CENTENNIAL YEAR OPENS UNDER MOST FAVORABLE CIRCUMSTANCES

Representative Freshmen Class Registers—Few Losses in Ranks of Upper Classes—List of New Matriculates

The registration of new students is now about completed and the records show that up to the present time 117 have entered. Of this number fully 110 have matriculated as Freshmen. The three upper classes have all returned in full numbers, only about seven failing to re-enter this year. A number of old students have returned so that the total registration of the Senior, Junior and Sophomore classes will be about the same this year as last. The registration of the Freshmen is not as yet entirely completed and it is estimated that this class will number at least 115 before registration is closed. The class is as large and as representative as usual.

In this year's Freshman Class there are nine students who took honors from their respective high schools. They are as follows: Miss Eva J. English, of New Castle, Pa.; Gustaf E. Engstrom, of Kane, Pa.; Helen Fogo, of Wellsville, O.; Miss Ethyl Kelley, of Butler, Pa.; Paul W. Lane, of Turtle Creek, Pa.; Miss Anna McConnell, of Parnassus, Pa.; Robert McCreary, of Monaca, Pa.; Miss Marion F. Miller, of Butler, Pa., and Miss Anna Mintz, of Marienville, Pa.

The following is a list of new students and members of the Freshman class:

- L. Assid, Greenville.
- William D. Barcus, Pittsburgh.
- Edwin C. Baum, Franklin.
- Paul R. Bellows, Meadville.
- Bert Bianchi, Ambridge.
- Howard W. Bosworth, Corry.
- Douglas H. Brown, Meadville.
- Mark C. Brown, Pleasantville.
- Ruth Brumbaugh, Franklin.
- Clarence J. Bryer, Linesville.
- Wilmer P. Cain, Perry, O.
- Harold M. Carter, Harbor Creek.
- John G. Castle, Pittsburgh.
- Homer L. Castle, Jr., Pittsburgh.
- Byron Cline, Apollo.
- Camden M. Cobern, Meadville.
- Harry E. Coulson, Mars.
- Maude Copeland, Meadville.
- Cary K. Crandall, Brocton, N. Y.
- William A. Davies, Parnassus.
- Louise F. Deens, Beaver.
- Reed L. Detar, Kellettsville.
- Ralph S. Dewey, Ripley, N. Y.
- Alice Diamond, Meadville.
- Frances Dixon, Cokeville.
- Olive S. Dowdell, Beaver.
- Helen L. Downing, Meadville.
- Helen C. Easterwood, Meadville.
- Myrtle N. Elder, Saybrook.
- Eva J. English, New Castle.
- Esther L. Emery, Mercer.
- Gustaf E. Engstrom, Kane.
- Helen P. Fogo, Wellsville, O.
- Isabel Freer, Gallon, O.
- Annette Gartner, Meadville.
- Roland Gaston, Meadville.
- Carl Graham, Saegertown.
- Ruth F. Hammerton, Meadville.
- George M. Hartung, Evans City.
- John W. Hazen, Hartstown.
- James Heckman, Reynoldsville.
- William A. Hill, Benbush, W. Va.
- Erwin L. Holmes, Geneva, O.
- Jessie E. Howell, Buffalo, N. Y.
- William W. Hulín, Franklin.
- William J. Hutchison, Ambridge.
- James E. Isherwood, Canonsburg.
- Vesta Johnson, Meadville.
- Warren Jones, Kellettsville.

SUMMER ACTIVITIES OF FACULTY MEMBERS

Many Do Special Work—All Were Busy in Various Pursuits.

The faculty spent the past summer in various ways, several members working on different matters pertaining to the coming Centennial Celebration, and several others in travel.

Dr. Crawford spent the greater part of the summer with Mrs. Crawford in New York City, living in apartments overlooking the Hudson near Columbia University. President Crawford kept close watch on the progress of the One Hundredth Anniversary plans, particularly the part of it pertaining to the Conference of American Colleges, and overseeing the plans for the invitations and printing. He was in Meadville for a few days about every other week. He also superintended the plans for the erection of a new residence for his son, Professor J. R. Crawford, of the Columbia University faculty; the residence, in Palisades, New Jersey, being a gift to Professor and Mrs.

