Phi Beta Kappa Announces Election Of 13 Seniors Marking Biggest Class

by Bob Silberfarb

The Eta Pennsylvania Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa announced this week its election of thirteen Allegheny seniors to be initiated into the honorary fraternity on June 8 of this year. Those to be initiated are Douglas Bedell, Arthur Blank, Ross Boyle, Marilyn Brewster Lauffer, Gerald Galbo, Joan Keller, Elroy Nieweg, Hironori Onishi, Thomas St. Clair, Max Schoenfeld, Darel Straub, Robert Westlake and Robert Zahniser.

In addition to these newly elected members are five members who were elected in their junior year and initiated last December, bringing the total number elected from the graduating class of 1957 to 18, one of the largest for a given class since 1901, when the chapter was first organized at Allegheny.

The five elected at the end of their junior year were Jack Cotton, Alex Hill, Trudy Bauer, Bob Meredith and Ruth Ann Peterson.

In order to be considered for membership in Phi Beta Kappa, a student must have at least an 87 average in his courses at the end of seven semesters. A student may also be considered for membership at the end of 6 semesters provided that his scholastic average is 90 per cent or better. Although scholarship is a paramount factor in considering members, character is stressed too. Great emphasis is placed on liberal arts courses and not only those in the field of specialization.

Doug Bedell is a history major from Bellerose, New York. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta Fraternity and was recently appointed Chairman of the Publication Board. Doug lends his journalistic talents to the Erie Morning News and the Public Relations Office, and has also written for The Campus.

In addition to his being AUC President, Art Blank, of Oil City, was elected to Who's Who Among Students In Colleges And Universities. Art, a pre-med, is a member of the New Group and was a student counselor.

Ross Boyle, of Titusville, is a mathematics major. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity, and was treasurer for the group. He is also a member of Block A. As an Advanced ROTC cadet, he must serve in the United States Air Force prior to embarking upon his career.

Marilyn Brewster, now Mrs. Jim Lauffer, is from Columbus, Ohio. She was a psychology major here, and completed her work here in February. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority, and was elected to Pi Gamma Mu, national social science honor sorority.

Gerald Galbo, of Erie, is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity. A veteran of the Korean conflict, Galbo has utilized his English major in relation to the Literary Magazine, of which he is editor. He has also lettered in track and is a member of Block A.

Joan Keller, a psychology major, is from Hartsdale, New York. An Independent, Joan served on the social science honor fraternity.

Elroy Nieweg, also an Independent, is a resident of Meadville. He has utilized his international studies major as he was president of the International Relations Club.

Completing his college course in three years, Hironori (Tako) Onishi, of Kyoto, Japan, is the first foreign student in the history of Allegheny College to be elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Tako's fields of concentration lie in the realm of mathematics and physics.

An economics major from Northeast, Pa., Tom St. Clair is president of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, and was president of the Interfraternity Council. He, too, was a choice for membership in Who's Who Among Students in Colleges And Universities.

History major Max Schoenfeld, of Erie, is a member of the New Group. A student counselor residing in Baldwin last year, Max is presently Chairman of the Academic Committee, an AUC function.

Darel Straub, of Titusville, is a chemistry major, and a member of the Independent group on campus and Chemii.

Pre-med Bob Westlake is a resident of Havertown, Pa., and is a member of the New Group. Bob is a student counselor and is Chairman of both the Foreign Students Committee and the Human Relations Sub-commission.

Bob Zahniser, an English major, is from Sharpsville. A member of Alpha Chi Rho Fraternity, Bob is also a member of Pi Gamma Mu, national social science honor fraternity. He served on the band, Sinfonietta and Senior Cabinet.

Bauer Wins Fulbright

Trudy Bauer, a senior from Meadville, has been awarded a Fulbright Scholarship for study in Austria. Trudy is the first Allegheny student to receive a Fulbright award while still an undergraduate.

The scholarship amounting to approximately $2,000 will provide for Trudy's transportation, tuition, books, incidentals and living expenses. Trudy was also awarded the Milton Jackson Beaty Scholarship for graduate study in international relations.

Trudy, though a history major, is a political science minor and has had an accelerated background in languages. Dr. Merrick, Fulbright Advisor, stated that Trudy's foundation in political science and languages was an assist to her receiving the scholarship.

She will spend next year studying at the University of Vienna. Trudy's language experience will be utilized for her courses will be conducted in German.

Allegheny May Join Presidents' Conference

President Pelletier revealed this week that he has been negotiating with other area college presidents to determine if Allegheny shall join a Presidents' Athletic Conference. The purpose of the program, according to Dr. Pelletier is "to schedule schools with comparable athletic programs." The member schools would also exchange information on scholarships.

At present there is an area Presidents' Conference including Case, John Carrol, Wayne and Western Reserve colleges. Suggested additions include Allegheny, Bethany and Washington and Jefferson colleges. Allegheny currently plays Bethany, Case and Washington and Jefferson colleges.

