures, which should be buried. Listened with belief to the notorious story of the Phi Gam pool, and were told we wouldn't like their puppy as much if we knew his social background.

General conclusion drawn from the day — good time, good guys, good school, we'll stay. Don't miss the coming teas, and frosh gals, keep plugging for those Sunday night dates, you're bound to get one soon.

College Field House Nearing Completion

Dedication of the new Allegheny College field house will take place Saturday, November 20.

The dedication committee, headed by Howard P. Way, chairman of the physical education department, consists of Mr. Philip Benjamin, Mr. Robert Murphy, Dr. Herbert Rhinesmith, Dr. Charles Miller, and Mr. Gustave Rylander, all of the college faculty, and Raymond P. Shafer, local district attorney and member of the class of 1938, representing Meadville. Students will be asked to serve on the dedication committee as the program develops.

With plans as yet incomplete, the program now consists of an all college convocation, with Mr. David F. Austin, executive vice-president of United States Steel, as main speaker. The community of Meadville, alumni, and friends of Allegheny in Northwestern Pennsylvania have been asked to participate.

Plans are also being made for a brief ceremony to precede the first basketball game of the season December 4 against Edinboro.

Debate on Red China

ognition as a basis for bargaining with Russia, rather than Communist China herself who has comparatively little to give the United States.

Dr. Knights took a definite stand on this issue, claiming that the United States made one of its greatest mistakes in refusing to recognize Communist China four years ago, and that we are now faced with a difficult problem which could have been avoided. If we do it now, he fears it will seem to be an "act of appeasement" on our part and we would lose international 'face' and weaken our international position.

The other questions to be answered are: "Would we eliminate our chance to utilize Chiang Kai Shek against Communist China and be forced to brand him an aggressor, and would we be asked to make good our pledge to give Formosa to China when the war of Japan was over by recognizing Communist China?"

Thus, although the problem was discussed and many angles evaluated, the basic question, "Should we extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist China government?" remains unsolved.

Tech Asks Aid In Planning Its New Athletic Facilities

Carnegie Institute of Technology, now planning a new athletic stadium, has asked Allegheny College for pictures and details concerning its athletic area on Park Avenue Extension.

Allegheny's athletic plant, with its deep-turf football field, stands and dressing rooms; the big league quality baseball diamond; the soccer field; football practice area and riding stables, is considered a model setup. The annual Tri-State Track and Field meet has become an Allegheny fixture, largely because of the wide, fast track and the excellent facilities for visiting teams.

Allegheny's playing fields occupy about 30 acres of a 124-acre tract northwest of the city. Also in the tract is an ornamental tree and shrub nursery for campus landscaping.

He has high hopes for a better showing in the home opener this Saturday against Hobart College. With enough support we might have a victory Saturday night.

After the game there will be a cider and doughnut party at the College Union. All are invited to attend.