MEMBERS OF FACULTY RELATE EXPERIENCES

Dr. Akers, Professor Swartley and Miss Spalding Speak.

A rare treat, which was given to the student body on last Thursday morning at the first regular chapel service of the year, was in the form of three highly interesting addresses. President Crawford secured Dr. O. P. Akers, head of the department of Mathematics; Professor S. S. Swartley, assistant professor of English, and Miss Alice H. Spalding, dean of women, all of whom have but recently returned from abroad, to speak of their many experiences while traveling in Europe and while attempting to leave foreign countries on account of the great war which is in progress there. All of the talks were entertaining in the extreme as was shown by the repeated applause with which the many anecdotes given were received.

Dr. Akers gave a very interesting outline of his trip abroad before he took up his experiences during the war. As sketched by him, his travels were briefly as follows: His party landed on the ninth of August, 1913, at Queenstown, Ireland. Cork was their first stop. From here they took the trip by auto through the famous Killarney region and the Gap of Dunlow to Dublin; thence from Dublin to Belfast, from where they sailed for Scotland. After taking in all of the points of interest about Glasgow and Edinburgh, they set out for New Castle, whence they took a steamship for Norway. The line of their journey led them south through Sweden and Denmark to Germany. There they spent several weeks visiting all of the most important cities of that country. They took the beautiful trip up the Rhine.

At Goettingen Dr. Akers entered the university, which is considered to be the foremost school of Mathematics in the world. Here Dr. Akers spent the greater part of a year until he left to continue his travels through the southern part of Germany, Austria, and so to Italy and Rome. The return to London was made through Switzerland, Holland, Belgium, and France. On the twenty-ninth day of last July they set sail from Southampton for home. It was not until that day that they really had authentic news of the struggle which was so soon to begin. That morning the papers first printed Austria's declaration of war against Serbia which was the first step toward the great war which is now on. Dr. Akers stated that on board ship there was nothing alarming which might serve to indicate anything out of the ordinary. Wireless messages were received telling of the further developments in the war but these were not believed. On the last two or three nights of the voyage, however, the captain of the vessel ordered all lights out and full speed ahead and this was really the first corroboration of the war scare which they had had. At last on Tuesday evening with a feeling of the deepest thankfulness the voyagers saw their ship steam into New York harbor where the next day they disembarked.

Professor Swartley began the tale of his experiences with his arrival in Holland from London two months ago. Leaving Holland his party journeyed to Switzerland. On the way they saw several indications of great and unusual excitement but did not construe them as pointing to any such thing as war. In Zurich they first learned that war had been really declared, for a large number of Germans in that city had been ordered home to enter the army. The next morning they set out for London but were able to get only as far as Interlachen where they were forced by stoppage of funds and the lack of adequate train service to stay for two weeks without any news at all from the outside. While they were held

FOOTBALL PROSPECTS

Coaches Hammett and Fitzpatrick Are Getting Team in Shape.

Allegheny this year will probably have the best football team that she has ever had. Perhaps that sounds overly optimistic and rather boastful, but certainly all indications at the present time point in that direction. With eight of last year's 'varsity men back, plenty of good new material in the Freshman class, the same coach and same system, and a star assistant coach it is hardly possible to foresee anything but a most successful season for Allegheny on the gridiron.

Hardly two weeks of practice have passed and yet all of the men are handling the ball, tackling and working together as if they had been playing two months. Every night at least thirty-five men present themselves for practice and all of them have had at least some slight experience in the game. The result is that Assistant Coach Fitzpatrick has been able to develop a second team that will give the 'varsity the best kind of practice.