Wayne University is in Detroit, but Dr. Pelletier feels that with the new highways it will be no harder to travel there than to Dickinson College, which we presently play.

Dr. Pelletier stated that negotiations will be continued as soon as it is possible for all the college presidents involved to meet.

Smock Winner Of Wakefield Award Shea, Malte Second, Third Recipients

Marge Smock was the recipient of the $25 first prize given at the Wakefield Oratorical Contest held March 15 in Quigley Auditorium.

The topic of Marge's speech was "Til Death Do Us Part", in which the main points covered were that marriage is a package deal, marriage is for keeps and marriage is hard. She discussed the influence of love comics and popular songs on the ideas young people have about marriage and expressed the idea that marriage is not a white cottage with red roses growing around it.

Second prize was won by Jack Shea whose topic was "The Inequality of Man." Ruth Malte's speech, "Case Against Tolerance", took third prize. Other participants in the contest were Mason Cady, Fred Quinn and Dick Smith, each of whom spoke on a topic of his own choosing.

Mr. James F. Day, assistant professor of philosophy and religion; Mr. Richard J. Ruhlman, assistant alumni secretary; and Major Thomas Wynne, professor of air science, judged the speeches on depth and originality of thought, clarity of language, word choice, effectiveness of delivery and adaptation to audience.

This contest is conducted annually and the winner of it usually attends the State Speaking Contest, however, Marge will not be able to participate in the contest due to her role in "Anastasia" which will be playing the same weekend. Marge was the winner of last year's state contest.

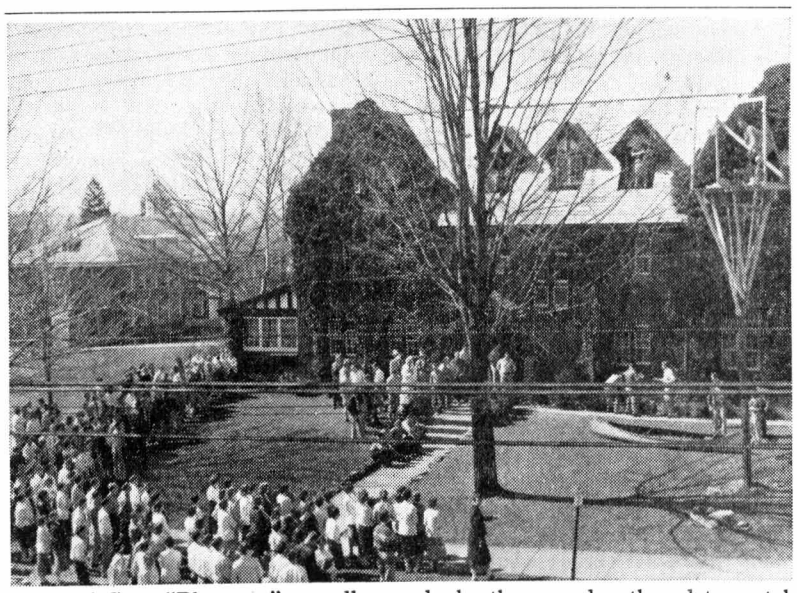

Phi Gam Phantom Goes "Up, Up, And Awaayy"

by Anne Robison

Up, up, up he climbed—up to his lofty perch. The gazing crowd, consisting of so-called dignitaries of state and officials of distant countries, watched him climb higher and higher. What a feat! Could he really do it? He possessed all the necessary equipment; a radio, an electric heater, cards, books, and a raincoat. He was well-prepared against dangerous attacks with his bucket of water-filled balloons. He should succeed. But what about the weather? A strong gust of wind could mean disaster. No, the tarpaulin cover and the rope would prevent that. All pointed toward success.

Up, up, up he went—higher and higher. Would he be cut off from society? No, that obstacle had also been overcome. He had a telephone and a public address system. Besides, his society was not so cruel as not to entertain him with concerts, visits from brothers-in-the-bond, and refreshments from well-wishers. He had everything to make his mission a success; and as the officially-clad reached his destination, he seemed to display utter confidence.

Such was the scene as Jim Newton, Allegheny's "Phantom," climbed atop the Phi Gamma Delta flagpole last Thursday. He was to stay in the little shack erected there as long as persons contributed $2 an hour. Jim spent some 50 hours aloft, for which the Phi Gams received nearly $103. After expenses were deducted, this Phi Gam stunt had approximately $76 to turn over to Allegheny's 1957 Fund Drive.

Tough Questions and Tougher Answers

Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity will not present its Burlesque Show for the Fund Drive this year. By now, all of us on campus know this. What is behind this, only a few people know. What the significance is, perhaps no one is capable of knowing, but we have some thoughts on the matter.

Some background information must first be briefly sketched. The Phi Gam Burlesque Show is a tradition here, and just as traditionally, a good-sized minority has complained of the show while most of the college has swarmed into the theater to pack each performance.

When, over a period of years, the student body took no action in response to the complaints lodged, the administration did. Two years ago the Phi Gams were told, basically, to "clean up" the show and stop the drinking which accompanied it. They were told the same thing last year. When, after last year's show, the reactions to the show were just as numerous and violent as before, the administration told the Phi Gams they could not have a Burlesque this year without some serious changes.

The Phi Gams went ahead and rehearsed and then appeared before AUC last week where they received "a vote of confidence" to present the show.

Shortly afterwards, the Phi Gams were told by the administration that they would have to meet certain requirements which amounted to the removal from the show of intense personal attacks, outright vulgarity, the continued repetition of particularly coarse words and phrases, and the drinking which the administration felt accompanied each performance.

In addition, the Phi Gams were informed that a faculty member would be present at each performance, empowered to stop the show if he felt it passed the bounds of decency. If this action was necessary, the Phi Gams would then have to face "appropriate administration punishment"—probably probation.

In the light of these limitations, the Phi Gams decided not to hold the Burlesque Show.

This, very briefly, is the context in which the situation must be viewed. Several things are clear to us.

Although it is true that in the past the administration has waited—in vain—for the student government to consider the complaints lodged against the show (even to the extent of deciding they came from a lunatic fringe of prudes) before taking action, this does not excuse the present administration action. When AUC gave the Phi Gams a vote of confidence, it was naturally meant to be in agreement with AUC's policies and goals. However, since AUC has never defined its policies and goals, the vote can only be taken to mean that the students at Allegheny said, "Continue as you have been doing".

To the administration we say that we have worked too hard and too long to achieve what student freedom we do have to accept your action, which in effect overrules the student government, without serious objection. We are still learning how to use our freedom wisely; it isn't easy. For you to press such action would put both the administration and the student body a long way back towards a condition neither of us want. We have turned our backs on administrative paternalism; together we have come this far and together we must go still further.

To say these things to the administration is not to deny that we the students have some questions to answer.

To the Phi Gams we might ask if you are certain that you have not let smut replace satire, coarseness replace comedy, or brutishness, burlesque? Do you believe that the complaints made against your show come only from prudes? It is true that drinking and your show are necessarily synonomous? Are you willing to have the College and your Fraternity judged on the basis of the Burlesque Show?

The student government must stand up and answer too. When the Phi Gams came to you for a vote of confidence, why did you make no inquiry into the necessity of such a vote? Was a vote of confidence a means of ducking an issue you knew existed? Why have you not tried to reconcile the minority opposed to the Burlesque Show with the majority that attends? If you plead ignorance of such complaints, that is no longer valid. What do you plan to do now? Is it too close to elections to handle such a problem? Are you going to force the administration to act because you don't?

By far the hardest questions to answer are those directed to each of us in the student body. This is a real honor system test: we can not look at someone else's paper and we must grade our own answers. When we go to the Burlesque Show are we entirely comfortable? When we stay away, are we afraid of going? Would we invite our parents to go with us? Do we go to seek release from the tight corsets we wear in public?

So much for the present situation. Where do we go from here?

We would first of all like to see everyone calm down and realize that the administration, the student body, and nearly every individual on campus wants the Phi Gam Burlesque Show to continue as one of the yearly highlights of the Fund Drive Carnival.

We would also like to see the Phi Gams get together with AUC to work out a show which would be creative, funny and refreshing (as it has been for a great deal of the time in the past) without being so objectionable to so many people. We would like to see the Phi Gams put their long hours of hard work to the purpose for which it was intended and make their usual largest single donation to the worthwhile Fund Drive.

Most of all, we would like to see things in such a state that the Editor of The Campus could write about all the good things he sees at Allegheny.

Dear Sir:

I would like to make it known that the statement attributed to me in last week's Campus, in regard to next year's rushing program was an utter and complete fabrication.

When asked by a Campus reporter what was the reaction of Alpha Chi Rho to the evaluation, by the Human Relations Subcommittee, of the Freshman Questionnaire concerning rushing, I replied that since the evaluation had only been completed two days earlier, we had not yet had time to consider it. Since I have been working on this committee from its inception, and indeed helped formulate the questionnaire, it would not seem too logical to expect me to make a comment such as, "That's next year's business," in regard to the rushing rules.

I trust that creating news is not regarded as good journalistic practice by the Campus office and that this case is the exception.

Sincerely Yours,
Jack Shea

The Campus reporter involved states: "Jack Shea is obviously mistaken on his manner of answering the question, 'Has the Chi Rho Fraternity, or you yourself as its president, discussed any improvements which could be suggested for the rushing program of Freshman men for campus social groups?' Mr. Shea, no matter how much he intended to answer in order to show the feeling of the house, answered, 'That's next year's business.'"

Dear Sir:

We the members of the Senior Class Cabinet feel that the recent prohibitive stipulations placed upon the Phi Gamma Delta Burlesque Show emanated from a small but influential segment of the college community. It is the opinion of the Cabinet that this action constitutes an infringement upon the freedoms of the student body as a whole, and a restriction upon Student Government.