All of last year's 'varsity back-field are back and hard at work and the prospect is that they will be able to repeat their splendid feat of last year. Captain Munhall, '16, at full ought to have a fine year, and his line-bucking is sure to gain much ground for the Gold and Blue. At present the two most promising candidates for half-backs are Metcalf, '15, and Arnold, '16, who both earned their letters at that position last year. Metcalf excels in end runs where his speed plays an important part. Arnold's best work is done in an open field as he is unusually clever in dodging and knocking off tacklers. At quarter there is sure to be a battle royal between Cox, '16, and Ricker, '15. Both are good men and are sure of places on the team although one may play at half. The other candidates for back-field positions who thus far have shown most promise are Bash, '16, and Samson, '18, at full and Scannell, '18, and Miller, '17, at half.

The line is not so fortunate in having so many of last year's men. The three men who were lost through graduation all had regular places on the line and now that Gilbert, '15, is not expecting to play, there are four vacancies. Allshouse, '15, who played regularly at guard last year, has been moved over to fill the one vacancy at center and the little experience which he had at that position last year in Gilbert's absence is sure to be of great use to him. Already Allshouse has become accustomed to his new place and is putting up a fine game. Baker, '15, who played the other guard position last year, has been put in at tackle. His work there speaks for itself. Brooks, '15, and Emery, '17, are at present at guards and are working well together. There is much competition for the vacancy at tackle but of all the candidates for that position Kramer, '16, and Kinney, '18, look best. Pierson, '16, looks like a certainty for his old place at end, but for the other end there are a number of applicants of which Scannell, '18, looks strongest. Townsend, '15, who played 'varsity end for three years is back in school this year but is at present kept from playing on account of faculty action; should these conditions be arranged he is sure to give some one a hard fight for his old place. Another promising candidate for end is Askey, '17.

Manager Shaner has announced the schedule as follows:

- Oct. 3—Geneva at Beaver Falls.
- Oct. 10—Open.
- Oct. 17—University of Akron at Akron.
- Oct. 24—University of Rochester at Rochester.
- Oct. 31—Hiram at Meadville.
- Nov. 7—Open.
- Nov. 14—Duquesne University at Meadville.
- Nov. 21—Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh.
- Nov. 26—Grove City at Meadville.

NEW INSTRUCTORS

ADDED TO FACULTY

Several Important Changes in Teaching Force This Year.

The opening of college finds several changes on the faculty for the year. Seven of last year's teachers are to be absent from the college this year, two on sabbatic leave of absence and one by special arrangement to do special work, and their places will be filled by five new professors and three former members of the faculty who return after a year's absence from their work.

Of the new men on the faculty two are in the department of English Bible and Philosophy. Dr. Frederick G. Henke, acting professor of Philosophy, received his bachelor's degree at Charles City College, Iowa. He did graduate study at Northwestern University in 1907-8, receiving his master's degree there in 1908. In 1910 he received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, cum laude, from the University of Chicago, doing special work in Philosophy and Psychology, and comes very highly recommended by the university where he did his graduate work, as a student and an experienced teacher. Last year Dr. Henke taught in the University of Montana.

Dr. W. H. Wood, of Toronto, acting professor of English Bible, received first honors in Hebrew Philosophy at the Yale Divinity School where he received his B. D. degree, cum laude, in 1905. In 1906-7 he studied in the American School of Archaeology in Palestine. The next year he studied in the Universities of Goettingen and Berlin, specializing in philosophical subjects. In 1909 he received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Yale. He is an experienced teacher and a thorough biblical scholar. The college feels itself to be very fortunate in obtaining the services of these two men in this department.

The department of Political Science and Economics, under the History department, is in charge of Dr. W. C. Heffener. Dr. Heffener has been at Washington and Jefferson College for a period of three years teaching in the same department and has made a very special study of his subject, being an author of several books on Economics, and a careful student of the field as a whole.

Mr. Heffener took his A.B. degree at Gettysburg College and received his master's degree from the same institution. He took his Ph. D. degree at the University of Pennsylvania. The past year he has been teaching Political Science and Economics in the Municipal University of Toledo, O., and comes to Allegheny from Toledo.

The French department is under the direction of Professor Robert C. Ward, acting professor of French. Mr. Ward graduated at Colgate in 1906 and received his master's degree from his alma mater in 1910. He taught in the Kiskiminetas Springs School at Saltsburg, Pa., in 1906-08, and was instructor in French at Colgate, 1908-10, while working for his master's degree. In 1911 he taught in the preparatory school at Stamford, Conn., and for the past three years has been engaged in teaching French in the Ir-

SEPTEMBER 29, 1914.

The momentous advance in Allegheny last year, inaugurating the Honor System in examinations, places most responsible additional duties upon the Senior, Junior and Sophomore class presidents, they being made members of The Council of Administration. In the elections this week of these leaders, the friends and advocates of the Honor System will be alert doubtless to demand that the candidates for the high offices be men of sound scholarship, strong character, excellent judgment and in active sympathy with this new program of the Centennial Year of the college.

It is hard to realize that we have already entered upon the hundredth year of our college's history. For a long time we have been looking forward to the events of this great year and have been keying our expectation to the highest pitch. Shall this year be all that we expect of it, or shall it be disappointing as others have been that seemed so rich in promise at their beginning? The answer to this question depends altogether upon the attitude that we shall take individually toward this great year. We shall get out of it what we put into it. The enjoyment, profit, and inspiration we shall receive will be in proportion to the zeal we exhibit in our studies, to our devotion to duty, and to our loyalty to the best interests of our college at all times. If we want to approach the festivities at the end of the year with that ease of mind and that quiet of conscience which come only from tasks well performed, we must make up our minds to be about our business right away and we must take ourselves and our work seriously all the time. While we are striving to make this year in all respects the greatest in the history of the college, we must all work together to this great end. We must realize that the responsibility for the success of this year does not alone rest upon those who have charge of the celebration, or upon the members of the upper classes, but upon each member of the student body.

What is meant by loyalty to college publications? It does not mean reading your neighbor's paper and forgetting Publications. that such a thing as a college publication exists; it means getting behind and boosting for a better college journalism by contributing both your time and your money—your time by writing for one of our several college papers and your money by subscribing for all of them. As the years go on, it is increasingly difficult to uphold the standard of college publications. This is due largely to lack of financial support on the part of the students themselves. In fact, in many institutions a budget system has been adopted which calls for the financial support of college journals from every member of the student body. This would probably not meet with favor in Allegheny. It is, however, a matter well worth considering.

Appeals to the students for the support of athletics in Allegheny are now a thing of the past since the athletic fee has become a part of the tuition, but there are other activities which need the support of everyone and should have it.

The Campus would like to voice the joy of all students over the safe return of our faculty members who have Welcomed Home. spent their sabbatic leave of absence in study and travel in European countries. We are glad that they have made their escape from the horrors of war with no further harm than the annoyances and thrilling experiences which they recorded in chapel. We welcome all the new members of our faculty in the name of the students and wish them a happy and successful year in our midst.

CLASS FIGHT

Freshmen and Sophomores Engage in Annual Midnight Melee.

(A Sophomore Account.)

The first clash between the Freshman and Sophomore classes occurred last Wednesday night. The result was an unusually overwhelming victory for the older class. The Freshman started out well by capturing the 1917 posters before they were delivered. Their joy was of course unbounded and great as each Freshman's triumph at the thought that no posters would appear that night. The triumph was short-lived, however, as they learned later that another set of posters had already been completed. At about twelve o'clock a body of Freshmen, consisting, according to a Freshman estimate, of about forty-five men, attempted to capture these posters. The attempt was unsuccessful.

At twelve-thirty this same body of Freshmen encountered some fourteen Sophomores down town. After considerable discussion they finally charged down the street. The Sophs lined up in a narrow street and prepared to receive the onslaught which they knew could mean nothing but defeat for them. The younger classmen, however, instead of closing with them, stopped and formed into several ranks, and made elaborate arrangements for the rush. The menacing attitude of the little band of Sophomores, however, must have caused severe chills in the lower extremities of the new men, for deciding that prudence was the better part of courage they marched away without a single hostile move.