In light of the vote of confidence that was recently taken in AUC regarding the Burlesque Show, we feel that the administration should clarify and fully explain their reasons for overruling, in effect, this decision of the Student Government.

We question the real place of Student Government on Allegheny's campus. It is our opinion that this administrative action is symbolic of the current trend toward lack of faith in student maturity.

Copies of this letter have been forwarded to AUC, the Dean of Students, President Pelletier, the Co-ordinating Committee, and the Faculty Commitee with the hope that a reappraisal of the underlying issues will ensue.

Dear Sir:

As you know, Mr. McCracken, of the Student Personnel Office, has single-handedly and with valor above and beyond the call of duty, decreed that the traditional Phi Gam Burlesque Show shall not be, unless the Phi Gams submit to restrictions which will destroy the nature of the show by subjecting it to faculty censorship, and subject the Phi Gams themselves to severe punishment leveled by Mr. McCracken's "deadly" recommendation based on his whim and the biased opinions of his appointed censors.

The reasons given for the "4 Commandments" were that there have been some complaints that the show has been uncouth and even "dirty" in former years. This is unquestionably true. It would seem, however, that the majority of the students are not alarmed over this, which is substantiated not only by the attendance at former shows, but also by a unanimous vote of confidence by the A.U.C., which if Mr. McCracken remembers, is supposed to represent the student body.

In basing this action on "complaints" from persons who according to Mr. McCracken wish to remain anonymous, it is evident that Mr. McCracken is assuming the combined roles of Prosecutor, Judge, Jury, Representative of the Student Body, Hayes Office, and Lord Protector of Student Morals. He has ignored the opinions and wishes of the majority of the student body, and adjudged them incapable of preventing the corruption of their morals through their student government. This type of action makes that government meaningless and even worse than useless, for it gives some students the impression that they have some voice in the running of their affairs, when in actuality they are allowed to piddle around as they will within the bounds of Mr. McCracken's opinion. Beyond that, they are immediately and effectively shut off.

It is my opinion that the moral codes of college students, particularly those of the caliber of Allegheny students, should be and are well formed and strong enough to withstand the grieviously strong assault of the "raunch" within the Phi Gam Burlesque Show. There are bound to be those who are opposed to this type of show, and it is their perogative to stay away from it, stand up on their hind legs and say that they are opposed, and even to campaign publicly against it ,if they feel that strongly. No such thing was done in this case. The majority of student opinion was solidly behind the show. The Fund Drive is sorely in need of the revenue from the show. It was blandly assumed however, that these skulking examples of opinion should be that of the entire student body, and that the resident knight in armor of the Student Personnel Office should protect the students from themselves and from the Phi Gams. Evidently the Fund Drive is also to be protected; protected from the few hundred it sorely needs.

Mr. McCracken is to be congratulated on the size and number of roles he is willing to assume. However, it is my opinion and suggestion that most of the roles cited above might better reside in the hands of the students; their eventual destination anyway.

It is the purpose of this letter to inform the student body of the nature of this incident, liberally laced with my personal opinion of the matter. This letter represents solely my opinion; that being that Mr. McCracken should at least bring things out in the open to the point of wearing his badge and carrying his whip.

Sincerely,
Richard F. Meese

Dear Sir:

The letter to the editor in Monday's Tribune, by A.U.C. president and vice-president, and the president of A.W.S. pointed up a view that needs to be discussed.

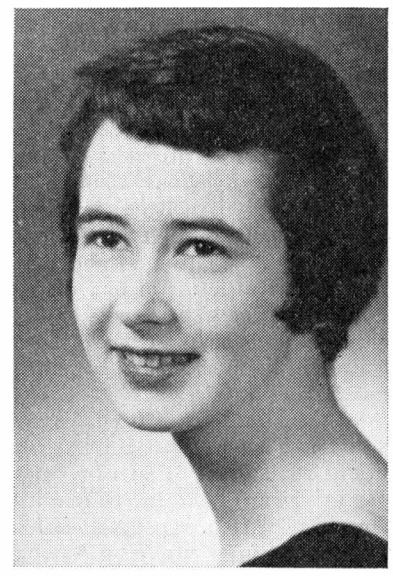

As a right, Academic Freedom has to be defined more clearly than was done in the excerpt taken from USNSA statements of policy. It has to be defined in terms of specific cases resulting in favorable and unfavorable actions upon student

Dean's List Figures Indicate Trends; Previous, Present Averages Compared

by Bev. Wilkinson

The Dean's List has been published for first semester and several comparisons may be made and certain trends observed by comparing the scholastic averages listed with those of previous years.

This study was aided by figures and suggestions from Dr. Julian L. Ross, Dean of Instruction, as well as by various charts composed under the direction of Mr. Charles W. McCracken, Dean of Students.

The past twenty years have seen an unusual curve in the all-college average. Last semester's average and that of the 1930's are approximately the same—a high 77. During the middle and late 1940's the all-college average dipped to about 76, came up in the 1950's, was 77.83 last year and, at present, is 77.76. Dean Ross attributed this change to chance or perhaps just being a cycle, rather than being a result of any specific factors. Looking further at the list, some generalizations arise.

Noticeable, also, is that the senior women tend to obtain the highest average. How can this be accounted for? In all probability, this trend occurs because the students with lower averages leave and the better students generally remain. Another possible factor is that the students who remain usually do better than they did as freshmen, suggested Dean Ross. Several comparisons may be made of other averages from the academic records.

Although this year may prove to be different, grades generally go down when a freshman joins a fraternity, Dean McCracken has found. As an example, this tendency was shown in a chart of the grade averages for freshmen before and after pledging for the school year 1955-56. Increases of .46, .05 and .43 are recorded, while the decreases in averages amount to 1.75, .96, 1.88 and 3.04.

For the same school year, the non-fraternity freshmen, in contrast with those who later joined fraternities, raised their average 1.54 from first to second semester. It may also be noted that this group includes the men who did not achieve the average required to join a fraternity. There may be some significance in the above-mentioned facts. Does membership in a fraternity signify a rather negative effect on scholarship; is a more positive approach needed?

Second semester averages from 1949 to 1956 show that the fraternity average is not increasing as rapidly as the average for non-fraternity men. The fraternity average in 1949 was 76.93 and in 1956, 77.28. The non-fraternity men in 1949 averaged 76.89 and in 1956, 78.55. The fraternity average has generally exceeded that of non-fraternity men, except for the past two years. First semester averages this year again place fraternity men on top, but by a narrow margin of .18.

The relation of the averages of sorority and non-sorority women tend to be pretty much the opposite. Once since 1949 has the sorority average been greater than that of the non-sorority women. As for the effect of pledging on women's averages, data, as yet, has not been collected and recorded on charts which compare the averages before and after pledging to a sorority.

Summer Employment Aided By Directory

One answer to the pressing needs of college students for summer employment is the Second 1957 Edition of The World-Wide Summer Placement Directory.

A result of five years of research, this Directory, published by The Advancement and Placement Institute, includes ideas and opportunities for vacation employment such as government positions, service projects, national parks, career training opportunities, and many others.

This Directory may be obtained by sending $2.00 to: The Advancement and Placement Institute, Box 99, Greenpoint Station, Brooklyn 22, New York.

Coming AUC Elections Procedure Announced

The schedule for this year's AUC and class officer elections was presented by Vice-President Jack Cotton during the AUC meeting Sunday, March 17.

Jack introduced the following changes in the election procedures: voting will take place in the College Union from 8:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. Primary elections will be held March 28, final elections on April 4 and, if necessary, run-off elections will take place April 5.

Concerning petitions, Jack stated that 150 names must be placed on the petition before it will be considered. The petitions must be handed in to Art Blank in the AUC office by 10:00 p.m. Saturday, March 30.

There will be a model voting machine on April 3 in Brooks and Cochran to teach the students the operation of the regular voting machine which will be used during the April 4 elections. The primary elections will be made by written ballot, Jack announced.

The Assembly and Public Events Committee stated that no decision has been reached as to bringing a member of the Russian Embassy or a known communist to Allegheny's campus.

"The one thing against bringing a member of an Embassy, whether he be Russian, English, Spanish, etc., is the fact that he will consider his country the only one in the world," Carol Mason, the chairman of the Committee stated.

A motion was passed requesting that the Committee do everything possible to schedule an American Communist and/or a member of the Soviet Embassy in the near future.

Letters to the Editor thought as students express this freedom.

As I see it, the Gates case was not a direct limitation upon student thought. It was a limitation upon Mr. Gates as a fit person to address a group of inquiring students. But the Gates example did limit the students in this: they are not the sole arbiters of what constitutes academic freedom.

"Free inquiry" is a broad term, and "final conclusions" are no less significant in their scope. The federal government, recognizing its enemies, has held that certain conclusions are dangerous to the public good. If a group of mature men agree Mr. Gates represents an undesirable faction of opinion, I see no good reason to get indignant. That he would be given a certain amount of prestige is evident; if it is not, then the college must have a pretty miserable rating in the public eye.

Most important, I feel, is that the intellectual group, on whatever campus, recognize the right of veto in a system allowing the students to formulate their own views in the first place. As far as I can see, Academic Freedom, is an interpretation of The First Amendment. If this new interpretation is to grow into anything worthwhile, it should grow under restrictions applied to all the basic rights.

If a freedom such as this is to be fostered and allowed to take root, I think it should tolerate a restriction now and then with a grace worthy of the spirit it claims.

Sincerely,
J. E. Sanford

Dear Sir:

On the evening of March 14th at the Playshop there was given as fine a piece of theatre as there has been seen here at Allegheny in the last two years. This was selected scenes from the play "Night Must Fall". It was given to present a character in the play, Danny, who was played by Stanley Harrison. This was for Stan, a fine creative achievement. For his cast they all can be proud of the performances they gave.