The Sophomores proceeded up the hill and disappeared from sight. The 1918 men, reviving their desire to get at their rivals, began to search the campus. Failing to find anything more startling than the trees, they tired of the work and went back to bed.

At four-thirty the Sophomores were engaged in decorating the campus with their posters. Quite an area had been covered before the Freshman awoke to the fact that their long search had at last resulted in the discovery of their opponents.

Ten or twelve Freshmen appeared but at the sight of the Sophs, made a splendid hundred yard dash across the campus to the door of Cochran.

A few minutes later, reinforced by their classmates, they again appeared. Charging across the campus they met the 1917 men, who, now nearly equaling the Freshmen in numbers, waited in the shadow of Bentley.

The charge ended abruptly when the Freshmen vainly endeavored to make out the exact numbers of the Sophs in the darkness. In spite of the taunts and challenges of the older class they decided not to attack. Instead they lined up under the arc light in front of Bentley. The Sophomores who had continued putting up their posters waited until all of that section of the campus had been covered and then took the initiative themselves. Within a few minutes a long line of Freshmen, bound hand and foot and rather the worse for wear, were lying on the bank under the guard of the other class.

During the next half hour the captives performed under the direction of the Sophomores, giving cheers for their captors and applauding the work of the class of 1917, until the Sophs, tiring of the amusement, allowed them to go to their dormitories.

SELF-GOVERNMENT INSTITUTED IN MEN'S DORMITORIES

In view of the success of student-control at many colleges, the committee in charge of the men's dormitories decided to institute the system of self-government in the dormitories this year. With this object in view, a meeting was called on the opening day of the term by Professor E. A. Smith, chairman of the committee.

W. J. Hutchison, '18, was given charge of the meeting and a motion was made by Professor Smith to place the government of the building in the hands of the students. The motion was passed by a unanimous vote and a committee of five was elected to draw up rules concerning conduct in the Hall. W. J. Hutchison, '18, H. W. Bosworth, '18, Homer Castle, '18, H. M. Wiltsie, '18, and H. G. Samson, '18, were elected to serve on the committee and in a meeting held on Thursday evening they drew up the following rules:

"First: Students shall not enter other students' rooms while owner is absent unless by the owner's permission.

"Second: Students not conducting themselves like gentlemen while in the Hall shall be subject to reprimand and, if it seems best, shall be called to appear before the committee.

"Third: The committee shall have power to enforce all the general college rules in Cochran Hall and in particular the rule that quiet shall be observed in the Hall from 7:30 to 9:00.

"From time to time the committee shall amend and add to these rules as it sees fit."

In the same manner a meeting of the men of Arter House was held Wednesday evening and E. H. Middleton, '18, J. E. Isherwood, '18, R. E. McCreary, '18, R. E. Detar, '18, and W. A. Davies, '18, were elected as Government Committee of Arter House. Rules similar to those of Cochran Hall were drafted and all the students were pledged to obey them.

ALUMNI NOTES.

The marriage of Miss Lucy E. Loane, '11, and Mr. C. O. Wolfe, ex-'10, of Bucknell University, occurred at Oil City on September 12, 1914. Miss Loane is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority and Mr. Wolfe is a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Miss Mary Sansom, '14, was married on June 30, to the Rev. Clark Jones, '07, at Clarion, Pa. They took up their residence in Cleveland, O., where Mr. Jones is pastor of Franklin Avenue Church. The bride is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta and Mr. Jones is a member of Phi Delta Theta.

The following notice clipped from the Pittsburgh Dispatch of September 9th will be of interest to readers: "Miss Mary Stuart Sowash and the Rev. Willard Finley Maxwell, of Oil City, Pa., were married yesterday morning at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Sowash, of Irwin, Pa. The Rev. Samuel Blacker of the First Presbyterian church, Irwin, officiated. The bride was attended by Miss Margaret Lorimer, of Circleville, and the best man was W. Stanley Smith, of Warren, O. Mrs. B. M. McWilliams, of Irwin, played the wedding music. After an Eastern trip, the couple will be at home in Winchester, Mass. The bride and bridegroom were members of Allegheny College, Meadville, class of '12, the latter graduating from the Boston School of Theology. The Rev. Mr. Maxwell is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity and the bride of Kappa Kappa Gamma."