For the few who were present that night it was indeed a rewarding evening. Perhaps a few like myself came away with the feeling that is was a shame so few members of the college should have the opportunity of seeing this fine play and the wonderful acting that went into it. For it most certainly deserves and indeed owes to the college a full showing of what our drama department can do.

When the curtain came down on Stan's play the playshop shook with the loud applause; the theatre's way of saying well done. I hope that the production will be given again so that other members of our community will have the pleasure of enjoying it also.

Sincerely,
H. Blaney

Eight New Members Join Air Society At Bi-Annual Banquet, Initiation Mar. 19

The Arnold Air Society held its bi-annual banquet and initiation Tuesday night, March 19, at the Jameson Hotel in Meadville. Mr. Benjamin addressed the group on Alleghenians who have lost their lives serving their country in the Air Force. Two seniors and six juniors were initiated into the society. Dave Lamoureux, who is at present the Cadet Corps Commander, and John Pinkett, who was the Cadet Adjutant and is now the Flight Commander of Flight I, were the two seniors. The six juniors were: Harold Swift, Ed Sergi, Terry Moyer, Jack Hazlett, Jim Ross, and Dave Blauch. At this time they were served a full banquet and presented with their bright, yellow and blue braids which they can be seen wearing today.

The Arnold Air Society is a national honorary society for A.F.R.O.T.C. Cadets with squadrons in nearly every college and university having A.F.R.O.T.C. programs. The Society is named after the late General Henry "Hap" Arnold, Commanding General of the Army Air Forces in World War II.

The society's purpose is to further the mission of the Air Force at the college and university level by encouraging greater teamwork, development of technical knowledge, co-operation, and esprit de corps.

Fifteen students will be chosen, each receiving a complete scholarship, including transportation, tuition and room and board in Cambridge and at the Tenth National Student Congress. Selection of students will be on the basis of ability and potentiality for leadership in international student affairs; applicants should have proven intellectual ability, character qualifications, experience in extra-curricular activities, knowledge of international affairs and a sincere interest in the problems of students in other countries.

Information may be obtained from Stanley F. Wagner, Dean Charles McCracken or Art Blank. Applications should be returned by April 1, 1957.

Sports Spotlight--

by Jack Hazlett, Sports Editor

Spring is officially here (everywhere else but here in Meadville that is) and now is the time for all sports editors to make their predictions for the coming baseball season. My predictions may not carry any resemblance to the final league standings, but at least it gives the writer pleasure to toss his listings in with the hundreds of others.

The National League is going to be a close race this year right up until the end. If Don Newcombe can stay on the winning trail and if Roy Campanella's hand is not bothering him again this year Brooklyn should finish the year on top again. Milwaukee's strong pitching staff will keep them close on the Dodgers' tail. Cincinnati's powerful hitting should end them up in third. I look for Bob Friend to lead the Pirates into the first division this year. The Pirates will be strong but once again there are a lot of "ifs". If Dale Long and Billy Virdon come through with strong batting averages. If Vernon Law can become a consistent winner and if a couple of rookies who look pretty good in the Spring can make the grade.

The second division should be headed by St. Louis. Stan Musial's bat won't be enough this year. I look for New York, Chicago and Philadelphia to round out the league in any order you would like to put them. Poor old Robin Roberts must be getting tired of pitching every other day.

In the American League the Yankees are the only choice, I hate to admit. They just have too much of everything — pitching, hitting and tremendous depth. Cleveland's aging pitching staff could make it close if the Indians' bats, which have been pretty silent, boom, but a new manager and no new blood is going to make it tough. The Tigers are going to be rough this year and might even knock off Cleveland. With Larry, Gromek and Heft they have a good pitching nucleus. Kuenn, Torgeson, Kaline and Tuttle are no slouchers. The White Sox will close out the first division.

Barring unforseen circumstances the second division should line up as follows: Boston will head the division followed by Kansas City, Washington and Baltimore. The last three teams will finish a good ten games behind the first five.

Interest Rises As Allegheny Begins Baseball Workouts For 1957 Season

by Al Ingham

After viewing the forty-one candidates for this year's baseball squad Monday afternoon, Coach Bob Garbark had one significant statement to make: "We're hurting for pitchers." Although it is too early for a good idea of the prospects, the coach feels he has some very good boys to work into a successful team.

Last year the Gators ended with a five win - four loss record and were rained out in six other games. This year's schedule calls for eleven games, starting with a contest against Mt. Union here on April 26.

Losing Wigton, Davis and Klomp from last year's squad, the team will be built around lettermen Dal Matthews, shortstop; Jim Newton, outfielder and catcher; and Jack Keppel, who pitched the five winning games last year. Other regulars are: Mase Cady, infielder; Frank Maldonado, outfielder and pitcher; and Bill Stoughton, infielder. Jim Dronsfield, who could only work out with the team last year as a transfer, shows promise as a catcher.

Looking impressive on the first day of tryouts were freshmen Jack Lockhart, Dan Andersen, Ron Watson, Phil Froman, Jim Johnson and Bob Lowing. Jim George, Don Anderson, Bob Van Handel and Bob Trimble may turn out to be the pitchers badly needed.

Coach Garbark stated that he needs two more positions filled and feels that practices between now and Easter will produce a capable team.

Campus Clashes

The freshman basketball league came to a close this week. The town students finished two full games ahead of the second place team to win the title.

On the 6th of March, First Prospect, led by Weiss who tallied 14 points, defeated Tarbell 44-36. Newbauer led the losers with 8 Third Prospect defeated Third Main 46-25. Koegel tallied 15 for the victors and Bellama led Third Main with 12. First Prospect defeated Tarbell 46-29 led by Smith with 15 markers. Hawkins led the game's scorers with 17.

March 11 saw two more games played. Third Main beat first Prospect 35-28. Bixler scored 13 for the victors as Crist scored 8 in the losing cause. Town turned in the best offensive effort of the year defeating Tarbell 59-36. Spencer tallied 19 for the winners as Mann scored 12 for Tarbell.

On the 13th of March, Town defeated Second Main 55-29, and Third Prospect beat First Prospect 46-30.

The following day marked the end of the season as Town finished the year undefeated by tromping Third Main 50-32. Second Prospect defeated Second Main 33-21. The final standings follow:

	Wins	Losses
Town	7	0
Prospect 3	5	2
Prospect 2	4	3
Main 3	4	3
Prospect 1	3	4
Main 2	3	4
Tarbell	2	5

Phi Psis Lose Final To Phi Gams 35-34

It's all over but the shouting in the Interfraternity Basketball League as the last two games of the season were played last week.

In one of the year's exciting ballgames the Phi Gams upset the league-leading Phi Psis 35-34 in a game that was close all the way. Garvin and Waitz led the Phi Gams to their tenth win of the season with 11 and 9 points respectively.

The Phi Psis, losing their first of 24 ballgames, were led in the scoring column by Bill Henry who tallied 13 points, followed by Carman with 9. However, the Phi Psis finished first in the league with an 11-1 record.

In the other game which closed out the season the Delts were denied a victory this year by being defeated by the Phi Delts, 35-18. Tom Harris took scoring honors for the night as he tallied 12 points for the visitors. Bill Jack led the Delts with 3 field goals for 6 points.

The Phi Psi-Phi Gam game created a lot of interest even though the Phi Psis had clinched the league title the week before. In their first meeting this year the Phi Psis beat the Phi Gams by one point. The final standings follow:

	Wins	Losses
Phi Kappa Psi	11	1
Phi Gamma Delta	10	2
Sigma Alpha Epsilon	8	4
Phi Delta Theta	6	6
Independents	5	7
Alpha Chi Rho	2	10
Delta Tau Delta	0	12

Seminar Program Unique, Profitable; Evaluation Points Up Good Basic Idea

by Arlene Busse

The Allegheny Freshman Seminar program is a unique and profitable plan. It owes its origin to Max Schoenfeld and is entirely student planned and operated with the support of the administration. The seminar groups met every other week first semester and discussed for several hours topics ranging from honor code to ideas from Toynbee and Huxley. The original plan was to have each group discuss an assigned topic each week but the discussion leaders found that it was better to give the group free rein to follow what topics it chose.

It was hoped that this freedom would give the group a better opportunity to achieve the purpose of the program, which is basically to stimulate thought. As the head of next year's seminar program, Jim Kweder, put it, "Here was an opportunity to help a group of people who were faced with an entirely new environment and with the numerous adjustments which always follow this sort of change, learn what they believed and why and how to support their beliefs."

As for an evaluation of the program, it is felt that the basic idea is a good one but that it has many weaknesses to be worked out in years to come. Attendance at seminar meetings fell off very heavily and many of the discussion leaders themselves became disinterested. One of the biggest weak points was the choice of topics which were often too deep for many students while appealing to a few. Faculty participation was lax or non-existant. But most of these faults are mechanical ones which can be ironed out with further planning and experience.

"The real value lies in the individual growth achieved through the program," said one discussion leader. "I can see a real difference in the way people sit around and talk; they are much more careful to think about what they want to say and pay more attention to other's ideas on the subject at hand than they did at the beginning of the year."

The program has received national attention in the New York Times and NSA plans to do a feature article on it for their publication. At present the Freshman Cabinet is conducting an evaluation study of the program. Results of this study should be out before the end of the year.

Twiggs Art Exhibition Display In Pine Room

by Ish Lang

A very different collection of paintings by a Pittsburgh artist, Russell Twiggs, who has had his paintings included in most national and international shows, is now on exhibit in the Pine Room at Brooks.

These are no ordinary oils, but have a very unorthodox paint quality. In some, the pieces are glued to masonite panels. Hot wax is flowed over the surfaces and stained, then more hot wax is used. This is called encaustic.

The paintings themselves do not contain story content or pictural images but are sensuous visual experiences. The titles of the pictures were probably suggested to Mr. Twiggs by the color, a shape, or the texture arrived at.