Invitations have been received in Meadville by friends announcing the marriage of Miss Josette Hilda Beebe, '08, of Nanking, China, and Mr. Herbet E. Dennis, of Foochow, China, to have taken place September 22, 1914, in Nanking. Miss Beebe was a member of Theta Sigma, now Alpha Gamma Delta, while in college, and after her graduation taught in the Allegheny Preparatory School and later in Hiram College. She left this country in the summer of 1912 to join her father, Dr. Robert Beebe, who has charge of missionary work in China.

The girls of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority enjoyed a dinner in their rooms last Saturday evening.

Crawford, from President and Mrs. Crawford.

Dr. Elliott spent part of the summer in Michigan and Ohio, visiting with friends, and was also active in the temperance campaign in Erie and Crawford counties and in the work of the Civic Reform League.

Dr. Smith spent the entire summer working on the new Allegheny College history which is to be published at the time of the Centennial. He was in the East and did considerable work collecting information for the book in Columbia University, University of Pennsylvania, New York City, and Pittsburgh libraries. He also visited a great many older alumni of the college and collected from them their reminiscences of college life, which are to be woven into the history of the college.

Professor Ross acted as summer registrar at the college and spent the summer in the country at "Sunny Lodge," about two miles from Meadville, where he worked on the new register of Allegheny alumni and ex-students.

Dr. Lockwood spent the entire summer with headquarters at Meadville campaigning in Erie and Crawford counties for his election as congressman from this district next November. He spent one week of the summer on a Chautauqua platform in Attica, Ind., lecturing on Shakespeare.

Dr. Ling was in Meadville the entire summer.

Dr. Lee was in Meadville during the summer except for a trip he and Mrs. Lee make through the Middle West, where Dr. Lee visited a number of the western colleges and universities.

Dr. Mullinger was away from Meadville for about ten weeks, part of which was spent doing research work in the library of the University of Chicago on a book which he is expecting to publish soon. The rest of the summer he spent in the Rocky Mountains near Denver, Col.

Professor Trickey spent the summer in work in the Chemistry laboratory of the college.

Dr. Darling was in Meadville the entire summer.

Coach Hammett spent a part of the summer camping near Meadville with his sons and visited for a short time in Baltimore with relatives.

Dr. Coburn is to be absent from the college this year traveling as a member of the World's Bible Conference party which is to give a lecture and Bible study course of a week in twenty of the largest American cities. The party is made up of representatives from America, England and Canada. Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, pastor of a London church, the largest in England; Dr. F. B. Meyer, of London, the greatest devotional writer and Bible expositor in the world; John McNeil, of Toronto, who had charge of the devotional meeting at the World's Fair in Chicago, and two others besides Dr. Coburn complete the party. The Conference is at either Cleveland, Buffalo or Toronto.

Dr. Snively left the middle of July with Mrs. Snively and their three sons to spend his sabbatic year in study in Paris. They were in Paris only a week when the European war broke out and they were compelled to leave, reaching America with very great difficulty. Dr. Snively plans now to spend the year in study in Columbia University and Mrs. Snively and the boys will go to Mrs. Snively's home in Baltimore.

Dr. Russell is teaching in Whitman College at Walla Walla, Wash., where he is head of the department of Political Science.

Though nothing definite has been heard in Meadville, it is generally believed from reports that Professor Dambac has returned to France and enlisted in the French army where he had attained the rank of captain before he came to this country.

Miss Sabra Vought, who was librarian last year, spent the summer conducting a library school in a Chautauqua at Salt Lake City, Utah, and also as head of the library summer school at Chautauqua, N. Y. She plans to spend this year at her home in Jamestown, N. Y.

W. H. Fegely, '14, of last year's class, and in charge of the classes in Chemistry laboratories, will have charge of the same work again this year.

ALLEGHENY BANQUET AT CHAUTAUQUA

The fourth annual Allegheny Banquet, held during the summer season at Chautauqua, was celebrated this year on Tuesday evening, August 18, in the tea rooms of the Colonnade on the Assembly Grounds. Prof. C. F. Ross, '91, acted as toastmaster and called for the following toasts: Signal Fires—C. W. Gill, '07.

The Old First Night Gift—Miss Dorothea Abrams, '15.

The One Hundredth Anniversary—W. J. Armstrong, Jr., '16.

Westminster Calmes—Miss Sabra Vought, '99.

Miss Alice Chapin, '15, was called on for an extemporaneous toast. There were about forty alumni and students of Allegheny in attendance.

W. L. Kulp, '11, is teaching in the Chemistry department of the Michigan Agriculture College.

Hulings Hall

Miss Rachel Cleveland, '17, is teaching in Erie this year.

Miss Martina Rowe, '17, is teaching at Monroeville this year.

Miss Anna Strong, '16, has returned to college after a year's absence.

Miss Mary Hoffman, '16, is teaching at Spartansburg this year.

Miss Emma Waring, '16, of Mansfield, O., has returned to school after teaching last year.

The members of the Y. W. C. A. held a very delightful reception for Freshman girls yesterday evening, in the Y. W. C. A. rooms, in Hulings Hall. The evening was spent in music and conversation and light refreshments were served.

The first meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held on Sunday evening. The leader, Miss Marie Howell, '15, gave a very cordial welcome to the new and old girls and gave a very interesting talk on the interest of the Y. W. C. A. in college life. A special feature of the meeting was a solo by Miss Bessie Preston, '17.

The girls not returning to school this year are the Misses Faye Neale, '16, of Reynoldsville; Mary Hoffman, '16, of Sheffield; Rachel Cleveland, '17, of Erie; Martina Rowe, '17, of Turtle Creek; Marian Whipple, '16, of Oil City; Alva Putney, '16, of Beloit, Wis.; Grace Ebenhoch, '17, of Belle Vernon, and Anna McKenna, '16, of Kane.

A small fire broke out in Arter House Sunday morning about 10:30 o'clock and an alarm was turned in bringing the city fire department to the hill. The paper in the second story bath room caught fire from a lighted fixture that had been burning all night and communicated to the lath on the wall and ceiling. The blaze was extinguished by the occupants of the dormitory before the department arrived.

Miss Frances Norton, '13, is remaining at her home in Sherman, N. Y.

MEMBERS OF FACULTY RELATE EXPERIENCES.

at Interlachen waiting for a favorable opportunity to proceed to London, the mobilization of the Swiss army was under way. Professor Swartley had only the highest words of commendation for the Swiss people for their kindness to those stranded by the war. Although they themselves faced great danger of starvation later, these kind people generously gave of what they had to help those less fortunate. At last after two weeks of delay in Interlachen, opportunity came for them to set out for London. As it was impossible to return to London by the usual route—Germany and Belgium—it was necessary to journey through France. The trip to Paris was made by railroad amid the greatest hardships. They had little food on hand and had to put up with being rigidly searched repeatedly. From Paris they set out for London and arrived there on the twenty-first of August. Their voyage home was made on board a Cunard liner and their course was far out of usual lines of travel in order that they might avoid all other vessels. The boat docked at Montreal and Professor and Mrs. Swartley reached home by rail.

Miss Spalding was touring the countries about the Mediterranean when indications first pointed to war. She had traveled west from Constantinople through Italy and had reached Paris when on August first the war was declared. Foreigners were given three days in which to leave the city as the French government planned to appropriate the use of the trains thereafter for the movement of troops. Miss Spalding found it impossible to get passage on a train from the city in that time and as she did not have to sail until September fifth, she decided to stay over in Paris. After a great deal of difficulty the proper permission was obtained. The mobilization of troops was going on at the time and there was intense excitement in the city. Immediately after the troops had left, however, all tenseness in the atmosphere disappeared and the city became calm and serene. The government immediately declared martial law and pronounced the city in a state of siege. Immediately prices began to soar but the government took the matter in hand and by quick dealing brought the cost of food back to normal. Miss Spalding was in Paris until the twenty-seventh of August, when she was forced to leave in order to take passage for America. When she reached London, Miss Spalding decided to give up the passage which she had engaged and instead came over on the American steamer, "Philadelphia."