The paintings seem so real that it is hard not to touch them, especially one entitled "For the Leopard." It is fur-like, smooth and resembles an animal's coat in appearance.

Some of the important shows Mr. Twiggs has participated in during the last two years are: Interior Valley Shows, Cincinnati 1955, where he was awarded 2nd prize; International Carnegie Institute 1955; Whitney Museum Annual 1955; and 25th Corcoran Biennial, Washington, D.C. 1957.

His prints, watercolors, and oils are in many permanent collections in museums, etc. and in many private collections.

Mr. Pickering feels the artist is "—a man of some importance in the field," and if some of the paintings were purchased, they would be valuable additions to the school's collection.

The exhibit will be in Brooks through March 31.

Phi Delts Pledge Theta Chis Go Irish Delts Go Parisian Crows Go "To Bed"

by Pogie Ziegler

An extra swirl was added to Allegheny's social whirl last weekend—dances, dances and more dances made Saturday evening very enjoyable.

Two huge pledge paddles placed near the Lou Varrichio orchestra greeted the new pledges and their dates as they entered the Phi Delta Theta House Saturday evening.

During intermission an awesome figure dressed in black stood ready to render a chastisement to the boy whose date failed to hit him hard enough. Miniature pledge paddles were given to the girls as momentoes of the occasion. Following the execution, punch and cookies were served.

The Alpha Chi Rho House resembled a tap room as the annual Crow Bar Party was held. When the pajama-clad Chi Rho's and their dates entered the house, they found small tables resplendent with checkered tableclothes and candles dripped onto beer bottles.

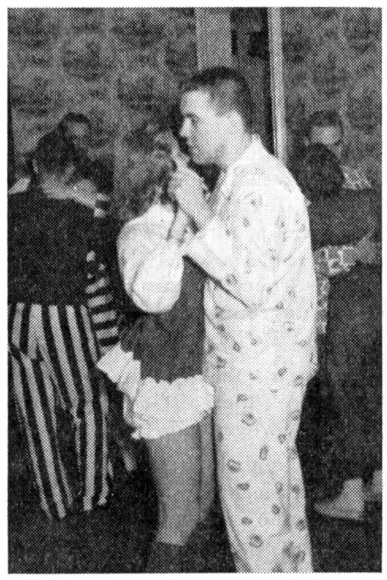

Enjoying a prominent place at the festivities was the Crow Bar where punch was served from liquor bottles and root beer was drawn from the taps of an empty beer keg.

A trip to Paris was taken by Delt pledges and their dates Saturday night upon entering the Delta Tau Delta House. The red, white and blue of the French flag was depicted by crepe paper, and balloons were scattered throughout the house. The basement of the Delt house was converted into a sidewalk cafe with small tables covered by red and white tablecloths.

As Art Blank and his combo played for the dance, the pledges received their paddlings and read humorous poems concerning their big brothers. Singing French waiters served punch and cookies during the intermission of the dance.

Peters Lounge in Quigley Hall seemed to be just a little bit of Ireland. The Theta Chi's held a combination St. Patrick's Day and Pledge Dance there on Saturday evening. Green and white crepe paper streamers festooned the room.

In line with an old fraternity tradition, the Pledge paddle is used only once on a pledge—by his date. If the other dancers feel the whack hasn't been hard enough, the faculty chaperones are entitled to render a wallop. Miniature pledge paddles were given to each girl as favors.

Pajamas were the order of the day when the Alpha Chi Rhos held their annual Crowbar party in the Chapter House last Saturday.

Pins 'n Sins

by Pogie Ziegler

The people on this campus just seem to get rowdier and rowdier! Noise coming from Section 2 last week was heard all the way down at Brooks. Seems an S.S. Night was held, (that is Sally's Shower Night). Sally Hopkins was to be thrown in the shower in repayment for her many little pranks on others. Somehow twarn't Sally who got showered but Clare Funk.

In case you haven't noticed yet, Brooks is sporting a brand new outdoor decoration! The counterpart of the Phi Gam's Phantom, the 3rd floor Phantomess is to be seen swinging freely from the third floor firescape.

St. Paddy's Day was not forgotten at Old Alleghe' this year. In honor of the annual occasion a broad green stripe was painted down Brooks driveway.

Flash!!!!! Tuesday evening dinner at Brooks proved very entertaining, as anyone who was there will be glad to tell. It seems Don Anderson had more than a little difficulty telling the girls about the annual raffle of the SAE House. His difficulty was in trying to speak above the constant laughter and clapping that his presence seemed to invoke.

Kappa Alpha Theta held election of officers Monday evening. The following girls were elected to official posts: Sally Ann Reynolds, President; Marty Hart, Vice-President; Peggy Goldsborough, Corresponding Secretary; Ann Braman, Recording Secretary; and Marcia Martin, Treasurer.

In the midst of the final splurge of pledge dances before the Carnival, Arlene Busse was pinned to Al Grubbs.