At the close of the address Dr. Crawford spoke of Dr. and Mrs. Snavely and family, who left early in the summer to spend a year in France, but were forced to return to this country. Dr. Snavely is now located in Columbia University, where he is doing graduate work in the Teachers' College.

NEW INSTRUCTORS ADDED TO FACULTY.

ving School at Tarrytown, N. Y., with a summer of study in Paris in 1912. Mr. Ward comes to Allegheny as an experienced teacher in his work and a capable French scholar.

Professor Robert O. Conant, of Keene, N. H., instructor in French, graduated with the degree of A. B. from Dartmouth in 1913, and spent the last year doing graduate work in the Romance Language department of Yale. He has specialized in French throughout his high school and college courses.

Professor Daniel H. G. Matthaei is the new instructor in German. He is a Texan by birth and attended German-Wallace, now Baldwin-Wallace College, where he graduated in 1911. He was interested in debate and public speaking and did graduate work in Baldwin-Wallace and later in the summer course of the University of Chicago. He was instructor in German in the Toledo public schools from 1911-4 and was especially active in work among the boys in ward school athletics. He is a friend of John Gunkel, the "newsboys' friend," and has done special work with Mr. Gunkel in newsboys' meetings and the Y. M. C. A. He was prominent in the Toledo Teachers' Association.

Dr. O. P. Akers returns to the head of the department of Mathematics after his sabbatic year of absence spent in Europe traveling, and studying in the University of Goettingen.

Professor Stanley S. Swartley has returned to the English department after a year of absence spent at the University of Pennsylvania studying for his degree, Doctor of Philosophy. During the past summer Professor and Mrs. Swartley traveled in Europe, being caught in Switzerland at the outbreak of the present war and returning to America with difficulty just before the opening of the college year.

Miss Edith Rowley returns to her former position of librarian after a year spent in travel on the European and African continents. Miss Rowley left America last November and traveled through England, Germany, Belgium, Holland, France, Switzerland, Italy, Egypt, Syria, Turkey, Bulgaria and Greece, sailing from Batras, in Greece, and reaching New York the fourth of last June. The past summer she spent in the Adirondacks.

LOCAL FRATERNITY AWARDED CUP

The Phi Gamma Delta chapter house on North Main street was the scene of a small but rather unique gathering last Saturday evening when the chapter was presented with the Cheney Efficiency Cup, won by them by their work during the past year. The cup was offered in the summer of 1913 by O. H. Cheney, the national president of the fraternity, to be awarded at the end of each college year to the one of the fifty-nine chapters of Phi Gamma Delta, considered by the board of judges to have attained the highest grade in efficiency in the work of the chapter and the management of its affairs.

This efficiency was to be based on three things: Scholarship, which counted for fifty per cent of the whole; activities of the chapter in college affairs, twenty-five per cent, and relations of the chapter to the fraternity, twenty-five per cent. At a meeting of the governing council of the fraternity in Pittsburgh, in July, it was decided that Pi chapter at Allegheny was nearest the standards set by the president for the attainment of the cup.

Mr. C. C. Chambers, of Pittsburgh, national field secretary, made the presentation. Mr. Chambers spent Sunday and part of Monday in Meadville, the guest of the local chapter, this being his first visit to Meadville.

The cup remains with the Allegheny chapter for the year when it will again be awarded to the chapter attaining the highest efficiency this college year.

On Saturday, October 3, the Freshman and Sophomore girls will meet in Hulings gymnasium for their first real contest, which will be in the form of a track meet.
